The following is a list of undergraduate courses offered by academic units affiliated with LAS. Courses not appearing below may be considered for credit in a Latin American Studies program with permission of the Director. For up-to-date information on this list, please check our website: <http://las.utoronto.ca>. Students are responsible for checking the co- and prerequisites for all courses in this list. For updates on courses being offered by affiliated units, please check individual departmental websites.

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Latin American Studies Courses

LAS200H1 - Latin America: History, Civilization and Culture- 19th Century (formerly LAS200Y1)

Hours: 24L/12T

An introductory course studying the development of Latin American societies from their precolumbian past to the 19th century building of modern nations. Cultural, historical, political, and social topics are examined combining historical documents with art, music and other texts from popular culture.

Exclusion: IAS200Y1, LAS200Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

LAS201H1 - Latin American History, Civilization, and Culture: 20th Century - Present. _Formerly LAS200Y1

Hours: 24L/12T

An introductory course studying the development of Latin American societies from the 20th century to the present. Cultural, historical, political, and social topics are examined combining historical documents with art, music and other texts from popular culture.

Exclusion: IAS200Y1 and LAS200Y1

Recommended Preparation: LAS200H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

LAS300H1 - Topics in the Social Sciences

Hours: 24S

The goal of this course is to critically analyze the current economic, social, and political realities of Latin America, based on an insightful knowledge of its past and present. Topics of the course vary depending on the needs of the program and the interests of students.

Prerequisite: IAS200Y1/LAS200Y1/(LAS200H1, 201H1)/POL305Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

LAS301H1 - Topics in the Humanities

Hours: 24S

The goal of this course is to critically analyze the Latin American social imaginaries as expressed in art, literature and/or film, based on close readings of texts. Topics of the course vary depending on the needs of the program and the interests of students.

Prerequisite: IAS200Y1/LAS200Y1/LAS201H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

LAS302H1 - Topics in Latin American Studies (The Hispanic Caribbean)

Hours: 24S

This interdisciplinary course examines Cuba's relevance and legacy from the mid-nineteenth century to the present. It explores tensions of Cuban life in counterpoint with its creative rendering in the arts and literature, through a variety of fresh approaches in fields such as cultural studies, historical sociology, anthropology, and sociology of religion.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

JQR360H1 - The Canadian Census: Populations, Migrations and Demographics

Hours: 24L/12T

Examines the Canadian population census through the experience of diasporic groups in Canada. Approaches the census as a statistical tool, an historical source and an ideological project of citizenship and nationalism. Uses census data to explore mathematical and statistical concepts and to integrate numerical ways of thinking with qualitative analysis. (Jointly sponsored by African Studies, Diaspora and Transnational Studies, Caribbean Studies, Equity Studies and Latin American Studies).

Prerequisite: DTS200Y1/HIS230H1/HIS231H1/LAS200H1/LAS201H1/NEW120Y1/NEW150Y1/NEW220H1/NEW221H1/NEW224Y1/NEW225H1/NEW226H1/NEW240Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

LAS400H1 - Topics in Latin American Studies

Hours: 24S

An upper level seminar. Topics of the course vary from year to year, depending on the needs of the program and the interests of students. Offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: LAS200Y1/(LAS200H1, 201H1) & LAS300H1/301H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

LAS401H1 - Latinos in Canada

Hours: 48T/24S

A historical survey of migration from Latin American countries to Canada, this course examines mediation strategies of Latinos as they adjust to a new home: negotiation of national identities, political participation, entrepreneurship, cultural representations, and charitable work. Students engage in service with organization working with/in LatAm communities.

Prerequisite: LAS200H1, LAS201H1, one LAS 300-level course, interview

Recommended Preparation: JQR360: The Canadian Census: Populations, Migrations, and Demographics

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

LAS410H1 - Independent Study

Hours: TBA

This course provides an opportunity for students to do academic research related to Latin American issues under the supervision of a faculty member. The intent is that the student, aided and advised by the supervisor, will read relevant literature, and plan, execute, analyze and report on an original and independent investigation of an appropriate topic. For application forms, please visit the "Resources" section of the programme's website. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: LAS200Y/(LAS200H1, 201H1) and LAS300H/LAS301H

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Life Sciences

The following Life Science departments and programs are listed in this Calendar:

- Biochemistry
- Biology
- Cell & Systems Biology
- Ecology & Evolutionary Biology
- Human Biology
- Immunology
- Laboratory Medicine & Pathobiology
- Molecular Genetics & Microbiology
- Nutritional Sciences
- Pharmaceutical Chemistry
- Pharmacology & Toxicology
- Physiology
- Psychology

Many of the Life Science programs are collaborative programs given by the Faculty of Arts and Science and departments in the Faculty of Medicine. The Life Sciences all focus on the scientific study of life. The study of biological processes has enormous importance for:

- Understanding one's own body and those of other organisms sharing our planet, both in health and sickness;
- Analysing the behaviour of humans and other organisms;
- Understanding the interdependent web of living organisms on the planet, and their evolutionary relationships;
- Preparing for ethical, social and political questions arising from our increasing ability to modify living systems;
- Enhancing our ability to protect the delicate and complex ecological balance that sustains this world.

Today, the biological sciences are experiencing a revolution. Important discoveries occur almost weekly as scientists and students around the world develop and use techniques, theories and approaches. Increasingly, we need people with advanced knowledge and training who can contribute to these discoveries and their application. Equally, we need people who know enough about life sciences generally to make informed judgments about critical issues such as global warming, population growth, the emergence of drug resistance and new diseases, and the degradation of the environment.

On the St. George campus, undergraduate education, graduate education and research in the Life Sciences is carried out in departments within the Faculty of Arts and Science and the Faculty of Medicine.

The programs offered in the Life Sciences are listed below. Admission to all programs occurs after completion of 4.0 credits. Admission to some programs is limited. Please see individual program listings for admission criteria and procedures. Also check the the Arts & Science Program Enrolment web site for details and application procedures.

For students with career goals in the health sciences, please see the "Admission to Other University Faculties/Programs" section under "Admission" in this Calendar.

Specialist Programs

Biochemistry, Biological Chemistry (Chemistry), Bioinformatics and Computational Biology (Biochemistry), Biology, Biophysics (Physics), Cell and Molecular Biology (Cell & Systems Biology), Developmental Biology (Cell & Systems Biology), Ecology and Evolutionary Biology (Ecology & Evolutionary Biology), Environment and Health (School of the Environment), Genes Genetics and Biotechnology (Human Biology), Global Health (Human Biology), Health and Disease (Human Biology), Immunology, Molecular Genetics & Microbiology, Molecular Biophysics (Biochemistry), Neuroscience (Human Biology), Pathobiology, Pharmaceutical Chemistry, Pharmacology, Physiology, Psychology, Psychology Research, Toxicology.

Major Programs

Animal Physiology (Cell & Systems Biology), Biochemistry, Biodiversity and Conservation Biology (Ecology & Evolutionary Biology), Biology, Cell and Molecular Biology (Cell & Systems Biology), Ecology & Evolutionary Biology, Environmental Biology (Ecology & Evolutionary Biology), Environment and Health (School of the Environment), Genes Genetics & Biotechnology (Human Biology), Genome Biology (Biology), Global Health (Human Biology), Health & Disease (Human Biology), Health Care Ethics (Human Biology), Human Biology, Immunology, Neuroscience (Human Biology), Nutritional Sciences, Pharmacology, Physiology, Psychology, Toxicology.

Minor Programs

Biology, Environmental Biology (Ecology & Evolutionary Biology), NUS Environmental Biology (Ecology & Evolutionary Biology), Immunology, Physiology, Psychology.

Animal Use in Laboratories

Laboratory investigations are part of life science programs at the University of Toronto. Programs in life sciences at the University of Toronto include courses that involve observation, handling, or experimentation on animals or on samples derived from animals. The use of animals in teaching and research is regulated by ethical and procedural guidelines and protocols. These are approved on an ongoing basis by the University Animal Care Committee, and follow provincial and federal government rules. We recognize, however, that some students may have strong reservations about personal exposure to any use of animal material in teaching. Students who want to avoid registration in programs or courses that include such labs are, therefore, encouraged to check in advance with the departments involved.

Introduction

Linguistics can trace its roots back to the ancient Sanskrit grammarians, and the study of language is probably as old as language itself. However, the twentieth century has produced an explosion in the scientific study of language. As our understanding of the nature and structure of human language develops, linguistics is becoming relevant to many other areas of research such as Cognitive Science, Artificial Intelligence, Speech-Language Pathology, Audiology, Psychology, and Philosophy.

On its own, linguistics represents an invaluable key to the nature of the mind and the diverse elements of human culture; as a tool, linguistics is unmatched in preparing one for the learning and teaching of languages and for integrating language with technology.

Part-time students should note that most of the summer and evening courses available to them are offered on a rotating basis only. Consequently, students wishing to take such courses should enroll in them at the earliest opportunity after completing the necessary prerequisites.

In addition to the undergraduate curriculum within the Department of Linguistics, there are courses relating to linguistics offered in other departments such as the language departments, Anthropology, Computer Science, Philosophy, and Psychology, and in the Cognitive Science and Artificial Intelligence program.

Students seeking counselling and information should contact the Undergraduate Coordinator (416-978-1767/lin.ungr@chass.utoronto.ca).

Linguistics Programs

Linguistics Specialist (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(12 full courses or their equivalent)

Language Requirement (2 FCEs): Two years of study or its equivalent of one non-Germanic, non-Romance language in courses using the spoken language (courses must be approved by the Undergraduate Coordinator). We encourage you to begin this language study in your first or second year.

Required Courses (5.5 FCEs):

First Year: LIN101H1, LIN102H1

Second Year: LIN228H1, LIN229H1, LIN232H1, LIN241H1, LIN251H1

Third and Fourth Years: LIN322H1, LIN331H1, JAL401H1 plus at least one of JLP374H1 or JLP315H1

Elective Courses (4.5 FCEs):

A total of 4.5 FCEs in LIN/JAL/JFL/JLP/JLS (excluding LIN200H1, LIN203H1, LIN204H1) including:

- a 1.5 FCEs at the 300+ level

- a .5 FCE at the 400 level

Up to 1 FCE may be from other departments. Approved courses include ANT329H1, ANT425H1, ANT427H1; COG250Y1; CSC384H1, CSC401H1, CSC448H1, CSC485H1; FIN220H1, FIN305H1; FRE272H1, FRE273H1, FRE274H1, FRE376H1, FRE378H1, FRE379H1, FRE379H1, FRE383H1, FRE386H1, FRE387H1, FRE388H1, FRE471H1, FRE487H1, FRE488H1, FRE489H1; GER400H1, GER426H1, GER462H1; HPS250H1, HPS322H1, HPS352H1; ITA360H1, ITA363H1; NML315H1, NML463H1; PHL210Y1, PHL245H1, PHL310H1, PHL311H1, PHL325H1, PHL326H1, PHL340H1, PHL342H1, PHL345H1, PHL347H1, PHL351H1, PHL355H1, PHL405H1, PHL451H1, PHL479H1, PHL480H1, PHL481H1; SLA255H1, SLA380H1, SLA452Y1; SPA322H1, SPA324H1, SPA421H1, SPA422H1, SPA423H1; VIC223Y1. Other courses might also qualify; consult the Department of Linguistics for approval.

Linguistics Major (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(7 full courses or their equivalent)

First Year: LIN101H1, LIN102H1

Second Year: LIN228H1, LIN229H1, LIN232H1, LIN241H1, LIN251H1

Third and Fourth Years: A total of 3.5 FCEs in LIN/JAL/JFL/JLP/JLS (excluding LIN200H1, LIN203H1, LIN204H1) including:

- at least one of JLP374H1 or JLP315H1

- 0.5 FCE at the 400 level

- a further 1 FCE at the 300+ level

Linguistics Minor (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(4 full courses or their equivalent)

First Year: LIN101H1, LIN102H1

Higher Years: Three FCE's in LIN/JAL/JFL/JLP/JLS (excluding LIN200H1) at least one of which must be at the 300+ level

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Linguistics Courses

LIN101H1 - Introduction to Linguistics: Sound Structure

Hours: 24L/12T

Fundamental principles of linguistics with particular attention to sound structure and its acquisition, processing, and variation; practice in elementary analytic techniques using data from a broad spectrum of languages.

Exclusion: LIN100Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN102H1 - Introduction to Linguistics: Sentence Structure and Meaning

Hours: 24L/12P

Fundamental principles of linguistics with particular attention to sentence and meaning structure, their acquisition, processing, and variation; practice in elementary analytic techniques using data from a broad spectrum of languages.

Exclusion: LIN100Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN200H1 - Introduction to Language

Hours: 24L/12T

A general-interest course on language. Possible topics include: the structure of language; how language changes over time, the social and psychological aspects of language, language and culture, the origin of language, writing systems, and language acquisition. (This course cannot be used as an entrance to programs in linguistics, and cannot be used as a prerequisite to any linguistics courses unless otherwise indicated.)

Exclusion: LIN101H1, LIN102H1, ANT253H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN201H1 - Canadian English

Hours: 24L

A study of English spoken in Canada. Topics include: vocabulary items, usage surveys, non-standard dialect enclaves, regional variation and historical development. Students will develop original research projects.

Prerequisite: LIN101H1, LIN102H1/LIN200H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN203H1 - English Words

Hours: 24L/12T

English has a rich vocabulary. We will learn how it has developed over time, and investigate aspects of the meaning and pronunciation of words. Most of all, we will study how words are put together, so that students will be able to recognize and analyze unfamiliar words.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN204H1 - English Grammar

Hours: 24L/12T

How the English language works: students analyze a wide variety of English grammatical structures and learn how they vary across dialects and change through time.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN228H1 - Phonetics

Hours: 24L/12T

Investigation of the sounds most commonly used in languages from an articulatory and acoustic point of view, with practice in their recognition and production. Students will learn the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA) and practice transcribing a wide variety of speech sounds.

Recommended Preparation: LIN101H1/LIN200H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

LIN229H1 - Sound Patterns in Language

Hours: 24L/12T

The nature and organization of phonological systems, with practical work in analysis.

Prerequisite: LIN101H1, LIN228H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN232H1 - Syntactic Patterns in Language

Hours: 24L/12T

The nature and organization of syntactic systems; their relation to semantic systems and the linguistic organization of discourse; practical work in analysis.

Prerequisite: LIN102H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN241H1 - Introduction to Semantics

Hours: 24L/12T

An introduction to meaning within linguistics and the interpretation of language in context. Topics include logical and semantic relations, pragmatic concepts such as presupposition and implicature, the nature of thematic roles, quantifiers and scope relations, the expressions of temporal and modal relations in natural language.

Prerequisite: LIN102H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN251H1 - Introduction to Sociolinguistics

Hours: 24L/12T

How does linguistic variation construct identity? Introduction to recent sociolinguistic literature on language contact, multilingualism, code-switching, expressions of ethnic solidarity and regional identity, sex and gender differentiation, dialect geography, sociophonetics, perceptual dialectology, diffusion of norms in mobile populations, documentation of variation in lesser studied languages, and changes across the life-span.

Prerequisite: LIN101H1, LIN102H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

LIN305H1 - Quantitative Methods in Linguistics

Hours: 36L

Principles of research design, data collection, and a wide variety of statistical techniques for research in various subfields of linguistics.

Prerequisite: LIN101H1, LIN102H1 and one full course in LIN/JAL/JFL/JLP

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN306H1 - Language Diversity and Language Universals

Hours: 24L

This course examines cross-linguistic typological features found in the languages of the world. Special attention is given to describing morphological and syntactic patterns found cross-linguistically. The goal of the course is to draw on the range of variation in order to uncover language universals. (Not offered every year)

Prerequisite: LIN232H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

JLP315H1 - Language Acquisition

Hours: 36L

Infants' abilities at birth, prelinguistic development, the first words, phonological, syntactic and semantic development. Social variables influencing development of language, bilingualism, models of development, language play. (Sponsored by the Departments of Linguistics and Psychology, but administered solely by the Dept. of Linguistics).

Exclusion: PSY315H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN322H1 - Phonological Theory

Hours: 36L

Basic issues in current phonological theory. Problems focusing on analysis and theory. (Students who want to pursue graduate studies in linguistics are strongly advised to include this course in their program.)

Prerequisite: LIN229H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN323H1 - Acoustic Phonetics

Hours: 24L

Introduction to the acoustics of the vocal tract, including acoustic properties of speech and its analysis using instrumental techniques.

Prerequisite: LIN101H1, LIN102H1, LIN228H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

JAL328H1 - Writing Systems

Hours: 24L

Introduction to writing systems; their historical development, their relationship to language, and their role in culture and society. (Given by the Departments of Anthropology and Linguistics) (Not offered every year)

Prerequisite: ANT100Y1/LIN101H1/LIN200H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN331H1 - Syntactic Theory

Hours: 36L

An introduction to the foundations and formal framework of current generative grammar, concentrating on Chomsky's Minimalist theory. (Students who want to pursue graduate studies in linguistics are strongly advised to include this course in their program.)

Prerequisite: LIN232H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN333H1 - Morphological Patterns in Language

Hours: 36L

The nature and organization of morphological systems, with practical work in analysis.

Prerequisite: LIN229H1, LIN232H1

Exclusion: LIN231H1, LIN231H5

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN341H1 - Semantic Theory

Hours: 36L

The study of natural language semantics and the relation between interpretation and syntactic structure. Topics include predication and quantification, scope and anaphora, problems of discourse analysis, the interpretation of different types of pronouns, and ellipsis.

Prerequisite: LIN241H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN351H1 - Sociolinguistic Patterns in Language

Hours: 24L/12T

An exploration of linguistic variation and its social implications, especially the quantitative study of phonological and grammatical features and their correlations with age, sex, ethnicity, and other social variables.

Prerequisite: LIN251H1, or permission of the instructor

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: This course will offer an International Course Module in England over February Reading Week 2018.

JAL353H1 - Conversational Structures

Hours: 36L

An introduction to the detailed observation of ordinary conversational interaction, and to some of the main ways in which such interaction is organized. The focus is on developing the capacity to discern orderliness in the details of everyday interaction, and beginning independent research in this area. (Given by the Departments of Anthropology and Linguistics)

Prerequisite: LIN101H1, LIN102H1/LIN200H1/ANT253H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

JAL355H1 - Language and Gender

Hours: 24L

An introduction to some of the principal questions of feminist theory, as viewed from sociolinguistics. Topics include: socialization into gendered discourse patterns, cultural and ethnic differences in gendered interactions; the role of language and gender in legal, medical and labour settings; multilingualism, migration, imperialism and nationalism; sexuality, desire and queer linguistics, language, gender and globalization.

Prerequisite: One FCE at the 200-level in LIN/ANT/JAL/SOC/WGS

Recommended Preparation: ANT204H1/ANT253H1/SOC200H1/SOC214H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

LIN362H1 - Historical Linguistics

Hours: 36L

An introduction to diachronic linguistics. Theories of language change; the comparative method, internal reconstruction, linguistic geography, the origin of languages; language death.

Prerequisite: LIN229H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

JLP374H1 - Psychology of Language

Hours: 36L

Human and other animal communication, structure of human language, word meaning and semantic memory, psychological studies of syntax, bilingualism, language and thought, language errors and disorders. (Sponsored by the Departments of Linguistics and Psychology, but administered solely by the Dept. of Linguistics).

Prerequisite: One FCE from LIN228H1, LIN229H1, LIN232H1, LIN241H1, PSY260H1, PSY270H1, PSY280H1, PSY290H1, COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSY374H5, PLIC55H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN398H0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

LIN399Y0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

JAL401H1 - Field Linguistics

Hours: 48P

Practice in language analysis based on elicited data from a native speaker of a foreign language, emphasizing procedures and techniques. (Given by the Departments of Anthropology and Linguistics)

Prerequisite: Completion of LIN322H1 and LIN331H1 or permission of the instructor

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN405H1 - Advanced Quantitative Methods in Linguistics

Hours: 36L

This course introduces advanced statistical modeling techniques using the statistical software R, tailored specifically to the needs of linguistic research.

Prerequisite: LIN305H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN409H1 - Structure of a Specific Language

Hours: 24L

Topics may include: the phonological, morphological, syntactic, and semantic systems; the writing system; a brief diachronic sketch; variation and sociolinguistic aspects. (Not offered every year).

Prerequisite: LIN228H1, LIN229H1, LIN232H1 + 1 FCE at THE 300+ level in LIN/JAL/JFL/JLP/JLS

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN423H1 - Phonetic Analysis

Hours: 36S

This course provides students with hands-on experience with main methods of linguistic phonetic (acoustic and articulatory) analysis through project-based group work and training in writing up experimental results.

Prerequisite: LIN323H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

LIN429H1 - Research in Phonology

Hours: 24S

Research in Phonological Theory, including guided instruction in how to undertake critical reading of primary literature, develop an original topic, write a research paper, an abstract, a handout, and give an oral presentation. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: LIN322H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN432H1 - Advanced Morphology

Hours: 24L

Current research involving morphology, including the role of morphology in the grammar, the nature of inflectional paradigms, affixes affecting grammatical relations. Each year one topic will be a special focus and will be dealt with at length. (Not offered every year)

Prerequisite: LIN333H1

Corequisite: LIN331H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN439H1 - Research in Syntax

Hours: 24S

Research in Syntactic Theory, including guided instruction in how to undertake critical reading of primary literature, develop an original topic, write a research paper, an abstract, a handout, and give an oral presentation. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: LIN331H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN441H1 - Intensional Semantics

Hours: 24L

Topics in intensional semantics, including formal semantics of tense, aspect, modality, and attitude verbs. (Not offered every year)

Prerequisite: LIN341H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN451H1 - Urban Dialectology

Hours: 24L

Ways in which urban sub-cultures differ in their use of language. How speakers dialects reflect their ethnicity, group affiliation, and other social categories. Practice in dialect analysis based on data from the speech community, emphasizing procedures and techniques.

Prerequisite: LIN351H1/LIN256H1 plus 2 FCE at the 200+ level in LIN/JAL/JLP

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

LIN456H1 - Language Variation and Change: Theory and Analysis

Hours: 36L

The theory and practice of sociolinguistics. The inter-relationship between language and society from the perspective of collecting, organizing, and analyzing patterns in natural speech data, including field methods and quantitative methods for correlating linguistic and social variables.

Prerequisite: LIN351H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

LIN458H1 - Revitalizing Languages

Hours: 24L

A study of language endangerment and language revitalization efforts, focusing on Aboriginal languages of Canada. Topics include language classification and a survey of major features of the languages, what it means for a language to be endangered, the factors that contribute to language shift, and efforts to reverse language shift, including discussion of literacy and dictionaries.

Prerequisite: LIN101H1, LIN102H1 plus 2 FCE at the 200+ level in LIN/JAL

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

JLP471H1 - Advanced Psycholinguistics

Hours: 24S

Seminar in advanced topics in psycholinguistics. Content varies from year to year. (Sponsored by the Departments of Linguistics and Psychology, but administered solely by the Dept. of Linguistics).

Prerequisite: JLP374H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

JLS472H1 - Child Language Disorders

Hours: 36L

Students are introduced to the etiologies and characteristics of speech and language disorders in children, associated with autism, intellectual disabilities, and specific language impairment. Theoretical underpinnings of the major intervention approaches for children with speech and language disorders are discussed. (Given by the Departments of Linguistics and Speech Language Pathology)

Prerequisite: LIN101H1, LIN102H1, LIN228H1, and 1 FCE at the 300+ level

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

JLS473H1 - Adult Speech and Language Disorders

Hours: 36L

Students are introduced to the etiologies and characteristics of speech and language disorders in adults, associated with aphasia, neurodegenerative disorders, and head injuries. The effects of communication handicaps on the individual and theoretical underpinnings of the major intervention approaches for adults are discussed. (Given by the Departments of Linguistics and Speech Language Pathology)

Prerequisite: LIN101H1, LIN102H1, and one FCE at the 300+ level

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

JLS474H1 - Disorders of Speech and Language

Hours: 36L

Normal and deviant development of speech and language; a survey of the disorders of human communication; an overview of intervention for disorders of speech, voice, language, swallowing and hearing; the effects of human communication handicaps on the individual, family, and community; theoretical and philosophical aspects of disordered communication. (Given by the Departments of Linguistics and Speech Language Pathology) (Not offered every year).

Prerequisite: JLP315H1/JLP374H1, and one FCE at the 300+ level

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

JLS475H1 - Literacy and Reading Disorders

Hours: 36L

An introduction to the typical development of emergent literacy skills, including oral language, phonological awareness, narratives, and emergent writing in children; a discussion of the effects of language disorders on emergent literacy skills; a survey of approaches to intervention for children's emergent literacy skills. (Given by the Departments of Linguistics and Speech Language Pathology)

Prerequisite: LIN101H1, LIN102H1, and one FCE at the 300+ level

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

JLS476H1 - Linguistics in the Workforce: Clinical Practice and Research

Hours: 36S

This course exposes students to research findings and methods that are highly pertinent to the fields of audiology and speech-language pathology, offering them with an extended service learning component in research laboratories or clinical settings. Successful completion of this course would provide students with advanced study in hearing and communication disorders that will be useful in their applications to audiology or speech-language pathology programs and in their future study of audiology or speech-language pathology. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: LIN101H1, LIN102H1, and one FCE at the 200+ level

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

JFL477H1 - Issues in French and Linguistics I: Neurolinguistics

Hours: 24S

An advanced seminar on issues of current theoretical relevance in linguistics, with a special reference to French. This course is taught in English. For course descriptions, see the Departmental web site at: http://www.french.utoronto.ca/undergraduate/courses/french\_linguistics.

Prerequisite: Any two 300+ series LIN or FRE linguistics courses.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

JFL478H1 - Issues in French and Linguistics II

Hours: 24S

An advanced seminar on issues of current theoretical relevance in linguistics with special reference to French. This course is taught in English.

Prerequisite: Any two 300+ series LIN or FRE Linguistics course

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN481H1 - Introduction to Analysis and Argumentation

Hours: 36L

Argumentation, practice in constructing and evaluating hypotheses, and critical evaluation of representative articles. Emphasis on the structure of arguments rather than on the analysis of a particular language.

Prerequisite: LIN322H1/LIN331H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

LIN495Y1 - Individual Project

Hours: TBA

A research or reading project undertaken by the student under the supervision of a staff member. Open only when a faculty member is willing and available to supervise. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Permission of the Department

LIN496H1 - Individual Project

Hours: TBA

A research or reading project undertaken by the student under the supervision of a staff member. Open only when a faculty member is willing and available to supervise. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Permission of the Department

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

LIN497Y1 - Individual Project

Hours: TBA

A research or reading project undertaken by the student under the supervision of a staff member. Open only when a faculty member is willing and available to supervise. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Permission of the Department

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

LIN498H1 - Individual Project

Hours: TBA

A research or reading project undertaken by the student under the supervision of a staff member. Open only when a faculty member is willing and available to supervise. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Permission of the Department

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

LIN499H1 - Individual Project

Hours: TBA

A research or reading project undertaken by the student under the supervision of a staff member. Open only when a faculty member is willing and available to supervise. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Permission of the Department

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Materials Science

Materials science is the study of the structure, properties and applications of all types of materials including metals, ceramics, glasses and polymers. Currently many exciting scientific developments are in the materials field. Notable advances have been made recently in studies of amorphous metals, the quasicrystalline state, liquid crystals, semiconductors, nanostructured materials, high critical temperature superconductors, biomaterials, high strength polymers, materials processing techniques such as ion implantation and laser melting, and in new categories of engineered materials such as advanced industrial ceramics or composite materials.

Materials science is interdisciplinary, drawing on the basic sciences of chemistry and physics and on more applied subjects such as metallurgy, ceramics and polymer science. Its tools and techniques include electron microscopy, x-ray diffraction, surface analysis using Auger emission spectroscopy, x-ray photoelectron spectroscopy, etc.

Introduction to Materials Science, MSE 101H1, is designed to appeal to a wide variety of student interests. Other materials science courses are available to students having the prescribed prerequisites and the approval of the Undergraduate Student Counsellor. The specialist program in Materials Science is coordinated jointly by the Departments of Chemistry and Materials Science and Engineering. For further information on the program, consult the undergraduate coordinators for both departments.

Materials Science Programs

Materials Science Specialist (Science Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program. All students who request the program and obtain at least the specified mark(s) in the required courses will be eligible to enrol. Consult see the Arts & Science Program Enrolment web site for application procedures.

Courses for admission: CHM135H1/CHM139H1 and CHM136H1/CHM138H1 or CHM151Y1 with a minimum mark of 63%.

Completion Requirements:

Consult Associate Chair, Undergraduate Studies, Department of Chemistry.

This program draws both on the basic sciences of chemistry and physics, and on the more applied areas such as metallurgy or ceramics. Courses dealing with these latter fields are offered through the Department of Materials Science in the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering. This would be an appropriate program for students with career interests in solid state, polymer or composite materials industries, or for graduate work in either chemistry or materials science, with an appropriate choice of options. Students may follow the Materials Chemistry path by taking research course CHM 499Y1 or the Materials Science and Engineering path by taking research course MSE 498Y1.

(14 full courses or their equivalent, including at least one 400-series course)

First Year: (BIO120H1, BIO130H1/BIO220H1); CHM151Y1 (strongly recommended)/(CHM135H1/CHM139H1, CHM136H1/CHM138H1); (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1

Regarding Materials Science Courses

Notes

1. The MSE courses below are administered by the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering, and are subject to the rules and regulations of that Faculty, including those for term dates, examination periods and deferral practices.
2. The CHM courses listed for the Materials Science program are described in the Chemistry section of this Calendar.
3. Enrollment in MSE courses is done through your own College Registrar. It is not necessary to petition as the courses listed below have been pre-approved for this Specialist Program.
4. Deferment of Final Exams is NOT generally granted in the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering.

Materials Science Courses

MSE101H1 - Introduction to Materials Science

Hours: 39L/13T/13P

This is an introductory course in materials science examining the fundamentals of atomic structure, the nature of bonding in materials, crystal structure and defects, and phase equilibria. These basic principles provide the foundation for an exploration of structure-property relationships in metals, ceramics, and polymers, with emphasis on mechanical properties. The properties of materials then form the basis for an introduction to materials selection in design.

Prerequisite: OAC/Grade 12 U Chemistry, Physics, and Calculus

MSE219H1 - Structure and Characterization of Materials

Hours: 39L/13T/39P

Introduction to two and three-dimensional crystallography and crystal structures of solids. Topics include: Pearson and Hermann-Mauguin symbols, reciprocal space, point group and space group symmetry analysis, stereographic projections. Introduction to tensor analysis of crystalline material properties, and symmetry breakdown by imperfections in crystals. Experimental techniques used to interpret structure and chemistry of solids and their defects will be covered theoretically and in the laboratory including: X-ray diffractometry, optical, electron and scanning probe microscopy, and surface/bulk spectroscopies based on optical, X-ray, electron and ion-beam analysis methods.

MSE316H1 - Mechanical Behaviour of Materials

Hours: 39L/13T/20P

The mechanical behaviour of engineering materials including metals, alloys, ceramics and polymeric materials. The following topics will be discussed: macro- and micro-structural response of materials to external loads; load-displacement and stress-strain relationships, processes and mechanisms of elastic, visco-elastic, plastic and creep deformation, crystallographic aspects of plastic flow, effect of defects on mechanical behaviour, strain hardening theory, strengthening mechanisms and mechanical testing.

MSE318H1 - Phase Transformations

Hours: 39L/13T/20P

Thermodynamics and phase stability. Free energy diagrams. Phase transformations in unary systems: primary crystallization, amorphization, crystallization of amorphous materials, recrystallization. Phase transformations in binary systems: solidification, precipitation from solid solution, binary invariant reactions. Diffusional transformations, nucleation and growth, diffusionless or martensitic transformations. Second order transformations. Spinodal, massive and order-disorder transformations. Influence of phase transformations on microstructure and properties.

MSE335H1 - Materials Physics

Hours: 39L/13T

Application of solid state physics to describe properties of materials. Thermal properties of solids: lattice vibrations (phonons), heat capacity, thermal conductivity. Electrical properties of metals: simple circuits, resistivity of metals (classical and quantum descriptions), Seebeck, Peltier, and Thomson effects. Electrical properties of semiconductors: band structure and occupancy, conductivity, Hall effect, simple devices. Electrical properties of insulators: polarization, capacitance, optical properties, ferroelectric and piezoelectric materials. Magnetic properties: diamagnetism and paramagnetism, ferromagnetic and ferrimagnetic materials, magnetic domains, B-H curves.

MSE342H1 - Nanomaterials

Hours: 26L/13T

An introduction to nanostructured materials. Topics include: the different classes of nanomaterials, synthesis and characterization methods, changes in physical properties on the nanometer scale, areas of application of nanostructured materials and materials issues in nanotechnology. (Quarter term course taught over the entire Fall term, worth .25 credits).

MSE343H1 - Biomaterials

Hours: 26L/13P

The course will provide an overview of the applications of materials (metals, polymers, ceramics, composites and modified tissue-based materials) for surgical implant fabrication. The important considerations in selection of materials for fabrication of these devices with an introduction to the biological responses expected with implantation will also be discussed. The concept of biocompatibility will be introduced as well as the essential elements of biology related to an understanding of this criterion for biomaterial selection and implant design. (Quarter term course taught over the entire Fall term, worth .25 credits).

MSE351H1 - Design and Sim of Materials Processes

Hours: 36L/12T/24P

Various phenomena involved in materials processing and design will be modeled using a software package based on the finite element method. Examples will include aspects of solid state diffusion, structural stress, heat transfer, fluid flow and chemical reactions. The problems will involve unsteady state as well as 3 dimensional systems. Multi-physics phenomena such as heating of an electric component by an electric current, resulting in a change in physical properties affecting thermal properties will also be introduced. The main objective of this course is to introduce students to the use of a commercial software package to solve fairly common but complex physical and chemical phenomena related to the materials industry.

MSE430H1 - Electronic Materials

Hours: 26L/13T

Materials parameters and electronic properties of semiconductors are discussed as basic factors in the engineering of semiconductor devices. Materials parameters are related to preparation and processing methods, and thus to the electronic properties. The implications of materials parameters and properties on selected simple devices are discussed.

MSE440H1 - Blomaterial Processing and Properties

Hours: 39L/13T

Currently used biomaterials for formation of surgical implants and dental restorations include selected metals, polymers, ceramics, and composites. The selection and processing of these materials to satisfy biocompatibility and functional requirements for applications in selected areas will be presented. Materials used for forming scaffolds for tissue engineering, and strategies for repair, regeneration and augmentation of degenerated or traumatized tissues will be reviewed with a focus on biocompatibility issues and required functionality for the intended applications.

MSE451H1 - Advanced Physical Properties of Structural Nanomaterials

Hours: 39L/13T/39P

This course deals with the physical properties of bulk nanostructured materials. Included are mechanical properties (elastic behavior, tensile and compressive strength, creep, wear and fatigue properties) electrical properties (electrical transport phenomena, electrical resistivity) magnetic properties (paramagnetic, diamagnetic, soft and hard ferromagnetic, superparamagnetic and antiferromagnetic properties), thermodynamic properties (interfacial enthalpy, thermal stability, phase transformations, heat capacity). The considerable differences observed for nanocrystalline solids compared to conventional polycrystalline and amorphous solids will be discussed in terms of the microstructural differences for these materials.

MSE459H1 - Synthesis of Nanostructured Materials

Hours: 39L/26P

Various synthesis techniques to produce nanostructured materials will be introduced. These include methods involving the vapor phase (physical and chemical vapor deposition, organometallic chemical vapor deposition), the liquid phase (rapid solidification, spark erosion), the solid phase, (mechanical attrition, equal channel deformation) as well techniques producing these structures from solution (electrodeposition, electroless processing, precipitation). Secondary processing techniques to produce final products or devices will also be discussed.

MSE461H1 - Engineered Ceramics

Hours: 39L/24T

The unique combinations of physical, electrical, magnetic, and thermomechanical properties exhibited by advanced technical ceramics has led to a wide range of applications including automobile exhaust sensors and fuel cells, high speed cutting tool inserts and ball bearings, thermal barrier coatings for turbine engines, and surgical implants. This course examines the crystal and defect structures which determine the electrical and mass transport behaviours and the effects of microstructure on optical, magnetic, dielectric, and thermomechanical properties. The influence of these structure-property relations on the performance of ceramic materials in specific applications such as sensors, solid oxide fuel cells, magnets, and structural components is explored.

MSE498Y1 - Design and Research Project

Hours: 156P

The students, alone or preferably organized in small groups, select a project involving original research and design work which is normally closely related to the current work of a staff member, and in close collaboration with an external partner (e.g. local industry, hospital, government lab). The students conceive and carry out a research plan under the supervision of the academic staff member usually with an external liaison person as a resource person. The project must contain a significant design component. The project work may be carried out in the department, at the external site, or both locations. The final grade will be based on interim and final written reports, oral presentations at the end of each term and a final poster presentation.

Exclusion: CHM499Y1

Introduction

Mathematics is the study of shape, quantity, pattern and structure. It serves as a tool for our scientific understanding of the world. Knowledge of mathematics opens gateways to many different professions such as economics, finance, computing, engineering, and the natural sciences. Aside from practical considerations, mathematics can be a highly satisfying intellectual pursuit, with career opportunities in teaching and research.

The department counts many of Canada's leading research mathematicians among its faculty. Our mathematics programs are flexible, allowing students to select courses based on specialization and interest. Contents range from calculus and linear algebra in the non-specialist programs to more advanced topics such as real and complex analysis, ordinary and partial differential equations, differential geometry, topology, commutative algebra, graph theory, mathematical logic, number theory, and functional analysis.

The department offers eight specialist programs in addition to the major and minor programs.

In the Mathematics, Applied Mathematics, Mathematics and Physics, and Mathematics and Philosophy specialist programs, students acquire an in-depth knowledge and expertise in mathematical reasoning and the language of mathematics, with its emphasis on rigor and precision. These programs are designed for students wishing to pursue graduate studies; most of the graduates of these programs continue on to graduate school with some of them gaining admission to the world's best graduate schools.

The Mathematical Applications in Economics and Finance specialist program is designed to prepare students for direct entry into the world of finance. It can also serve as a gateway to an MBA or a Master of Finance degree, possibly followed by an eventual doctorate.

The Mathematics and its Applications specialist programs offer three areas of concentration: teaching, physical science, and probability/statistics. These specialist programs are designed as 'enhanced double majors.' The required courses for these concentrations are almost identical for the first two years, but they diverge in the upper years. Students in these programs can also continue on to graduate studies.

The Major and Minor programs are intended for students who want to combine mathematical skills with work in other subjects. These programs require less coursework than the specialist programs, but still require the completion of some upper year mathematics courses.

Students interested in becoming K-12 teachers should consider applying to the combined degree program --- a six-year program that leads to an Honours Bachelor of Science (HBSc) from the University of Toronto and a Master of Teaching (MT) from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE). The HBSc part of this program involves completing a Math Major, a Minor in Education and Society (offered by Victoria College) and a Minor in an area that would lead to a second "teachable" subject. Please see the Victoria College website for more information.

The Professional Experience Year program (PEY: see <http://engineeringcareers.utoronto.ca/students/pey/>) is available to eligible full-time Specialist and Major students after their second or third year of study. The PEY program is an optional 12-16 month work term providing industrial experience. It gives students an opportunity to apply their skills in the context of a paid internship.

The Department of Mathematics offers introductory courses for incoming students to foster the development of mathematics skills.

PUMP (Preparing for University Mathematics Program) is a non-credit course that equips students with the necessary background knowledge required to succeed in first year mathematics courses. It is designed for students who have not taken the appropriate high school mathematics prerequisites for university calculus and linear algebra. It is also useful for students who wish to close any existing gap between high school math and University level math courses or anyone who wishes to review high school math before attempting University level math or other science courses.

MAT138H1 (Introduction to Proofs) has been introduced into the curriculum as a preparation for MAT157Y1, MAT240H1, MAT247H1, MAT237Y1, and other proof-oriented advanced courses. The course covers the reading and comprehension of mathematical statements, analyzing definitions and properties, formulation of arguments, and strategies for proofs.

Visit <http://www.math.toronto.edu/cms/potential-students-ug/> for up-to-date information on the availability of PUMP and MAT138H1.

Some of the more advanced first- and second-year courses have "change dates" during the first few weeks of the academic year. The "change date" occurs after the general "add date" for courses and before the "drop date" for courses. For example, a student enrolled in MAT157Y1 can change their enrolment to MAT137Y1 or MAT135H1 at any time on or before the change date. For deadlines and further details, see <http://www.math.toronto.edu/cms/change-dates>

Mathematics Programs

Mathematics Specialist (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(12.5 FCE, including at least 3.0 FCE at the 400-level)

The Specialist Program in Mathematics is directed toward students who hope to pursue mathematical research as a career.

First Year:
MAT157Y1, MAT240H1, MAT247H1

Second Year:
MAT257Y1, MAT267H1

Second and Higher Years:

1. At least 0.5 FCE with a significant emphasis on ethics and social responsibility: ENV333H1/ ETH201H1/ ETH210H1/ ETH220H1/ HPS200H1/ IMC200H1/ JPH441H1/ PHL265H1/ PHL273H1/ PHL275H1/ PHL281H1 or another H course approved by the Department. Note: Students may use the CR/NCR option with this H course and have it count toward the Mathematics Specialist program. Students in the VIC program may also use VIC172Y1.

2. MAT327H1

Third and Fourth Years:

1. MAT347Y1, MAT354H1, MAT357H1, MAT363H1/MAT367H1 (MAT363H1 can be taken in the second year, if desired)
2. 2.0 FCE of: MAT309H1, MAT351Y1, ANY 400-level APM/MAT
3. 3.0 FCE of APM/MAT at the 300+ level, including at least 2.0 FCE at the 400 level (these may include options above not already chosen)
4. MAT477H1

NOTE:

1. The Department recommends that PHY151H1 and PHY152H1 be taken in the First Year, and that CSC148H1 and STA257H1 be taken during the program. If you do not have a year-long course in programming from high school, the Department strongly recommends that you take CSC108H1 prior to CSC148H1.

2. Students planning to take specific fourth year courses should ensure that they have the necessary second and third year prerequisites.

3. Students with a CGPA of 3.5 and above may apply to have graduate level math courses count towards their 400-level course requirements.

Applied Mathematics Specialist (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(13.0-13.5 FCE, including at least 1.5 FCE at the 400-level)

The Specialist Program in Applied Mathematics is directed toward students who hope to pursue applied mathematical research as a career.

First Year:

MAT157Y1, MAT240H1, MAT247H1;
(CSC108H1, CSC148H1)/CSC150H1

Second Year:

MAT257Y1, MAT267H1; STA257H1, STA261H1

Second and Higher Years:

1. At least 0.5 FCE with a significant emphasis on ethics and social responsibility: ENV333H1/ ETH201H1/ ETH210H1/ ETH220H1/ HPS200H1/ IMC200H1/ JPH441H1/ PHL265H1/ PHL273H1/ PHL275H1/ PHL281H1 or another H course approved by the Department. Note: Students may use the CR/NCR option with this H course and have it count toward the program. Students in the VIC program may also use VIC172Y1.

Third and Fourth Years:

1. MAT351Y1; MAT327H1, MAT347Y1, MAT354H1, MAT357H1, MAT363H1/MAT367H1 (MAT363H1 can be taken in the second year, if desired); STA347H1
2. At least 1.5 FCE chosen from: MAT332H1, MAT344H1, MAT454H1, MAT457H1, MAT458H1, MAT464H1; STA302H1, STA457H1; CSC336H1, CSC436H1, CSC446H1, CSC456H1
3. 1.0 FCE from: APM421H1, APM426H1, APM441H1, APM446H1, APM461H1, APM462H1, APM466H1
4. MAT477H1

NOTE:

1. The Department recommends that PHY151H1 and PHY152H1 be taken in the First Year, and that CSC148H1 and STA257H1 be taken during the program. If you do not have a year-long course in programming from high school, the Department strongly recommends that you take CSC108H1 prior to CSC148H1.

2. Students planning to take specific fourth year courses should ensure that they have the necessary second and third year prerequisites.

3. Students with a CGPA of 3.5 and above may apply to have graduate level math courses count towards their 400-level course requirements.

Mathematics and Physics Specialist (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(14.5-15.5 FCE, including at least 1.0 FCE at the 400-level)

First Year:

MAT157Y1, MAT240H1, MAT247H1; PHY151H1, PHY152H1

Second Year:

MAT257Y1, MAT267H1; PHY224H1, PHY250H1, PHY252H1, PHY254H1, PHY256H1

Second and Higher Years:

1. At least 0.5 FCE with a significant emphasis on ethics and social responsibility: ENV333H1/ ETH201H1/ ETH210H1/ ETH220H1/ HPS200H1/ IMC200H1/ JPH441H1/ PHL265H1/ PHL273H1/ PHL275H1/ PHL281H1 or another H course approved by the Department. Note: Students may use the CR/NCR option with this H course and have it count toward the program. Students in the VIC program may also use VIC172.
2. Note: PHY252H1 and PHY324H1 may be taken in the 2nd or 3rd year.

Third Year:

1. MAT351Y1; MAT334H1/MAT354H1, MAT357H1
2. One of: MAT327H1, MAT347Y1, MAT363H1/MAT367H1 (MAT363H1 can be taken in the second year, if desired)
3. PHY324H1, PHY350H1, PHY354H1, PHY356H1

Fourth Year:

1. Two of: APM421H1, APM426H1, APM446H1, APM441H1
2. Two of: PHY450H1, PHY452H1, PHY454H1, PHY456H1, PHY460H1
3. One of: MAT477H1; PHY424H1, PHY478H1, PHY479Y1

NOTE:

1. Students who are intending to apply to graduate schools in mathematics would be well-advised to take MAT347Y1.

2. Students planning to take specific fourth year courses should ensure that they have the necessary second and third year prerequisites.

3. Students with a CGPA of 3.5 and above may apply to have graduate level math courses count towards their 400-level course requirements.

Mathematics and Philosophy Specialist (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

Consult the Undergraduate Coordinators of the Departments of Mathematics and Philosophy.

(12.0 FCE including at least 1.0 FCE at the 400-level)

First Year:

MAT157Y1, MAT240H1, MAT247H1; PHL232H1 or PHL233H1

Higher Years:

1. MAT257Y1, MAT327H1, MAT347Y1, MAT354H1/MAT357H1

2. PHL345H1, MAT309H1/PHL348H1

3. Four of: PHL325H1, PHL331H1, PHL332H1, PHL346H1, PHL347H1, PHL349H1, PHL355H1, PHL451H1, PHL480H1

4. 1.0 FCE from PHL200Y1/PHL205H1/PHL206H1/PHL210Y1

5. PHL265H1/PHL275H1

6. Additional 2.0 FCE from PHL or MAT to a total of 12.0 FCE

NOTE: Students with a CGPA of 3.5 and above may apply to have graduate level math courses count towards their 400-level course requirements.

Mathematical Applications in Economics and Finance Specialist (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(12-12.5 FCE, including at least 1.5 FCE at the 400-level)

First Year:

ECO100Y1/(ECO101H1 + ECO102H1); MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, MAT223H1, MAT224H1

(Please check the requirements for ECO206Y1 to ensure that you pass these first year courses with grades that allow registration in ECO206Y1)

Second Year:

ECO206Y1; MAT237Y1, MAT244H1, MAT246H1 (waived for students taking 157Y1); STA257H1, STA261H1

Second and Higher Years:

1. At least 0.5 FCE with a significant emphasis on ethics and social responsibility: ENV333H1/ETH201H1/ETH210H1/ETH220H1/HPS200H1/IMC200H1/JPH441H1/PHL265H1/PHL273H1/PHL275H1/PHL281H1 or another H course approved by the Department. Note: Students may use the CR/NCR option with this H course and have it count toward the program. Students in the VIC program may also use VIC172Y1.

Third Year:

1. APM346H1; ECO358H1; ECO359H1; MAT337H1; STA302H1/ECO375H1; STA347H1

2. One of: MAT332H1, MAT344H1, MAT334H1, MAT475H1

Fourth Year:

APM462H1, APM466H1; STA457H1

NOTE:

1. Students planning to take specific fourth year courses should ensure that they have the necessary third year prerequisites.

Mathematics & Its Applications Specialist (Physical Science) (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(13.5-14.5 FCE, including at least 1.0 FCE at the 400 level)

Core Courses:

First Year:

(CSC108H1, CSC148H1)/CSC150H1; MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Second Year:

MAT224H1/MAT247H1, MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, MAT246H1

(waived for students taking MAT157Y1), MAT244H1/MAT267H1; STA257H1

Note:

Second and Higher Years:

1. At least 0.5 FCE with a significant emphasis on ethics and social responsibility: ENV333H1/ETH201H1/ETH210H1/ETH220H1/HPS200H1/IMC200H1/JPH441H1/PHL265H1/PHL273H1/PHL275H1/PHL281H1 or another H course approved by the Department. Note: Students may use the CR/NCR option with this H course and have it count toward the program. Students in the VIC program may also use VIC172.

Higher Years:

MAT301H1, MAT334H1

NOTE:

1. Students planning to take specific fourth year courses should ensure that they have the necessary second and third year prerequisites.

Physical Sciences Concentration:

1. PHY151H1, PHY152H1; AST221H1

2. Three of: AST222H1; PHY250H1, PHY252H1, PHY254H1, PHY256H1

3. APM346H1/MAT351Y1

4. Three of: AST320H1, AST325H1; MAT337H1, MAT363H1/MAT367H1; PHY350H1, PHY354H1, PHY356H1, PHY357H1, PHY358H1

5. Two of: APM421H1, APM426H1, APM441H1, APM446H1; PHY407H1, PHY408H1, PHY456H1

Mathematics & Its Applications Specialist (Probability/Statistics) (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(11.5-13.0 FCE, including at least 1.0 FCE at the 400 level)

Core Courses:

First Year:

(CSC108H1, CSC148H1)/CSC150H1; MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Second Year:

MAT224H1/MAT247H1, MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, MAT246H1

(waived for students taking MAT157Y1), MAT244H1/MAT267H1; STA257H1

Note:

Second and Higher Years:

1. At least 0.5 FCE with a significant emphasis on ethics and social responsibility: ENV333H1/ ETH201H1/ ETH210H1/ ETH220H1/ HPS200H1/ IMC200H1/ JPH441H1/ PHL265H1/ PHL273H1/ PHL275H1/ PHL281H1 or another H course approved by the Department. Note: Students may use the CR/NCR option with this H course and have it count toward the program. Students in the VIC program may also use VIC172Y1.

Higher Years:

MAT301H1, MAT334H1

NOTE:

1. Students planning to take specific fourth year courses should ensure that they have the necessary second and third year prerequisites.

Probability/Statistics Concentration:

1. APM346H1/MAT351Y1/APM462H1; MAT337H1; STA261H1, STA302H1, STA347H1, STA352Y1/(STA452H1, STA453H1)
2. Additional 1.0 FCE at the 300+level from APM/MAT/STA
3. Two of: STA437H1, STA442H1, STA447H1, STA457H1

Mathematics & Its Applications Specialist (Teaching) (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(11.5 - 12 FCE, including at least 1.0 FCE at the 400 level)

Core Courses:

First Year:

CSC108H1; MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Second Year:

MAT224H1/MAT247H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, MAT246H1 (waived for students taking MAT157Y1), MAT244H1/MAT267H1;STA257H1

Note:

1. MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1 is a direct or indirect prerequisite for many courses in each of the areas of concentration except the Teaching Concentration. Students are advised to take MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1 unless they have planned their program and course selection carefully and are certain that they will not need it.

Second and Higher Years:

1. At least 0.5 FCE with a significant emphasis on ethics and social responsibility: ENV333H1/ ETH201H1/ ETH210H1/ ETH220H1/ HPS200H1/ IMC200H1/ JPH441H1/ PHL265H1/ PHL273H1/ PHL275H1/ PHL281H1 or another H course approved by the Department. Note: Students may use the CR/NCR option with this H course and have it count toward the program. Students in the VIC program may also use VIC172Y1.

Higher Years:

MAT301H1, MAT334H1

NOTE:

1. Students planning to take specific fourth year courses should ensure that they have the necessary second and third year prerequisites.

Teaching Concentration:

For course selection, note that OISE requires students to have a second teachable subject.

1. MAT329Y1, HPS/MAT390H1, HPS/MAT391H1
2. Two of: MAT332H1/MAT344H1, MAT335H1, MAT337H1, MAT363H1/MAT367H1
3. Two of: MAT309H1, MAT315H1; STA302H1/STA347H1
4. MAT401H1/MAT402H1 and 0.5 FCE at the 400-level from MAT, APM, STA

Mathematics Major (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(7.5 full courses or their equivalent. These must include at least 2.5 full course equivalent (FCE) at the 300+ level. Of those 2.5 FCE, at least 0.5 FCE must be at the 400 level).

First Year:

(MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Second Year:

MAT224H1/ MAT247H1, MAT235Y1/ MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, MAT244H1, MAT246H1

NOTE:

1. MAT224H1 may be taken in first year

Second and Higher Years:

1. At least 0.5 FCE with a significant emphasis on ethics and social responsibility: ETH210H1/ ETH220H1/ HPS200H1/ JPH441H1/ PHL265H1/ PHL273H1/ PHL275H1/ PHL281H1 or another H course approved by the Department. Note: Students may use the CR/NCR option with this H course and have it count toward the program.

Higher Years:

1. MAT301H1, MAT309H1/MAT315H1, MAT334H1
2. Additional 0.5 FCE at the 200+ level from: ACT240H1/ACT230H1; APM236H1; MAT309H1/MAT315H1/MAT335H1/ MAT337H1; STA247H1/STA257H1
3. Additional 0.5 FCE at the 300+level from: APM346H1, APM462H1; MAT309H1, MAT315H1, MAT332H1/MAT344H1, MAT335H1, MAT337H1, MAT363H1, MAT475H1; HPS390H1, HPS391H1; PSL432H1
4. MAT401H1/MAT402H1 or any other MAT/APM 400-level course

NOTES:

1. Students using MAT157Y1 towards the first year program requirements must replace the exclusion course MAT246H1 with a different H level MAT/APM course at the 200+ level.

2. In the major program, higher level courses within the same topic are acceptable substitutions. With a judicious choice of courses, usually including introductory computer science, students can fulfill the requirements for a double major in mathematics and one of several other disciplines.

3. Students planning to take specific fourth year courses should ensure that they have the necessary second and third year prerequisites.

4. Students interested in becoming K-12 teachers should consider applying to the combined degree program --- a six-year program that leads to an Honours Bachelor of Science (H B Sc) from the University of Toronto and a Master of Teaching (M T) from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE). The HBSc part of this program involves completing a Math Major, a Minor in Education and Society (offered by Victoria College) and a Minor in an area that would lead to a second "teachable" subject. Please see the Victoria College website for more information.

Mathematics Minor (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(4.0 FCE)

1. (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1
2. MAT221H1(80%+)/ MAT223H1/ MAT240H1, MAT235Y1/ MAT237Y1/ MAT257Y1, MAT224H1/ MAT244H1/ MAT246H1/ APM236H1/ MAT247H1 Note: MAT221H1/ MAT223H1 should be taken in first year
3. Additional 1.0 FCE at the 300+ level from APM/MAT/ HPS390H1/ HPS391H1/ PSL432H1

NOTE:

1. In the minor program, higher level courses within the same topic are acceptable substitutions.
2. Students planning to take specific third and fourth year courses should ensure that they have the necessary first, second and third year prerequisites.

Joint Programs

- Economics and Mathematics, see Economics
- Statistics and Mathematics, see Statistics
- Combined Degree Program: STG, Honours Bachelor of Science, Major in Mathematics / Master of Teaching

Combined Degree Program (CDP) in Science and Education: Mathematics (Major), Honours Bachelor of Science/Master of Teaching

The Combined Degree Program in Arts/Science and Education is designed for students interested in studying the intersections of teaching subjects and Education, coupled with professional teacher preparation. Students earn an Honours Bachelor's degree from the Faculty of Arts and Science (St. George) and an accredited professional Master of Teaching (MT) degree from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE). They will be recommended to the Ontario College of Teachers for an Ontario Teacher's Certificate of Qualifications as elementary or secondary school teachers. The CDP permits the completion of both degrees in six years with 1.0 FCE that may be counted towards both the undergraduate and graduate degrees.

Program requirements:

1. Minor in Education and Society, Victoria College
  2. Major in Mathematics (first teaching subject)
  3. Minor in an area corresponding to the second teaching subject as determined by OISE
- (see http://pepper.oise.utoronto.ca/~jhewitt/mtresources/intermediate\_senior\_teaching\_subject\_prerequisites\_2016-17.pdf)

See here for additional information on the CDP, including admission, path to completion and contact information.

Mathematics Courses

MAT133Y1 - Calculus and Linear Algebra for Commerce

Hours: 72L

Mathematics of finance. Matrices and linear equations. Review of differential calculus; applications. Integration and fundamental theorem; applications. Introduction to partial differentiation; applications.

NOTE: please note Prerequisites listed below. Students without the proper prerequisites for MAT133Y1 may be deregistered from this course.

Note that MAT133Y is not a valid prerequisite for a number of more advanced quantitative courses. Students who are considering a quantitative non-Commerce PoSt, such as a math minor or a stats minor, may want to consider MAT135H and MAT136H, MAT137Y, or MAT157Y instead of MAT133Y. Specifically, a student who took MAT133Y may need to subsequently take MAT135H and MAT136H as "extra" or take MAT137Y or MAT157Y in order to proceed in non-Commerce PoSts.

Prerequisite: High school level calculus

Exclusion: MAT135H1, MAT136H1, MAT137Y1, MAT157Y1, MATA30H3, MATA31H3, MATA32H3, MATA33H3, MATA35H3, MATA36H3, MATA37H3, MAT133Y5, MAT134Y5, MAT135Y5, MAT137Y5, MAT138Y5, MAT186H, MAT187H, MAT194H, MAT195H, MAT196H & MAT197H

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT135H1 - Calculus 1(A)

Hours: 36L/12T

Review of trigonometric functions, trigonometric identities and trigonometric limits. Functions, limits, continuity. Derivatives, rules of differentiation and implicit differentiation, related rates, higher derivatives, logarithms, exponentials. Trigonometric and inverse trigonometric functions, linear approximations. Mean value theorem, graphing, min-max problems, l'Hôpital's rule; anti-derivatives. Examples from life science and physical science applications.

Prerequisite: High school level calculus

Exclusion: MAT133Y1, MAT136H1, MAT137Y1, MAT157Y1, MATA30H3, MATA31H3, MATA32H3, MATA33H3, MATA35H3, MATA36H3, MATA37H3, MAT133Y5, MAT134Y5, MAT135Y5, MAT137Y5, MAT138Y5, MAT186H, MAT187H, MAT194H, MAT195H, MAT196H & MAT197H

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT136H1 - Calculus 1(B)

Hours: 36L/12T

Definite Integrals, Fundamental theorem of Calculus, Areas, Averages, Volumes. Techniques: Substitutions, integration by parts, partial fractions, improper integrals. Differential Equations: Solutions and applications. Sequences, Series, Taylor Series. Examples from life science and physical science applications.

Prerequisite: MAT135H1

Exclusion: MAT133Y1, MAT137Y1, MAT157Y1, MATA32H3, MATA33H3, MATA36H3, MATA37H3, MAT133Y5, MAT134Y5, MAT135Y5, MAT137Y5, MAT138Y5, MAT186H, MAT187H, MAT194H, MAT195H, MAT196H & MAT197H

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT137Y1 - Calculus

Hours: 72L/24T

A conceptual approach for students with a serious interest in mathematics. Attention is given to computational aspects as well as theoretical foundations and problem solving techniques. Review of Trigonometry. Limits and continuity, mean value theorem, inverse function theorem, differentiation, integration, fundamental theorem of calculus, elementary transcendental functions, Taylor's theorem, sequence and series, power series. Applications.

Prerequisite: High school level calculus

Exclusion: MAT135H1, MAT136H1, MAT157Y1, MATA35H3, MATA36H3, MATA37H3, MAT135Y5, MAT137Y5, MAT138Y5, MAT187H, MAT194H, MAT195H, MAT196H & MAT197H

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

MAT138H1 - Introduction to Proofs

Hours: 36L/12T

The reading and understanding mathematical statements, analyzing definitions and properties, formulating conjectures and generalizations, providing and writing reasonable and precise arguments, modelling and solving proofs. This course is an excellent preparation for MAT157Y1, MAT237Y1, MAT240H1, and other proof-oriented courses.

Prerequisite: High school level calculus

Exclusion: MAT157Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT157Y1 - Analysis I

Hours: 72L/48T

A theoretical course in calculus; emphasizing proofs and techniques, as well as geometric and physical understanding. Trigonometric identities. Limits and continuity; least upper bounds, intermediate and extreme value theorems. Derivatives, mean value and inverse function theorems. Integrals; fundamental theorem; elementary transcendental functions. Techniques of integration. Taylor's theorem; sequences and series; uniform convergence and power series.

Prerequisite: High school level calculus

Exclusion: MAT137Y1, MATA37H3, MAT137Y5, MAT195H, & MAT197H

Distribution Requirements: Science

JMB170Y1 - Biology, Models, and Mathematics

Hours: 48L/24T

Applications of mathematics to biological problems in physiology, genetics, evolution, growth, population dynamics, cell biology, ecology, and behaviour. Mathematical topics include: power functions and regression; exponential and logistic functions; binomial theorem and probability; calculus, including derivatives, max/min, integration, areas, integration by parts, substitution; differential equations, including linear constant coefficient systems; dynamic programming; Markov processes; and chaos. This course is intended for students in Life Sciences.

Corequisite: BIO120H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

JUM202H1 - Mathematics as an Interdisciplinary Pursuit

Hours: 24L/12T

A study of the interaction of mathematics with other fields of inquiry: how mathematics influences, and is influenced by, the evolution of science and culture. Art, music, and literature, as well as the more traditionally related areas of the natural and social sciences may be considered. (Offered every three years)

JUM202H1 is particularly suited as a Science Distribution Requirement course for Humanities and Social Science students.

Exclusion: JUM102H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

JUM203H1 - Mathematics as a Recreation

Hours: 24L/12T

A study of games, puzzles and problems focusing on the deeper principles they illustrate. Concentration is on problems arising out of number theory and geometry, with emphasis on the process of mathematical reasoning. Technical requirements are kept to a minimum. A foundation is provided for a continuing lay interest in mathematics. (Offered every three years)

JUM203H1 is particularly suited as a Science Distribution Requirement course for Humanities and Social Science students.

Exclusion: JUM103H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

JUM205H1 - Mathematical Personalities

Hours: 24L/12T

An in-depth study of the life, times and work of several mathematicians who have been particularly influential. Examples may include Newton, Euler, Gauss, Kowalewski, Hilbert, Hardy, Ramanujan, Gdel, Erds, Coxeter, Grothendieck. (Offered every three years)

JUM205H1 is particularly suited as a Science Distribution Requirement course for Humanities and Social Science students.

Exclusion: JUM105H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT221H1 - Applied Linear Algebra

Hours: 36L/12T

An application-oriented approach to linear algebra, based on calculations in standard Euclidean space. Systems of linear equations, matrices, Gauss-Jordan elimination, subspaces, bases, orthogonal vectors and projections. Matrix inverses, kernel and range, rank-nullity theorem. Determinants, eigenvalues and eigenvectors, Cramer's rule, diagonalization. This course has strong emphasis on building computational skills in the area of algebra. Applications to curve fitting, economics, Markov chains and cryptography.

Prerequisite: High school level calculus

Exclusion: MAT223H1, MAT224H1, MAT240H1, MAT247H1, MAT223H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT223H1 - Linear Algebra I

Hours: 36L/12T

Systems of linear equations, matrix algebra, real vector spaces, subspaces, span, linear dependence and independence, bases, rank, inner products, orthogonality, orthogonal complements, Gram-Schmidt, linear transformations, determinants, Cramer's rule, eigenvalues, eigenvectors, eigenspaces, diagonalization.

Prerequisite: High school level calculus

Exclusion: MAT240H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT224H1 - Linear Algebra II

Hours: 36L/12T

Fields, complex numbers, vector spaces over a field, linear transformations, matrix of a linear transformation, kernel, range, dimension theorem, isomorphisms, change of basis, eigenvalues, eigenvectors, diagonalizability, real and complex inner products, spectral theorem, adjoint/self-adjoint/normal linear operators, triangular form, nilpotent mappings, Jordan canonical form.

Prerequisite: MAT221H1(80%)/MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Exclusion: MAT247H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

MAT235Y1 - Calculus II

Hours: 72L

Parametric equations and polar coordinates. Vectors, vector functions and space curves. Differential and integral calculus of functions of several variables. Line integrals and surface integrals and classic vector calculus theorems. Examples from life sciences and physical science applications.

Prerequisite: (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Exclusion: MAT237Y1, MAT257Y1, MATB41H3, MATB42H3, MAT232H5, MAT233H5, MAT236H5, MAT368H5, MAT291H1 & MAT294H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

APM236H1 - Applications of Linear Programming

Hours: 36L

Introduction to linear programming including a rapid review of linear algebra (row reduction, matrix inversion, linear independence), the simplex method with applications, the duality theorem, complementary slackness, the dual simplex method and the revised simplex method.

Prerequisite: MAT221H1/MAT223H1/MAT240H1 (Note: no waivers of prerequisites will be granted)

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT237Y1 - Multivariable Calculus

Hours: 72L

Sequences and series. Uniform convergence. Convergence of integrals. Elements of topology in  $\mathbb{R}^2$  and  $\mathbb{R}^3$ . Differential and integral calculus of vector valued functions of a vector variable, with emphasis on vectors in two and three dimensional euclidean space. Extremal problems, Lagrange multipliers, line and surface integrals, vector analysis, Stokes' theorem, Fourier series, calculus of variations.

Prerequisite: MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1/(MAT135H1, MAT136H1(90%)), MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Exclusion: MAT235Y1, MAT257Y1, MATB41H3, MATB42H3, MATB43H3 & MAT368H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT240H1 - Algebra I

Hours: 36L/24T

A theoretical approach to: vector spaces over arbitrary fields, including  $\mathbb{C}$  and  $\mathbb{Z}_p$ . Subspaces, bases and dimension. Linear transformations, matrices, change of basis, similarity, determinants. Polynomials over a field (including unique factorization, resultants). Eigenvalues, eigenvectors, characteristic polynomial, diagonalization. Minimal polynomial, Cayley-Hamilton theorem.

Prerequisite: High school level calculus

Corequisite: MAT157Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

MAT244H1 - Introduction to Ordinary Differential Equations

Hours: 36L

First order ordinary differential equations: Direction fields, integrating factors, separable equations, homogeneous equations, exact equations, autonomous equations, modeling. Existence and uniqueness theorem. Higher order equations: Constant coefficient equations, reduction of order, Wronskian, method of undetermined coefficients, variation of parameters. Solutions by series and integrals. First order linear systems, fundamental matrices. Non-linear equations, phase plane, stability. Applications in life and physical sciences and economics.

Prerequisite: (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Corequisite: MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1

Exclusion: MAT267H1, MAT212H5, MAT258Y5

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT245H1 - Mathematical Methods in Data Science

Hours: 36L/24P

An introduction to the mathematical methods behind scientific techniques developed for extracting information from large data sets. Elementary probability density functions, conditional expectation, inverse problems, regularization, dimension reduction, gradient methods, singular value decomposition and its applications, stability, diffusion maps. Examples from applications in data science and big data.

Corequisite: MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT246H1 - Concepts in Abstract Mathematics

Hours: 36L/12T

Designed to introduce students to mathematical proofs and abstract mathematical concepts. Topics may include modular arithmetic, sizes of infinite sets, and a proof that some angles cannot be trisected with straightedge and compass.

Prerequisite: MAT133Y1/(MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1, MAT223H1

Exclusion: MAT157Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT247H1 - Algebra II

Hours: 36L

A theoretical approach to real and complex inner product spaces, isometries, orthogonal and unitary matrices and transformations. The adjoint. Hermitian and symmetric transformations. Spectral theorem for symmetric and normal transformations. Polar representation theorem. Primary decomposition theorem. Rational and Jordan canonical forms. Additional topics including dual spaces, quotient spaces, bilinear forms, quadratic surfaces, multilinear algebra.

Prerequisite: MAT240H1

Corequisite: MAT157Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT257Y1 - Analysis II

Hours: 72L/48T

Topology of  $\mathbb{R}^n$ ; compactness, functions and continuity, extreme value theorem. Derivatives; inverse and implicit function theorems, maxima and minima, Lagrange multipliers. Integration; Fubini's theorem, partitions of unity, change of variables. Differential forms. Manifolds in  $\mathbb{R}^n$ ; integration on manifolds; Stokes' theorem for differential forms and classical versions.

Prerequisite: MAT157Y1, MAT240H1, MAT247H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT267H1 - Advanced Ordinary Differential Equations

Hours: 36L/12T

A theoretical course on Ordinary Differential Equations. First-order equations: separable equations, exact equations, integrating factors. Variational problems, Euler-Lagrange equations. Linear equations and first-order systems. Fundamental matrices, Wronskians. Non-linear equations. Existence and uniqueness theorems. Method of power series. Elementary qualitative theory; stability, phase plane, stationary points. Oscillation theorem, Sturm comparison. Applications in mechanics, physics, chemistry, biology and economics.

Prerequisite: MAT157Y1, MAT247H1

Corequisite: MAT257Y1

Exclusion: APM288H, MAT244H1, MATB44H3, MAT242H5, MAT252H5, MAT234H, MAT292H

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT271H1 - Insights from Mathematics

Hours: 36L/6T

This breadth course is accessible to students with limited mathematical background. Various mathematical techniques will be illustrated with examples from humanities and social science disciplines. Some of the topics will incorporate user friendly computer explorations to give participants the feel of the subject without requiring skill at calculations.

Note: This course cannot be used to satisfy requirements of program in the math department.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT282H1 - Topics in Mathematics

Hours: 36L

A course in mathematics on a topic outside the current undergraduate offerings. For information on the specific topic to be studied and possible additional prerequisites, go to <http://www.math.toronto.edu/cms/current-students-ug/>

Prerequisite: 1.0 FCE in 100-level MAT courses. Possible additional topic-specific prerequisites.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT295H1 - Independent Reading in Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Independent study under the direction of a faculty member. Topic must be outside undergraduate offerings. Similar workload to a 36L course. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum GPA of 3.5 in APM and MAT courses. Permission of the Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies and of the prospective supervisor.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT296H1 - Independent Reading in Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Independent study under the direction of a faculty member. Topic must be outside undergraduate offerings. Workload equivalent to a 36L course. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum GPA of 3.5 in APM and MAT courses. Permission of the Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies and of the prospective supervisor.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT297Y1 - Research Project in Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Independent research under the direction of a faculty member. Similar workload to a 72L course. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum GPA of 3.5 in APM and MAT courses. Permission of the Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies and of the prospective supervisor

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT301H1 - Groups and Symmetries

Hours: 36L

Congruences and fields. Permutations and permutation groups. Linear groups. Abstract groups, homomorphisms, subgroups. Symmetry groups of regular polygons and Platonic solids, wallpaper groups. Group actions, class formula. Cosets, Lagrange theorem. Normal subgroups, quotient groups. Classification of finitely generated abelian groups. Emphasis on examples and calculations.

Prerequisite: MAT224H1/MAT247H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1, MAT246H1/CSC236H1/CSC240H1. (These Prerequisites will be waived for students who have MAT257Y1)

Exclusion: MAT347Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

APM306Y1 - Mathematics and Law

Hours: 72L

This course examines the relationship between legal reasoning and mathematical logic; provides a mathematical perspective on the legal treatment of interest and actuarial present value; critiques ethical issues; analyzes how search engine techniques on massive databases transform legal research and considers the impact of statistical analysis and game theory on litigation strategies.

Prerequisite: (MAT135H1/MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, MAT221H1/MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Exclusion: JUM206Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5); Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

MAT309H1 - Introduction to Mathematical Logic

Hours: 36L

Predicate calculus. Relationship between truth and provability; Gödel's completeness theorem. First order arithmetic as an example of a first-order system. Gödel's incompleteness theorem; outline of its proof. Introduction to recursive functions.

Prerequisite: MAT223H1/MAT240H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1, MAT246H1/CSC236H1/CSC240H1 (These Prerequisites will be waived for students who have MAT257Y1)

Exclusion: CSC438H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

MAT315H1 - Introduction to Number Theory

Hours: 36L

Elementary topics in number theory: arithmetic functions; polynomials over the residue classes modulo  $m$ , characters on the residue classes modulo  $m$ ; quadratic reciprocity law, representation of numbers as sums of squares.

Prerequisite: (MAT223H1/MAT240H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1, MAT246H1/CSC236H1/CSC240H1)/MAT157Y1/MAT247H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

MAT327H1 - Introduction to Topology

Hours: 36L

Metric spaces, topological spaces and continuous mappings; separation, compactness, connectedness. Fundamental group and covering spaces. Brouwer fixed-point theorem. Students in the math specialist program wishing to take additional topology courses are advised to obtain permission to take MAT1300H, MAT1301H.

Prerequisite: (MAT157Y1, MAT247H1)/(MAT224H1/MAT247H1, MAT237Y1, MAT246H1 and permission of the instructor).

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT329Y1 - Concepts in Elementary Mathematics

Hours: 72L

This course is aimed at students intending to become elementary school teachers. Emphasis is placed on the formation and development of fundamental reasoning and learning skills required to understand and to teach mathematics at the elementary level. Topics may include: Problem Solving and Strategies, Sets and Elementary Logic, Numbers and Elements of Number Theory, Introductory Probability and Fundamentals of Geometry.

The course may include an optional practicum in school classrooms.

Prerequisite: MAT137Y1/MAT138H1/MAT223H1/MAT246H1 and any 7.0 FCE with a CGPA of at least 2.5

Exclusion: MAT382H5

Recommended Preparation: Participation in the practicum requires the presentation of an Ontario Police Report that declares suitability to work with minors and other special groups.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT332H1 - Introduction to Graph Theory

Hours: 36L

This course will explore the following topics: Graphs, subgraphs, isomorphism, trees, connectivity, Euler and Hamiltonian properties, matchings, vertex and edge colourings, planarity, network flows and strongly regular graphs. Participants will be encouraged to use these topics and execute applications to such problems as timetabling, tournament scheduling, experimental design and finite geometries.

Prerequisite: MAT224H1/MAT247H1

Corequisite: Recommended Corequisite: MAT301H1/MAT347Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT334H1 - Complex Variables

Hours: 36L

Theory of functions of one complex variable, analytic and meromorphic functions. Cauchy's theorem, residue calculus, conformal mappings, introduction to analytic continuation and harmonic functions.

Prerequisite: MAT223H1/MAT240H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1

Exclusion: MAT354H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT335H1 - Chaos, Fractals and Dynamics

Hours: 36L

An elementary introduction to a modern and fast-developing area of mathematics. One-dimensional dynamics: iterations of quadratic polynomials. Dynamics of linear mappings, attractors. Bifurcation, Henon map, Mandelbrot and Julia sets. History and applications.

Prerequisite: MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1/200-level calculus, MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT336H1 - Elements of Analysis

Hours: 36L/12T

This course provides the foundations of analysis and rigorous calculus for students who will take subsequent courses where these mathematical concepts are central of applications, but who have only taken courses with limited proofs. Topics include topology of  $\mathbb{R}^n$ , implicit and inverse function theorems and rigorous integration theory.

Prerequisite: MAT223H1/MAT240H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1

Exclusion: MAT257Y1, MAT337H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT337H1 - Introduction to Real Analysis

Hours: 36L

Construction of Real Numbers. Metric spaces; compactness and connectedness. Sequences and series of functions, power series; modes of convergence. Interchange of limiting processes; differentiation of integrals. Function spaces; Weierstrass approximation; Fourier series. Contraction mappings; existence and uniqueness of solutions of ordinary differential equations. Countability; Cantor set; Hausdorff dimension.

Prerequisite: MAT224H1/MAT247H1, MAT235Y1/

MAT237Y1, MAT246H1; NOTE: These Prerequisites will be waived for students who have MAT257Y1

Exclusion: MAT357H1 & MAT378H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

MAT344H1 - Introduction to Combinatorics

Hours: 36L

Basic counting principles, generating functions, permutations with restrictions. Fundamentals of graph theory with algorithms; applications (including network flows). Combinatorial structures including block designs and finite geometries.

Prerequisite: MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

APM346H1 - Partial Differential Equations

Hours: 36L

Sturm-Liouville problems, Green's functions, special functions (Bessel, Legendre), partial differential equations of second order, separation of variables, integral equations, Fourier transform, stationary phase method.

Prerequisite: MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, MAT244H1/MAT267H1

Exclusion: MAT351Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

MAT347Y1 - Groups, Rings and Fields

Hours: 72L/24T

Groups, subgroups, quotient groups, Sylow theorems, Jordan-Hölder theorem, finitely generated abelian groups, solvable groups. Rings, ideals, Chinese remainder theorem; Euclidean domains and principal ideal domains: unique factorization. Noetherian rings, Hilbert basis theorem. Finitely generated modules. Field extensions, algebraic closure, straight-edge and compass constructions. Galois theory, including insolvability of the quintic.

Prerequisite: MAT257Y1/(MAT247H1 and permission of the instructor)

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT351Y1 - Partial Differential Equations

Hours: 72L

This is a first course in Partial Differential Equations, intended for Mathematics students with interests in analysis, mathematical physics, geometry, and optimization. The examples to be discussed include first-order equations, harmonic functions, the diffusion equation, the wave equation, Schrodinger's equation, and eigenvalue problems. In addition to the classical representation formulas for the solutions of these equations, there are techniques that apply more broadly: the notion of well-posedness, the method of characteristics, energy methods, maximum and comparison principles, fundamental solutions, Green's functions, Duhamel's principle, Fourier series, the min-max characterization of eigenvalues, Bessel functions, spherical harmonics, and distributions. Nonlinear phenomena such as shock waves and solitary waves are also introduced.

Prerequisite: MAT267H1

Corequisite: MAT334H1/MAT354H1

Exclusion: APM351Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT354H1 - Complex Analysis I

Hours: 36L

Complex numbers, the complex plane and Riemann sphere, Möbius transformations, elementary functions and their mapping properties, conformal mapping, holomorphic functions, Cauchy's theorem and integral formula. Taylor and Laurent series, maximum modulus principle, Schwarz' lemma, residue theorem and residue calculus.

Prerequisite: MAT257Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT357H1 - Foundations of Real Analysis

Hours: 36L

Function spaces; Arzela-Ascoli theorem, Weierstrass approximation theorem, Fourier series. Introduction to Banach and Hilbert spaces; contraction mapping principle, fundamental existence and uniqueness theorem for ordinary differential equations. Lebesgue integral; convergence theorems, comparison with Riemann integral,  $L^p$  spaces. Applications to probability.

Prerequisite: MAT257Y1/(MAT327H1 and permission of instructor)

Exclusion: MAT438H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT363H1 - Geometry of Curves and Surfaces

Hours: 36L

Curves and surfaces in 3-spaces. Frenet formulas. Curvature and geodesics. Gauss map. Minimal surfaces. Gauss-Bonnet theorem for surfaces. Surfaces of constant curvature.

Prerequisite: MAT224H1/MAT247H1, MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1 (MAT257Y1 can be taken concurrently)

Exclusion: MAT367H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT367H1 - Differential Geometry

Hours: 36L

Manifolds, partitions of unity, submersions and immersions, vector fields, vector bundles, tangent and cotangent bundles, foliations and Frobenius theorem, multilinear algebra, differential forms, Stokes theorem, Poincare-Hopf theorem

Prerequisite: MAT257Y1/(MAT224H1, MAT237Y1, MAT246H1, and permission of instructor)

Recommended Preparation: Multivariable calculus (MAT257Y1), Linear algebra (MAT240H1, MAT247H1)

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT382H1 - Topics in Mathematics

Hours: 36L

A course in mathematics on a topic outside the current undergraduate offerings. For information on the specific topic to be studied and possible additional prerequisites, go to <http://www.math.toronto.edu/cms/current-students-ug/>

Prerequisite: 2.5 FCE in 100-level or 200-level APM or MAT courses. Possible additional topic-specific prerequisites.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

MAT390H1 - History of Mathematics up to 1700

Hours: 36L

A survey of ancient, medieval, and early modern mathematics with emphasis on historical issues. (Offered in alternate years)

Prerequisite: At least 1.0 FCE in APM/MAT at the 200 level.

Exclusion: HPS309H1, HPS310Y1, HPS390H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT391H1 - History of Mathematics after 1700

Hours: 24L/12T

A survey of the development of mathematics from 1700 to the present with emphasis on technical development. (Offered in alternate years)

Prerequisite: At least 1.0 FCE in APM/MAT at the 200 level.

Exclusion: HPS309H1, HPS310H1, HPS391H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT395H1 - Independent Reading in Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Independent reading under the direction of a faculty member. Topic must be outside current undergraduate offerings. Similar workload to a 36L course. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum GPA of 3.5 in APM and MAT courses. Permission of the Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies and of the prospective supervisor

Distribution Requirements: Science

APM396H1 - Independent Reading in Applied Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Independent study under the direction of a faculty member. Topic must be outside undergraduate offerings. Similar workload to a 36L course. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum GPA 3.5 for APM and MAT courses.

Permission of the Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies and of the prospective supervisor.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT396H1 - Independent Reading in Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Independent study under the direction of a faculty member. Topic must be outside undergraduate offerings. Similar workload to a 36L course. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum GPA of 3.5 in APM and MAT courses.

Permission of the Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies and of the prospective supervisor

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT397Y1 - Research Project in Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Independent research under the direction of a faculty member. Workload similar to a 72L course. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum GPA of 3.5 in APM and MAT courses.

Permission of the Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies and of the prospective supervisor.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT398H0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT399Y0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT401H1 - Polynomial Equations and Fields

Hours: 36L

Commutative rings; quotient rings. Construction of the rationals. Polynomial algebra. Fields and Galois theory: Field extensions, adjunction of roots of a polynomial. Constructibility, trisection of angles, construction of regular polygons. Galois groups of polynomials, in particular cubics, quartics. Insolubility of quintics by radicals.

Prerequisite: MAT301H1

Exclusion: MAT347Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT402H1 - Classical Geometries

Hours: 36L

Euclidean and non-euclidean plane and space geometries. Real and complex projective space. Models of the hyperbolic plane. Connections with the geometry of surfaces.

Prerequisite: MAT301H1/MAT347Y1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT409H1 - Set Theory

Hours: 36L

Set theory and its relations with other branches of mathematics. ZFC axioms. Ordinal and cardinal numbers. Reflection principle. Constructible sets and the continuum hypothesis. Introduction to independence proofs. Topics from large cardinals, infinitary combinatorics and descriptive set theory.

Prerequisite: MAT357H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT415H1 - Algebraic Number Theory

Hours: 36L

A selection from the following: finite fields; global and local fields; valuation theory; ideals and divisors; differentials and discriminants; ramification and inertia; class numbers and units; cyclotomic fields; diophantine equations.

Prerequisite: MAT347Y1 or permission of instructor

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT417H1 - Analytic Number Theory

Hours: 36L

A selection from the following: distribution of primes, especially in arithmetic progressions and short intervals; exponential sums; Hardy-Littlewood and dispersion methods; character sums and L-functions; the Riemann zeta-function; sieve methods, large and small; diophantine approximation, modular forms.

Prerequisite: MAT334H1/MAT354H1/permission of instructor

Distribution Requirements: Science

APM421H1 - Mathematical Foundations of Quantum Mechanics

Hours: 36L

Key concepts and mathematical structure of Quantum Mechanics, with applications to topics of current interest such as quantum information theory. The core part of the course covers the following topics: Schroedinger equation, quantum observables, spectrum and evolution, motion in electro-magnetic field, angular momentum and  $O(3)$  and  $SU(2)$  groups, spin and statistics, semi-classical asymptotics, perturbation theory. More advanced topics may include: adiabatic theory and geometrical phases, Hartree-Fock theory, Bose-Einstein condensation, the second quantization, density matrix and quantum statistics, open systems and Lindblad evolution, quantum entropy, quantum channels, quantum Shannon theorems.

Prerequisite: (MAT224H1, MAT337H1)/MAT357H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT425H1 - Differential Topology

Hours: 36L

Smooth manifolds, Sard's theorem and transversality. Morse theory. Immersion and embedding theorems. Intersection theory. Borsuk-Ulam theorem. Vector fields and Euler characteristic. Hopf degree theorem. Additional topics may vary.

Prerequisite: MAT257Y1, MAT327H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

APM426H1 - General Relativity

Hours: 36L

Einstein's theory of gravity. Special relativity and the geometry of Lorentz manifolds. Gravity as a manifestation of spacetime curvature. Einstein's equations. Cosmological implications: big bang and inflationary universe. Schwarzschild stars: bending of light and perihelion precession of Mercury. Topics from black hole dynamics and gravitational waves. The Penrose singularity theorem.

Prerequisite: MAT363H1/MAT367H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT436H1 - Introduction to Linear Operators

Hours: 36L

The course will survey the branch of mathematics developed (in its abstract form) primarily in the twentieth century and referred to variously as functional analysis, linear operators in Hilbert space, and operator algebras, among other names (for instance, more recently, to reflect the rapidly increasing scope of the subject, the phrase non-commutative geometry has been introduced). The intention will be to discuss a number of the topics in Pedersen's textbook Analysis Now. Students will be encouraged to lecture on some of the material, and also to work through some of the exercises in the textbook (or in the suggested reference books).

Prerequisite: 5.0 FCE from MAT, including MAT224H1/MAT247H1 and MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT437H1 - K-Theory and $C^*$ Algebras

Hours: 36L

The course will begin with a description of the method (K-theoretical in spirit) used by Murray and von Neumann to give a rough initial classification of von Neumann algebras (into types I, II, and III). It will centre around the relatively recent use of K-theory to study Bratteli's approximately finite-dimensional  $C^$ -algebras---both to classify them (a result that can be formulated and proved purely algebraically), and to prove that the class of these  $C^$ -algebras---what Bratteli called AF algebras---is closed under passing to extensions (a result that uses the Bott periodicity feature of K-theory). Students will be encouraged to prepare oral or written reports on various subjects related to the course, including basic theory and applications.

Prerequisite: MAT436H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

APM441H1 - Asymptotic and Perturbation Methods

Hours: 36L

Asymptotic series. Asymptotic methods for integrals: stationary phase and steepest descent. Regular perturbations for algebraic and differential equations. Singular perturbation methods for ordinary differential equations: W.K.B., strained co-ordinates, matched asymptotics, multiple scales. (Emphasizes techniques; problems drawn from physics and engineering)

Prerequisite: APM346H1/MAT351Y1, MAT334H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT445H1 - Representation Theory

Hours: 36L

A selection of topics from: Representation theory of finite groups, topological groups and compact groups. Group algebras. Character theory and orthogonality relations. Weyl's character formula for compact semisimple Lie groups. Induced representations. Structure theory and representations of semisimple Lie algebras. Determination of the complex Lie algebras.

Prerequisite: MAT347Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

APM446H1 - Applied Nonlinear Equations

Hours: 36L

Partial differential equations appearing in physics, material sciences, biology, geometry, and engineering. Nonlinear evolution equations. Existence and long-time behaviour of solutions. Existence of static, traveling wave, self-similar, topological and localized solutions. Stability. Formation of singularities and pattern formation. Fixed point theorems, spectral analysis, bifurcation theory. Equations considered in this course may include: Allen-Cahn equation (material science), Ginzburg-Landau equation (condensed matter physics), Cahn-Hilliard (material science, biology), nonlinear Schrödinger equation (quantum and plasma physics, water waves, etc), mean curvature flow (geometry, material sciences), Fisher-Kolmogorov-Petrovskii-Piskunov (combustion theory, biology), Keller-Segel equations (biology), and Chern-Simmons equations (particle and condensed matter physics).

Prerequisite: APM346H1/MAT351Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

MAT448H1 - Introduction to Commutative Algebra and Algebraic Geometry

Hours: 36L

Basic notions of algebraic geometry, with emphasis on commutative algebra or geometry according to the interests of the instructor. Algebraic topics: localization, integral dependence and Hilbert's Nullstellensatz, valuation theory, power series rings and completion, dimension theory. Geometric topics: affine and projective varieties, dimension and intersection theory, curves and surfaces, varieties over the complex numbers. This course will be offered in alternating years.

Prerequisite: MAT347Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT449H1 - Algebraic Curves

Hours: 36L

Projective geometry. Curves and Riemann surfaces. Algebraic methods. Intersection of curves; linear systems; Bezout's theorem. Cubics and elliptic curves. Riemann-Roch theorem. Newton polygon and Puiseux expansion; resolution of singularities. This course will be offered in alternating years.

Prerequisite: MAT347Y1, MAT354H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT454H1 - Complex Analysis II

Hours: 36L

Harmonic functions, Harnack's principle, Poisson's integral formula and Dirichlet's problem. Infinite products and the gamma function. Normal families and the Riemann mapping theorem. Analytic continuation, monodromy theorem and elementary Riemann surfaces. Elliptic functions, the modular function and the little Picard theorem.

Prerequisite: MAT354H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT457H1 - Advanced Real Analysis I

Hours: 36L

Lebesgue measure and integration; convergence theorems, Fubini's theorem, Lebesgue differentiation theorem, abstract measures, Carathéodory theorem, Radon-Nikodym theorem. Hilbert spaces, orthonormal bases, Riesz representation theorem, compact operators,  $L^p$  spaces, Hölder and Minkowski inequalities.

Prerequisite: MAT357H1

Exclusion: MAT457Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT458H1 - Advanced Real Analysis II

Hours: 36L

Fourier series and transform, convergence results, Fourier inversion theorem,  $L^2$  theory, estimates, convolutions. Banach spaces, duals, weak topology, weak compactness, Hahn-Banach theorem, open mapping theorem, uniform boundedness theorem.

Prerequisite: MAT457H1

Exclusion: MAT457Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

APM461H1 - Combinatorial Methods

Hours: 36L

A selection of topics from such areas as graph theory, combinatorial algorithms, enumeration, construction of combinatorial identities.

Prerequisite: MAT224H1/MAT247H1, MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, MAT301H1/MAT347Y1

Recommended Preparation: MAT344H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

APM462H1 - Nonlinear Optimization

Hours: 36L

An introduction to first and second order conditions for finite and infinite dimensional optimization problems with mention of available software. Topics include Lagrange multipliers, Kuhn-Tucker conditions, convexity and calculus variations. Basic numerical search methods and software packages which implement them will be discussed.

Prerequisite: MAT223H1, MAT224H1, MAT235Y1,

Recommended Preparation: MAT336H1/MAT337H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT464H1 - Riemannian Geometry

Hours: 36L

Riemannian metrics. Levi-Civita connection. Geodesics. Exponential map. Second fundamental form. Complete manifolds and Hopf-Rinow theorem. Curvature tensors. Ricci curvature and scalar curvature. Spaces of constant curvature.

Prerequisite: MAT367H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

APM466H1 - Mathematical Theory of Finance

Hours: 36L

Introduction to the basic mathematical techniques in pricing theory and risk management: Stochastic calculus, single-period finance, financial derivatives (tree-approximation and Black-Scholes model for equity derivatives, American derivatives, numerical methods, lattice models for interest-rate derivatives), value at risk, credit risk, portfolio theory.

Prerequisite: APM346H1, STA347H1

Corequisite: STA457H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

MAT475H1 - Problem Solving Seminar

Hours: TBA

This course addresses the question: How do you attack a problem the likes of which you have never seen before? Students will apply Polya's principles of mathematical problem solving, draw upon their previous mathematical knowledge, and explore the creative side of mathematics in solving a variety of interesting problems and explaining those solutions to others.

Prerequisite: MAT224H1/MAT247H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, and at least 1.0 FCE at the 300+ level in APM/MAT

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT477H1 - Seminar in Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Seminar in an advanced topic. Content will generally vary from semester to semester. Student presentations are required.

Prerequisite: MAT347Y1, MAT354H1, MAT357H1; or permission of instructor.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT482H1 - Topics in Mathematics

Hours: 36L

A course in mathematics on a topic outside the current undergraduate offerings. For information on the specific topic to be studied and possible additional prerequisites, go to <http://www.math.toronto.edu/cms/current-students-ug/>

Prerequisite: 6.0 FCE in 100-level, 200-level, and 300-level APM and MAT courses. Possible additional topic-specific prerequisites.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT495H1 - Independent Reading in Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Independent study under the direction of a faculty member. Topic must be outside undergraduate offerings. Workload equivalent to a 36L course. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum GPA of 3.5 in APM and MAT courses. Permission of the Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies and of the prospective supervisor

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

APM496H1 - Independent Readings in Applied Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Independent study under the direction of a faculty member. Topic must be outside current undergraduate offerings. Similar workload to a course that has 36 lecture hours. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: minimum GPA 3.5 for APM and MAT courses.

Permission of the Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies and of the prospective supervisor

Distribution Requirements: Science

MAT496H1 - Independent Reading in Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Independent study under the direction of a faculty member. Topic must be outside undergraduate offerings. Workload equivalent to a 36L course. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum GPA of 3.5 in APM and MAT courses.

Permission of the Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies and of the prospective supervisor.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

MAT497Y1 - Research Project in Mathematics

Hours: TBA

Independent research under the direction of a faculty member. Not eligible for CR/NCR option. Similar workload to a 72L course.

Prerequisite: Minimum GPA of 3.5 in APM and MAT courses.

Permission of the Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies and of the prospective supervisor

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

Introduction

Molecular biology has revolutionized the fields of genetics and microbiology. The Department of Molecular Genetics offers Specialist and Major programs in Molecular Genetics and Microbiology, which emphasize the molecular aspects of both disciplines. Genetics, the science of heredity, and microbiology, the study of microorganisms (microbes), have long served as meeting grounds for a variety of biological disciplines. Developments in genetics and microbiology have contributed greatly to our basic understanding of the fundamental processes of life as well as to the treatment of genetic and infectious diseases.

Of particular significance in molecular genetics has been the development of techniques that permit the isolation, through cloning, of the genes responsible for specific traits, and the detailed analysis of their regulation, interactions, and products. More recently the advent of genome sequencing has fueled efforts to understand in full the information content of the genome and to assign function to every gene, using methods that allow systematic, genome-scale analyses of gene expression, the phenotypic consequences of gene disruption, and the interactions between genes and gene products. Molecular techniques have increased our ability to diagnose and understand viral and bacterial disease, and the complex microbe/host interactions that are involved. The impact of these and other technological advances extend to such diverse fields as plant and animal developmental biology, virology, immunology, cancer biology, and biotechnology. Studies at a molecular level are essential to understanding the consequences to life when fundamental processes are altered by mutation, by infection, or by the environment.

The Molecular Genetics and Microbiology Specialist program is a research-intensive program and is designed to provide strong in-depth training in science, including critical analyses of scientific concepts and literature, advanced laboratory experience, and detailed understanding and application of molecular biology. Specialists enter the program in 2nd year and then choose one of two Streams, called Genetics and Microbiology, by the start of the third year. Each Stream provides focused training, but there is considerable overlap between the streams, reflective of both the cross-disciplinary requirements of these two rapidly evolving disciplines and the impact of each on areas spanning modern biomedical science.

The Molecular Genetics and Microbiology Major program offers students fundamental training in molecular genetics and microbiology. Students tailor their own program and may focus on a microbiology major, a genetic major, or a combination; they choose a path to suit their specific interests. Students take several advanced courses in these disciplines, but the Major allows them to choose the breadth of their training by combining the MGY Major with another Major of interest.

The Department of Molecular Genetics is also a cosponsor of the Major program in Genome Biology, with the Departments of Cell and Systems Biology (CSB), and Ecology and Evolutionary Biology (EEB). See the Biology program listings for details of the Genome Biology Major.

Career opportunities for graduates include employment in research institutes, universities and other educational institutions, and industry. The programs provide excellent preparation for post-graduate research and professional programs.

Molecular Genetics and Microbiology Programs

Molecular Genetics and Microbiology Specialist (Science Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Eligibility will be competitive and based on a student's marks in the 3.0 required first-year courses:

BIO120H1, BIO130H1,
(CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1, and (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT135Y1/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1
with an average of at least 80% on these 3.0 full-course equivalents (FCEs) and a final mark of at least 75% in each course.

While it is difficult to predict what will constitute "competitive" course marks in a given year, based on previous years the estimate is:
course marks = mid 80s; average = mid 80s.

Achieving these estimated marks does not guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

Note: Students must apply to this program on the Arts & Science Faculty Registrar's Office website (see the Arts & Science Program Enrolment web site for application procedures).

At later times, contact the Undergraduate Coordinator.

Completion Requirements:

(14 full courses or their equivalent)

First Year:
BIO120H1, BIO130H1, (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1, (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT135Y1/
MAT137Y1

First or Second Year:
(PHY131H1, PHY132H1)/(PHY151H1, PHY152H1)

Second Year:
BCH242Y1, BIO230H1/BIO255H1, HMB265H1; MGY280H1,
CHM247H1, BIO220H1/STA220H1

Third Year:

Genetics Stream:
1. MGY340H1, MGY350H1, MGY311Y1, MGY314H1, MGY315H1

2. One (0.5 full-course equivalent) from BCH340H1, BCH377H1, MGY360H1, MGY377H1, MGY378H1

Microbiology Stream

1. IMM341H1, IMM351H1, MGY311Y1, MGY377H1, MGY378H1, MGY379Y1

Fourth Year:

Genetics Stream:

1. MGY420H1

plus 2.5 credits from Genetics Lists 1 and 2, distributed as follows:

2. At least 1.5 full-course equivalent must be taken from list

1: MGY425H1, MGY428H1, MGY460H1, MGY470H1

3. Up to 1.0 full-course equivalent may be taken from list 2:

BCH440H1, BCH441H1/CSB472H1, BCH447H1, BCH448H1, EEB460H1, MGY434H1, MGY440H1, MGY480Y1

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Eligibility will be competitive and based on a student's marks in the 3.0 required first-year courses:

BIO120H1, BIO130H1, (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1, and (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT135Y1/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, with an average of at least 70% on these 3.0 full-course equivalents (FCEs) and a final mark of at least 60% in each course.

While it is difficult to predict what will be competitive course marks and average in a given year, based on previous years, the estimate is: course marks = mid 70s; average = mid 70s.

Achieving these estimated marks does not guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

Note: Students must apply to this program on the Arts & Science Faculty Registrar's Office website (see the Arts & Science Program Enrolment web site for application procedures).

At later times, contact the Undergraduate Coordinator.

Molecular Genetics and Microbiology Courses

MGY200H1 - Current Topics in Molecular Genetics and Microbiology

Hours: 24L

Introduction to the modern era of genetics and microbiology, and its impact on human health. Topical biological problems and cutting-edge scientific approaches with examples from world-class Toronto labs. Topics include: combating HIV; emerging and recurring microbial threats; repairing spinal cord injury; cancer biology; power of stem cells; fountain of youth.

Prerequisite: BIO120H1, BIO230H1

Corequisite: BIO260H1/HMB265H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY250H1 - Introduction to Medical Genetics

Hours: 36L

An introduction to medical genetics including the "omics" revolution, stem cells, cancer genetics, finding disease-causing mutations, genetic counselling and gene therapy. The course material is delivered online and is approximately equivalent to 36 lecture hours. Midterm and final exam are taken on campus or at a pre-approved site off-campus.

Prerequisite: BIO120H1, BIO130H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY277H1 - Introduction to Medical Microbiology

Hours: 36L

An online introductory survey course that explores the agents of infectious disease including bacteria, viruses, and parasites as well as the host immune response. Other topics include the fundamentals of disease diagnosis and epidemiology. This course will use web-based delivery of lectures and tutorials and utilize a range of communication tools equivalent to approximately three lectures per week. The final exam will require student attendance on the St. George campus.

Prerequisite: BIO120H1, BIO130H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY280H1 - Second Year Specialist Research

Hours: TBA

This course gives Specialists enrolled in the Molecular Genetics and Microbiology an opportunity to conduct an original research project in the second semester of their second year in one of the active research laboratories in the Department. Laboratory assignments are chosen during the first semester of second year by agreement with a Departmental faculty member and the Undergraduate Coordinator. Attendance at a weekly meeting is mandatory and students will present a report at the end of term. Details can be found on the departmental website. Not eligible for CR/NCR.

Prerequisite: Admission to the Specialist in Molecular Genetics and Microbiology Program. Student cannot have completed more than 8.5 FCE

Exclusion: MGY299Y1 and other ROP299Y1 courses

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

MGY311Y1 - Molecular Biology

Hours: 72L

This course examines the design and interpretation of experiments that have led to our current understanding of the biological roles of DNA, RNA and proteins. Intended for students considering graduate or professional work in molecular biology or a related field or wanting a deeper understanding of these topics.

Prerequisite: BIO120H1, BIO230H1, BCH242Y1 (Note: BCH210H1 is acceptable with permission of instructor)

Exclusion: BCH311H1, CSB349H1, JBC372H5(UTM), PSL350H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY314H1 - Principles of Genetic Analysis I

Hours: 12T/36P

Laboratory experiments in genetics, with the focus on microbial and prokaryotic genetics. Topics and experiments include mutagenesis and genetic selection, linkage and recombination, genetic crosses, gene regulation, suppressor analyses, and genetic mapping.

Prerequisite: BIO230H1, BIO260H1/HMB265H1

Exclusion: MGY312H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY315H1 - Principles of Genetic Analysis II

Hours: 12T/36P

Laboratory experiments in eukaryotic genetics, using two of the most powerful eukaryotic model systems, the yeast Saccharomyces cerevisiae and fruit fly Drosophila melanogaster. The course follows MGY314H1; topics include analysis of genetic networks and pathways, meiotic segregation analysis, recombination mapping, genetic crosses, and phenotypic analyses.

Prerequisite: BIO230H1, BIO260H1/HMB265H1, MGY314H1/MGY340H1

Exclusion: MGY312H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY340H1 - Molecular Genetics

Hours: 36L

This course gives students an in-depth understanding of how genetics, the study of mutations and their resulting phenotypes, are used to probe and understand a variety of biological phenomena ranging from metabolism, to development, to cancer.

Prerequisite: BIO120H1, BIO130H1, BIO220H1, BIO230H1, BIO260H1/HMB265H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY350H1 - Model Organisms to Disease

Hours: 36L

The concepts of genetics in the context of human development, disease and evolution. Topics include genetic interactions and complex traits, variation in disease phenotype, signalling and development, stem cells and epigenetic regulation.

Prerequisite: BIO120H1, BIO230H1, BIO260H1/HMB265H1

Corequisite: BCH311H1/CSB349H1/MGY311Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY360H1 - Whole-Genome Sequencing and Analysis Laboratory

Hours: 36P

The principles and practice of whole-genome sequencing. Each student team will sequence an entire eukaryotic genome and analyze it. Topics will include: modern sequencing technology, yeast husbandry, genomic library construction and quality control, 'next-generation' sequencing, sequence assembly using a reference genome, principles of genome organization, mutation detection and interpretation.

Prerequisite: BIO230H1, BIO260H1/HMB265H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY377H1 - Microbiology I: Bacteria

Hours: 36L

An in depth study of bacteria including their structure, their biology, their ability to adapt, and their effects on human health. Provides a foundation for advanced studies in bacterial physiology, bacterial genetics, molecular pathogenesis of disease, immunology, and environmental studies.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1/BCH242Y1; BIO120H1, BIO230H1

Exclusion: BIO370Y5 (UTM)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY378H1 - Microbiology II: Viruses

Hours: 36L

Detailed study of viruses in terms of structure, classification, replication and interaction with the host. Basis for advanced study in virology. Requires some familiarity with immunology. A concurrent course in immunology (IMM334Y1/335Y1) is recommended.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1/BCH242Y1; BIO120H1, BIO230H1; BIO260H1/HMB265H1

Corequisite: BCH311H1/CSB349H1/MGY311Y1

Exclusion: BIO351Y1, CSB351Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY379Y1 - Microbiology Laboratory

Hours: 24L/72P

Laboratory experiments will teach important concepts and provide students with hands-on experience in working safely with medically-important bacteria and viruses. Analysis of the results will help to develop skills in data analysis. Valuable not only for advanced work in microbiology but also in related fields that make use of bacteria and viruses as research tools. Topics include molecular techniques for identification and characterization of bacteria and viruses, biofilms, antibiotic resistance, site-directed mutagenesis, communication of bacteria with each other and their environment, propagation and assay of viruses, host response to infection, viral vectors.

Prerequisite: BIO120H1, BIO230H1, BIO260H1/HMB265H1

Corequisite: MGY377H1, MGY378H1

Exclusion: MGY376H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY420H1 - Regulation of Gene Expression

Hours: 24L

Regulatory mechanisms controlling gene expression in eukaryotes; students will read, discuss, and present the primary research literature in class. Topics include: assembly of the initiation complex; roles of transcription factors, co-activators and cis-acting regulatory elements; promoter escape; mechanisms that control elongation, termination and anti-termination of transcription; chromatin control of transcription.

Prerequisite: BCH311H1/CSB349H1/MGY311Y1

Exclusion: BIO477H5 (UTM)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY425H1 - Signal Transduction and Cell Cycle Regulation

Hours: 24L

This course presents and integrates molecular aspects of signal transduction and cell cycle regulation in eukaryotic cells from yeast to humans. Emphasis is on recent advances in growth factor receptor signalling, modular protein domains, and the recurrent role of protein phosphorylation and protein-protein interactions in cell regulation.

Prerequisite: BCH311H1/MGY311Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY428H1 - Functional Genomics

Hours: 24L

A broad ranging course that covers many aspects of genomics, which is the discipline of defining and attributing function to all of the heritable material of an organism on a genome-wide scale, as applied to microbes, invertebrates and vertebrates. The primary and review literature will be the basis of all lectures.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1/BCH242Y1; BIO260H1/HMB265H1; MGY311Y1/CSB349H1/BCH311H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY434H1 - Bacterial Signalling and Physiological Regulation

Hours: 36L

An in-depth look at bacteria, their evolution and genomes, and how they sense their environment and adapt to environmental stimuli. Topics discussed include the human microbiome, modern bacterial genomics and metagenomics and how they affect diagnosis and treatment of disease, bacterial community structures including biofilms and quorum sensing, and the contribution of metabolism to disease and stress resistance.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1/BCH242Y1, BCH311H1/CSB349H1/MGY311Y1, MGY377H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY440H1 - Virus-Host Interactions

Hours: 36L

Analysis of virus/host interactions at the molecular level with a view to understanding how viruses cause disease. Course material is based on recent research publications. Topics may include: virus entry and intracellular trafficking, activation of host cell signalling pathways, viral and host determinants of tissue tropism within the host and transmission between hosts.

Prerequisite: BCH311H1/CSB349H1/ MGY311Y1; CSB351Y1/MGY378H1

Recommended Preparation: IMM340H1/IMM341H1, IMM350H1/IMM351H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY460H1 - Genetic Analysis of Development

Hours: 24L

Basic and advanced principles of genetic analysis applied to the study of the best-understood eukaryotic model organisms including the nematode worm Caenorhabditis elegans, the zebrafish, and the laboratory mouse. We emphasize the use of genetic approaches to address problems in cell biology and development, such as the regulation of cell fate and tissue development. Much of the knowledge gained from these experimentally tractable organisms has proven broadly applicable, and the same principles of developmental genetic analysis underlie efforts to understand the development of humans.

Prerequisite: BIO260H1/HMB265H1, MGY311Y1/CSB349H1/BCH311H1

Exclusion: MGY451H1, MGY452H1

Recommended Preparation: MGY340H1, MGY350H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY470H1 - Human and Molecular Genetics

Hours: 24L

Current aspects of human and molecular genetics including: chromosome structure and function, inheritance of mutations and disease, the human genome and disease gene mapping, cancer genetics, mouse disease models and gene based diagnostics and therapies.

Prerequisite: BCH311H1/MGY311Y1 (Note: CSB349H1 is acceptable with permission of the instructor)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MGY480Y1 - Special Research Project

Hours: TBA

An opportunity for specialized individual research in molecular genetics and microbiology by arrangement with the course coordinator. Students are required to perform an original research project and attend relevant research seminars. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: BCH371H1/MGY312H1/MGY314H1/MGY315H1/MGY376H1/MGY379Y1, MGY311Y1/BCH311H1/CSB349H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

MIJ485H1 - Vaccines and Immunity

Hours: 36L

Analysis of the strategies used by pathogenic microbes to evade specific and innate immune responses, and the strategies used to combat infectious disease using vaccines, with an emphasis on molecular and immunological aspects. Special topics include: molecular basis of pathogenicity and immune-evasion strategies; vaccination strategies; challenges to vaccine implementation (given jointly by the Departments of Molecular Genetics and Immunology).

Prerequisite: IMM350H1/IMM351H1 (IMM334Y1/IMM335Y1), MGY377H1, MGY378H1

Exclusion: MBY480H1, MGY485H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

Introduction

Munk One, provided by the Munk School of Global Affairs, provides first-year students with an interdisciplinary program focused on innovation and global problem-solving, investigating the central questions that lie at the heart of teaching and research in the Munk School of Global Affairs, namely issues of global institutions, markets and civil society. Through case studies of some of the most complex challenges worldwide, students in Munk One will examine innovations that have succeeded and failed, when innovation occurs, how innovation can be fostered, and how obstacles to innovation can be overcome. Students, faculty members, and practitioners working together draw on the breadth of interdisciplinary research and teaching in the Munk School to examine problems and solutions for complex global problems.

The Munk One experience integrates small group seminars with hands-on research and analysis of global problems. Limited to an enrolment of 25, students in Munk One enroll in the two (2.0 FCE) courses offered in the Program. The seminar courses promote small-group discussion and emphasize research, analytical, and presentation skills. A lab course gives students the unique opportunity to tackle real-world problems with faculty and graduate students, building connections with their coursework through research-based opportunities that identify problems around the globe and seek to address them through innovative and empirically-grounded solutions. Beyond the classroom, Munk One engages students in the dynamic global conversation occurring in the Munk School, and offers students a vast array of co-curricular offerings such as access to the Munk School's 500 events each year, insights from leading practitioners, field visits, leadership events, curated readings and films. In the summer following their first year, Munk One offers students opportunities to apply these skills in the field by taking part in courses offered in places like Argentina, Israel and Singapore.

By focusing on innovation throughout their foundational year, undergraduate students will receive early immersion in leading thinking on the current global architecture across the sciences, professional fields, humanities, and with perspectives drawn from around the world. Because of the intensive intellectual experience that Munk One will provide, we deliver these offerings through collaboration with the School's flagship Master of Global Affairs Program. The result is a unique bridging of foundational year undergraduate education with the insights being developed in the School's professional graduate program. In so doing, we expect that Munk One: Global Innovation will build a community of undergraduate students who are passionate about the increasingly interconnected and multipolar world in which we live, and who are also linked in closely with the graduate and professional student cohorts pursuing related questions across the Munk School.

The course offerings for Munk One are specifically designed to meet these goals. Global Innovation I: Issues and Perspectives emphasizes innovation as a key driver of economic growth, population health, and societal success. Relying on contemporary and historical cases across the globe, this course engages students on the question of when innovation occurs, how to identify moments of innovation, motivates students to explore who benefits from innovation and how innovation can be fostered. Global Innovation II: Challenges and Solutions, pushes students to explore the potential problems that often limit or hamper innovation – such as the challenges of implementation and scale. In so doing, students engage directly with the problem-solving approach that is also core to the Munk School's graduate program, by relying on case studies of some of the most complex challenges worldwide, and examining interventions that have succeeded and failed to address them.

As identified above, in addition to seminar courses and co-curricular activities, students in Munk One will each be placed in research labs working on real-world global problems, such as digital governance, environment, global health, ethnic conflict and security, and economic development. Through these laboratory opportunities students will work with interdisciplinary teams to conduct research, develop reports, participate in roundtables, and learn how to identify and address complex global problems. These labs uniquely provide students a platform to draw from and refine their Foundational Year experience. Students will gain experience in a structured multidisciplinary approach to addressing global problems, engage in innovative global problem-solving, and drill down on substantive areas of interest within the field of global affairs.

Munk One students intending to pursue Peace, Conflict and Justice or Contemporary Asian Studies programs (undergraduate programs run through the Munk School of Global Affairs), are also eligible to count some of their Munk One coursework toward their degree requirements.

All first-year students in the faculty of Arts and Science (St. George campus) are eligible for admission. Students must submit an online application with a resume and personal statement.

Munk One Courses

MUN101H1 - Global Innovation I: Issues and Perspectives

Hours: 24L

Innovation has always been a key driver of economic growth, population health, and societal success. Transformative change has historically been linked to major innovations such as urban sanitation, pasteurization, the printing press and the industrial revolution. Currently, the opportunity to enhance life chances worldwide relies on innovating for the poor, social innovation, and the ability to harness scientific and technological knowledge. What precisely is innovation? When does innovation happen? Who benefits from innovation? How can innovation be fostered, and how do innovations spread? Relying on major global transformations and country-specific case studies (for example, South Korea, Taiwan, Israel and India), this course examines the drivers of innovation, the political, social, economic, and scientific and technological factors that are critical to promoting innovation and addressing current global challenges, and the consequences of innovation. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Admission to Munk One

Exclusion: Innis One, New One, St. Mike's One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

MUN102H1 - Global Innovation II: Challenges and Solutions

Hours: 24L

Governing public goods has been an age-old concern for social scientists and policymakers alike. This is not surprising since the provision of global public goods is riddled by problems of collective action. In this course, we focus on how to implement solutions through states, markets and communities.

The first objective is to familiarize students with the concept of global public goods, the different mechanisms that can provide these goods and the challenges that emerge from lacking incentives to secure their provision. To this end, the course will introduce theories from sociology, political science, philosophy, and history to help us understand different types of governance mechanisms and how they may be used to scale global solutions. Theories can help us explain the tensions between cooperating for the public good at the expense of sacrificing individual goals, or why certain areas of our lives, like the Internet, seem to produce public goods without any formal mechanism of cooperation.

The second objective is to use the class and subject of study as an arena to model and practice the kind of learning that is expected of university students. The main skills that the course will help students target and develop are: research (finding, evaluating and assimilating reliable information); writing (developing ideas into logically written arguments); and critical analysis of arguments presented in the readings and debated in class (this includes identifying the key assumptions that are implicit in different theories as well as inherent in our own positions on various questions related to governance). Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Admission to Munk One

Exclusion: Innis One, New One, St. Mike's One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

MUN105Y1 - Global Problem-Solving: Laboratory Opportunities

Hours: 48L

This course teaches students how to conduct analytically rigorous social science research to improve their insights into complex global problems and devise innovative solutions to address them. A unique feature of this class is that students have the opportunity to learn by doing. Students work hands-on in one of several labs dealing with some of the most intractable global problems of our time in the areas of the environment, health, digital governance, security and the gap between rich and poor. By the end of this course students will be able to:

Experience and practice the process of social science research
Narrow the scope of a complex global challenge into a manageable research problem that can be tackled over the course of the semester

Improve their knowledge and insights on a particular global problem
Develop a viable, compelling and implementable solution that can help address an aspect of a global problem

Pitch a solution in a compelling way to a jury of experts in global affairs

Students will work with their peers in small seminar classes and lab group settings, mentored by graduate teaching assistants specializing in global affairs, expert faculty and senior policy advisors dedicated to addressing global issues in the fields of the environment, health, security, digital governance and political economy. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Admission to Munk One

Exclusion: Exclusion: Innis One, New One, St. Mike's One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Introduction

In the Faculty of Arts and Science, Music is approached as one of the liberal arts and taught as cultural history. This humanistic emphasis aims at a high degree of correlation with other disciplines such as Fine Art, Cultural Anthropology, Languages and Literatures, History, and Philosophy. Note that unlike students in the Mus.Bac. program at the Faculty of Music, students in the Specialist and Major programs are not given individual applied music instruction (e.g. piano or voice lessons). They are, however, offered a thorough grounding in musicology, and strong training in both ethnomusicology and music theory, with the option of increasing their exposure to the latter two disciplines via their upper-year option courses.

The courses with the prefix MUS are open to any student of the University. Even students with a strong music background should find them stimulating explorations of the world of music.

Students wishing to enter the Specialist or Major Program should examine the courses listed under HMU History of Music and TMU Theory of Music in the Faculty of Music Calendar. First-year specialist/major courses are available to a small number of students, who are admitted to them by audition and interview during Registration week. Those interested in ethnomusicology and the study of world music may audition on the basis of their comparable accomplishments in a non-Western instrumental or vocal performing tradition. All students are required to have completed Level 8 Theory (formerly Advanced Rudiments) from the Royal Conservatory of Music or acceptable equivalent as prerequisite, prior to the audition-interview. Knowledge of Western music history and theory ensures that students are not disadvantaged when facing the curricular requirements of the program. In this program the humanistic and historical approach is supported by courses in music theory which provide craft and analytical tools. The Specialist Program provides excellent preparation for a variety of professional activities including music criticism, library science, positions in the publishing, broadcasting, and recording industries, as well as for graduate studies in musicology, ethnomusicology, and music theory, leading to careers in university teaching. The program leads to the degree of Bachelor of Arts (honours). For programs leading to the degree of Bachelor of Music, the student should consult the Calendar of the Faculty of Music.

Students are encouraged to attend events sponsored by the Faculty of Music such as the Thursday Noon and Faculty Artists' Series, opera productions and numerous concerts. For information refer to www.music.utoronto.ca or telephone 416-978-3744.

Regarding Music Programs

Enrolment in HMU and TMU courses, and, therefore, in the Specialist and Major programs, is limited to students who pass the audition-interview, held on September 5, 2017. Students are required to complete and submit the Student Profile available on-line at www.music.utoronto.ca prior to August 18, 2017. Hard copies are available from the Faculty of Music Registrar's Office. You will then be assigned an audition time. Prospective candidates must perform at the Royal Conservatory of Music Grade Eight level, and demonstrate that they have RCM Advanced Rudiments (formerly Grade Two Rudiments) and RCM Basic Harmony (formerly Grade Three Harmony) or equivalents. Students interested in pursuing the Major or Specialist with the Ensemble option are required to pass an additional audition-interview for ensemble placement. Please refer to MUS120Y1. An information sheet is available at the Faculty of Music and online at www.music.utoronto.ca under "Music for Arts & Science Students". (Note: No audition is required for the Music Minor program, see below.)

Regarding Music Courses

HMU and TMU Courses

HMU111H1, TMU115H1, and TMU140Y1 are Prerequisites for all other HMU/TMU courses which are offered annually. Full details on these, and other HMU/TMU courses may be found in the Calendar of the Faculty of Music. (The link can be found here: <https://music.utoronto.ca/#students>.)

HMU111H, TMU115H1, and TMU140Y1, for the purposes of an Arts & Science degree, are considered category 1 (Creative and Cultural Representations) for breadth requirements, and are considered as Humanities courses for distribution requirements.

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Introduction

The Department of Near and Middle Eastern Civilizations is concerned with the interdisciplinary study of the civilizations and cultures of the Near and Middle East from Neolithic times until the present, including their archaeology, history, mythology, religion and thought, art and architecture, and languages and literatures (Akkadian, Babylonian, Sumerian, ancient Egyptian, Coptic, Aramaic, Syriac, Hebrew, Arabic, Ge'ez, Persian and Turkish). The Department's programs provide students with a unique opportunity to study non-Western complex societies and civilizations.

The Near East is generally understood to refer to the region at the eastern end of the Mediterranean and beyond, from ancient times up to the advent of Islam in the seventh century CE. The Middle East begins with the advent of Islam and refers to a much broader geographical area whose predominant Islamic culture in medieval and modern times has stretched to North Africa and Spain in the west and to Central Asia, India, and Southeast Asia in the east. p

The Department welcomes students of all academic backgrounds who wish to learn about the Near and Middle East. NMC101H1, NMC102H1 and NMC104H1 introduce students to the ancient Near East, including ancient Egypt, Mesopotamia, and Israel, while NMC103H1 introduces students to the Islamic world. Students pursuing a Specialist or Major program are required to take two of these Gateway courses and are given the option to enrol in one of four streams: an open stream, an ancient stream, a medieval stream, or a modern stream.

Many courses offered in the Department do not require any knowledge of the languages of the region. However, the Department strongly believes that a deeper understanding of the civilizations and cultures of the Near and Middle East can be achieved through the study of one or more of its languages. In fact, admission to a graduate program in NMC requires the applicant to have acquired a background in the relevant languages. For more detailed information about programs and courses offered in a particular year, students should consult the Department's web site: www.nmc.utoronto.ca.

Undergraduate Enquiries should be directed to the Undergraduate Co-ordinator, 4 Bancroft Avenue, Room 200 (nmc.ug@utoronto.ca)

Faculty of Arts & Science Language Citation

The Department of Near & Middle Eastern Civilizations participates in the Faculty of Arts & Science's Language Citation initiative.

The study of Ancient languages is a demanding and intellectually rewarding educational experience that makes available to the modern student the rich resources of classical texts in the original languages. The "living" languages offered by NMC provide invaluable insights into the varieties of human culture and expression and offer myriad directions in which to take the study of a foreign language.

Successful study of these languages demonstrates intelligence, discipline, analytical sophistication, and an excellent memory. In each language the Language Citation recognizes a significant level of achievement in language study with a high level of academic success.

For details on the languages available for Citation and detailed requirements, contact the department directly.

Students should note that the Language Citation is not equivalent to an academic program and that enrolment in a program is not necessary in order to earn the recognition bestowed by the Citation.

Regarding Near and Middle Eastern Civilizations Courses

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Gateway Courses

These courses are designed to introduce students to the major civilizations and cultures of the Near and Middle East, ancient, medieval, and modern, and to present students with the range of possibilities for further study in their chosen areas of interest.

Language Courses

The Department reserves the right to place students in the course level best suited to their linguistic preparation.

Hours: 24S

This course probes the contemporaneous formation of modern Oriental Studies in Europe and the emergence of discourses on Europe (Ifrañj/Farang) in the Middle East from the eighteenth century to the present. Special emphasis will be devoted to encounters between scholars in Western Europe, Iran, India, and the Ottoman Empire. This seminar-style course explains that Orientals gazed and returned the gaze, and in the process of cultural looking, they, like their Occidental counterparts, exoticized and eroticized the Farangi-Other. In the interplay of looks between Orientals and Occidentals, there was no steady position of spectatorship, no objective observer, and no aperspectival position. Intended for upper year students.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NMC476H1 - Politics of Archaeology in the Modern Middle East

Hours: 24S

This course examines the role nineteenth and twentieth-century archaeology played in Middle Eastern politics, the culture of colonialism and in nationalist struggles. The course will first familiarize the students with the diplomatic and intellectual context of the formation of archaeology as a field of study in Europe and analyse the role archaeology played in the production of knowledge about the Middle East. Next, the course will examine the archaeological practices on the ground (and underground) and inquire what happens in the contact zone between foreign and local archaeologists. Finally, we will trace the ways in which emergent nationalist discourse challenge, appropriate and imitate the historical narratives of Western archaeology.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor is required.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NMC491H1 - Mesopotamian Material Culture: Art

Hours: 24S

This course focuses on a comprehensive introduction and discussion of Mesopotamian artwork from the Neolithic to the Iron Age periods (ca. 6000 - 300 BCE). Following an introduction of major artifact classes (including sculpture, relief, and glyptics [seals and sealings]), students will learn to describe and catalogue works of Mesopotamian art, allowing them to critically use and evaluate primary and secondary publications. Systematic descriptions and labels for key characteristics such as the object materials, size, iconography, genre, style, and theme will be established to show how meaningful artifact typologies can be constructed. The potential as well as limitations of art-historical approaches for archaeological work, especially for the chronology and interpretation of archeological contexts, will be discussed and examined on selected cases. Several classes will be taught at the Royal Ontario Museum to demonstrate the handling and physical analysis of artifacts.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

Introduction

New College courses have in common a commitment to socially engaged learning and to explorative and inventive pedagogy that widens students' experience by critically examining relationships among academic disciplines. We offer four degree programs: African Studies; Buddhism, Psychology and Mental Health; Caribbean Studies; and Equity Studies. These programs are open to all students in the Faculty of Arts and Science.

We also offer interdisciplinary courses that can enhance any degree program. Integration of student experience is a major priority in a college with students from all faculties in the University. The Independent Studies courses provide an opportunity for students to design their own programs and to test their research, analytic, synthetic, and creative skills by writing a major research paper. The Community Engaged Learning program supports course-based service learning and independent community engaged learning opportunities. These allow students to integrate their theoretical knowledge with practical experience, while engaging in meaningful work in campus and community organizations.

New One: Learning Without Borders

We are connected in our daily lives to other people, places and communities, locally and across borders, by things we tend to take for granted - food, language, digital technology and community. But just as they connect us, these familiar elements of our lives also divide us, disadvantaging some while privileging others.

New One gives students the tools to think deeply, critically, and creatively about these topics and what they can teach us about the ways our lives are connected "beyond borders." Inspired by the social advocacy focus of New College's academic programs, the program grapples with the core question: how do we imagine responsible global citizenship and build a more equitable and just society?

New One offers up to eight interdisciplinary small-class seminars annually. In the first semester, students accepted into the program select one out of four half-credit courses that introduce key concepts and analytic frameworks in the scholarly study of food, language, digital technology, community art or another current issue. In the half courses offered in the second semester, students have the opportunity to deepen their understanding of contemporary questions that arise within each of the four topics. Students may select any one of the four second semester courses on offer, either continuing the same theme from first semester or exploring a new course topic.

New One courses meet for 3 hours each week. A portion of those sessions will occasionally be allocated to "Learning Labs." All students in the program come together in these Learning Labs to engage in joint activities and explore issues that are common to the four topics. Both in seminars and Learning Labs, students will experience a variety of ways of learning (through, for example, guest lectures, group work, workshops, field trips to local community organizations, and panels of senior students sharing their experience and insights).

New One provides first year students with a comprehensive foundation for successful undergraduate study. It encourages active, engaged learning and creative forms of inquiry, and supports students in developing their research, writing and oral communication abilities. In the second semester particularly, students will practice and develop skills in research and knowledge presentation, showcasing their projects at the annual end-of-year "Knowledge Fair."

New One requires a specific application. All first-year students in the Faculty of Arts and Science on the St. George campus are eligible for admission. Students can apply to more than one College One program; they can accept admission to only one program. For more information about the program, application process and criteria of selection, go to

The African Studies Program

(Specialist, Major, Minor) How has the evolution of societies on the African continent been integral to universal human history? What factors, in the past and in our time, account for similarities and differences among African societies? How are patterns and challenges of development in African societies shaped by their location within the global political economy? How do representations of Africa in popular media influence our knowledge of African societies? What are the ethical dilemmas of the various ways in which we engage with African societies? African Studies provides students opportunities to study the complexity and dynamism of African societies through interdisciplinary lenses. Cutting across disciplines, the program offers a path to exploring how the organization of African societies has and continues to be shaped by the complex interaction of global and regionally-specific forces and processes. The curriculum has three areas of emphasis: dynamics and challenges of socio-economic and political transformations in Africa's "modern era"; social and political thought of Africa and its diasporas in Europe, North America and elsewhere; and African popular cultures.

The Buddhism, Psychology and Mental Health Program

(Minor) An interdisciplinary Minor program, BPMH focuses on the growing convergence between western psychology and the psychological aspects of Buddhism as expressed in the recent interest in mindfulness meditation as a means of enhancing health and wellness. The program allows students to investigate the diverse ways that Buddhist and western psychology and science intersect, bringing together academic, clinical and contemplative traditions. Students choose from a wide range of courses on mind, consciousness, mindfulness meditation, social implications and applications of Buddhism, cognitive science, psychotherapy and the psychology of religion. The program encourages a critical examination of the ways that Buddhist psychology can contribute to the modern understanding of consciousness, wisdom, mental health and physical health.

The Caribbean Studies Program

(Specialist, Major, Minor) Caribbean Studies is an interdisciplinary undergraduate program that consists of courses on Caribbean history and society, politics and economic development, literature and thought. Our courses deal with a wide range of issues including gender, religion, culture, ethnicity, race, development, language, colonialism, the environment and regional common markets. Caribbean Studies equips students to think about broad, theoretical and challenging intellectual issues and, at the same time, to ground that expansive thinking in deep understanding of the particular historical, political, economic, geographical, cultural and linguistic realities of the Caribbean and its diasporas. This combined interdisciplinary and area studies approach prepares students to think across disciplines about these kinds of questions, and to base their comparative, transnational and interdisciplinary thinking in concrete knowledge of the Caribbean and its people. The study of the Caribbean equips students to question the order of things, reflect on their own place in the world, and see past the Caribbean's size or current level of geo-political influence to recognize the inherent value and intellectual significance of all places and all people.

The Equity Studies Program

(Major, Minor) How do we think about social justice in an increasingly globalized world? Equity Studies is an interdisciplinary undergraduate program that focuses on social justice theories and practices in a variety of local and global contexts. Cutting across a spectrum of academic disciplines, the program brings together scholarship, community work and activism in a unique approach to undergraduate education that values student experiential learning and community knowledge. Through engagement with theoretical and historical texts in equity, students are trained in postcolonial studies, transnational feminism, critical race theory, queer studies and other bodies of knowledge that have much to say about social justice. Course offerings in disability studies, global food equity and social advocacy equip students with the skills to apply their academic learning to real-life situations. By defining 'education' in the broadest sense, Equity Studies creates a dynamic learning environment that extends far beyond the university walls. With a vibrant student body, a wide range of community partners and a bold curriculum, Equity Studies at New College is a leader in social justice education in Canada.

Community Engaged Learning (CEL)

New College offers several community engaged courses. These provide students the opportunity to integrate academic, experiential and practice-based learning as they participate in meaningful work in community or campus organizations.

Two forms of community engaged learning courses are offered: embedded and independent. In the former, a community service component is either a mandatory or optional component of the course syllabus. (Examples of such courses are NEW342H1 and NEW232Y1). In the independent community engaged learning courses, upper level students, with various academic backgrounds, are placed with a social purpose community or campus-based organization for several hours per week, contributing to the mission of that organization in program support work or research. Through seminar discussions and critical reflection on their experiences, students learn how to mobilize their academic knowledge, deepen their appreciation of community engagement and social justice, explore social and ethical issues, and build professional dispositions and work-place skills relevant to the social sector.

Information about CEL can be found at <http://www.newcollege.utoronto.ca/academics/new-college-academic-programs/community-engaged-learning>.

Independent Studies

New College Independent Study courses are designed both to complement regular offerings in New College Programs and to provide an opportunity for New College students in any program to enrich their studies. The normal expectation of a project course is that the student, aided and advised by their supervisor, will read relevant literature, and plan, analyze and report on an original and independent investigation of an appropriate topic. Written applications, including a detailed proposal, should be made through the Programs Office for approval by the Vice Principal of New College or a designate by April 15 for the Summer Session; by July 15 for the Fall Term; or by November 15 for the Winter Term. Should the deadline fall on a weekend, applications will be accepted until the following Monday. Students will be notified of the acceptance or rejection of an application. If the project requires ethics approval, please be advised that you should find and consult with a supervisor about meeting this requirement at least a semester in advance of these deadlines. For more information and application forms, please see the Independent Studies website: <http://www.newcollege.utoronto.ca/new-college-academic-programs/independent-studies>.

Enquiries: New College Program Administrator - Wetmore Hall, room 133; nc.undergradadmin@utoronto.ca or 416-978-5404.

Interdisciplinary Courses on Jungian Theory

This suite of courses offers students opportunities for sustained, interdisciplinary engagement with the thought of Carl Jung. Courses invite students to consider Jung's thought and practice in relation to a range of disciplinary and cultural issues in order to open up conversations about models of consciousness and mind.

The International Foundation Program

is designed for international students who need to meet the University's English language requirement. Students will acquire the academic and language skills necessary for full admission to undergraduate studies. Core courses include one first year history credit course (IFP100Y1), three non-credit language courses and one non-credit discipline-specific course. Courses are open only to students admitted to the program. For program and admission information, please see <http://www.ifp.utoronto.ca>.

The Human Biology Programs

offer a broad education in life sciences with courses offered by departments in both the Faculties of Arts and Science, and Medicine (see Human Biology section of the Calendar.)

The Women and Gender Studies Program

(Specialist, Major, Minor) provides an interdisciplinary and culturally inclusive approach to understanding gender (see Women and Gender Studies section of the Calendar.)

New College Courses

New One: Learning Without Borders

NEW101H1 - Food Matters I

Hours: 12L/24S

Exploring key themes and different kinds of knowledge implied by the notion of "learning without borders", this interdisciplinary course looks at food as a system that impacts every element of life. It makes connections with other New One topics, links students' own food choices to global forces, and considers what global citizenship might mean in the context of food.

Prerequisite: Admission to New One

Exclusion: INI/Munk/SMC/TRN/UNI/VIC/WDW One; NEW102H1/NEW103H1/NEW104H1/NEW105H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW102H1 - Travelling Words: Language and Diversity I

Hours: 12L/24S

Exploring key themes and different kinds of knowledge implied by the notion of "learning without borders", this interdisciplinary course looks at the place of language in connecting and dividing people, places and communities. Defining language broadly, it makes connections with other New One topics, and explores students' own language experience in relation to global forces.

Prerequisite: Admission to New One

Exclusion: INI/Munk/SMC/TRN/UNI/VIC/WDW One; NEW101H1/NEW103H1/NEW104H1/NEW105H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW103H1 - Digital Technology and Society I

Hours: 12L/24S

Exploring key themes and different kinds of knowledge implied by the notion of "learning without borders", this interdisciplinary course considers how digital technology connects us to others around the globe, shaping how we live, think, see, relate and imagine in the world. It makes connections with other New One topics, and engages students' own experience of digital technology.

Prerequisite: Admission to New One

Exclusion: INI/Munk/SMC/TRN/UNI/VIC/WDW One; NEW101H1/NEW102H1/NEW104H1/NEW105H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW104H1 - Art and Community I

Hours: 12L/24S

Exploring key themes and different kinds of knowledge implied by the notion of "learning without borders", this interdisciplinary course explores the concepts of home and belonging and how art is involved in creating a sense of community. It makes connections with other New One topics, and engages students in their own social interactive artistic practice.

Prerequisite: Admission to New One

Exclusion: INI/Munk/SMC/TRN/UNI/VIC/WDW One; NEW101H1/NEW102H1/NEW103H1/NEW105H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

NEW105H1 - Current Issues Without Borders I

Hours: 12L/24S

This interdisciplinary course addresses a current issue that exemplifies the themes of "Learning Without Borders" in New One. It investigates how this issue is implicated in connecting us with others around the globe; it engages different kinds of knowledge and community perspectives; and integrates students' own experience as related to the issue.

Prerequisite: Admission into New One

Exclusion: INI/Munk/SMC/TRN/UNI/VIC/WDW One; NEW101H1/NEW102H1/NEW103H1/NEW104H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW111H1 - Food Matters II

Hours: 12L/24S

What is at stake in achieving ethical food production, access to nutritious and environmentally sustainable food, and global food security? Building on integrated learning from any New One I course, this course engages more deeply with such questions, along with community-led alternatives to dominant food systems, animal rights, biotechnology, and health and wellness.

Prerequisite: NEW101H1/NEW102H1/NEW103H1/NEW104H1/NEW105H1/Permission of the New One Coordinator

Exclusion: INI/Munk/SMC/TRN/UNI/VIC/WDW One; NEW112H1/NEW113H1/NEW114H1/NEW115H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW112H1 - Travelling Words: Language and Diversity II

Hours: 12L/24S

Building on the integrated learning from any New One I course, this course considers various language issues that arise as people migrate around the globe, including the relationship of language and culture, the question of language preservation, the politics of minority and global languages, language policy and norms, disability and diverse ways of communicating.

Prerequisite: NEW101H1/NEW102H1/NEW103H1/NEW104H1/NEW105H1/Permission of the New One Coordinator

Exclusion: INI/Munk/SMC/TRN/UNI/VIC/WDW One; NEW111H1/NEW113H1/NEW114H1/NEW115H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW113H1 - Digital Technology and Society II

Hours: 12L/24S

Building on the integrated learning from any New One I course, this course explores the historical development and social implications of digital technology including such questions as the effects of increased surveillance on notions of privacy, open access and control over knowledge, new media and social activism, and the potential of media arts, biometrics and digitizing healthcare.

Exclusion: INI/Munk/SMC/TRN/UNI/VIC/WDW One; NEW111H1/NEW112H1/NEW114H1/NEW115H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW114H1 - Art and Community II

Hours: 12L/24S

Building on the integrated learning from any New One I course, through various art forms and research tools such as mapping, walking, and listening, this course explores the layered historical, cultural, and social landscapes of the city, including processes of inclusion and exclusion, as well as ways in which art might intervene to effect positive social change.

Prerequisite: NEW101H1/NEW102H1/NEW103H1/NEW104H1/NEW105H1/Permission of the New One Coordinator

Exclusion: INI/Munk/SMC/TRN/UNI/VIC/WDW One; NEW111H1/NEW112H1/NEW113H1/NEW115H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

NEW115H1 - Current Issues Without Borders II

Hours: 12L/24S

Building on the integrated learning from any New One I course, this course explores, in more depth, the social and ethical implications of a current issue exemplifying the themes of "Learning without Borders." Normally, this course would address the same current issues as offered in NEW105H1 in the preceding term. The course also considers examples of policy and community organizing responses.

Exclusion: INI/Munk/SMC/TRN/UNI/VIC/WDW One; NEW111H1/NEW112H1/NEW113H1/114H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

African Studies Courses

JNH350H1 - AIDS : Challenges and Successes (formerly NEW350H1)

Hours: 24L

Explores the pandemic of AIDS in Africa through a social science lens. (Given by Human Biology and New College)

Exclusion: NEW350H1

Recommended Preparation: NEW150Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Science; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

JQR360H1 - The Canadian Census: Populations, Migrations and Demographics

Hours: 24L/12T

Examines the Canadian population census through the experience of diasporic groups in Canada. Approaches the census as a statistical tool, an historical source and an ideological project of citizenship and nationalism. Uses census data to explore mathematical and statistical concepts and to integrate numerical ways of thinking with qualitative analysis. (Jointly sponsored by African Studies, Diaspora and Transnational Studies, Caribbean Studies, Equity Studies and Latin American Studies).

Prerequisite: DTS200Y1/HIS230H1/HIS231H1/LAS200H1/LAS201H1/NEW120Y1/NEW150Y1/NEW220H1/NEW221H1/NEW224Y1/NEW225H1/NEW226H1/NEW240Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW150Y1 - Introduction to African Studies

A multi-disciplinary study of Africa, emphasizing inquiry and critical analysis. Pre-colonial, colonial and contemporary African history, anthropology, politics, African humanism and society, religion, art, music, race, resistance, gender and Pan-Africanism.

Exclusion: AFSA01H3

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW250Y1 - Africa in the 21st Century: Challenges and Opportunities

Hours: 48L

A critical examination of Africa as a living space rather than merely a site of intellectual speculation and study. Uses scholarly and popular literature to explore the issues that engage the attention of ordinary Africans, ranging from the dramatic to the seemingly trivial, as they struggle to fashion meaningful lives in fast-changing societies. Topics include urban transition and city life; economic, political and cultural impacts of globalization; new religious movements and changing conceptions of selfhood; new African diasporas in the West; dynamics of gender relations, kinships and identities; and the politics of liberalization. Materials studied will include print and electronic news media and other mass media resources from Africa and across the world.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1); Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW280Y1 - Introductory Swahili

Hours: 24L/72T

Introduction to grammar and basic vocabulary of Swahili. Emphasis on comprehension and oral practice. Reading of selected texts. Relation of the language to its East African cultural context.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

NEW322H1 - The Contemporary African Novel (formerly NEW322Y1)

Hours: 24S

Novels written in the last forty years by English, French and Portuguese-speaking Africans. Ideological views concerning colonialism and neo-colonialism. Tradition, religious and secular; the use of African symbolism. A small number of historical and sociological texts are recommended as essential background reading. Works not written in English are read in translation. (Offered in alternate years)

Exclusion: NEW322Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

NEW351Y1 - African Systems of Thought (formerly NEW252Y1)

Hours: 48L

The exploration of a range of African cosmologies, epistemologies, and theologies, as well as specific case studies on justice, the moral order, and gender relations. The influence of these richly diverse traditions is traced as well in the writings of African thinkers in the Diaspora.

Exclusion: NEW252Y1, JAP256H1/JAP356H1

Recommended Preparation: NEW150Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3); Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

NEW352H1 - International Organizations, NGOs, Development and Change in Africa

Hours: 24L

Critically explores the role of international organizations such as the World Bank Group, the UN and NGOs in the economic development of Africa.

Prerequisite: NEW150Y1/NEW250Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW353H1 - International Relations of Africa

Hours: 24L

Explores inter-state relations in Africa, African states' relations with the West, China, India, Brazil, and international political, economic and financial institutions.

Prerequisite: NEW150Y1/NEW250Y1

Exclusion: POLC80H3

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW357H1 - Special Topics in African Studies

Hours: 24L

An upper level course. Topics of study vary from year to year.

Prerequisite: NEW150Y1/NEW250Y1

NEW358H1 - Special Topics in African Studies

Hours: 24L

An upper level course. Topics of study vary from year to year.

Prerequisite: NEW150Y1/NEW250Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

NEW380Y1 - Intermediate Swahili

Hours: 24L/72T

Grammar and syntax. Conversation and written composition. Reading of texts: literary, journalistic. Relation of the language to its East African context.

Prerequisite: NEW280Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

NEW450Y1 - Advanced Topics in African Studies

Hours: 24S

A required course for all Specialists and Majors in the African Studies Program, enrolment is restricted to students enrolled in the program in their final year of study. The seminar is taught by the core faculty in the African Studies Program and is designed to build upon the accumulated knowledge of students and the interdisciplinary nature of the program. Topics vary from year to year.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

NEW451H1 - Special Topics in African Studies

Hours: 24L

An upper level course. Topics of study vary from year to year.

Prerequisite: NEW150Y1/NEW250Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

NEW453H1 - Language and Postcolonial Education in East Africa

Hours: 24S

Examines the choice of languages for education in East Africa using critical perspectives. Pays particular attention to the influences of the historical experience of colonialism, the socio-linguistic contours of each country and the strength of linguistic and educational lobby groups in East African countries.

Prerequisite: NEW150Y1/NEW250Y1

Exclusion: NEW453Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

NEW453Y1 - Language and Postcolonial Education in East Africa

Hours: 48S

Examines the choice of languages for education in East Africa using critical perspectives. Pays particular attention to the influences of the historical experience of colonialism, the socio-linguistic contours of each country and the strength of linguistic and educational lobby groups in East African countries.

Prerequisite: NEW150Y1/NEW250Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1); Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW454H1 - Migration, Mobility, and Displacement in Contemporary Africa

Hours: 24S

Why do people move voluntarily or involuntarily? What are the causes and consequences of migration and displacement in Africa? This course critically examines the multifaceted dimensions of migration, mobility, and displacement, with a specific focus on communities and populations displaced by war, environmental destruction and disaster, economic failings, and the quest for economic opportunities, love, education, or individual freedom.

Prerequisite: NEW150Y1/NEW250Y1 or permission of the instructor.

Exclusion: NEW451H1 (Fall 2016)

Recommended Preparation: JQR360H1/NEW351Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW459H1 - Advanced Special Topics in African Studies

Hours: 24L

An upper-level course. Topics of study vary from year to year.

Prerequisite: NEW150Y1/NEW250Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Buddhism, Psychology and Mental Health Courses

NEW214H1 - Socially Engaged Buddhism (formerly NEW214Y1)

Hours: 24L

A comprehensive survey of socially engaged Buddhism. Particular focus on contemporary movements in Vietnam, Tibet, China & Taiwan, Sri Lanka, Thailand, and India. The role of women in Buddhism.

Exclusion: NEW214Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW214Y1 - Socially Engaged Buddhism

Hours: 48L

Comprehensively surveys Engaged Buddhism, which applies traditional Buddhist spiritual, ethical, and social teachings to improve society, focusing on contemporary movements in Vietnam, Tibet, China & Taiwan, Sri Lanka, Thailand, and India. Applies Buddhist ethics to a range of issues of contemporary concern.

Exclusion: NEW214H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW232Y1 - Buddhist Psychology

Hours: 72L

Describes the psychology inherent within the teachings of Buddhism. Primary focus is placed on the understanding of consciousness, cognition and emotion, nature of self, psychological contextualism, personality transformation, unconscious influences, and mindfulness meditation. Parallels with western psychological models (e.g., psychoanalysis, cognitive-behaviourism, positive psychology) will be made. Includes option for Service Learning experience.

Exclusion: NEW402Y1, NEW432Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

NEW330H1 - Mindfulness-Informed Interventions for Mental Health

Hours: 24L

An exploration of the current interest in incorporating mindfulness into western mental health interventions. Examines the concept of mindfulness closely to show how mindfulness is implicitly a component of western psychological theories and interventions. Also discussed is how mindfulness is used directly and indirectly as a psychological intervention.

Prerequisite: Completion of 9 FCEs

Recommended Preparation: NEW232Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

NEW332H1 - Buddhism and Psychotherapy

Hours: 24S

Evaluates the relationship between Buddhist psychology and the practice of Western psychotherapy. Areas that will be studied include positive psychology, psychoanalysis, cognitive-behaviour therapy, mindfulness meditation and Jungian psychology. Comparisons with original Buddhist teachings and commentaries will be made.

Recommended Preparation: NEW232Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

NEW333H1 - Buddhism and Cognitive Science

Hours: 36L

Explores some important connections between Cognitive Science and Buddhism. In particular it will examine the insights of cognitive science into central Buddhist concepts such as wisdom, mindfulness, meditation, insight and self-control, as well as related concepts such as flow and mystical experience.

Recommended Preparation: NEW232Y1/RLG206Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

NEW334H1 - Science of Wisdom: Buddhist and Western Traditions

Hours: 36L

Provides a conceptual and practical exploration of several ancient wisdom traditions. Buddhist approaches to self-actualization and wisdom will be compared to four Western sites of wisdom (i.e., Mesopotamia, ancient Greece, Christian monasticism, Renaissance). Includes guided experiential exercises for each of the wisdom traditions.

Recommended Preparation: NEW232Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

NEW335H1 - Meditation and the Body

Hours: 36L

In recent years, the effects of meditation on the body have been widely researched. There is an increasing body of evidence that mindfulness meditation can affect brain activity, brain structure, neurochemistry and other psychobiological processes (e.g. blood pressure, cardiac function). This course will examine the research in this emerging field.

Prerequisite: Completion of 9.0 FCEs

Recommended Preparation: NEW232Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NEW336H1 - Special Topics in Buddhism, Psychology and Mental Health

Hours: 36L

Topics vary from year to year depending on the instructor.

Recommended Preparation: NEW232Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

NEW337H1 - Special Topics in Buddhism, Psychology and Mental Health

Hours: 36L

Topics vary from year to year.

Prerequisite: 0.5 FCE from the Buddhism, Psychology and Mental Health Core Course Group.

Recommended Preparation: NEW232Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

NEW338H1 - Cultivating Consciousness

Hours: 36L

Mindfulness meditation is a systematic investigation of subjective experience. Classic and modern descriptions of mindfulness and the recent scientific literature are surveyed. Students explore a number of meditative techniques such as concentration and insight meditation and are required to maintain an ongoing meditation practice during the course.

Prerequisite: NEW232Y1/NEW332H1/NEW333H1/NEW334H1/NEW335H1/NEW339H1

Exclusion: NEW432H1: Advanced Special Topics: Cultivating Consciousness

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

NEW339H1 - Yogacara Buddhism and Western Psychology

Hours: 36L

A comparative study of mind in Indian Yogacara Buddhism and modern psychology. Yogacara teachings address the three aspects of mind, the storehouse consciousness, and the notion that the root of all phenomena is mind, allowing a dialogue with the modern scientific understanding of the mind in psychology.

Recommended Preparation: NEW232Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

NEW430H1 - Jungian Psychology and Tantric Buddhism

Hours: 36L

Jung wrote extensively on the benefits of Buddhism to personal development and transformation. This course explores the contribution of Jungian psychology to understanding Tantric (or Vajrayana) Buddhism. Through experiential exercises, students will investigate the role of archetypal psychology as a mediator of the spiritual transformation described in Tantric Buddhism.

Prerequisite: NEW232Y1

Exclusion: NEW433H1 Advanced Special Topics: Psychology of Tantric Buddhism

Recommended Preparation: NEW302Y1, NEW303H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

NEW432H1 - Advanced Special Topics in Buddhism, Psychology and Mental Health

Hours: 24S

An upper-level seminar. Topics vary from year to year, depending on the instructor.

Recommended Preparation: NEW232Y1/RLG206Y1

Along with individual placements, students review interdisciplinary research methodology and engage in peer- and reflective-learning in a seminar. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Completion of a minimum of 9.0 FCE and successful completion of the application process.

Recommended Preparation: NEW120Y1/NEW150Y1/NEW220H1/NEW221H1/NEW224Y1/NEW225H1/NEW226H1/NEW232Y1/NEW240Y1/NEW241Y1/NEW270H1/HIS230H1/HIS231H1/other NEW courses

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW498H1 - Independent Community Engaged Research

Hours: 48P/12S

See description under NEW497Y1 above. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Completion of a minimum of 9.0 FCE and successful completion of the application process.

Recommended Preparation: NEW120Y1/ NEW150Y1/ NEW220H1/ NEW221H1/ NEW224Y1/ NEW225H1/ NEW226H1/ NEW232Y1/ NEW240Y1/ NEW241Y1/ NEW270H1/ HIS230H1/ HIS231H1/ other NEW courses

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Independent Studies Courses

NEW299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

NEW390Y1 - New College Independent Studies

Hours: TBA

New College Independent Studies. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum of 8.0 FCEs completed and permission of College

NEW391H1 - New College Independent Studies

Hours: TBA

New College Independent Studies. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

NEW399Y0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

NEW490Y1 - New College Independent Studies

Hours: TBA

New College Independent Studies. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum of 12.0 FCEs completed and permission of College

NEW491H1 - New College Independent Studies

Hours: TBA

New College Independent Studies. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Minimum of 12.0 FCEs completed and permission of College

Interdisciplinary Courses

JQR360H1 - The Canadian Census: Populations, Migrations and Demographics

Hours: 24L/12T

Examines the Canadian population census through the experience of diasporic groups in Canada. Approaches the census as a statistical tool, an historical source and an ideological project of citizenship and nationalism. Uses census data to explore mathematical and statistical concepts and to integrate numerical ways of thinking with qualitative analysis. (Jointly sponsored by African Studies, Diaspora and Transnational Studies, Caribbean Studies, Equity Studies and Latin American Studies).

Prerequisite: DTS200Y1/HIS230H1/HIS231H1/LAS200H1/LAS201H1/NEW120Y1/NEW150Y1/NEW220H1/NEW221H1/NEW224Y1/NEW225H1/NEW226H1/NEW240Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NEW370Y1 - Interdisciplinary Special Topics

Hours: 48L

Topics vary from year to year depending on the instructor.

NEW371H0 - International Field Course

Hours: TBA

Provides opportunities for students to engage in an international experiential learning program related to their academic areas of study. The course involves seminars, group exercises, site visits and a final project. Some sessions will be held in Toronto prior to and following the trip. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Foundational course from participating programs (Aboriginal Studies; African Studies; Buddhism, Psychology and Mental Health; Caribbean Studies; Equity Studies; Human Biology)

NEW471H1 - Interdisciplinary Special Topics

Hours: 24S

Topics vary from year to year depending on the instructor.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Interdisciplinary Courses in Jungian Theory

NEW302Y1 - C.G. Jung: Stories, Patterns, Symbols

Hours: 48L/24S

Impact of Jung's analytical psychology, critical methodology and interpretative practice on issues in religion, anthropology, art and literature, popular culture, gender studies and postmodernist critique. Theoretical studies include traditional Jungian and contemporary post-Jungian texts together with feminist and non-Jungian sources.

Prerequisite: Four FCEs, at least one of which should be in the humanities

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1); Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

NEW303H1 - Hypotheses of the Unconscious

Hours: 12L/12S

Current discussions of the hypotheses, starting with Freud's and Jung's hypotheses, especially Jung's collective unconscious; critical examination through retrospective analysis of the evolution and development of the concept in works from philosophy, psychology, poetry, ethnology, science and popular culture that anticipated, influenced or were influenced by the work of Freud and Jung, post-Freudians and post-Jungians.

Prerequisite: Four FCEs, at least one of which should be in the humanities

Recommended Preparation: NEW302Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

NEW402Y1 - Advanced Special Topics in Jungian Theory

Hours: 48S

Topics vary from year to year, depending on the interests of students and instructors.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

NEW403H1 - Advanced Special Topics in Jungian Theory

Hours: 24S

Topics vary from year to year depending on the interests of students and instructors.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

International Foundation Program Courses

IFP100H1 - Themes in World History

Hours: 24L

Surveys the development of human societies from their origins to the present. Topics may include the environment, cultural development and interaction, the creation and nature of belief systems, political, economic and social structures, gender relations, and the relationship between global patterns and local development. Restricted to students enrolled in the summer offering of the International Foundation Program (IFP). Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: IFP100Y1/UTP100H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

IFP100Y1 - Themes in World History

Hours: 48L/36T

Surveys the development of human societies from their origins to the present using examples from across the world. Topics may include the environment, cultural development and interaction, the creation and nature of belief systems, political, economic and social structures, gender relations, and the relationship between global patterns and local developments. Enrolment is restricted to students registered in the International Foundation Program. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3); Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

UTP100H1 - Themes in World History

Hours: 24L

Surveys the development of human societies from their origins to the present. Topics may include the environment, cultural development and interaction, the creation and nature of belief systems, political, economic and social structures, gender relations, and the relationship between global patterns and local development. Restricted to students enrolled in the UTPrep program.

Exclusion: IFP100Y1/UTP100H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Introduction

Nutritional Sciences represents an exciting and challenging area of study of a truly interdisciplinary nature. Understanding of the impact of nutrition on health and its role in disease is based upon a knowledge of the metabolic processes involved (nutrient requirements and utilization, food additive metabolism and safety), of the chemistry of foods (food preservation, food production) and of social and behavioural factors (determinants of food selection). Thus, in this program, the physical, biological and social sciences are integrated in consideration of the national and international goals of achieving optimal health through proper nutrition.

Most career opportunities in Nutritional Sciences require training beyond the undergraduate level. The Major Program provides excellent preparation for entry into postgraduate studies in nutrition research or for a professional faculty such as Medicine and Dentistry.

Please note that this Department does not offer an undergraduate dietetics program. Students interested in this qualification should contact Dietitians of Canada for information (www.dietitians.ca).

Students interested in applying to the MPH-Nutrition and Dietetics Program, through the Dalla Lana School of Public Health, are advised to contact the program director during their second year of undergraduate studies.

Nutritional Sciences Programs

Nutritional Sciences Major (Science Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

Eligibility for the nutritional sciences major program is based on a students marks in the required first-year courses:

BIO120H1, BIO130H1, (CHM135, CHM136)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1 with an average of at least 70% on these 2.0 full-course equivalents (FCEs) and a final mark of at least 60% in each course.

Note: Students must apply to this program on the Arts & Science Faculty Registrars Office website (See <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course> for application procedures).

Completion Requirements:

First Year:

(BIO120H1, BIO130H1);(CHM135, CHM136)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1

Second Year:

NFS284H1; BCH210H1; (STA220H1, STA221H1)/(PSY201H1,PSY202H1)

Third Year:

(PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1; CSB349H1/PSL350H1/BCH311H1; any two of: NFS382H1, NFS386H1, NFS301H1; NFS302H1; NFS394Y1

Fourth Year:

Any three of: NFS400H1, NFS484H1, NFS485H1, NFS486H1, NFS487H1, NFS488H1, NFS489H1, NFS490H1, NFS494Y1

Nutritional Sciences Courses

NFS284H1 - Basic Human Nutrition

Hours: 36L

An introductory course to provide the fundamentals of human nutrition to enable students to understand and think critically about the complex interrelationships between food, nutrition, health and the environment.

Exclusion: HLTB11H3

Recommended Preparation: (BIO120H1, BIO130H1)/BIO150Y1; (CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/(CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/CHM151Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS301H1 - Nutrition Literacy: Sorting Science from Snake Oil

Hours: 36L

This course will help students learn how to recognize the strengths and limitations of various nutrition research methods, find reliable nutrition information on the Internet and develop systematic thinking skills to critically evaluate the quality of nutrition information in both the scientific literature and popular media.

Prerequisite: NFS284H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS302H1 - Nutrition, Athletics, Performance and Behaviour

Hours: 36L

This course will give an overview of the emerging and advancing role of chronic diet and supplements in athletics, performance and behavior.

Prerequisite: NFS284H1

Exclusion: KPE328H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS382H1 - Vitamin and Mineral Metabolism Throughout the Life Cycle

Hours: 36L

Micronutrients are essential for health throughout the life cycle. This course examines the role of micronutrients during development and ageing with some emphasis on disease prevention and pathogenesis. Students develop critical appraisal skills, an understanding of the principles of study design and learn to write in a scientific style.

Prerequisite: NFS284H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS386H1 - Food Chemistry

Hours: 36L

Structure, composition and chemical and biochemical reactions in foods during postharvest/postmortem, processing, storage and utilisation. Implications for organoleptic properties, nutritional value, toxicity and human health.

Prerequisite: CHM138H1/CHM139H1/CHM135H1/CHM136H1

Recommended Preparation: NFS284H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS394Y1 - Research Course in Nutritional Science

Hours: 144P

Research experience under the supervision of a Departmental staff member. The course entails designing and carrying out a small research project and the preparation and presentation of both a research proposal and a final report. Note that the research project NFS394Y1 requires the prior consent of a staff member who will supervise the project and departmental approval before enrolment. The student is responsible for locating a supervisor. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: NFS284H1, Permission of Department and Project Supervisor

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS400H1 - Functional Foods and Nutraceuticals in Human Nutrition

Hours: 36L

This course will demonstrate the rationale, including health benefits, development and marketing of functional foods and nutraceuticals.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, NFS284H1, (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1

Recommended Preparation: CSB349H1/PSL350H1/BCH311H1, NFS386H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS484H1 - Advanced Nutrition

Hours: 24L/12T

Physiological and biochemical features of nutrient needs. The roles of nutrients in the development and adaptability of the whole body, organs and cells. Interpretation of current research data.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, CSB349H1/PSL350H1/BCH311H1, NFS284H1, (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1, (STA220H1, STA221H1/JBS229H1) or permission of instructor

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS485H1 - Diet, Microbiome & Health (formerly Nutritional Microbiology)

Hours: 36L

Provides an integrated approach to how prokaryotes modulate nutrient availability and how they interact with the host to impact human health from a molecular perspective.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, CSB349H1/PSL350H1/BCH311H1/ MGY311Y1, NFS284H1, (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1 or permission of the instructor

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS486H1 - Obesity: Metabolic and Clinical Aspects

Hours: 36L

Obesity and its co-morbidities illustrated with pathophysiological and biochemical principles and clinical case studies.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, NFS284H1, (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1

Recommended Preparation: CSB349H1/PSL350H1/ BCH311H1, (STA220H1, STA221H1)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS487H1 - Nutrigenomics and Personalized Nutrition

Hours: 36L

The impact of the human genome on nutrition research. Experimental approaches to investigating gene-diet interactions. Understanding how genetic variability affects nutrient response, and how dietary factors regulate gene expression. Application of the various omics technologies to nutrition research as well as exploring the social, legal and ethical issues associated with direct-to-consumer marketing of genetic tests for personalized nutrition.

Prerequisite: NFS284H1, CSB349H1/PSL350H1/BCH311H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS488H1 - Nutritional Toxicology

Hours: 36L

Occurrence, mechanism of action, safety and health implications of chemicals naturally present in or added to foods. Interactions of nutrients and toxicants and the effects on their metabolism and utilization. Food safety evaluation and regulatory control.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, NFS284H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS489H1 - Nutritional Neurosciences

Hours: 36L

This course provides an integrated approach to how brain function regulates and in turn is regulated by nutrition from a biochemical perspective.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, BCH311H1/CSB349H1/PSL350H1, NFS284H1, PSL302Y1/(PSL300H1, PSL301H1)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

NFS490H1 - International and Community Nutrition

Hours: 36L

This course focuses on current issues in international and community nutrition including global and domestic food security, micronutrient deficiencies and other forms of undernutrition, maternal and infant/child nutrition, dietary guidance, and food and nutrition policy. The course will consider the environmental, sociopolitical, cultural and biosocial contexts of nutrition.

Prerequisite: NFS284H1

Recommended Preparation: GGR107Y1/POL103Y1/SOC101Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

NFS494Y1 - Research Projects in Nutritional Sciences

Hours: 144P

Research experience under the supervision of a Departmental staff member. The course entails designing and carrying out a small research project and the preparation and presentation of both a research proposal and a final report. Note that the research project NFS494Y1 requires the prior consent of a staff member who will supervise the project and departmental approval before enrolment. The student is responsible for locating a supervisor. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: NFS284, Permission of Department and Project Supervisor

Distribution Requirements: Science

Introduction

The Trudeau Centre for Peace, Conflict and Justice administers the program in Peace, Conflict and Justice, in the Munk School of Global Affairs.

The Peace, Conflict and Justice program provides undergraduates with an interdisciplinary education covering three central pillars: the meanings and causes of conflict, peace, and justice; the lived experiences of living in the context of conflict and struggles for peace and justice; and approaches to resolving conflict and producing peace and/or justice. The topics of study are wide-ranging, including the study of peacemaking and peace-building, interstate war and intrastate conflicts, insurgencies, revolutions and rebellions, ethnic strife, global justice, and negotiation theory. In so doing, we address some of the world's most urgent humanitarian problems, and train students to deeply analyze these issues across several levels of analysis, from the local through the national and the global. Students interested in this program are strongly encouraged to consider pursuing a double major in related fields, especially International Relations. Other related fields include: Political Science, Sociology, Anthropology, Geography, History, Diaspora and Transnational Studies, Nutritional Sciences, and Psychology.

Peace, Conflict and Justice Programs

Peace, Conflict and Justice Specialist (Arts Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Admission is determined by a range of criteria, including at the initial stage a student's academic background, a statement of interest in the program, and as a later stage of the process, a personal interview on invitation of the Program Director. In some cases, reference letters may be requested by the Program Director. In the past, enrolment in Peace, Conflict and Justice has proven to be extremely competitive across all these dimensions, and an applicant's success in any one of these dimensions does not necessarily guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

Completion Requirements:

(12 full courses or their equivalent, including at least one 400-series course)

1. HIS103Y1/ECO100Y1/ECO105Y1; (PSY100H1 + PSY220H1)/SOC101Y1/(SOC102H1 + SOC103H1); POL208Y1. Except for POL208Y1, substitutions may be permitted for other introductory courses in relevant disciplines, based on a student's rationale and on approval of the Program Director.

2. PCJ260Y1; PCJ360H1+PCJ362H1/PCJ363H1; PCJ460H1; PCJ461H1

3. Three FCEs from one of Groups A, B, C, D, E or F (below), or substitutions with a rationale that must be approved by the Program Director. Students may substitute from different disciplines or with different courses from within these disciplines. At least one FCE must be at the 300+-level.

4. Three complementary FCEs with either a disciplinary, regional, or thematic focus relevant to Peace, Conflict and Justice (on approval of the Director, based on the needs of students' interdisciplinary programs of study). At least two FCEs must be at the 300+-level. Upt to 1.0 FCEs of MUN courses may be used to fulfill this requirement, subject to approval by the Director.

Disciplinary focus:

3 FCEs from one of ANT, ECO, GGR and Environmental Studies (combined), HIS, HPS, PHL, POL, PSY, RLG, SLA, SOC, or from other units with a rationale approved by the Program Director.

(Note: The disciplinary focus in this cluster must be different from the discipline chosen in requirement 3. For instance, HIS is excluded for students who have taken 3 HIS FCEs to meet requirement 3; POL is excluded for students who have taken 3 POL FCEs, etc. )

Regional Studies focus:

3 FCEs on, for example, Canada, Southern Africa, the Middle East, Latin America, or the Slavic countries.

Thematic focus:

3 FCEs on a thematic topic proposed by the student and approved by the Program Director. Examples include negotiation and conflict resolution, diplomatic history, gender and conflict, morality of war, quantitative analysis, group-identity conflict, economic development and conflict, literature, culture, and everyday life of conflict, or environmental change and conflict.

Peace, Conflict and Justice Major (Arts Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Admission is determined by a range of criteria, including at the initial stage a student's academic background, a statement of interest in the program, and as a later stage of the process, a personal interview on invitation of the Program Director. In the past, enrolment in Peace, Conflict and Justice has proven to be extremely competitive across all these dimensions, and an applicant's success in any one of these dimensions does not necessarily guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

Completion Requirements:

(7.5 full courses or their equivalent)

1. HIS103Y1/ECO100Y1/ECO105Y1; (PSY100H1 + PSY220H1)/SOC101Y1/(SOC102H1 + SOC103H1); POL208Y1. Except for POL208Y1, substitutions will be considered for other introductory courses in relevant disciplines, based on a student's rationale and on approval of the Program Director.

2. PCJ260Y1; PCJ360H1+PCJ362H1/PCJ363H1; PCJ460H1

3. 2.0 FCE of complementary courses, at least 1.0 FCE of which must be at the 300+ series level, from: MUN101H1/MUN102H1; GGR239H1; GGR439H1; HIS241H1; HIS242H1; HIS300H1; HIS343Y1; HIS344Y1; HIS377Y1; HIS401Y1; HIS412Y1; HIS445H1; HIS482Y1; HPS306H1; PHL278H1; PHL378H1; POL201Y1; POL304H1; POL310Y1; POL313Y1; POL321H1; POL323H1; POL326Y1; POL340Y1; POL346H1; POL417Y1; POL437Y1; POL454Y1; PSY220H1; PSY270H1; PSY322H1; RLG100Y1; SOC210Y1; SOC330Y1; SOC340Y1; or alternative courses on the approval of the Program Director, based on the needs of students' interdisciplinary programs of study.

Peace, Conflict and Justice Groups

Note: Substitutions for any of the below (Groups A through F) are allowable, if accompanied by a rationale regarding a student's specific program of study that must be approved by the Program Director. This is not a strict list, and students may in their program rationale substitute courses from different disciplines or with different courses from within these disciplines below. Please note that not all courses may be offered in a given year, and students are responsible for checking co- and prerequisites for all courses.

Peace, Conflict and Justice Courses

PCJ260Y1 - Introduction to Peace and Conflict Studies (formerly PCS260Y1, UNI110Y1, UNI260Y1)

Hours: 72L

A review of the full range of theories explaining the nature and causes of conflict and possibilities for its resolution; provides students with a set of theoretical tools for effective analysis of interpersonal, civil, and international conflict.

Prerequisite: Only for current PCJ program students in second year and higher/permission of the Program Director

Exclusion: PCS260Y1, UNI110Y1, UNI260Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PCJ360H1 - Topics in Peace, Conflict, and Justice

Hours: 24L

An in-depth exploration of selected issues in the field of Peace, Conflict, and Justice. Topics may include: negotiation theory, ethnic and inter-group identity conflict, feminist perspectives on peace, war, and justice; mathematical modeling of arms races, war, and peacemaking; decision-making theory and conflict; environmental change and conflict; global justice institutions; and traditional perspectives on statecraft.

Prerequisite: PCJ260Y1 or permission of the Program Director.

Exclusion: PCS360Y1, UNI360Y1

Recommended Preparation: POL208Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PCJ361H1 - Special Topics in Peace and Conflict Studies (formerly PCS361H1, UNI361H1)

Hours: 24S

An exploration of selected issues in the field of Peace, Conflict and Justice involving an overseas and/or practicum component.

Exclusion: PCS361H1, UNI361Y1

Recommended Preparation: POL208Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

PCJ361Y1 - Special Topics in Peace and Conflict Studies (formerly PCS361Y1, UNI361Y1)

Hours: 48S

An exploration of selected issues in the field of Peace, Conflict and Justice involving an overseas and/or practicum component.

Prerequisite: PCJ260Y1 or permission from the Program Director

Exclusion: PCS361H1, PCS361Y1, UNI361Y1

Recommended Preparation: POL208Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PCJ362H1 - Service Learning

Hours: TBA

In cooperation with the Center for Community Partnerships, students will be given a service learning placement that aligns with their academic interests. These placements will happen in community organizations and other organizations based in the GTA. Class will meet once a week and students will serve up to 10 hours total per week in their placements. The course will emphasize how groups work to achieve community goals, how grassroots politics works, the power of social capital, and how these topics link to questions of conflict resolution, brokering peace, and achieving justice.

Prerequisite: PCJ260Y1, PCJ360H1

Exclusion: PCJ361H1, PCJ363H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PCJ363H1 - Study Abroad Module

Hours: TBA

Using Blackboard, students will meet once a week online in a virtual class that will assign readings, provide writing assignments, and culminate in a group assignment that situates the training from the PCJ program within the new materials that each student is experiencing in their new university. Each student will have to reflect on how their thinking has changed, what they will do with their new perspectives when they come back to U of T, and how this affects their thinking about peace, conflict, and justice.

Prerequisite: PCJ260Y1, PCJ360H1

Exclusion: PCJ361H1, PCJ362H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PCJ444H1 - Special Topics in Peace and Conflict Studies (formerly PCS444H1)

Hours: TBA

Topics vary annually. The objective of the course is to explore emerging issues in Peace and Conflict Studies. The focus of the course will be on a specific topic, rather than a broad survey of the field.

Prerequisite: PCJ260Y1, PCJ360Y1 or permission of the instructor

Exclusion: PCS444H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PCJ460H1 - Contemporary Issues in Peace and Conflict (formerly PCS460H1, UNI460H1)

Hours: 24S

A colloquium (fall term) on selected issues in the field of Peace and Conflict Studies. Topics to be considered include planetary, ecospheric, state, societal, and human security.

Prerequisite: PCJ360Y1, or PCJ360H1 and PCJ362H1, or permission of the Program Director; enrolment restricted to students enrolled in Peace, Conflict and Justice Specialist program

Exclusion: PCS460H1, PCS460Y1, UNI460H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

PCJ461H1 - Contemporary Issues in Peace and Conflict (formerly PCS461H1, UNI460Y1)

Hours: 48S

A research seminar (spring term) on selected issues in the field of Peace and Conflict Studies. Topics to be considered include planetary, ecospheric, state, societal, and human security.

Prerequisite: PCJ360Y1 and PCJ460H1; enrolment restricted to students enrolled in the Peace, Conflict and Justice Specialist program

Exclusion: PCS460Y1, PCS461H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

PCJ499H1 - Peace and Conflict Studies Independent Study Course (formerly PCS499H1)

Hours: TBA

Independent study in the area of Peace and Conflict Studies. It is designed to provide students with the opportunity to explore topics not covered in the curriculum, or to develop a more detailed focus on topics covered. Approval of the Program Director is required. The student must obtain the written agreement of the instructor who will supervise the independent study. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: PCJ260Y1

Exclusion: PCS499H1

Recommended Preparation: For students enrolled in the Peace, Conflict and Justice Major or Specialist program.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PCJ499Y1 - Peace and Conflict Studies Independent Study Course

Hours: TBA

Independent study in the area of Peace and Conflict Studies. It is designed to provide students with the opportunity to explore topics not covered in the curriculum, or to develop a more detailed focus on topics covered. Approval of the Program Director is required. The student must obtain the written agreement of the instructor who will supervise the independent study. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: PCJ260Y1

Exclusion: PCS499H1

Recommended Preparation: For students enrolled in the Peace, Conflict and Justice Major or Specialist program.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Pharmaceutical Chemistry

Collaborative Program of the Faculty of Arts & Science and the Leslie Dan Faculty of Pharmacy

Pharmaceutical Chemistry combines knowledge of the biological, medical, and physical sciences in the study of drug therapy. The emphasis is on the chemical nature of the reactions and interactions involved in drug therapy. The students will receive a solid background in the facets of chemistry the most relevant to drugs: physical, organic, and analytical chemistry. They will also learn the fundamental aspects of the synthesis, manufacture, use, and mode of action of drugs.

Program Director: Dr. Rob Macgregor, (416-978-7332)
rob.macgregor@utoronto.ca

Regarding Pharmaceutical Chemistry Programs

Pharmaceutical Chemistry combines knowledge of the biological, medical and physical sciences in the study of the scientific aspect of drug therapy. The emphasis is on the chemical nature of the reactions and interactions involved in drug therapy.

This program is offered jointly by the Leslie Dan Faculty of Pharmacy and the Faculty of Arts and Science. Students in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry Specialist program will receive a solid background in physical, organic and analytical chemistry, and will also learn the fundamental aspects of the synthesis, manufacture, use and mode of action of drugs. The fourth-year project course gives students direct involvement in research.

We also offer an internship in which qualified students may spend 12 or 16 months working at a pharmaceutical company or research lab. This is a project-based, paid employment placement that takes place between the third and fourth years of undergraduate study. It provides the student with an opportunity to apply the knowledge acquired in the first three years of university to private- or public-sector settings. Placements are available in pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies, university research labs, university-affiliated organizations, or government research agencies.

Pharmaceutical Chemistry Programs

Pharmaceutical Chemistry Specialist (Science Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program. Eligibility is based on a student's mark(s) in the required course(s). The precise mark thresholds outlined below are an estimate of what will be required in the coming program admission cycle.

While it is difficult to predict what will be competitive course marks and average in a given year, based on previous years, the estimate is: course marks = mid 70s ; average = high 70s.

Achieving these estimated marks does not guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

Visit the Pharmaceutical Chemistry Program web site for updated information about requirements, course offerings, and events:
<http://pharmacy.utoronto.ca/pharmchem>.

Completion Requirements:

(13.0 full courses or their equivalent, including at least one 400-series course)

NOTE: Some of the courses listed below may have prerequisites.

First Year:

BIO120H1, BIO130H1; (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1; (PHY131H1, PHY132H1)/(PHY151H1, PHY152H1)

Second Year:

BCH210H1; BIO230H1; CHM220H1/CHM222H1, CHM223H1; CHM247H1/CHM249H1; PHC230H1

Third Year:

CHM217H1; PCL201H1; PHC300H1; PHC301H1; PHC320H1; PHC330H1; PHC340Y1

Fourth Year:

1. PHC489Y1
2. Two full course equivalents from: CHM317H1; CHM342H1; CHM347H1; CHM379H1; CHM410H1; CHM414H1; CHM417H1; PCL362H1; PHC331H1; PHC401H1; PHC420H1; PHC421H1; PHC430H1; PHC431H1; PHC432H1; PHC435H1; PHC460H1; PHC462H1; PHC470H1; PSL300H1; PSL301H1

Note that not all of the 400-series PHC courses are offered every academic year.

We also offer an optional 12- or 16-month internship program to qualified students. This is a project-based, paid employment placement that takes place between the third and fourth years of undergraduate study. It provides the student with an opportunity to apply the knowledge acquired in the first three years of university to private- or public-sector settings. Placements are available in pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies, university research labs, university-affiliated organizations, or government research agencies.

Regarding Pharmaceutical Chemistry Courses

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Pharmaceutical Chemistry Courses

PHC230H1 - Pharmaceutics 1

Hours: 36L/12T

An introduction to the key concepts in the design, manufacture, and use of efficacious dosage forms. The course covers the characteristics of different delivery routes.

Prerequisite: (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1; CHM220H1/CHM222H1
Exclusion: PHM141H1
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC300H1 - Molecular Pharmacology 1

Hours: 24L/12T

Structural and mechanistic determinants of drug action at the molecular level. Topics include the physical/chemical properties of drugs per se as they relate to therapeutic intervention and the biophysical and biochemical properties of enzymes and nucleic acids that underlie and are affected by their interactions with drugs.

Prerequisite: (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1; CHM220H1/CHM222H1
Exclusion: PCL302H1
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC301H1 - Molecular Pharmacology 2

Hours: 36L/12T

Structural and mechanistic determinants of drug action via macromolecules that effect cellular signalling. Neurohumoral receptors and other signalling proteins are grouped according to their structure and mechanism of action. Native properties and their modulation by drugs are discussed in the context of basic principles of molecular pharmacology.

Prerequisite: (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1; CHM220H1/CHM222H1; BCH210H1
Exclusion: PCL302H1, PHM140H1
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC320H1 - Medicinal Chemistry

Hours: 36L

Modern discovery and synthesis of antibiotics, antineoplastics, antiviral and other therapeutic agents.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, CHM247H1/CHM249H1
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC330H1 - Pharmaceutics 2

Hours: 36L/12T

This course presents a detailed examination of the material properties of pharmaceuticals and the role of cellular processes in delivery of a drug to its site of action.

Prerequisite: (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1; CHM220H1/CHM222H1
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC331H1 - Establishing the Bioequivalence of Pharmaceutical Products

Hours: 48L

Introduction to human clinical trial design for the demonstration of pharmaceutical bioequivalence of drug products. Students will learn the principles underlying the regulations and methods employed in bioequivalence studies.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, CHM247H1/CHM249H1, (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1, PHC230H1, PHC330H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC340Y1 - Pharmaceutical Chemistry Laboratory

Hours: 24L/96P

The scientific basis and practical techniques relevant to modern pharmaceutical development. This course is restricted to Pharmaceutical Chemistry Specialist program students.

Prerequisite: CHM247H1/CHM249H1; (CHM220H1/CHM222H1), CHM223H1; BCH210H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC401H1 - Drug Transport across Biological Membranes

Hours: 24L

The goal of this course is to provide students with knowledge of the molecular processes involved in drug transport across biological cell membranes with emphasis on their physiological and clinical significance. This course is restricted to Pharmaceutical Chemistry Specialist program students.

Prerequisite: PHC301H1, and enrolled as a Year 4 student in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program.

Corequisite: PHC300H1

Exclusion: JFK1122H

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC420H1 - Application of Medicinal Chemistry to Pharmacology

Hours: 24L

This course shows students the links between basic science and the drugs used therapeutically to treat clinical problems. This course is restricted to Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program students.

Prerequisite: PHC301H1, PHC320H1, and enrolled as a Year 4 student in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program.

Exclusion: PHM240H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC421H1 - Biomolecular Interactions and Thermodynamics I

Hours: 36L

This course will consider many of the topics presented in the first half in much greater detail including a rigorous examination of the interpretation of experimental data. This course is intended for students whose research or interest is in the thermodynamics of biological molecules. This course is restricted to Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program students.

Prerequisite: Enrolled as a Year 4 student in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program.

Exclusion: PHM1130H

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC430H1 - Recent Developments in Dosage Form Design

Hours: 24L

Introduction to controlled drug delivery: Mechanisms and kinetics of controlled drug release. Fundamental theories and mathematical tools for the design of modern dosage forms. Development and applications of controlled drug delivery dosage forms. This course is restricted to Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program students.

Prerequisite: Enrolled as a Year 4 student in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program.

Exclusion: PHM324H1, PHM1109H

Recommended Preparation: PHC230H1, PHC330H1, PHC340Y1.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC431H1 - Selected Topics in Drug Development

Hours: 24L

In-depth discussion of implementation of pharmaceutical sciences in drug development strategies. Students will apply fundamental principles of pharmaceuticals and drug delivery to current problems in the pharmaceutical industry. This course is restricted to Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program students.

Prerequisite: Enrolled as a Year 4 student in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program.

Exclusion: JFK1120H

Recommended Preparation: PHC230H1, PHC330H1, PHC340Y1.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC432H1 - Nanomedicines in Oncology

Hours: 24L

This course covers a range of topics that pertain to the development and application of nanomedicines in oncology. Students will gain an understanding of the biological barriers to drug delivery in oncology as well as the tremendous heterogeneity in cancer and the challenges this presents for treatment. The concepts of passive and active targeting of nanomedicines will be covered with critical assessment of the enhanced permeability and retention effect. A detailed overview of the most advanced nanotechnology-platforms for drug delivery (i.e., liposomes, block copolymer micelles and polymer-drug conjugates) will be provided with additional discussion of new emerging platforms. The integration of imaging in drug development and development of theranostics and therapeutic-diagnostic pairs will also be discussed. Special emphasis on critical evaluation of scientific literature and pre-clinical/clinical studies will be made throughout the course.

Prerequisite: PHC230H1, PHC330H1 and enrolled as a Year 4 student in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC435H1 - Pharmaceutical Data Acquisition and Analysis

Hours: 26P

Application and development of devices for the purpose of collecting and analyzing experimental data in pharmaceutical development and manufacture.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, CHM247H1/CHM249H1, (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1, PHC340Y1 and enrolled as a Year 4 student in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program.

Distribution Requirements: Science

PHC460H1 - Fundamentals of Drug Discovery

Hours: 24L

Lectures by scientists from academia and industry, and student seminars based on journal articles dealing with strategies for discovering new drugs for therapy and diagnosis. This course is restricted to Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program students.

Prerequisite: BIO120H1, BIO130H1, PHC301H1 and enrolled as a Year 4 student in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry program.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PHC462H1 - Clinical Drug Development

Hours: 24L

This course is designed to broaden student's understanding of the development and licensing of new drugs and how scientific principles, ethics, governmental regulations and commercial considerations are coordinated for designing clinical trials. The format involves lectures, group discussion and student presentations. This course is restricted to Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program students.

Prerequisite: PHC230H1, PHC301H1, PHC340Y1 and enrolled as a Year 4 student in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program.

Exclusion: JFK1120H

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHC470H1 - Global Pharmaceutical Policy

Hours: 24L/2T

This course is designed for students who are interested in the critical analysis of global health policy and the interrelationship between global and domestic policy issues. The course will introduce students generally to the basic concepts and issues in global health with a particular focus on pharmaceutical policy. We will address key issues in health and discuss core institutional and transnational actors, how governments in different jurisdictions manage public health responsibilities, the tension between economic imperatives and health objectives, global obligations, and pressure from special interest groups. More narrowly, we will analyse a breadth of complex policies questions. Examples include: the research and development global divide, political issues influences on pharmaceutical policy, how global commitments, such as membership in the World Trade Organization, conflict with or correspond to domestic policy directions and national sovereignty. Guest speakers will lead some sessions. This course will consist of lectures, guest discussions, case studies and student-led presentations. This is restricted to students in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program.

Prerequisite: Enrolled as a Year 4 student in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program.

Exclusion: PHM320H1, PHM1124H

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHC489Y1 - Pharmaceutical Chemistry Research

Hours: 144P

This course will provide research experience under the supervision of a Departmental staff member. The goal is to deepen the student's understanding of the scientific basis and practical techniques relevant to modern pharmaceutical development. This course is restricted to Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program students. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Permission from the Course Coordinator and enrolled as a Year 4 student in the Pharmaceutical Chemistry specialist program.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

Introduction

Pharmacology and Toxicology are integrative biological sciences that examine the properties of chemical compounds and their interactions with living systems. They provide the scientific basis for the study of chemical actions in the health sciences, the use of drugs as therapeutic agents or as tools in scientific research, the development and control of pharmaceutical products, and the investigation and control of pollutants and poisons in natural and social environments. The Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology offers four Specialist and two Major undergraduate programs of study that are jointly sponsored by the Faculties of Arts and Science and Medicine. The Specialist programs have the added benefit of providing students with opportunities to learn advanced laboratory techniques and to gain real-world experience through supervised independent research projects and participation in the Professional Experience Year Internship (see below). Students who intend to pursue graduate research and/or careers in pharmacology or toxicology are encouraged to enroll in a Specialist program because of the opportunities for additional experiential learning.

Students wishing to enroll in any of our Type 3 programs will initially apply to a general departmental Specialist (ASSPE2675) or Major (ASMAJ2675) after completion of first year pre-requisite courses and during the spring of their second year of study (and completion of PCL201H1) students will select the focus for their future studies (i.e. Pharmacology and/or Biomedical Toxicology). Students will follow the calendar year in which they initially enter one of our programs (ie for the majority of students that will be ASMAJ2675/ASSPE2675). For students interested in our Specialist programs after their first year, a program ranked as their first choice will be considered before a program for which they have provided a lower ranking. The top-ranked students who meet the program requirements will be sent an invitation to join the program. If a student is not selected, his or her application will be forwarded to the administrator of the program listed as the second choice. This process continues until an invitation is sent or all Specialist programs have been considered.

Regarding Pharmacology and Toxicology Programs

The Professional Experience Year (PEY) internship program is an elective 12-16 month paid employment placement within pharmaceutical/ biotechnology/chemical companies, university research laboratories, university-affiliated organizations, consulting companies or government research agencies. The PEY takes place between the 3rd and 4th years of undergraduate study and is open to Specialists in Pharmacology, Biomedical Toxicology and Environment and Toxicology who have a cGPA of at least 3.0. Students who participate in this program agree to return to their SPE program within the Department to complete their 4th year and degree program as enrolled prior. The PEY internship provides an excellent opportunity for real-world experience in drug development, project management, client relations, basic and clinical research, information management and regulatory affairs.

NOTE: Students cannot combine any MAJOR from this program with another MAJOR or SPECIALIST from this program for their degree.

Pharmacology and Toxicology Programs

Biomedical Toxicology Specialist (Science Program)

Description:

Biomedical toxicology has emerged as an important science addressing drug safety and the adverse consequences of chemical exposure. The Biomedical Toxicology Specialist program examines the harmful effects of chemicals on the health and behaviour of individuals and society. The safety/toxicity of a wide array of chemicals is examined including pharmaceutical preparations, herbal products, natural toxins and environmental contaminants, with a focus on their effects on human health. This program emphasizes the application of toxicological knowledge and risk assessment and prepares students for a variety of job opportunities following its completion as well as for further study in graduate research or professional programs such as Medicine, Dentistry, and Pharmacy. (Note: Students interested in professional programs should contact the respective faculties to inquire about specific transfer credits.) Many graduates of the Biomedical Toxicology Specialist program pursue careers in scientific research, forensic science, nutrition and food sciences, governmental agencies, consulting agencies, and industrial settings including the pharmaceutical and chemical industries. Students learn about basic and clinical toxicology and related areas through lectures, tutorials, laboratories, and independent research projects. The senior research project course enables students to gain valuable research experience while working under the supervision of an individual faculty member in either a laboratory-based or a non-laboratory-based setting.

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Eligibility will be competitive and based on a student's marks in the 3.0 required first-year courses:

BIO120H1, BIO130H1, (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1, and 1.0 FCE from (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1/(PHY131H1, PHY132H1)/(PHY151H1, PHY152H1) with an average of at least 70% on these 3.0 full-course equivalents (FCEs) and a final mark of at least 60% in each course.

Achieving these estimated marks does not guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

While it is difficult to predict what will be competitive course marks and average in a given year, based on previous years, the estimate is: course marks = mid 80s; average = mid 80s.

Students must apply to this program on the Arts & Science Faculty Registrar's Office website (see the Arts & Science Program Enrolment web site for application procedures). Students wishing to enroll in this program will initially apply to a general departmental Specialist after their first year and during the spring of their second year of study (and completion of PCL201H1) students will select the focus for their future studies (i.e. Pharmacology and/or Biomedical Toxicology). First and second year courses are the same for ALL SPECIALIST programs within the Department (ASSPE2675/ASSPE2082/ASSPE2340/ASSPE2753).

Students will follow the calendar year in which they initially enter one of our programs (i.e., for the majority of students that will be ASMAJ2675/ASSPE2675).

Students wishing to enrol after their second year who have taken PCL201H1 will be considered on a case by case basis. Successful completion of required pre-requisite courses is required to further enroll in upper level program courses. Students may not transfer to the Major program from the Specialist after completion of PCL465H1, PCL474Y1 courses or PEY.

Completion Requirements:

(14.5 full courses or their equivalent)

First Year: BIO120H1; BIO130H1; (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1; and 1 FCE from any combination of (MAT135H1, MAT136H1); PHY131H1/PHY151H1; PHY132H1/PHY152H1 (see NOTE 1)

Second Year: BCH210H1; BIO230H1/(BIO240H1, 241H1); BIO260H1/HMB265H1; CHM247H1/CHM249H1; STA288H1; PCL201H1; (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1 (NOTE: PSL201Y1 is not acceptable).

Third Year: PCL302H1; PCL362H1; PCL366H1

Third or Fourth Year: LMP363H1 and two and a half (2.5 FCE) full-credit equivalent with at least 1.5 full credit equivalent from PCL courses: PCL345H1/PCL389H1/PCL465H1/PCL475Y1/PCL477H1/PCL484H1/PCL486H1/PCL491H1/ANA301H1/BCH370H1/CHM310H1/ESS463H1/LMP301H1.

Fourth Year: PCL402H1; PCL473Y1; PCL474Y1 (see NOTE 2); PCL481H1.

NOTES

1. Any PHY/MAT courses should be completed during the first year and included for program enrollment.
2. Enrollment in the Research Project Course (PCL474Y1) is limited and requires permission from the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology. Students must receive prior consent of an approved supervisor according to departmental guidelines before the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology will register them in the course. It is the students responsibility to initiate all necessary preparations before the session starts (see course description).

Professional Experience Year:

The Professional Experience Year (PEY) internship program is an elective 12-16 month paid employment placement within pharmaceutical/biotechnology/chemical companies, university research laboratories, university-affiliated organizations, consulting companies or government research agencies. The PEY takes place between the 3rd and 4th years of undergraduate study and is open to Specialists in Biomedical Toxicology who have a cGPA of at least 3.0. Students who participate in this program agree to return to their SPE program in the Department to complete their 4th year and their degree. The PEY internship provides an excellent opportunity for real-world experience in drug development, project management, client relations, basic and clinical research, information management and regulatory affairs.

Environment & Toxicology Specialist (Science Program)

Description:

This program is jointly sponsored by the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology and the School of the Environment. For additional information see "School of the Environment" (www.environment.utoronto.ca) or consult our website: www.pharmtox@utoronto.ca

The Environment and Toxicology Specialist program is an interdisciplinary program which spans the social, physical and life sciences and integrates study of the effects of chemicals not only on the health and behaviour of human beings but on whole ecosystems as the adverse effects associated with therapeutic and environmental chemicals are discussed. This program emphasizes the application of knowledge of environmental toxicology and risk assessment and prepares students for a variety of job opportunities following its completion. Graduates of the Environment and Toxicology program may pursue careers in scientific research, environmental science, conservation science, governmental agencies, consulting agencies, and within chemical, manufacturing or agriculture industries. Students learn to integrate basic environmental and life science with particular aspects of clinical toxicology and related areas through lectures, tutorials, and laboratory and independent research project experience. The senior independent research project course enables students to gain valuable research experience while working under the supervision of an individual faculty member in either a laboratory-based or a non-laboratory-based setting.

The Professional Experience Year (PEY) internship program is an elective 12-16 month paid employment placement within pharmaceutical/ biotechnology/chemical companies, university research laboratories, university-affiliated organizations, consulting companies or government research agencies. The PEY takes place between the 3rd and 4th years of undergraduate study and is open to Specialists in Pharmacology and Biomedical Toxicology who have a cGPA of at least 3.0. Students who participate in this program agree to return to their SPE program in the Department to complete their 4th year and their degree. The PEY internship provides an excellent opportunity for real-world experience in drug development, project management, client relations, basic and clinical research, information management and regulatory affairs.

Enrolment Requirements:

The Environment and Toxicology Specialist is a Type 2L program and can only accommodate a limited number of students. Admission into this program is determined by a student's average in the following courses: BIO120H1, BIO130H1, CHM136H1/CHM138H1, CHM135H1/CHM139H1, and one of PHY131H1, MAT135H1, or GGR100H1. It is expected that a cumulative average 70% in the selected courses will be required for admission; however, achieving that mark does not necessarily guarantee admission to the program in any given year. Entry into the program requires completion of BIO120H1, BIO130H1; CHM135H1, CHM136H1, one of PHY131H1, MAT135H1, or GGR100H1 and 0.5 FCE from among the other first year course requirements. Completion of the program requires completion of all 4 FCE of the first year required courses. See the Arts & Science Program Enrolment web site for application procedures.

NOTE: Students cannot combine a Biomedical Toxicology Major program with an Environment and Toxicology Specialist program for their degree.

Students who wish to enroll in the program after their second year will be considered on a case-by-case basis. Successful completion of required prerequisite courses is required to enroll in further upper-level program courses.

Completion Requirements:

(15 full courses or their equivalent, including 4.0 300+-level courses, 1.0 of which must be at the 400-level).

First Year: BIO120H1; BIO130H1; CHM135H1/CHM139H1; CHM136H1/CHM138H1; and at least 0.5 FCE from PHY131H1; MAT135H1; JEG100H1

First or Second Year: At least 1.5 FCE from GGR100H1 (if not counted in First Year, 2 above); GGR101H1; MAT135H1 (if not counted in First Year, 2 above); MAT136H1/JMB170Y1; PHY131H1 (if not counted in First Year, 2 above); PHY132H1

Second Year: BCH210H1; BIO230H1/(BIO240H1, 241H1); ENV221H1; ENV222H1; PCL201H1 and CHM247H1. One FCE from (BIO270H1, BIO271H1) / (PSL300H1, PSL301H1) / PSL302Y1 (see NOTE 1)

Third and Fourth Years: BIO220H1; ENV234H1; JGE321H1; ENV334H1; CHM210H1; PCL302H1; PCL362H1; PCL473Y1. One from STA220H1/STA221H1/STA288H1/EEB225H1 (see NOTE 2). One from ENV421H1/PCL366H1/PCL474Y1 (see NOTE 2). At least 1.0 FCE from: ENV341H1; PHY231H1; ENV337H1/JEE337H1; CHM310H1; ESS463H1; PCL465H1; PCL477H1; PCL481H1; PCL484H1; PCL486H1; LMP301H1; LMP363H1 (see NOTE 3)

NOTES:

1. PSL300H1 and PSL301H1 require MAT100 / PHY100 -series courses.
2. PCL302H1 is a required co-requisite of PCL366H1; STA288H1, PCL201H1, PCL302H1, and PCL465H1 are pre-requisites for students intending to take PCL474Y1. Students intending to take PCL474Y1 must obtain permission from the Undergraduate Student Advisor of the School of the Environment 3 months prior to the intended date of enrolment. Students must also consult with the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology at least 3 months prior to the intended date of enrolment as the student is responsible for arranging for a supervisor.
3. Students taking PCL481H1 must take BCH210H1, PCL302H1 and PCL362H1 as prerequisites. Students taking PCL477H1 must take BCH210H1 prior. Students taking ENV421H1 or PCL366H1 must take 1.5 FCE from program electives (group 7) to ensure 15 FCE program credits

Pharmacology Specialist (Science Program)

Description:

Pharmacology is an integrative medical science that builds upon the core foundational disciplines of the basic life sciences. The Pharmacology Specialist program aims to provide students with an understanding of the therapeutic properties and clinical uses of externally administered chemical substances in the whole body, as well as the mechanisms of their actions and interactions with molecular, cellular and tissue targets. This understanding prepares students for a variety of either research-based or non-research-based careers, including positions in the pharmaceutical and biotechnology industries, in government agencies, in research institutes and in universities. Students learn about both basic and clinical pharmacology through lectures, tutorials, laboratories and independent research projects. The senior research project course enables students to gain valuable research experience while working under the supervision of an individual faculty member in either a laboratory-based or a non-laboratory-based setting.

Pharmacology (and its application in clinical therapeutics) plays a prominent role in society, and a comprehension of drug mechanisms and uses is fundamental to career success in the fields of medicine, dentistry, pharmacy and nursing. While some students take the Pharmacology Specialist program in preparation for these professional programs, students are advised to contact the respective Faculties directly for questions related to transfer credits.

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Eligibility will be competitive and based on a student's marks in the 3.0 required first-year courses:

BIO120H1, BIO130H1, (CHM135H1, CHM136H1) / (CHM138H1, CHM139H1) / CHM151Y1, and 1.0 FCE from (MAT135H1, MAT136H1) / MAT137Y1 / MAT157Y1 / (PHY131H1, PHY132H1) / (PHY151H1, PHY152H1) with an average of at least 70% on these 3.0 full-course equivalents (FCEs) and a final mark of at least 60% in each course.

Achieving these estimated marks does not guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

While it is difficult to predict what will be competitive course marks and average in a given year, based on previous years, the estimate is: course marks = mid 80s; average = mid 80s.

Note: Students must apply to this program on the Arts & Science Faculty Registrar's Office website (see the Arts & Science Program Enrolment web site for application procedures). Students wishing to enroll in this program will initially apply to a general departmental Specialist (ASSPE2675) after their first year and during the spring of their second year of study (and completion of PCL201H1) students will select the focus for their future studies (i.e. Pharmacology and/or Biomedical Toxicology). First and second year courses are the same for ALL SPECIALIST programs within the Department (ASSPE2675/ ASSPE2082/ ASSPE2340/ ASSPE2753).

The PEY internship provides an excellent opportunity for real-world experience in drug development, project management, client relations, basic and clinical research, information management and regulatory affairs.

Specialist in Pharmacology and Biomedical Toxicology (Science Program)

Description:

Pharmacology and Biomedical Toxicology are complementary sciences, and the Pharmacology and Biomedical Toxicology Specialist combines the requirements of the two distinct specialist programs. The Specialist program integrates knowledge of pharmacology the understanding of the therapeutic properties and clinical applications of externally administered chemical substances in the whole body and the mechanisms of their actions and interactions with their intended targets, while biomedical toxicology examines the harmful effects of exogenous chemicals on the health and behaviour of individuals and society, addressing drug safety and the adverse consequences of chemical exposure. Biomedical toxicology includes understanding the safety/toxicity of a wide array of chemicals (pharmaceutical preparations, herbal products, natural toxins and environmental contaminants) with a focus on their effects and adverse consequences on human health.

Both Pharmacology and Biomedical Toxicology are integrative life sciences which build on the core foundational disciplines of the basic life sciences and the prominent role each science plays in society. A comprehension of the biological mechanisms of action and potential uses of chemicals are key to career success in the fields of medicine, dentistry, pharmacy and nursing. The Specialist program prepares students for a variety of job opportunities following its completion as well as for further study in graduate research or professional programs such as Medicine, Dentistry, and Pharmacy. (Note: Students interested in professional programs should contact the respective faculties to inquire about specific transfer credits.) Graduates of this rigorous program will have access to an impressive variety of job opportunities in either research-based or non-research-based careers, including scientific research in research institutes and in universities, positions in the pharmaceutical, biotechnology and chemical industries, forensic science, nutrition and food sciences, government or consulting agencies. Students learn about both basic and clinical pharmacology and biomedical toxicology through lectures, tutorials, small group sessions, laboratories and independent research projects. The senior research project course enables students to gain valuable research experience while working under the supervision of an individual faculty member in either a laboratory-based or a non-laboratory-based setting.

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Eligibility will be competitive and based on a student's marks in the 3.0 required first-year courses:

Third Year: BCH311H1; PCL302H1; PCL362H1; PCL366H1 (See NOTE 2)

Third or Fourth Year: LMP363H1, PCL469H1, and a one and half (1.5 FCE) full-credit equivalent from the following courses: PCL345H1/PCL389H1/PCL461H1/PCL465H1 (See NOTE 2)/PCL475Y1/PCL477H1/PCL484H1/PCL486H1/PCL491H1/LMP301H1. Additional courses that may strengthen your background in this program can be taken, but will not count towards your program: ANA300Y1/ANA301H1/BCH340H1/BCH370H1/CHM310H1/CSB328H1 (see NOTE 4)/ESS463H1/PSL372H1

Fourth Year: PCL402H1; PCL470H1/PCL470Y1; PCL473Y1; PCL472Y1/PCL474Y1 (see NOTE 3); PCL481H1.

NOTES

1. Any PHY/MAT courses should be completed during the first year and included for program enrollment.
2. Students may take either PCL461H1 or PCL465H1.
3. Enrollment in the Research Project Course (PCL472Y1/PCL474Y1) is limited and requires permission from the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology. Students must receive prior consent of an approved supervisor according to Departmental guidelines before the Department will register them in the course. It is the students responsibility to make all necessary preparations before the session starts (see course description).
4. Some of the choices listed above are only available to students who are enrolled in a POST sponsored by the department or unit offering the course, and/or who have completed specified prerequisites.

Professional Experience Year:

The Professional Experience Year (PEY) internship program is an elective 12-16 month paid employment placement within pharmaceutical/ biotechnology/chemical companies, university research laboratories, university-affiliated organizations, consulting companies or government research agencies. The PEY takes place between the 3rd and 4th years of undergraduate study and is open to Specialists in Pharmacology and Biomedical Toxicology who have a cGPA of at least 3.0. Students who participate in this program agree to return to their SPE program in the Department to complete their 4th year and their degree. The PEY internship provides an excellent opportunity for real-world experience in drug development, project management, client relations, basic and clinical research, information management and regulatory affairs.

Biomedical Toxicology Major (Science Program)

Description:

Biomedical toxicology has emerged as an important science addressing drug safety and the adverse consequences of chemical exposure. The Biomedical Toxicology Major program examines the harmful effects of chemicals on the health and behavior of individuals and society. The safety/toxicity of a wide array of chemicals is examined including pharmaceutical preparations, herbal products, natural toxins, and environmental contaminants, with a focus on their effects on human health. Students learn about basic and clinical toxicology and related areas through lectures, tutorials and class discussions/debates.

This program includes the application of toxicological knowledge and risk assessment and prepares students for a variety of job opportunities following its completion as well as for further study in graduate research or professional programs such as Medicine, Dentistry, and Pharmacy. (Note: Students interested in professional programs should contact the respective faculties to inquire about specific transfer credits.) Many graduates of the Biomedical Toxicology major program pursue careers in scientific research, forensic science, nutrition and food sciences, governmental agencies, consulting agencies, and industrial settings including the pharmaceutical and chemical industries.

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Eligibility will be competitive and based on a student's marks in the 2.0 required first-year courses:

BIO120H1, BIO130H1, (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1, with an average of at least 70% on these 2.0 full-course equivalents (FCEs) and a final mark of at least 60% in each course.

Achieving these estimated marks does not guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

While it is difficult to predict what will be competitive course marks and average in a given year, based on previous years, the estimate is: course marks = mid 80s; average = mid 80s.

Students must apply to this program on the Arts & Science Faculty Registrar's Office website (see the Arts & Science Program Enrolment web site for application procedures). Students wishing to enroll in this program will initially apply to a general departmental Major (ASMAJ2675) after their first year and during the spring of their second year of study (and completion of PCL201H1) students will select the focus for their future studies (i.e. Pharmacology and/or Biomedical Toxicology). First and second year courses are the same for ALL MAJOR programs within the Department (ASMAJ2675/ASMAJ2082/ASMAJ2753). Students cannot combine a Biomedical Toxicology Major program with a Pharmacology Major or Specialist program for their degree.

Students will follow the calendar year in which they initially enter one of our programs (i.e., for the majority of students that will be ASMAJ2675/ASSPE2675).

Students wishing to enroll after their second year who have taken PCL201H1 will be considered on a case by case basis. Successful completion of required pre-requisite courses is required to further enroll in upper level program courses.

Completion Requirements:

(8 full courses or their equivalent)

First Year: BIO120H1; BIO130H1; (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1

Second Year: BCH210H1; BIO230H1/(BIO240H1, 241H1); PCL201H1; CHM247H1/CHM249H1; (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1 (NOTE: PSL201Y1 is not acceptable).

Third Year: PCL302H1; PCL362H1. (See NOTE 1)

Third or Fourth Year: 1.0 full-credit equivalent with at least one-half credit equivalent from PCL courses: PCL345H1/PCL389H1/PCL402H1/PCL475Y1/PCL477H1/PCL481H1/PCL484H1/PCL486H1/ANA301H1/BCH370H1/LMP301H1/LMP363H1.

Fourth Year: PCL473Y1

NOTES

1. Although LMP301H1 (Introduction to the Biochemistry of Human Disease) and LMP363H1 (Principles of Pathobiology) are not prerequisites to enroll in PCL473Y1, students are recommended to enroll in at least one of these courses.

2. Students are not allowed to enroll concurrently in the Major Program in Pharmacology and the Major Program in Toxicology

3. Students are not allowed to enroll concurrently in the Major Program in Pharmacology and a Specialist Program in Toxicology.

4. Students are not permitted to take PCL472Y1 or PCL474Y1.

Pharmacology Major (Science Program)

Description:

Pharmacology is an integrative medical science that builds upon the core foundational disciplines of the basic life sciences. This program is intended for students who want to gain knowledge in Pharmacology in combination with a separate and complementary area of study and is designed for students interested in broad, multidisciplinary training. The Pharmacology Major program is designed to provide students with a broad understanding of the therapeutic properties and clinical uses of externally administered chemical substances in the whole body, as well as the mechanisms of their actions and interactions with molecular, cellular and tissue targets. Students learn about both basic and clinical pharmacology through lectures, tutorials and small group sessions.

This understanding prepares students for a variety of either research-based or non-research-based careers, including positions in the pharmaceutical and biotechnology industries, in government agencies, in research institutes and in universities. Pharmacology (and its application in clinical therapeutics) plays a prominent role in society, and a comprehension of drug mechanisms and uses is fundamental to career success in the fields of medicine, dentistry, pharmacy and nursing. While some students take the Pharmacology Major program in preparation for these professional programs, students are advised to contact the respective Faculties directly for questions related to transfer credits.

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Eligibility will be competitive and based on a student's marks in the 2.0 required first-year courses:

BIO120H1, BIO130H1, (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1, with an average of at least 70% on these 2.0 full-course equivalents (FCEs) and a final mark of at least 60% in each course.

Achieving these estimated marks does not guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

While it is difficult to predict what will be competitive course marks and average in a given year, based on previous years, the estimate is: course marks = mid 80s; average = mid 80s.

Note: Students must apply to this program on the Arts & Science Faculty Registrar's Office website (see the Arts & Science Program Enrolment web site for application procedures). Students wishing to enroll in this program will initially apply to a general departmental Major (ASMAJ2675) after their first year and during the spring of their second year of study (and completion of PCL201H1) students will select the focus for their future studies (i.e. Pharmacology and/or Biomedical Toxicology). Students wishing to enroll after their second year who have taken PCL201H1 will be considered on a case by case basis. Successful completion of required pre-requisite courses is required to further enroll in upper level program courses.

Completion Requirements:

(8 full courses or their equivalent)

First Year: BIO120H1; BIO130H1; (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1

Second Year: BCH210H1; BIO230H1/(BIO240H1, 241H1); PCL201H1; CHM247H1/CHM249H1; (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1 (NOTE: PSL201Y1 is not acceptable).

Third Year: PCL302H1; BCH311H1

Third or Fourth Year: PCL469H1 and 1.0 full course equivalent from: PCL345H1/PCL389H1/PCL402H1/PCL475Y1/PCL477H1/PCL484H1/PCL486H1/BCH370H1

Fourth Year: PCL470H1/PCL470Y1

NOTES

1. Students are not allowed to enroll concurrently in the Major Program in Pharmacology and the Major Program in Toxicology.
2. Students are not allowed to enroll concurrently in the Major Program in Pharmacology and a Specialist Program in Toxicology.
3. Students are not permitted to take PCL472Y1 or PCL474Y1.

Regarding Pharmacology and Toxicology Courses

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Pharmacology and Toxicology Courses

PCL102H1 - The Art of Drug Discovery

Hours: 24L

This course introduces students to the processes and strategies for discovering new drugs with a special focus on current and emerging approaches for the rational design of drugs that are both effective and safe.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL200H1 - Drugs & the Brain

Hours: 24L

Lectures introduce students to prescribed and illicit drugs that affect the brain. Lectures cover drug pharmacology and explain how drugs alter mood, perception, cognition, and arousal by affecting different aspects of brain function. The societal impact of these prescribed and illicit drugs is also discussed

Exclusion: PSY396H1, PCL302H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL201H1 - Introduction to Pharmacology and Pharmacokinetic Principles

Hours: 36L/6T

A general introduction to the principles of pharmacology and pharmacokinetics. Topics include chemical (drug) absorption, distribution, biotransformation, elimination; the calculation of dosages and pharmacokinetic parameters, variability in drug response, adverse drug reactions and special interest topics.

Prerequisite: BIO120H1, BIO130H1, CHM135H1, CHM136H1

Corequisite: Recommended Co-requisites: BIO230H1/(BIO240H1, BIO241H1), CHM247H1/CHM249H1, PSL300H1/PSL301H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL297H1 - Research Experience in Pharmacology & Toxicology

Hours: 60P

A formal opportunity to gain hands-on experience and develop their skills within a research laboratory setting. Students will have a chance to become familiar and efficient at good lab practices, develop critical thinking and evaluation skills while applying their knowledge and developing trouble shooting skills to practical research questions. This course is Pass/Fail. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: None; Permission of Faculty Supervisor and Departmental Undergraduate Coordinator required.

Recommended Preparation: Completion of at least first year of Life Sciences program.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

PCL302H1 - Pharmacodynamic Principles

Hours: 36L

Topics include biological action of drugs on membranes, enzymes, receptors, neural and hormonal systems, transmission and modulation.

Prerequisite: BIO230H1/(BIO240H1, BIO241H1), CHM247H1/CHM249H1, (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL345H1 - Experimental Approaches in Drug Discovery

Hours: 24L

Lecturers use their own research to demonstrate how they approach a biological question. The lectures emphasize why one approach is chosen over other possible approaches, and explain the strengths and limitations of techniques. Following the one-hour lecture there is an interactive discussion of the experimental approach covered in the lecture.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1; completion of at least 10 FCE

Recommended Preparation: PSL300H1/PSL301H1 or BIO270H1/BIO271H

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL362H1 - Introductory Toxicology

Hours: 27L/5T

Toxicological problems encountered in animals and humans; biochemical mechanisms and clinical factors of toxicological significance; models of drug-related diseases.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, BIO230H1/(BIO240H1, BIO241H1), CHM247H1/CHM249H1, PCL201H1 or Permission of the Course Coordinator

Corequisite: Recommended Co-requisite: PCL302H1, BCH311H1/CSB349H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL366H1 - Basic Pharmacology and Toxicology Laboratory

Hours: 16T/32P

Through practical hands-on laboratory experiments and tutorials, students will be introduced to some basic experimental techniques that are used within pharmacology and toxicology research. This course results from the splitting of PCL365Y and PCL471Y and provides students an opportunity to develop introductory and basic laboratory skills.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1, PSL300H1/PSL301H1

Corequisite: PCL302H1

Exclusion: PCL365Y1/PCL471Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL376H1 - Experimental Design and Data Analysis for Pharmacology and Toxicology

Hours: 30L/6T

This course includes lectures focused on experimental design and the analysis of pharmacological and toxicological data. Topics include: principles of experimental design, data analysis and statistical tests appropriate for each type, use of computing statistical packages, analysis of dose-response and time-response curves and analysis of receptor binding assays. Practical applications and problem sets will be taken up in class and in tutorials.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1

Corequisite: PCL302H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL389H1 - Understanding the Role of Pharmacology and Toxicology in Society

Hours: 24L

This service learning course explores issues surrounding the effects that pharmaceuticals and chemicals have in society. Specifically, it integrates pharmacology and toxicology with social, health and political issues as they relate to drug abuse and addiction. Students are required to interact and work with community partners during the semester (approx 20hrs). Classroom discussions will integrate community experiences with lecture material.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1

Corequisite: PCL302H1; (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL397Y0 - Research Abroad in Pharmacology and Toxicology

Hours: 200P

An independent research project in a pharmacology and/or toxicology laboratory in an approved partner university. This international research experience will be supervised by a faculty member at the partner institution and will allow students to develop critical thinking and evaluation skills while applying their knowledge and trouble shooting skills to practical research questions. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1, PCL302H1, PSL300H1, PSL301H1 with a minimum grade of 65%; permission from the Undergraduate Coordinator

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL402H1 - Pharmacology and Toxicology in Drug Development

Hours: 24L

This course provides the basic principles of drug development, with a primary focus on the application of fundamental principles of pharmacology and toxicology to the design and conduct of early phase clinical trials. This is the phase of the drug development process where much of the innovation and science occurs.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1, PCL302H1

Corequisite: PCL470H1 and/or PCL473Y1

Recommended Preparation: PSL300H1, PSL301H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL461H1 - Advanced Pharmacology Laboratory

Hours: 12T/36P

Advanced laboratory exercises and discussions through tutorials and presentations in selected areas of pharmacology. Enrollment in this course is generally restricted to students enrolled in the Pharmacology Specialist and Pharmacology and Biomedical Toxicology Specialist programs.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1, PCL302H1, PSL300H1/PSL301H1, PCL366H1

Exclusion: PCL365Y1/PCL471Y1

Recommended Preparation: PCL469H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL465H1 - Advanced Toxicology Laboratory

Hours: 16T/32P

An advanced hands-on laboratory course exploring a wide variety of modern experimental techniques currently utilized in toxicology. This course will provide the experimental theory of how the techniques work and their advantages and disadvantages, while additionally allowing students to perform these techniques in the process of addressing toxicological problems. Enrollment in this course is generally restricted to students enrolled in the Biomedical Toxicology Specialist, Pharmacology and Biomedical Toxicology Specialist, and Environment and Toxicology Specialist programs.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1, (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1, PCL302H1, PCL362H1, PCL366H1

Exclusion: PCL365Y/PCL471Y

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL469H1 - Systems Pharmacology I (formerly PCL470Y1)

Hours: 31L/4T

A culmination of pharmacological principles discussing concepts of drug properties and their interactions within the body. The mechanism of action, pharmacological properties including clinical use and adverse effects of drugs acting on the autonomic nervous systems, cardiovascular, renal, respiratory, gastrointestinal and endocrine systems will be examined. Critical evaluation of primary literature and examination of clinical problem-based case studies will be integrated with lecture material through small group sessions.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1, PCL302H1, (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/PSL302Y1, BCH210H1

Exclusion: PCL470Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL470H1 - Systems Pharmacology II (formerly PCL470Y1)

Hours: 31L/4T

A culmination of pharmacological principles discussing concepts of drug properties and their interactions within the body. The mechanism of action, pharmacological properties including clinical use and adverse effects of drugs acting on the central nervous systems and immunological system; antimicrobial and cancer chemotherapeutic agents as well as the potential therapeutic use of endogenous/herbal compounds will be examined. Critical evaluation of primary literature and examination of clinical problem-based case studies will be integrated with lecture material through small group sessions.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1, PCL302H1, (PSL300H1, PSL301H1)/(PSL302H1), BCH210H1

Exclusion: PCL470Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL472Y1 - Project in Pharmacology

Hours: TBA

This course affords students an opportunity for hands-on research experience in a laboratory or applied pharmacology setting. Students will work under the supervision of a faculty member and will submit a final written report and oral presentation. Enrollment is limited and requires permission from the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology. It is the student's responsibility to secure a placement with an approved supervisor before the course begins (a list of potential supervisors can be obtained from the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology). Students will be registered in the course once their ballot form (obtained from the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology) is signed by an approved supervisor and approved by the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology. Students are expected to spend approximately 200 hours towards this project but this will be project/supervisor dependent. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1, PCL302H1, PCL366H1, PCL376H1 and permission of Department

Exclusion: PCL474Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL473Y1 - Interdisciplinary Toxicology

Hours: 48L

This course explores several contemporary topics in biomedical and environmental toxicology with emphasis on how chemicals affect human health. Lectures cover principles of toxicology, the mechanisms of toxicity of a wide variety of toxic agents and the associated toxicities, methodologies used to examine chemical toxicities, risk assessment, and the applications of toxicology. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, PCL201H1, PCL302H1, PCL362H1 or Permission of the Course Coordinator

Recommended Preparation: BCH311H1/CSB349H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL474Y1 - Project in Toxicology

Hours: TBA

This course affords students an opportunity for hands-on research experience in a laboratory or applied toxicology setting. Students will work under the supervision of a staff member and will submit a final written report and oral presentation. Enrollment is limited and requires permission from the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology. It is the students responsibility to secure a placement with an approved supervisor before the course begins (a list of potential supervisors can be obtained from the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology). Students will be registered in the course once their ballot form (obtained from the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology) is signed by an approved supervisor and approved by the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology. Students are expected to spend approximately 200 hours towards this project but this will be project/supervisor dependent. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1, PCL302H1, PCL366H1, PCL376H1 and permission of Department

Exclusion: PCL472Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL475Y1 - Neuropsychopharmacology

Hours: 72L/24T

Major neuro-psychiatric disease syndromes: clinical pathology and neuronal abnormalities; CNS drugs: theories and mechanisms of action.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL477H1 - The DNA Damage Response in Pharmacology and Toxicology

Hours: 24L

Many anticancer drugs and environmental agents exert their cytotoxic effects through DNA damage. This course explores specific pharmacological and toxicological agents that damage DNA and discusses how mammalian cells respond to this DNA damage.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1/BCH242Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL481H1 - The Molecular and Biochemical Basis of Toxicology

Hours: 24L

The biochemical principles and molecular mechanisms underlying the toxicity of drugs and foreign agents. The sequence of events at the molecular level leading to impairment of cell function and the factors which determine and affect toxicity.

Prerequisite: PCL302H1, PCL362H1, BCH210H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL484H1 - Seminars in Pharmacokinetics and Toxicokinetics

Hours: 24S

Each week a scientist affiliated with the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology will discuss the application of pharmacokinetic and/or toxicokinetic principles to their research. This area of study plays an important role in clinical medicine and drug development

Prerequisite: PCL201H1

Recommended Preparation: PCL302H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL486H1 - Pharmacology of Cancer Signaling

Hours: 24L

This course will expand on both classical and cutting edge pharmacological strategies proposed to mitigate the consequences of altered signal transduction in cancer. Students will have the opportunity to develop knowledge on these molecular events and how they can be targeted to improve clinical outcomes. Students will integrate lecture material with assigned readings and assignments.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1/BCH242Y1, PCL302H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PCL491H1 - Clinical Pharmacology Principles and Practice

Hours: 8L/24P

This course will examine the practical and experimental aspects of clinical pharmacology and toxicology. Through practical applications and experiments, students will develop their knowledge in Good Laboratory Practice/Good Clinical Practice, critical evaluation and analysis skills through: performing pharmacokinetic experiments (evaluating  $V_d$ , half-life, and clearance); examining case studies and primary literature in regards to drug-drug interactions and adverse drug reactions.

This elective course can apply towards their program requirements in our Specialist and Major streams and will only be available to fourth year students. The course will meet a need expanding students comprehension in clinical pharmacology and pharmacokinetics in a hands-on practical and advance manner. Students will be evaluated on both written and oral communication skills, team work as well as data analysis and interpretation and critical thinking skills.

Prerequisite: PCL201H1, PCL302H1, at least 15 FCE and completion of upper level laboratory course.

Recommended Preparation: PCL469H1, PCL470H1 or PCL473Y1. Completion of an upper level laboratory course (PCL366H1, PSL372H1, BCH370H1)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

Introduction

The Greek words from which “Philosophy” is formed mean “love of wisdom” and all great philosophers have been moved by an intense devotion to the search for wisdom. Philosophy takes no belief for granted, but examines the grounds for those beliefs which make up people’s fundamental views of the world. Philosophers think about these beliefs as thoroughly and systematically as possible, using methods of conceptual analysis, reasoning, and detailed description.

What distinguishes Philosophy from the physical and social sciences is its concern not only with the truths which are discovered by means of specialized methods of investigation, but with the implications that such discoveries have for human beings in their relations with one another and the world. Moreover, Philosophy has an abiding interest in those basic assumptions about the nature of the physical and social world, and about the nature of enquiry itself, which underlie our scientific and practical endeavours.

The Philosophy Department at the University of Toronto offers courses in most of the main periods and areas of Philosophy, which are listed here with a typical question or the name of one or two central figures: Ancient Philosophy (Plato, Aristotle); Mediaeval Philosophy (Augustine, Aquinas); Early Modern Philosophy (Descartes, Hume, Kant); Nineteenth-Century Philosophy (Hegel, Mill, Marx); Asian Philosophy (Chinese Philosophy) Continental Philosophy and Phenomenology (Husserl, Heidegger, Sartre); Analytic Philosophy (Quine, Russell, Wittgenstein); Epistemology and Metaphysics (What can be known? What is the ultimate nature of reality?); Moral Philosophy (How should we argue rationally about right and wrong?); Philosophy of Mind (What is mind? Is there free will?); Logic and Philosophy of Mathematics (What is sound reasoning? Do numbers exist?); Philosophy of Language (What is the meaning of "meaning"?); Philosophy of Natural Science (What is scientific method?); Social and Political Philosophy (What justifies the state?); Aesthetics (What is art? Must it be beautiful?). In addition, the Department offers Seminars (numbered PHL400H1 - PHL488H1), Individual Studies courses (numbered PHL495H1 - PHL499H1) and the Socrates Project (PHL489Y1).

Counselling is available in the main departmental office, 170 St. George St., 4th floor. In particular, students may wish to get advice about how best to combine philosophy programs with other majors or minors, given that various co-specialist programs with other disciplines have been discontinued. In addition, the Department publishes an annual Bulletin. It contains full and up-to-date information on programs and courses, including names of instructors and descriptions of particular course sections. The Bulletin is published in the summer (for the succeeding year) and is available on the Department's website and at 170 St. George Street.

PHL355H1, PHL356H1, (PHL415H1/PHL482H1), plus 2.5 FCE
additional PHL courses, including at least 0.5 at the 300+ level

Bioethics Major (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

7 full courses or their equivalent including at least 2.0 FCEs at the 300+ level of which 0.5 FCE must be at 400 level.

First year (recommended):

PHL100Y1/PHL101Y1
BIO120H1, BIO220H1

Higher Years (required):

1. PHL281H1
2. PHL245H1/PHL246H1
3. 1.0 FCE from Group 1 (Advanced Bioethics)
4. 1.5 FCEs from PHL271H1 / PHL275H1 / Group 2 (Value Theory)
5. 0.5 FCE from Group 3 (Metaphysics and Epistemology).
6. Additional philosophy courses, to a total of 7.0 FCEs, or else additional philosophy courses to a total of 6.5 FCEs, plus 0.5 FCE from Group 4 (Interdisciplinary).

Philosophy Major (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(7 full courses or their equivalent, including PHL100Y1/PHL101Y1 if taken)

First year (recommended):

PHL100Y1/PHL101Y1

Higher Years (required):

1. 1.0 FCE from the following: PHL200Y1 / (PHL205H1, PHL206H1) / PHL210Y1
2. 1.0 FCE from the following: PHL217H1 / PHL232H1 / PHL240H1
3. PHL265H1 / PHL275H1
4. PHL245H1 / PHL246H1
5. Additional philosophy courses, to a total of 7.0 FCEs, including 2.0 PHL FCEs at the 300+ level, of which 0.5 FCE must be at the 400 level.

Bioethics Minor (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(4 full courses or their equivalent including at least 1.0 FCE at 300+ level)

1. PHL281H1
2. PHL245H1/PHL246H1
3. 0.5 FCE from Group 1 (Advanced Bioethics)
4. 1.0 FCE from PHL271H1 / PHL275H1 / Group 2 (Value Theory)
5. Additional philosophy courses to a total of 4.0 FCEs.

Philosophy Minor (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(4 full courses or their equivalent, including PHL100Y1/PHL101Y1 if taken)

1. 1.0 FCE from the following: PHL200Y1 / (PHL205H1, PHL206H1) / PHL210Y1
2. Additional philosophy courses, to a total of 4.0 FCE's, including 1.0 FCE at the 300+ level.

Mathematics and Philosophy Specialist (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

Consult the Undergraduate Coordinators of the Departments of Mathematics and Philosophy.

(12.0 FCE including at least 1.0 FCE at the 400-level)

First Year:

MAT157Y1, MAT240H1, MAT247H1; PHL232H1 or PHL233H1

Higher Years:

1. MAT257Y1, MAT327H1, MAT347Y1, MAT354H1/MAT357H1
2. PHL345H1, MAT309H1/PHL348H1
3. Four of: PHL325H1, PHL331H1, PHL332H1, PHL346H1, PHL347H1, PHL349H1, PHL355H1, PHL451H1, PHL480H1
4. 1.0 FCE from PHL200Y1 / PHL205H1 / PHL206H1 / PHL210Y1
5. PHL265H1 / PHL275H1
6. Additional 2.0 FCE from PHL or MAT to a total of 12.0 FCE

NOTE: Students with a CGPA of 3.5 and above may apply to have graduate level math courses count towards their 400-level course requirements.

Regarding Philosophy Courses

The following courses do not have PHL prefixes but may still be counted towards a philosophy program. Students should consult the primary listings for their course descriptions: COG250Y1, COG401H1, HPS250H1, HPS350H1, TRN200Y1.

300-SERIES COURSES

All 300-series courses have a prerequisite of three half credits (or equivalent) in philosophy, with the exception of PHL345H1 - PHL349H1 and PHL356H1. There is also a general prerequisite of 7.5 courses (in any field). Only specific courses required or recommended are listed below. Students who do not meet the prerequisite for a particular course but believe that they have adequate preparation must obtain the permission of the instructor to gain entry to the course.

400-SERIES COURSES

1. The general prerequisite for ALL 400-level courses is eight half-courses in philosophy. Most courses also have specific prerequisites. Students who do not meet the prerequisite for a particular course but believe that they have adequate preparation must obtain the permission of the instructor in order to gain entry to the course.
2. PHL400H1-PHL451H1 are undergraduate-level courses. PHL470H1-PHL488H1 are cross-listed graduate courses, available to undergraduates as well. Enrolment in cross-listed graduate courses requires the permission of the instructor and the Department in addition to the completion of the prerequisites indicated below.
3. Students in 400-level courses must attend the first class, or contact the instructor to explain their absence. Failure to do so may result in removal from the course.
4. Individual Studies courses (PHL495H1/PHL496H1/PHL497H1), which involve directed study and research, are available to advanced students. Arrangements must be made with a faculty supervisor, and approval of the Undergraduate Coordinator obtained before registration.
5. No more than one individual studies credit can be counted towards any philosophy program and normally, no more than one individual studies half credit can be counted towards the 400-level course requirement for any Specialist or Combined Specialist Philosophy program.
6. The Socrates Project (PHL489Y1) is a special enrolment course. If you are interested in this course, please contact the department.

Philosophy Courses

PHL100Y1 - Introduction to Philosophy

Hours: 48L/24T

An introduction to the central branches of philosophy, such as logic, theory of knowledge, metaphysics, ethics, and political philosophy. Writings from the central figures in the history of Western and non-Western philosophy, as well as contemporary philosophers, may be considered.

Exclusion: PHL101Y1, PHL102Y1, PHL201H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL101Y1 - Introduction to Philosophical Problems

Hours: 48L/24T

An introduction to some of the central problems of philosophy. Examples of questions that may be considered include: What is sound reasoning? What can we know? What is ultimately real? Is morality rational? Do humans have free will? Is there a God? What is consciousness? Should we fear death? What is justice?

Exclusion: PHL100Y1; PHL201H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL200Y1 - Ancient Philosophy

Hours: 72L

Central texts of the pre-Socratics, Plato, Aristotle, and post-Aristotelian philosophy.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL201H1 - Introductory Philosophy

Hours: 36L

An introduction to philosophy focusing on the connections among its main branches: logic, theory of knowledge, metaphysics, and ethics. This course is intended for those with little or no philosophy background but who have completed four FCEs in any subject.

Prerequisite: Four FCEs in any subject

Exclusion: PHL100Y1, PHL102Y1, or more than 1.0 PHL course

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL205H1 - Early Medieval Philosophy

Hours: 36L

A study of issues such as the relations of reason and faith, the being and the nature of God, and the problem of universals, in the writings of such philosophers as Augustine, Boethius, Anselm and Abelard.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL206H1 - Later Medieval Philosophy

Hours: 36L

A study of issues such as the relations of reason and faith, the being and the nature of God, and the structure of the universe, in the writings of such philosophers as Aquinas and Ockham.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL210Y1 - 17th-and 18th-Century Philosophy

Hours: 72L

Central texts of such philosophers as Hobbes, Descartes, Spinoza, Leibniz, Locke, Berkeley, Hume, and Kant.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL217H1 - Introduction to Continental Philosophy

Hours: 36L

An introduction to some of the post-Hegelian thinkers who inspired the various philosophical movements broadly referred to as continental, such as phenomenology, existentialism, deconstruction, and post-modernism. Questions include the will, faith, death, existence, history and politics, rationality and its limits, encountering an other. Authors studied may include: Kierkegaard, Schopenhauer, Nietzsche, Marx, Freud, Heidegger, Sartre.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL232H1 - Knowledge and Reality

Hours: 36L

An introduction to issues in the fundamental branches of philosophy: metaphysics, which considers the overall framework of reality; epistemology, or the theory of knowledge; and related problems in the philosophy of science. Topics in metaphysics may include: mind and body, causality, space and time, God, freedom and determinism; topics in epistemology may include perception, evidence, belief, truth, skepticism.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL233H1 - Philosophy for Scientists

Hours: 24L/12T

An introduction to philosophy tailored for students with backgrounds in mathematics and science. Topics include causation, explanation, the relation between scientific and mathematical theories and reality, the role of mathematics in scientific theories, the relevance of scientific and mathematical discoveries to 'big' traditional philosophical questions such as the nature of consciousness, whether we have free will, and the meaning of life.

Corequisite: 1.0 FCE in Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Engineering, or Computer Science

Recommended Preparation: Background in science and/or mathematics will be presupposed.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL235H1 - Philosophy of Religion

Hours: 36L

Some central issues in the philosophy of religion such as the nature of religion and religious faith, arguments for the existence of God, the problem of evil, varieties of religious experience, religion and human autonomy.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL237H1 - History of Chinese Philosophy

Hours: 36L

An historical and systematic introduction to the main phases of Chinese philosophical development, including Confucianism, Taoism, Buddhism, and Neo-Confucianism; the challenge of Western thought and the development of modern Chinese Philosophy.

Exclusion: EAS241H1, RLG274H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL240H1 - Persons, Minds and Bodies

Hours: 36L

Consciousness and its relation to the body; personal identity and survival; knowledge of other minds; psychological events and behaviour.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL243H1 - Philosophy of Human Sexuality

Hours: 36L

Philosophical issues about sex and sexual identity in the light of biological, psychological and ethical theories of sex and gender; the concept of gender; male and female sex roles; perverse sex; sexual liberation; love and sexuality.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL244H1 - Human Nature

Hours: 36L

Aspects of human nature, e.g., emotion, instincts, motivation. Theories of human nature, e.g., behaviourism, psychoanalysis.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL245H1 - Modern Symbolic Logic

Hours: 36L

The application of symbolic techniques to the assessment of arguments. Propositional calculus and quantification theory. Logical concepts, techniques of natural deduction.

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL246H1 - Probability and Inductive Logic

Hours: 36L

The elements of axiomatic probability theory and its main interpretations (frequency, logical, and subjective). Reasoning with probabilities in decision-making and science.

Recommended Preparation: PHL245H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL247H1 - Critical Reasoning

Hours: 36L

The area of informal logic - the logic of ordinary language, usually non-deductive. Criteria for the critical assessment of arguments as strong or merely persuasive. Different types of arguments and techniques of refutation; their use and abuse.

Exclusion: TRN200Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL265H1 - Introduction to Political Philosophy

Hours: 36L

An introduction to central issues in political philosophy, e.g., political and social justice, liberty and the criteria of good government. The writings of contemporary political philosophers, as well as major figures in the history of philosophy, may be considered.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHL268H1 - Philosophy and Social Criticism

Hours: 36L

Is the objective of philosophy to understand and interpret the world, or to change it? A study of theorists who have taken philosophy to be a tool for social criticism. Topics studied may include feminism, critical race theory, anti-consumerism, the critique of mass society, and conservative cultural criticism.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHL271H1 - Law and Morality

Hours: 36L

Justifications for the legal enforcement of morality; particular ethical issues arising out of the intersection of law and morality, such as punishment, freedom of expression and censorship, autonomy and paternalism, constitutional protection of human rights.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHL273H1 - Environmental Ethics

Hours: 36L

A study of environmental issues raising questions of concern to moral and political philosophers, such as property rights, responsibility for future generations, and the interaction of human beings with the rest of nature. Typical issues: sustainable development, alternative energy, the preservation of wilderness areas, animal rights.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHL275H1 - Introduction to Ethics

Hours: 36L

An introduction to central issues in ethics or moral philosophy, such as the objectivity of values, the nature of moral judgements, rights and duties, the virtues, and consequentialism. Readings may be drawn from a variety of contemporary and historical sources.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL281H1 - Bioethics (formerly PHL281Y1)

Hours: 36L

An introduction to the study of moral and legal problems in medical practice and in biomedical research; the development of health policy. Topics include: concepts of health and disease, patient rights, informed consent, allocation of scarce resources, euthanasia, abortion, genetic and reproductive technologies, human research, and mental health.

Exclusion: PHL281Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHL285H1 - Aesthetics

Hours: 36L

An historical and systematic introduction to the main questions in the philosophy of art and beauty from Plato to the present. These include the relation between art and beauty, the nature of aesthetic experience, definitions and theories of art, the criteria of excellence in the arts, and the function of art criticism.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

PHL295H1 - Business Ethics

Hours: 36L

Philosophical issues in ethics, social theory, and theories of human nature insofar as they bear on contemporary conduct of business. Issues include: Does business have moral responsibilities? Can social costs and benefits be calculated? Does modern business life determine human nature or the other way around? Do political ideas and institutions such as democracy have a role within business?

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHL299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL301H1 - Early Greek Philosophy

Hours: 36L

A study of selected Greek philosophers before Plato. Topics may include the Pre-Socratic natural philosophers, Parmenides and the Eleatics, and the so-called sophistic movement.

PHL340H1 - Issues in Philosophy of Mind

Hours: 36L

Typical issues include: the mind-brain identity theory; intentionality and the mental; personal identity.

Prerequisite: One of COG250Y1/PHL240H1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL341H1 - Freedom, Responsibility, and Human Action

Hours: 36L

Human action, and the nature of freedom and responsibility in the light of contemporary knowledge concerning the causation of behaviour.

Prerequisite: PHL210Y1/PHL232H1/PHL233H1/PHL240H1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy
Distribution Requirements: Humanities
Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL342H1 - Minds and Machines

Hours: 36L

Topics include: philosophical foundations of artificial intelligence theory; the computational theory of the mind; functionalism vs. reductionism; the problems of meaning in the philosophy of mind.

Prerequisite: 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy/COG250Y1
Distribution Requirements: Humanities
Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL344H1 - Philosophy of Emotions

Hours: 36L

A survey of philosophical topics related to the emotions, from a range of philosophical perspectives. Questions to be considered may include the following: What exactly is an emotion? Are emotions feelings? What emotions are there, and how are they shaped by culture and society? How are emotions related to reason, the brain and the body? What role do -- and should -- the emotions play in decision-making? Can an emotion be morally right or wrong, and what makes it so?

Prerequisite: PHL240H1/PHL244H1/PHL342H1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy
Distribution Requirements: Humanities
Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL345H1 - Intermediate Logic

Hours: 36L

A survey of several major areas of formal logic and their application to philosophical problems, applying formal techniques and building directly on PHL245. Possible topics include set theory, non-classical logics, modal logic and metalogic.

Prerequisite: PHL245H1/MAT157Y1 and a full course in PHL/CSC/MAT
Distribution Requirements: Humanities
Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL346H1 - Philosophy of Mathematics

Hours: 36L

Platonism versus nominalism, the relation between logic and mathematics, implications of Gödel's theorem, formalism and intuitionism.

Prerequisite: PHL245H1/MAT157Y1 and a full course in PHL/CSC/MAT
Distribution Requirements: Humanities
Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL347H1 - Modal Logic

Hours: 36L

Formal study of the concepts of necessity and possibility; modal, propositional and quantificational logic; possible-worlds semantics; the metaphysics of modality.

Prerequisite: PHL245H1/MAT157Y1 and a full course in PHL/CSC/MAT
Recommended Preparation: PHL345H1
Distribution Requirements: Humanities
Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL348H1 - Logic and Computation

Hours: 36L

Topics will include Kurt Gödel's celebrated incompleteness theorems, the technical ideas and methods involved in proving them, their relation to the abstract theory of computation, and their philosophical implications. Are there mathematical truths that cannot be known? Are mathematical concepts such as number and set indeterminate to some extent? Are there limits to what can be modeled formally?

Prerequisite: PHL245H1/MAT157Y1 and a full course in PHL/CSC/MAT

Exclusion: MAT309H1/CSC438H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL349H1 - Set Theory

Hours: 36L

An introduction to set theory emphasizing its philosophical relevance as a unifying framework for mathematics and logic. Topics examined may include the paradoxes of the 'naïve' conception of sets and their resolution through axiomatization, the construction of natural numbers and real numbers in set theory, equivalents of the axiom of choice, and model theory.

Prerequisite: PHL245H1/MAT157Y1 and a full course in PHL/CSC/MAT

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL351H1 - Philosophy of Language

Hours: 36L

The nature of language as a system of human communication, theories of meaning and meaningfulness, the relation of language to the world and to the human mind.

Prerequisite: PHL245H1/PHL157Y1 and one of PHL232H1/PHL233H1/PHL240H1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL355H1 - Philosophy of Natural Science

Hours: 36L

The structure and methods of science: explanation, methodology, realism and instrumentalism.

Recommended Preparation: A solid background in science or HPS250H1/PHL246H1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL356H1 - Philosophy of Physics

Hours: 36L

Introduction to philosophical issues which arise in modern physics, especially in Relativity and Quantum Mechanics. Topics include: the nature of spacetime, conventionality in geometry, determinism, and the relation between observation and existence.

Prerequisite: One full course in MAT/PHY; two full courses are recommended.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL357H1 - Philosophy of Biology

Hours: 36L

Philosophical issues in the foundations of biology, e.g., the nature of life, evolutionary theory; controversies about natural selection; competing mechanisms, units of selection; the place of teleology in biology; biological puzzles about sex and sexual reproduction; the problem of species; genetics and reductionism; sociobiology; natural and artificial life.

Prerequisite: 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy. Students with a background in Biology are exempt from the prerequisite of 1.5 courses in Philosophy

Recommended Preparation: HPS250H1/PHL246H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL362H1 - Philosophy of History

Hours: 36L

Typical questions include: Has history any meaning? Can there be general theories of history? How are the findings of historians related to the theories of metaphysics and of science? Is history deterministic? Must the historian make value judgements? Is history science or an art? Are there historical forces or spirits of an epoch?

Prerequisite: 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL365H1 - Political Philosophy

Hours: 36L

A study of some of the central problems of political philosophy, addressed by historical and contemporary political theorists.

Prerequisite: PHL265H1/POL200Y1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL366H1 - Topics in Political Philosophy

Hours: 39L

A focused examination of a selected issue in political philosophy.

Prerequisite: PHL265H1/POL200Y1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL367H1 - Philosophy of Feminism (formerly PHL267H1)

Hours: 36L

Selected issues and topics in the philosophy of feminism.

Prerequisite: PHL265H1/PHL268H1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy

Exclusion: PHL267H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL370H1 - Issues in Philosophy of Law

Hours: 36L

Major issues in philosophy of law, such as legal positivism and its critics, law and liberalism, feminist critiques of law, punishment and responsibility.

Prerequisite: PHL271H1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy

Recommended Preparation: PHL265H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL373H1 - Issues in Environmental Ethics

Hours: 36L

An intermediate-level examination of key issues in environmental philosophy, such as the ethics of animal welfare, duties to future generations, deep ecology, ecofeminism, sustainable development and international justice.

Prerequisite: PHL273H1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL375H1 - Ethics

Hours: 36L

An intermediate-level study of selected issues in moral philosophy, or of influential contemporary or historical works in ethical theory.

Prerequisite: PHL275H1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL376H1 - Topics in Moral Philosophy

Hours: 39L

A focused examination of a selected issue in moral philosophy.

Prerequisite: PHL275H1, 7.5 courses (in any field) with at least 1.5 in philosophy

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PHL378H1 - War and Morality

Hours: 36L

Moral and political issues concerning warfare: the theory of the just war, pacifism, moral constraints on the conduct of war, war as an instrument of foreign policy, the strategy of deterrence. Special attention to the implications of nuclear weapons.

PHL410H1 - Seminar in Continental Philosophy

Hours: 36S

Advanced study of recent philosophical discussions within the continental tradition.

Prerequisite: PHL217H1/PHL315H1/PHL316H1/PHL319H1/PHL320H1/PHL321H1/PHL322H1, 4.0 credits in philosophy
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL411H1 - Seminar in Analytic Philosophy

Hours: 36S

Advanced study of some topic of current philosophical interest within the analytic tradition.

Prerequisite: PHL245H1/MAT157Y1 and one of PHL232H1/PHL233H1/PHL240H1, 4.0 credits in philosophy
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL412H1 - Seminar in Political Philosophy

Hours: 36S

Advanced study of some topic in social or political philosophy.

Prerequisite: PHL265H1/PHL271H1, 4.0 credits in philosophy
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL413H1 - Seminar in Applied Ethics

Hours: 36S

Advanced study of some topic in an area of applied ethics, including bioethics, environmental ethics, and so on.

Prerequisite: PHL271H1/PHL273H1/PHL275H1/PHL281Y1, 4.0 credits in philosophy
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL414H1 - Seminar in Philosophy of Religion

Hours: 36S

Advanced study of topics in the philosophy of religion.

Prerequisite: PHL235H1/PHL335H1, 4.0 credits in philosophy
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL415H1 - Seminar in Philosophy of Science

Hours: 36S

Advanced study of some area or problem in the philosophy of science.

Prerequisite: One of PHL355H1 PHL357H1 or HPS250H1, 4.0 credits in philosophy
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL440H1 - Clinical Bioethics

Hours: 36S

Advanced study of topics in bioethics, taught in conjunction with clinical bioethicists associated with the health care organization partners of the University of Toronto Joint Centre for Bioethics.

Prerequisite: PHL281H1, 4.0 credits in philosophy. Limited to students enrolled in the Bioethics Specialist or Bioethics Major programs.
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL451H1 - Seminar in Logic/Philosophy of Language

Hours: 36S

Advanced study of some topic in logic and/or the philosophy of language.

Prerequisite: PHL245H1/MAT157Y1 and one of PHL232H1/PHL233H1/PHL240H1/PHL246H1, 4.0 credits in philosophy
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL470H1 - Advanced Bioethics

Hours: 36S

Philosophical exploration of the foundations and methodology of bioethics. Offered jointly with PHL2145H.

Prerequisite: PHL281H1 and one of PHL380H1/PHL381H1/PHL382H1/PHL383H1/PHL384H1, and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot). Limited to students enrolled in the Bioethics Specialist or Bioethics Major programs.
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL471H1 - Advanced Topics in Greek Philosophy

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Greek Philosophy

Prerequisite: PHL200Y1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL472H1 - Advanced Topics in Medieval Philosophy

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Medieval Philosophy

Prerequisite: PHL200Y1/PHL205H1/ PHL206H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL473H1 - Advanced Topics in Modern Philosophy

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Modern Philosophy

Prerequisite: PHL210Y1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL475H1 - Advanced Topics in Moral Philosophy

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Moral Philosophy

Prerequisite: PHL275H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL476H1 - Advanced Topics in Epistemology

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Epistemology

Prerequisite: PHL232H1/PHL233H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL477H1 - Advanced Topics in Metaphysics

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Metaphysics

Prerequisite: PHL232H1/PHL233H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL478H1 - Advanced Topics in Philosophy of Religion

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Philosophy of Religion

Prerequisite: PHL235H1/PHL335H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)
Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL479H1 - Advanced Topics in Philosophy of Mind

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Philosophy of Mind

Prerequisite: UNI250Y1/PHL240H1/PHL340H1/ PHL341H1/ PHL342H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL480H1 - Advanced Topics in Logic

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Logic

Prerequisite: Two of PHL344H1 - PHL349H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL481H1 - Advanced Topics in the Philosophy of Language

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in the Philosophy of Language

Prerequisite: PHL351H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL482H1 - Advanced Topics in Philosophy of Natural Science

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Philosophy of Natural Science

Prerequisite: One of PHL355H1 PHL357H1 or HPS250H1, and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL483H1 - Advanced Topics in Social and Political Philosophy

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Social and Political Philosophy

Prerequisite: PHL265H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL484H1 - Advanced Topics in the Philosophy of Law

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in the Philosophy of Law

Prerequisite: PHL271H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL485H1 - Advanced Topics in Aesthetics

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Aesthetics

Prerequisite: PHL285H1/PHL385H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL486H1 - Advanced Topics in Philosophy of History

Hours: 36S

Advanced Topics in Philosophy of History

Prerequisite: PHL362H1 and permission of the instructor and Department (by ballot)

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL487H1 - Advanced Topics in Philosophy

Hours: TBA

Advanced Topics in Philosophy

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor and Department

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL496H1 - Individual Studies (formerly PHL396H1)

Hours: TBA

Individual Studies. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL488H1 - Advanced Topics in Philosophy

Hours: TBA

Advanced Topics in Philosophy

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor and Department

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL497H1 - Individual Studies (formerly PHL397H1)

Hours: TBA

Individual Studies. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL489Y1 - Advanced Topics in Philosophy

Hours: TBA

Advanced Topics in Philosophy

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor and Department

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL498H1 - Individual Studies (formerly PHL398H1)

Hours: TBA

Individual Studies. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL490Y1 - Individual Studies (formerly PHL390Y1)

Hours: TBA

Individual Studies. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PHL499H1 - Individual Studies (formerly PHL399H1)

Hours: TBA

Individual Studies. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Introduction

Physics forms the bedrock of our understanding of Nature. Any physical object or process, or even the structure of the whole universe itself, can be the subject of physics. Physicists study an extremely diverse array of systems, from the simplest subatomic particles to the most complex processes found in biological cells or in the Earth's climate. Physics provides a comprehensive set of fundamental tools that can be brought to bear on many problems across a wide variety of fields.

Students can choose between Specialist Programs in Physics or Physics combined with numerous other sciences, as well as Philosophy. In addition, the Physics Major and Minor programs give the student the option of mixing Physics with the nearly limitless array of science and non-science programs available across the University. As well, students have the opportunity to do original research and to undertake independent supervised studies for course credit.

A program in physics has much to offer. Beyond the traditional careers of teaching and research, a knowledge of physics is a powerful asset in professions like Medicine or Law, or for careers involving the environmental, geological or biological sciences. An understanding of physics is essential for those who are concerned about how society is affected by climate change or advanced technology. The conceptual problem-solving tools one acquires as a physicist can be applied with great success to many occupations.

The Physics Specialist Program offers intensive training in all aspects of physics. Courses can be selected in order to emphasize the experimental, theoretical or applied sides of physics. In fourth year, students intending to undertake graduate studies are encouraged to take advanced optional courses. These courses, which reflect the excellence and research diversity of the faculty, are offered in areas such as Relativity, High Energy Physics, Quantum Optics, Condensed Matter, Geophysics and Atmospheric Physics.

The Specialist Program in Biological Physics combines the analytical problem solving skills of the physicist with sound backgrounds in relevant biology and biochemistry. The interface between biology and physics lies at the forefront of the rapidly growing field of quantitative biology.

The Professional Experience Year program ("PEY": see also <http://www.engineeringcareers.utoronto.ca/programs/pey.htm>) is available to eligible, full-time Arts & Science Specialist students after their second year of study. Physics students are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to apply their scientific and mathematical skills in a 12-16 month professional internship.

The Departmental website gives detailed information on programs and courses, and describes the operation of the Department and the counseling services available. All students, most particularly those entering first year, are strongly urged to consult the web site before term begins.

Physics Programs

Biological Physics Specialist (Science Program)

Description:

The Biological Physics specialist program focuses on the physical principles that organize complex biological phenomena. How do cells use chemical energy to generate motion? How does diffusion limit the ability of cells to measure the concentration of chemicals? How do neurons transmit and process information? How does blood flow through a beating heart? Biological Physics deals with problems at the interface of Physics, Molecular Biology, and Physiology, and covers the full range of scales, from the molecular, to the organismic. Students in this program will be trained to think rigorously and quantitatively about a wide range of interdisciplinary problems, will be well prepared to work in a variety of fields such as medicine and biotechnology, and will be ready to undertake graduate work in the fast-emerging field of Biological Physics and its related specialties including Immunology, Physiology, Neuroscience, and Bioengineering..

The program is offered as a partnership between the Departments of Physics, Biochemistry, Chemistry, and Physiology (referred to as "partner departments"). All students take the Core courses in Physics, Mathematics, Biology, Biochemistry, and Chemistry. The Core also includes a specialized course in Biological Physics (PHY331H1) and a third-year laboratory course from one of the partner departments. Students then choose one of four Streams (below) consisting of additional courses from the partner departments.

Biological Physics Specialist: Advanced Physics Stream (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

Core Biological Physics Courses (11.5 FCE)

First Year (3.0 FCE): (CHM138H1/CHM136H1, CHM139H1/CHM135H1)/CHM151Y1, (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1, PHY131H1/PHY151H1, PHY132H1/PHY152H1 (PHY151H1, PHY152H1 recommended)

First or Second Year (1.0 FCE): BIO130H1, MAT223H1

Second Year (3.0 FCE): BCH210H1, (MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1), MAT244H1, PHY250H1, PHY252H1

Second or Third Year (0.5 FCE): BIO230H1/BIO255H1

Third Year (2.0 FCE): PHY224H1, PHY254H1, PHY256H1, PHY354H1

Third or Fourth Year (2.0 FCE):

1. PHY331H1
2. PHY324H1/BCH370H1/CHM327H1/PSL372H1
3. 1.0 FCE, including at least 0.5 FCE at the 400 level, from

APM346H1/MAT334H1/MAT354H1/PHY-300 level courses/PHY-400 level courses.

Additional Requirements for the Advanced Physics Stream (2.5 FCE):

1. (BCH311H1, BCH340H1)/(PSL300H1, PSL301H1)
2. PHY431H1 and 1.0 FCE from additional courses from APM346H1/MAT334H1/MAT354H1/PHY300-level courses /PHY 400-level courses/JPE395H1/JPE493H1

Integrative, Inquiry-Based Activity Requirement

The choices in the program must satisfy the requirement for an integrative, inquiry-based activity by including at least one of the following courses: IMM435H1, PHY371Y1, PHY372H1, PHY396Y0, PHY397Y0, PHY398H0, PHY399Y0, PHY407H1, PHY424H1, PHY426H1, PHY428H1, PHY429H1, PHY471Y1, PHY472H1, PHY478H1, PHY479H1, PSL304H, PSL305H, and PSL372H1

Notes:

Students are encouraged but not required to enroll in the independent project courses PHY478H1/PHY479Y1. These students may be supervised by faculty in the Departments of Physics, Biochemistry, Chemistry, Immunology, and Physiology. Students are required to have a B average in the program courses, identify a supervisor, and consult the Associate Chair of Physics (Undergraduate Studies) before enrolling in PHY478H1/PHY479Y1.

Students might wish to enroll in 300- and 400-level courses in the partner life science departments that are not listed above. These students will need approval to take these courses from the Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies) prior to enrollment in the course.

On approval of the Department of Physics, students who enroll in CHM222H1/CHM225Y1 will not have to take PHY252H1. PHY 252H1 is required for the Life Science and Advanced Physics Stream.

Biological Physics Specialist: Biochemistry Stream (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

Core Biological Physics Courses (11.5 FCE):

First Year (3.0 FCE): (CHM138H1/CHM136H1, CHM139H1/CHM135H1)/CHM151Y1, (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1, PHY131H1/PHY151H1, PHY132H1/PHY152H1 (PHY151H1, PHY152H1 recommended)

First or Second Year (1.0 FCE): BIO130H1, MAT223H1

Second Year (3.0 FCE): BCH210H1, (MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1), MAT244H1, PHY250H1, PHY252H1

Second or Third Year (0.5FCE): BIO230H1/BIO255H1

Third Year (2.0 FCE): PHY224H1, PHY254H1, PHY256H1, PHY354H1

Third or Fourth Year (2.0 FCE):

1. PHY331H1
2. PHY324H1/BCH370H1/CHM327H1/PSL372H1
3. 1.0 FCE, including at least 0.5 FCE at the 400 level, from APM346H1/MAT334H1/MAT354H1/PHY-300 level courses/PHY-400 level courses.

Additional Courses for the Biochemistry Stream (2.5 FCE):

1. BCH311H1, BCH340H1
2. 1.5 FCE from BCH370H1/BCH400-level BCH courses. Excludes BCH472Y1, BCH473Y1, BCH478H1, BCH479H1

Integrative, Inquiry-Based Activity Requirement

The choices in the program must satisfy the requirement for an integrative, inquiry-based activity by including at least one of the following courses: IMM435H1, PHY371Y1, PHY372H1, PHY396Y0, PHY397Y0, PHY398H0, PHY399Y0, PHY407H1, PHY424H1, PHY426H1, PHY428H1, PHY429H1, PHY471Y1, PHY472H1, PHY478H1, PHY479H1, PSL304H, PSL305H, and PSL372H1

Biological Physics Specialist: Immunology Stream (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

Core Biological Physics Courses (11.5 FCE)

First Year (3.0 FCE): (CHM138H1/CHM136H1, CHM139H1/CHM135H1) /CHM151Y1, (MAT135H1, MAT136H1) /MAT137Y1, PHY131H1/PHY151H1, PHY132H1/PHY152H1 (PHY151H1, PHY152H1 recommended)

First or Second Year (1.0 FCE): BIO130H1, MAT223H1

Second Year (3.0 FCE): BCH210H1, (MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1), MAT244H1, PHY250H1, PHY252H1

Second or Third Year (0.5FCE): BIO230H1/BIO255H1

Third Year (2.0 FCE): PHY224H1, PHY254H1, PHY256H1, PHY354H1

Third or Fourth Year (2.0 FCE):

Third or Fourth Year (2.0 FCE):

1. PHY331H1
2. PHY324H1/BCH370H1/CHM327H1/PSL372H1
3. 1.0 FCE, including at least 0.5 FCE at the 400 level, from APM346H1/MAT334H1/MAT354H1/PHY-300 level courses/PHY-400 level courses.

Additional Courses for the Physiology Stream (2.5 FCE):

1. PSL300H1, PSL301H1
2. 1.5 FCE, including at least 0.5 FCE at the 400 level, from PSL304H1/PSL305H1/PSL372H1/PSL400-level courses

Integrative, Inquiry-Based Activity Requirement

The choices in the program must satisfy the requirement for an integrative, inquiry-based activity by including at least one of the following courses: IMM435H1, PHY371Y1, PHY372H1, PHY396Y0, PHY397Y0, PHY398H0, PHY399Y0, PHY407H1, PHY424H1, PHY426H1, PHY428H1, PHY429H1, PHY471Y1, PHY472H1, PHY478H1, PHY479H1, PSL304H, PSL305H, and PSL372H1

Notes:

Students are encouraged but not required to enroll in the independent project courses PHY478H1/PHY479Y1. These students may be supervised by faculty in the Departments of Physics, Biochemistry, Chemistry, Immunology, and Physiology. Students are required to have a B average in the program courses, identify a supervisor, and consult the Associate Chair of Physics (Undergraduate Studies) before enrolling in PHY478H1/PHY479Y1.

Students might wish to enroll in 300- and 400-level courses in the partner life science departments that are not listed above. These students will need approval to take these courses from the Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies) prior to enrollment in the course.

On approval of the Department of Physics, students who enroll in CHM222H1/CHM225Y1 will not have to take PHY252H1. PHY252H1 is required for the Life Science and Advanced Physics Stream.

Physics and Philosophy Specialist (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

Physics has deep historical roots in natural philosophy and many aspects of contemporary Physics raise profound philosophical questions about the nature of reality. The interdisciplinary Physics and Philosophy Program allows the student to engage with both Physics and Philosophy at their deepest levels, and to more fully explore the connections between them.

Consult Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies), Department of Physics or Philosophy.

(16.0 full courses or their equivalent, including at least 2.0 full courses at the 400 level)

First Year: (3.5 FCE)

(MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, MAT223H1/MAT240H1, PHY131H1/PHY151H1, PHY132H1/PHY152H1, PHL100Y1/PHL101Y1

(The courses MAT137Y1, MAT223H1, PHY151H1, PHY152H1 are recommended.)

Second Year: (3.5 FCE)

Any Year: (5.0 FCE)

PHL245H1, (PHL345H1/PHL347H1/PHL348H1/PHL349H1), PHL355H1, PHL356H1, (PHL415H1/PHL482H1), plus 2.5 FCE additional PHL courses, including at least 0.5 at the 300+ level

Physics Specialist (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

The Physics Specialist Program offers rigorous training in the full spectrum of core physics subfields, as well as their numerous important applications. Practical courses treat the experimental and computational aspects and complement the lecture courses. Physics concerns many of the most fundamental questions in our scientific understanding of the universe. What is the nature of matter and energy at the smallest scales? What are the physical processes that govern the Earth's climate? What is the nature of light and how can it be controlled? How do the collective properties of solids emerge from those of individual atoms? How do biological processes organize themselves to maintain their survival? What is the structure and evolution of the Earth and the other planets? How can quantum information be used for computation? Physics seeks answers to these questions using a combination of theory, computation and precise experimental work, and the results find application across all of science.

Consult the Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies), Department of Physics.

(13.5 FCE, including at least one full course at the 400 level)

First Year: (2.5 FCE)

(MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, MAT223H1/MAT240H1, PHY131H1/PHY151H1, PHY132H1/PHY152H1

(The courses MAT137Y1, MAT223H1, PHY151H1, PHY152H1 are recommended.)

Second Year : (4.0 FCE)

MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1/MAT235Y1, MAT244H1/MAT267H1, PHY224H1, PHY250H1, PHY252H1, PHY254H1, PHY256H1

(The courses MAT237Y1, MAT244H1 are recommended.)

Second or Third Year: (0.5 FCE)

PHY324H1

Third Year: (3.0 FCE)

1. APM346H1, MAT334H1/MAT354H1, PHY350H1, PHY354H1, PHY356H1

2. Additional 0.5FCE from PHY-300 level courses/PHY-400 level courses/JPE395H1/JPE493H1, excluding JPH311H1,

JPH441H1

Third or Fourth Year: (3.5 FCE)

1. PHY424H1

2. 1.0 FCE from PHY450H1, PHY452H1, PHY454H1, PHY456H1, PHY460H1

3. PHY405H1/PHY407H1/PHY408H1/PHY426H1/PHY478H1. See Note 2.

4. 1.0 FCE, including at least 0.5 FCE at the PHY-400 level, from PHY-300 level courses/PHY-400 level courses/JPE395H1/JPE493H1, excluding JPH311H1, JPH441H1

5. Ethics and Social Responsibility Requirement: The Physics course JPH441H1 meets this requirement as well as any of the following courses: ETH201H1/ETH210H1/ETH220H1/HPS200H1/PHL265H1/PHL273H1/PHL275H1/PHL281H1/IMC200H1/VIC172H1/ENV333H1. See Note 3.

Notes:

1. Students are encouraged but not required to enrol in the independent study and project courses such as PHY371H1, PHY478H1, etc..

2. PHY479Y1 (Undergraduate Research Project) satisfies Requirement 3 in Third or Fourth Year and counts as 0.5 FCE at the PHY-400 level for Requirement 4 in Third or Fourth Year. Students may use APM351Y1 instead of APM346H1 for Requirement 1 in Third Year.

3. Requirement 5 in Third or Fourth Year represents 0.5 FCE with a significant emphasis on "Ethics and Social Responsibility". Students may use the CR/NCR option towards any of the courses listed in Requirement 5. Another Arts & Science course with a significant emphasis on "Ethics and Social Responsibility" may be substituted subject to approval from the Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies).

4. The requirement for an integrative, inquiry-based activity is satisfied by the required course PHY424H1.

Physics Major (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(7.5 FCE including at least 2.0 FCE at the 300+ level, with at least 0.5 FCE at the 400 level)

A Physics Major program is appropriate for students interested in a more flexible and diverse undergraduate physics program. A Physics Major may be tailored to be a natural counterpart to a second Major in mathematics, astronomy, computer science, environmental science, geology or the life sciences. Students should consult the Associate Chairs (Undergraduate Studies) of Physics and the respective departments for advice on course selections.

First Year: (2.0 FCE)

(MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, PHY131H1/PHY151H1, PHY132H1/PHY152H1

1. MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, MAT223H1/MAT240H1, PHY224H1

2. 1.0 FCE from PHY231H1, PHY331H1, PHY250H1, PHY252H1, PHY254H1, PHY256H1

Third Year: (2.5 FCE)

1. MAT244H1/MAT267H1, PHY324H1/PHY405H1/PHY407H1/PHY408H1

2. 1.5 FCE, including at least 0.5 FCE at the PHY400 level, from APM346H1/MAT334H1/MAT354H1; PHY-300 level courses/PHY-400 level courses/JPE395H1/JPE493H1, excluding JPH311H1, JPH441H1

Notes:

1. The Physics Major program is not designed primarily for students intending to pursue graduate studies in Physics. Such students should consider the Physics Specialist or one of the joint Specialist programs.

2. Students are expected to take an Arts & Science course with a significant emphasis on "Ethics and Social Responsibility". The Physics course JPH441H1 can count towards this as well as other Arts & Science courses such as ETH201H1/ETH210H1/ETH220H1/HPS200H1/PHL265H1/PHL273H1/PHL275H1/PHL281H1/IMC200H1/VIC172H1/ENV333H1. Students may use the CR/NCR option towards these courses. Other courses satisfying this requirement may be substituted subject to approval by the Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies).

Regarding Physics Courses

Note

More detailed and current information on courses is available through the Physics Department website. Many course numbers have changed in recent years: check the course descriptions and exclusions below for course equivalencies. Pre- and co-requisites are strictly enforced and may only be waived in special circumstances. Students should consult the Physics Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies) with questions about pre- and co-requisites prior to the beginning of term if they are requesting a waiver. Students without the required pre- and co-requisites will be removed from courses.

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Physics Courses

PHY100H1 - The Magic of Physics

Hours: 24L/12T

This course provides a survey of Physics, including both Classical and Modern Physics. It is designed for non-scientists, and assumes no background in either science or mathematics. The approach to the course is broad rather than deep. We will concentrate on the concepts underlying such fascinating topics as planetary motion, chaos, the nature of light, time travel, black holes, matter waves, Schrodinger's cat, quarks, and climate change. We will uncover the wonders of the classical and the quantum worlds courtesy of Galileo, Newton, Maxwell, Einstein, Heisenberg and many others.

(PHY100H1 is primarily intended as a Breadth Requirement course for students in the Humanities and Social Science)

Exclusion: PHY131H1/PHY132H1/PHY151H1/PHY152H1 taken previously or concurrently

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY101H1 - Emergence in Nature

Hours: 24L/12T

The universe is not a rigid clockwork, but neither is it formless and random. Instead, it is filled with highly organized, evolved structures that have somehow emerged from simple rules of physics.

Examples range from the structure of galaxies to the pattern of ripples on windblown sand, to biological and even social processes. These phenomena exist in spite of the universal tendency towards disorder. How is this possible? Self-organization challenges the usual reductionistic scientific method, and begs the question of whether we can ever really understand or predict truly complex systems.

PHY101H1 is primarily intended as a Breadth Requirement course for students in the Humanities and Social Sciences.

Exclusion: PHY131H1/PHY132H1/PHY151H1/PHY152H1 taken previously or concurrently

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY131H1 - Introduction to Physics I

Hours: 24L/20P

A first university physics course primarily for students not intending to pursue a Specialist or Major program in Physical or Mathematical Sciences. Topics include: classical kinematics & dynamics, momentum, energy, force, friction, work, power, angular momentum, oscillations, waves, sound.

Prerequisite: MCV4U Calculus & Vectors / MHF4U Functions & Calculus

Corequisite: MAT135H1/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Exclusion: PHY151H1

Recommended Preparation: SPH4U Physics and SCH4U Chemistry

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY132H1 - Introduction to Physics II

Hours: 24L/20P

The second university physics course primarily for students not intending to pursue a Specialist or Major program in Physical or Mathematical Sciences. Topics include: electricity, magnetism, light, optics, special relativity.

Prerequisite: PHY131H1/PHY151H1

Corequisite: MAT136H1/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Exclusion: PHY152H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY151H1 - Foundations of Physics I

Hours: 36L/30P

The first physics course in many of the Specialist and Major Programs in Physical Sciences. It provides an introduction to the concepts, approaches and tools the physicist uses to describe the physical world while laying the foundation for classical and modern mechanics. Topics include: mathematics of physics, energy, momentum, conservation laws, kinematics, dynamics, and special relativity.

Prerequisite: MCV4U Calculus & Vectors / MCB4U Functions & Calculus; SPH4U Physics

Corequisite: MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Exclusion: PHY131H1/PHY110Y1/PHY138Y1/PHY140Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY152H1 - Foundations of Physics II

Hours: 36L/30P

The concept of fields will be introduced and discussed in the context of gravity and electricity. Topics include rotational motion, oscillations, waves, electricity and magnetism.

Prerequisite: PHY131H1/PHY151H1/PHY180H1

Corequisite: MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Exclusion: PHY132H1/PHY110Y1/PHY138Y1/PHY140Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY201H1 - Concepts of Physics

Hours: 24L/12T

A conceptual overview of some of the most interesting advances in physics and the intellectual background in which they occurred. The interrelationship of the actual practice of physics and its cultural and intellectual context is emphasized.

PHY201H1 is primarily intended as a Breadth Requirement course for students in the Humanities and Social Sciences

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY202H1 - The Physics of Science Fiction and Gaming

Hours: 24L/12T

The physics of time travel, teleportation, levitation, invisibility, special effects, and other physics related topics found in literature, film, and gaming. The course will analyze the realism of physical phenomena in these media, and consider the impact of these concepts on science and society.

PHY202H1 is primarily intended as a Breadth Requirement course for students in the Humanities and Social Sciences.

Exclusion: PHY131H1/PHY132H1/PHY151H1/PHY152H1 taken previously or concurrently.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY205H1 - The Physics of Everyday Life

Hours: 24L/12T

An introduction to the physics of everyday life. This conceptual course looks at everyday objects to learn about the basis for our modern technological world. Topics may include anything from automobiles to weather.

PHY205H1 is primarily intended as a Breadth Requirement course for students in the Humanities and Social Sciences.

Exclusion: PHY131H1/PHY132H1/PHY151H1/PHY152H1 or equivalent, taken previously or concurrently

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY207H1 - The Physics of Music

Hours: 24L/12T

An online course intended to provide non-science students with a basic understanding of the science behind sound and music. Topics include oscillations, waves, human hearing and perception of music, musical scales, musical instruments, recording and storing sound digitally, producing sound and broadcasting. Lectures will be delivered via the web and mandatory tutorials will require live webinar participation. The final exam will require attendance on the St. George campus.

Exclusion: PHY131H1/PHY132H1/PHY151H1/PHY152H1 or equivalent, taken previously or concurrently

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

IVP210H1 - Holography for 3D Visualization

Hours: 24L/36P

An introduction to the theory and practice of holography. Human perception & 3D visualization; fundamentals of 3D modeling; ray and wave optics; interference, diffraction, coherence; transmission and reflection holograms; colour perception; stereograms. Applications of holography in art, medicine, and technology. Computer simulation, design, and construction of holograms.

Exclusion: JOP210H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY224H1 - Practical Physics I

Hours: 72P

Develops the core practical experimental and computational skills necessary to do physics. Students tackle simple physics questions involving mathematical models, computational simulations and solutions, experimental measurements, data and uncertainty analysis.

Prerequisite: PHY132H1/PHY152H1,
(MAT135H1,MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Corequisite: PHY231H1/PHY250H1/PHY252H1/PHY254H1/
PHY256H1/ENV235H1

Exclusion: PHY225H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes
(5)

PHY231H1 - Physics of Living Systems

Hours: 24L/18P

An introductory course for students interested in understanding the physical phenomena occurring in biological systems and the applications of physics in life sciences. Topics may include physical processes inside living cells and systems, medical physics and imaging.

Prerequisite: PHY132H1/
PHY152H1,(MAT135H1,MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Exclusion: PHY238YH1

Recommended Preparation: BIO130H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes
(5)

PHY250H1 - Electricity and Magnetism

Hours: 24L/12T

An introductory course in Electromagnetism. Topics include: Point charges, Coulomb's law, electrostatic field and potential, Gauss's Law, conductors, electrostatic energy, magnetostatics, Ampere's Law, Biot-Savart Law, the Lorentz Force Law, Faraday's Law, Maxwell's equations in free space.

Prerequisite: PHY132H1/PHY152H1,
(MAT135H1,MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Corequisite: MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1

Exclusion: PHY238Y1,PHY251H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes
(5)

PHY252H1 - Thermal Physics

Hours: 24L/12T

The quantum statistical basis of macroscopic systems; definition of entropy in terms of the number of accessible states of a many particle system leading to simple expressions for absolute temperature, the canonical distribution, and the laws of thermodynamics. Specific effects of quantum statistics at high densities and low temperatures.

Prerequisite: PHY132H1/PHY152H1,
(MAT135H1,MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Corequisite: MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes
(5)

PHY254H1 - Mechanics: From Oscillations to Chaos

Hours: 24L/12T

The course analyzes the linear, nonlinear and chaotic behaviour of classical mechanical systems such as harmonic oscillators, rotating bodies, and central field systems. The course will develop the analytical and numerical tools to solve such systems and determine their basic properties. The course will include mathematical analysis, numerical exercises using Python, and participatory demonstrations of mechanical systems.

Prerequisite: PHY132H1/PHY152H1 (PHY152H1 recommended),
(MAT135H1,MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Corequisite: MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1

Exclusion: PHY255H1

Recommended Preparation: MAT244H1/MAT267H1,PHY224H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes
(5)

PHY256H1 - Introduction to Quantum Physics

Hours: 24L/12T

Failures of classical physics; the Quantum revolution; Stern-Gerlach effect; harmonic oscillator; uncertainty principle; interference packets; scattering and tunneling in one-dimension.

Prerequisite: PHY132H1/PHY152H1,
(MAT135H1,MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Corequisite: MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, (MAT223H1/MAT240H1 recommended)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes
(5)

PHY289H1 - Physics at the Cutting Edge (formerly PHY189H1)

Hours: 36L

A limited enrollment seminar course for First Year Science students interested in current research in Physics. Students interested in taking this course must fill out the online application (see department website) and submit it by the November 15 just before the course starts. Students will meet active researchers studying the universe from the centre of the earth to the edge of the cosmos. Topics may range from string theory to experimental biological physics, from climate change to quantum computing, from superconductivity to earthquakes. The course may involve both individual and group work, essays and oral presentations.

Prerequisite: PHY131H1/PHY151H1

Corequisite: PHY132H1/PHY152H1

Exclusion: PHY189H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

JPH311H1 - History of Physics

Hours: 24L

Topics in the history of physics from antiquity to the 20th century, including Aristotelian physics, Galileo, Descartes, electromagnetism, thermodynamics, statistical mechanics, relativity, quantum physics, and particle physics. The development of theories in their intellectual and cultural contexts.

Prerequisite: At least one-half PHY course at university level

Exclusion: HPS311H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY324H1 - Practical Physics II

Hours: 72P

A modular practical course that further develops the core experimental and computational skills necessary to do physics. Modules include: experimental skills building, computational tools in data and uncertainty analysis, and independent experimental projects.

Prerequisite: PHY224H1

Exclusion: PHY225H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY331H1 - Introduction to Biological Physics

Hours: 24L/18P

A course for students interested in a deeper understanding of physical phenomena occurring in biological systems. Thermodynamics, diffusion, entropic forces, fluids, biological applications.

Prerequisite: PHY252H1/CHM222H1/CHM225Y1, PHY231H1/PHY250H1/PHY254H1/PHY256H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY350H1 - Electromagnetic Theory

Hours: 24L/12T

This course builds upon the knowledge and tools developed in PHY250H1. Topics include: solving Poisson and Laplace equations via method of images and separation of variables, multipole expansion for electrostatics, atomic dipoles and polarizability, polarization in dielectrics, multipole expansion in magnetostatics, magnetic dipoles, magnetization in matter, Maxwell's equations in matter, conservation laws in electrodynamics, and electromagnetic waves.

Prerequisite: MAT223H1/MAT240H1, MAT244H1/MAT267H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, PHY250H1, PHY254H1

Exclusion: PHY352H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY354H1 - Classical Mechanics

Hours: 24L/12T

Symmetry and conservation laws, stability and instability, generalized coordinates, Hamilton's principle, Hamilton's equations, phase space, Liouville's theorem, canonical transformations, Poisson brackets, Noether's theorem.

Prerequisite: MAT244H1/MAT267H1, PHY254H1

Exclusion: PHY351H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY356H1 - Quantum Mechanics I

Hours: 24L/12T

The general structure of wave mechanics; eigenfunctions and eigenvalues; operators; orbital angular momentum; spherical harmonics; central potential; separation of variables; hydrogen atom; Dirac notation; operator methods; harmonic oscillator and spin.

Prerequisite: MAT223H1/MAT240H1, PHY250H1, PHY256H1/ (CHM222H1, CHM223H1)/CHM225Y1, (PHY256H1 recommended)

Corequisite: MAT244H1/MAT267H1

Exclusion: CHM326H1, PHY355H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY357H1 - Nuclear and Particle Physics

Hours: 24L/12T

The subatomic particles; nuclei, baryons and mesons, quarks, leptons and bosons; the structure of nuclei and hadronic matter; symmetries and conservation laws; fundamental forces and interactions, electromagnetic, weak, and strong; a selection of other topics: CP violation, nuclear models, standard model, proton decay, supergravity, nuclear and particle astrophysics. This course is not a prerequisite for any PHY400-level course.

Prerequisite: PHY356H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY358H1 - Atoms, Molecules and Solids

Hours: 24L/12T

Quantum theory of atoms, molecules, and solids; variational principle and perturbation theory; hydrogen and helium atoms; exchange and correlation energies; multielectron atoms; simple molecules; bonding and antibonding orbitals; rotation and vibration of molecules; crystal binding; electron in a periodic potential; reciprocal lattice; Bloch's theorem; nearly-free electron model; Kronig-Penney model; energy bands; metals, semiconductors, and insulators; Fermi surfaces. This course is not a prerequisite for any PHY400-level course.

Prerequisite: PHY356H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY371Y1 - Supervised Study in Physics

Hours: TBA

An individual study program chosen by the student with the advice of, and under the direction of, a staff member. A student may take advantage of this course either to specialize further in a field of interest or to explore interdisciplinary fields not available in the regular syllabus. Consult the department web pages for some possible topics. This course may also be available in the summer. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Consult the Physics Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY372H1 - Supervised Study in Physics

Hours: TBA

An individual study program chosen by the student with the advice of, and under the direction of, a staff member. A student may take advantage of this course either to specialize further in a field of interest or to explore interdisciplinary fields not available in the regular syllabus. Consult the department web site for some possible topics. This course may also be available in the summer. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Consult the Physics Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY385H1 - Introductory Optics

Hours: 24L/20P

An introduction to the physics of light. Topics covered include: electromagnetic waves and propagation of light; the Huygens and Fermat principles; geometrical optics and optical instruments; interference of waves and diffraction; polarization; introduction to photons, lasers, and optical fibers.

Prerequisite: PHY250H1, PHY254H1

Exclusion: ECE318H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY392H1 - Physics of Climate

Hours: 24L

This course provides an introduction to climate physics and the earth-atmosphere-ocean system. Topics include solar and terrestrial radiation; global energy balance; radiation laws; radiative transfer; atmospheric structure; convection; the meridional structure of the atmosphere; the general circulation of the atmosphere; the ocean and its circulation; and climate variability.

Prerequisite: PHY231H1/PHY250H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1

Exclusion: PHY315H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

JPE395H1 - Physics of the Earth

Hours: 24L

Designed for students interested in the physics of the Earth and the planets. Study of the Earth as a unified dynamic system; determination of major internal divisions in the planet; development and evolution of the Earth's large scale surface features through plate tectonics; the age and thermal history of the planet; Earth's gravitational field and the concept of isostasy; mantle rheology and convection; Earth tides; geodetic measurement techniques, in particular modern space-based techniques.

Prerequisite: PHY132H1/PHY152H1/PHY180H1/MIE100H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT291H1/AER210H1, PHY254H1/PHY293H1/MAT244H1/MAT267H1/MAT290H1/MAT292H1

Exclusion: PHY359H1, PHY395H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY396Y0 - Research Topic Abroad

Hours: TBA

Course credit for research or field studies abroad under the supervision of a faculty member. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: At least 8.5 FCEs and no more than 14.0 FCEs

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY397Y0 - Exchange Research Project Abroad

Hours: TBA

Course credit for research or field studies abroad under the supervision of a faculty or staff member from an exchange institution. Consult the Physics Department web pages for information about opportunities. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Consult the Physics Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY398H0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

PHY399Y0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

PHY405H1 - Electronics Lab

Hours: 12L/36P

Electrical circuits, networks and devices are all-pervasive in the modern world. This laboratory course is an introduction to the world of electronics. Students will learn the joys and perils of electronics, by designing, constructing and debugging circuits and devices. The course will cover topics ranging from filters and operational amplifiers to micro-controllers, and will introduce students to concepts such as impedance, transfer functions, feedback and noise. The course will include lectures, assigned readings, and a final circuit project.

Prerequisite: PHY224H1, PHY250H1. PHY405H1 may be taken in third or fourth year

Exclusion: PHY305H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY407H1 - Computational Physics

Hours: 12L/36P

This is an introduction to scientific computing in physics. Students will be introduced to computational techniques used in a range of physics research areas. By considering selected physics topics, students will learn computational methods for function analysis, ODEs, PDEs, eigenvalue problems, non-linear equations and Monte Carlo techniques. A physicist's "computational survival toolkit" will also be developed to introduce students to topics such as command line programming, bash scripting, debugging, solution visualization, computational efficiency and accuracy. The course is based on python and will involve working on a set of computational labs throughout the semester as well as a final project.

Prerequisite: PHY224H1/PHY254H1

Corequisite: Any PHY300-level lecture course in Physics. PHY407H1 may be taken in third or fourth year

Exclusion: PHY307H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY408H1 - Time Series Analysis

Hours: 12L/24P

The analysis of digital sequences; filters; the Fourier Transform; windows; truncation effects; aliasing; auto and cross-correlation; stochastic processes, power spectra; least squares filtering; application to real data series and experimental design.

Prerequisite: PHY407H1/PHY224H1/PHY250H1/PHY254H1/PHY324H1. PHY408H1 may be taken in third or fourth year

Corequisite: Any third-year lecture course in Physics

Exclusion: PHY308H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY424H1 - Advanced Physics Laboratory

Hours: 72P

Experiments in this course are designed to form a bridge to current experimental research. A wide range of exciting experiments relevant to modern research in physics is available. The laboratory is open from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Monday to Friday.

Prerequisite: PHY250H1, PHY256H1, PHY324H1

Exclusion: PHY326H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY426H1 - Advanced Practical Physics I

Hours: 72P

This course is a continuation of PHY424H1, but students have more freedom to progressively focus on specific areas of physics, do extended experiments, projects, or computational modules.

Prerequisite: PHY424H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY428H1 - Advanced Practical Physics II

Hours: 72P

This course is a continuation of PHY426H1, but students have more freedom to progressively focus on specific areas of physics, do extended experiments, projects, or computational modules.

Prerequisite: PHY426H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY429H1 - Advanced Practical Physics III

Hours: 72P

This course is a continuation of PHY428H1, but students have more freedom to progressively focus on specific areas of physics, do extended experiments, projects, or computational modules.

Prerequisite: PHY428H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY431H1 - Topics in Biological Physics

Hours: 24L/12T

An introduction to the physical phenomena involved in the biological processes of living cells and complex systems. Models based on physical principles applied to cellular processes will be developed. Biological computational modeling will be introduced.

Prerequisite: PHY250H1, PHY252H1/CHM222H1/CHM225Y1, PHY331H1

Exclusion: PHY346H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

JPH441H1 - Physical Science in Contemporary Society

Hours: 24S

Complex nature of the scientific method; connection between theory, concepts and experimental data; insufficiency of reductionism; characteristics of pathological and pseudo-science; public perception and misperception of science; science and public policy; ethical issues; trends in modern science.

Prerequisite: PHY224H1/PHY250H1/PHY252H1/PHY254H1/PHY256H1/ENV235H1, or by permission of the instructor.

Exclusion: PHY341H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHY450H1 - Relativistic Electrodynamics

Hours: 24L/12T

The course illustrates, using classical electromagnetism, how symmetry principles and scaling arguments combine to determine the basic laws of physics. It is shown that the electromagnetic action (from which follow the equations of motion) is uniquely fixed by the principles of special relativity, gauge invariance, and locality. Additional topics include motion of relativistic particles in external electric and magnetic fields, radiation from point charges, and the breakdown of classical electromagnetism.

Prerequisite: PHY350H1

Exclusion: PHY353H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY452H1 - Statistical Mechanics

Hours: 24L

Classical and quantum statistical mechanics of noninteracting systems; the statistical basis of thermodynamics; ensembles, partition function; thermodynamic equilibrium; stability and fluctuations; formulation of quantum statistics; theory of simple gases; ideal Bose and Fermi systems.

Prerequisite: PHY252H1, PHY256H1

Exclusion: PHY480H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY454H1 - Continuum Mechanics

Hours: 24L/12T

The theory of continuous matter, including solid and fluid mechanics. Topics include the continuum approximation, dimensional analysis, stress, strain, the Euler and Navier-Stokes equations, vorticity, waves, instabilities, convection and turbulence.

Prerequisite: PHY254H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, APM346H1/APM351Y1

Exclusion: PHY459H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY456H1 - Quantum Mechanics II

Hours: 24L/12T

Quantum dynamics in Heisenberg and Schrödinger pictures; WKB approximation; variational method; time-independent perturbation theory; spin; addition of angular momentum; time-dependent perturbation theory; scattering.

Prerequisite: PHY356H1

Exclusion: PHY457H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY460H1 - Nonlinear Physics

Hours: 36L

The theory of nonlinear dynamical systems with applications to many areas of physics. Topics include stability, bifurcations, chaos, universality, maps, strange attractors and fractals. Geometric, analytical and computational methods will be developed.

Prerequisite: PHY354H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY471Y1 - Supervised Study in Physics

Hours: TBA

An individual study program chosen by the student with the advice of, and under the direction of, a staff member. A student may take advantage of this course either to specialize further in a field of interest or to explore interdisciplinary fields not available in the regular syllabus. Consult the department web pages for some possible topics. This course may also be available in the summer. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Consult the Physics Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies).

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY472H1 - Supervised Study in Physics

Hours: TBA

An individual study program chosen by the student with the advice of, and under the direction of, a staff member. A student may take advantage of this course either to specialize further in a field of interest or to explore interdisciplinary fields not available in the regular syllabus. Consult the department web pages for some possible topics. This course may also be available in the summer. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Consult the Physics Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies).

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY478H1 - Undergraduate Research Project

Hours: TBA

An individual experimental or theoretical research project undertaken with the advice of, and under the direction of, a staff member. A student may take advantage of this course either to specialize further in a field of interest or to explore independent research. Consult the department web site for some possible topics. This course may also be available in the summer. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Consult the Physics Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY479Y1 - Undergraduate Research Project

Hours: TBA

An individual experimental or theoretical research project undertaken with the advice of, and under the direction of, a faculty member. A student may take advantage of this course either to specialize further in a field of interest or to explore independent research. Consult the department web site for possible topics. This course may also be available in the summer. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Consult the Physics Associate Chair (Undergraduate Studies)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY483H1 - Relativity Theory I

Hours: 24L

Basis of Einstein's theory: differential geometry, tensor analysis, gravitational physics leading to General Relativity. Theory starting from solutions of Schwarzschild, Kerr, etc.

Prerequisite: PHY350H1, PHY354H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY484H1 - Relativity Theory II

Hours: 24L

Applications of General Relativity to Astrophysics and Cosmology. Introduction to black holes, large-scale structure of the universe.

Prerequisite: PHY483H1

Recommended Preparation: APM346H1/APM351Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY485H1 - Laser Physics

Hours: 24L

This course, which is intended to be an introduction to research in optical sciences, covers the statistics of optical fields and the physics of lasers. Topics include the principles of laser action, laser cavities, properties of laser radiation and its propagation, the diffraction of light, and spatial and temporal coherence.

Prerequisite: PHY350H1, PHY358H1, PHY385H1/ECE318

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY487H1 - Condensed Matter Physics

Hours: 24L

Introduction to the concepts used in the modern treatment of solids. The student is assumed to be familiar with elementary quantum mechanics. Topics include: crystal structure, the reciprocal lattice, crystal binding, the free electron model, electrons in periodic potential, lattice vibrations, electrons and holes, semiconductors, metals.

Prerequisite: PHY356H1, PHY252H1, PHY250H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY489H1 - Introduction to High Energy Physics

Hours: 24L

This course introduces the basics of fundamental particles and the strong, weak and electromagnetic forces that govern their interactions in the Standard Model of particle physics. Topics include relativistic kinematics, conservation laws, particle decays and scattering processes, with an emphasis on the techniques used for calculating experimental observables.

Prerequisite: PHY354H1, PHY356H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY491H1 - Current Interpretations of Quantum Mechanics

Hours: 24L/24T

Review of conventional, textbook quantum mechanics. Formal measurement theory and wave function collapse; quantum states and nonseparability, violation of local causality; Bell theorems; quantum tricks; decoherence and the emergence of classical behaviour. Hidden variables; deBroglie-Bohm theory and generalizations; many-worlds interpretation and other theories of beables. Consistent histories approach of Omnes and Gell-Mann and Hartle; nature of True and Reliable statements.

Prerequisite: PHY456H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY492H1 - Advanced Atmospheric Physics

Hours: 24L

A preparatory course for research in experimental and theoretical atmospheric physics. Content will vary from year to year. Themes may include techniques for remote sensing of the Earth's atmosphere and surface; theoretical atmosphere-ocean dynamics; the physics of clouds, precipitation, and convection in the Earth's atmosphere.

Exclusion: PHY498H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

JPE493H1 - Seismology

Hours: 24L

Why do earthquakes occur and how are they related to tectonic motion of the Earth's surface? What is the physics behind the propagation of seismic waves through the Earth, and how can it be used to determine the internal structures of the Earth? This introductory course is aimed at understanding the physics behind seismic wave propagation, as well as asymptotic and numerical solutions to the elastodynamic equation. Travel time and amplitude of seismic waves are discussed based on seismic ray theory, while numerical methods are introduced to obtain accurate solutions to more complex velocity structures. Seismic tomographic methods, including their applications to hydrocarbon reservoir imaging, are also covered.

Prerequisite: JPE395H1, APM346H1/APM351Y1/MAT351Y1

Exclusion: PHY493H1

Recommended Preparation: ESS345H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY494H1 - Geophysical Imaging: EM and Potential Fields

Hours: 24L

How to investigate Earth structure at depths ranging from metres to tens of kilometres using gravity, magnetic, electrical, electromagnetic and nuclear geophysical methods. Current methodologies and the theoretical basis for them are presented.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PHY495H1 - Research Topic in Geophysics

Hours: 24L

A research project done in consultation with an individual staff member on a geophysics-related topic leading to a detailed written report and oral presentation. The course will also involve weekly lectures where the student will be introduced to various geophysical research methods and current research topics in geophysics. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Corequisite: PHY395H1/PHY493H1/PHY494H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

Introduction

Physiology is the study of living matter in action. It integrates physical and life science disciplines in order to understand body functions and the origins of disease. Beyond the study of control mechanisms, compensations, and cooperation among body molecules, cells, tissues and organs, the interaction between the body's external and internal environments is a key theme in Physiology. Most importantly, Physiology unifies the life sciences from molecule to organism, providing the link from genomics and molecular signaling pathways to behaviour and disease. Emerging fields for physiologists are the analysis of the functional implications of genomic sequence variation, developmental factors leading to chronic illness, and novel approaches for regenerative medicine.

Biological function -- of molecules, cells, and organs -- is at the heart of Physiology, and this knowledge is fundamental to the life sciences in general. Accordingly, Physiology provides an excellent and often necessary background for subsequent training in Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, Nursing, Physical or Occupational Therapy, and other health-related professions. It is also excellent preparation for graduate work in Physiology and related areas; or for the teaching of Biological Science in secondary schools. Physiologists are needed in hospitals and departments of medicine as teachers and research personnel. Other outlets would be in agriculture and veterinary medicine, in military research establishments and in life science-based industry. The development of air and space travel, the exploration of the continental shelf, the development of Northern regions, and increased emphasis on exercise and fitness, all provide business and research opportunities for the person trained in Physiology.

Physiology at the research level covers a variety of specialties (e.g. Endocrinology, Cardiovascular Physiology, Neurophysiology, Respiratory Physiology, Reproductive Physiology, Sensory Physiology), each with a wide variety of technical and analytical methods. More information is available on the departmental website (www.physiology.utoronto.ca).

Physiology Programs

Physiology Specialist (Science Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

The Physiology Specialist program is a Type 3 program. Only students with an average of at least 70% in the required first-year courses and a minimum of 60% in each of these courses will be considered for entrance into the specialist program. Enrolment is limited and selection is based on performance in the following first-year required courses: BIO130H1, (CHM135H1/CHM139H1), (CHM136H1/CHM138H1) or their equivalents, and 1.5 full course equivalents from: BIO120H1, MAT135H1, MAT136H1, MAT137Y1, MAT157Y1, PHY131H1, PHY132H1, PHY151H1, PHY152H1. Students apply via the Faculty's Program Enrolment website. See the Arts & Science Program Enrolment website for application procedures. For more information, refer to the Physiology website at www.physiology.utoronto.ca.

Completion Requirements:

Physiology Specialist program (14 full courses or their equivalent)

First Year: (4 full course equivalent from the following)
BIO120H1/PSL190H1, BIO130H1; (CHM135H1/CHM139H1), (CHM136H1/CHM138H1), (PHY131H1, PHY132H1)/(PHY151H1, PHY152H1)

First Year or upper years:
(MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y11

Second Year:

- 2.5 full course equivalents from BCH210H1; BIO230H1/BIO255H1; CHM220H1/CHM247H1/CHM249H1; PSL300H1, PSL301H1
- 2.1.5 full course equivalents from BIO220H1, BIO260H1/HMB265H1; MAT235Y1, PHY231H1, PSL299Y1, STA220H1/STA250H1

Third Year:

- 3 full course equivalent from BCH370H1; PSL304H1, PSL305H1, PSL350H1/CSB349H1/BCH311H1, PSL372H1, PSL374H1
- 1 full course equivalent from the following list: ANA300Y1; BME498Y1; CSB325H1, CSB332H1/CJH332H1, CSB343H1, CSB345H1/CSB445H1, CSB346H1, CSB347H1; IMM340H1/IMM341H1, IMM350H1/IMM351H1; PCL201H1, PCL285H1, PCL302H1; PHY331H1, PSL310H1; PSL378H1/PSL379H1/PSL398H1; PSY397H1

Fourth Year: (at least 2 FCEs at 400-level)

- PSL496Y/PSL497H1/PSL498Y1/PSL499H1
- 1-1.5 full course equivalents from PSL400-series or HMB430H1/HMB470H1/HMB472H1

1These courses may be taken in the first year or subsequent years, and are not required for entrance into the specialist program.

Physiology Major (Science Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Eligibility will be competitive and based on a student's marks in the 3.0 FCE required first-year courses:

BIO120H1, BIO130H1, (CHM135H1, CHM136H1/CHM151Y1), and 1.0 FCE from any of the following: MAT135H1, MAT136H1, MAT135Y1, MAT137Y1, MAT157Y1, PHY131H1, PHY132H1, PHY151H1, PHY152H1 with an average of at least 70% on these 3.0 full-course equivalents (FCEs) and a final mark of at least 60% in each course.

While it is difficult to predict what will be competitive course marks and average in a given year, based on previous years, the estimate is: course marks = mid 70s; average = mid 70s.

Achieving these estimated marks does not guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

Note: Students must apply to this program on the Arts & Science Faculty Registrar's Office website (see the Arts & Science Program Enrolment website for application procedures).

Completion Requirements:

(8 full courses or their equivalent, including 0.5 FCE at the 400-level)

First Year:

- 2 full course equivalent from (BIO120H1, BIO130H1)/BIO150Y1; (CHM135H1, CHM136H1)/CHM151Y
- 1 full course equivalent from any of the following: MAT135H1, MAT136H1, MAT135Y1, MAT137Y1, MAT157Y1, PHY131H1, PHY132H1, PHY151H1, PHY152H1

Second Year:

- 2 full course equivalent from BCH210H1; BIO230H1/BIO255H1; PSL300H1, PSL301H1

Higher Years:

- 1 full course equivalent from PSL372H1, PSL350H1/BCH311H1/CSB349H1
- 1 full course equivalent from ANA300Y1; CSB325H1, CSB330H1, CSB332H1/CJH332H1, CSB343H1, CSB345H1/CSB445H1, CSB346H1, CSB347H1; IMM340H1/IMM341H1, IMM350H1/IMM351H1; NFS284H1; PCL201H1, PCL285H1, PCL302H1; PSY201H1; PSY397H1; STA220H1
- 1 full course equivalent from HMB430H1/HMB470H1/HMB472H1; PSL304H1, PSL305H1, PSL310H1, PSL374H1, PSL378H1/PSL379H1/PSL398H1, PSL380H1, PSL400-series courses

Physiology Minor (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(4 full courses or their equivalent; one 300+ level FCE must be included in the program)

- 2 full course equivalents from: (BIO120H1, BIO130H1)/BIO150Y1; PSL201Y1/(PSL300H1, PSL301H1)
- 2 full course equivalents from: BIO251H1, BIO270H1, BIO271H1; CSB325H1, CSB332H1/CJH332H1, CSB343H1, CSB344H1, CSB345H1/CSB445H1, CSB346H1, CSB347H1; EEB328H1; HMB200H1/HMB220H1, HMB430H1, HMB470H1, HMB472H1; PSL280H1, PSL299Y1, PSL304H1, PSL305H1, PSL310H1, PSL350H1, PSL372H1, PSL374H1, PSL378H1/PSL379H1/PSL398H1, PSL400-series; PSY290H1, PSY396H1, PSY397H1, PSY369H1/PSY399H1, PSY490H1, PSY492H1, PSY494H1, PSY497H1

Regarding Physiology Courses

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Physiology Courses

PSL190H1 - Biomedical Research at the Cutting Edge

Hours: 24L/6S

Explore the thought processes, logic, motivation, techniques, analysis and impact of recent high-profile publications to gain insight into the enterprise of science. Outstanding scientists present recent high-impact papers, and students will examine the research in depth, focusing on the underlying questions, experimental approach, results and significance.

Prerequisite: SBI4U and SCH4U (Grade 12 University Preparation Biology and Chemistry); permission of Department

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL201Y1 - Basic Human Physiology

Hours: 48L

A survey course intended for students who are not proceeding further in Physiology.

Exclusion: Any 300-level PSL course taken previously or concurrently

Recommended Preparation: 100-level course in BIO or equivalent

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL280H1 - Introduction to Physiologic Adaptations of Marine Mammals

Hours: 24L/14P

Systems approach to physiology of marine mammals in their aquatic environment. Highlights unique features of cardiovascular, respiratory, renal, urinary, and reproductive systems. Introduces relevant physiology, and makes comparisons to human condition and disease.

Prerequisite: (BIO120H1, BIO130H1)/BIO150Y1, CHM138H1/CHM151Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSL300H1 - Human Physiology I

Hours: 36L/5T

Principles of neurophysiology, endocrinology and reproductive physiology for students enrolled in Life Science programs.

Exclusion: PSL201Y1, PSL302Y1

Recommended Preparation: BIO130H1/BIO150Y1; CHM138H1/CHM151Y1; and 1 FCE from any of the following: MAT135H1, MAT136H1, MAT135Y1, MAT137Y1, MAT157Y1, PHY131H1, PHY132H, PHY151H1, PHY152H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL301H1 - Human Physiology II

Hours: 36L/4T

Principles of respiratory, cardiovascular, gastrointestinal, and renal physiology for students enrolled in Life Science programs.

Exclusion: PSL201Y1, PSL302Y1

Recommended Preparation: BIO130H1/BIO150Y1; CHM138H1/CHM151Y1; and 1 FCE from any of the following: MAT135H1, MAT136H1, MAT135Y1, MAT137Y1, MAT157Y1, PHY131H1, PHY132H, PHY151H1, PHY152H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL304H1 - Topics in Cellular, Molecular and Organismic Physiology I

Hours: 32L/16T

Control systems, feedback, networks, and both neonatal and adult cardiovascular and respiratory control are the topics examined in detail using homeostasis as a unifying theme. Tutorials involve computer simulations, case studies and/or experimental design. This course is designed for students in the Physiology Specialist and Biological Physics Specialist Programs, although permission is granted to students in other programs upon approval by the Department.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, PSL300H1, PSL301H1, MAT100-series, PHY100-series

Exclusion: PSL303Y1

Recommended Preparation: PSL372H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL305H1 - Topics in Cellular, Molecular and Organismic Physiology II

Hours: 32L/16T

Molecular, cellular and organismic physiology of the central nervous system, gut, pancreas and glucose-sensing tissues; CNS diseases, obesity and diabetes are used as model systems. Tutorials involve computer simulations. This course is designed for students in the Physiology Specialist and Biological Physics Specialist Programs, although permission is granted to students in other programs upon approval by the Department.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, PSL300H1, PSL301H1, MAT100-series

Exclusion: PSL303Y1

Recommended Preparation: PSL372H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL310H1 - Clinical Reasoning

Hours: 24L/12S

Improved clinical reasoning will reduce the current likelihood that most people will suffer at least one medical diagnostic error, errors that contribute to ~10% of patient deaths. Learn to apply strategies of critical thinking and principles of physiology to solve clinical cases. Shadow a healthcare professional. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, BIO230H1/BIO255H1, PSL300H1, PSL372H1, PSL301H1

Corequisite: PSL301H1

Exclusion: HMB322H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL350H1 - Mammalian Molecular Biology

Hours: 18L/12T/6S

Extend molecular biology concepts to current scientific literature in mammalian physiology. Apply these principles to disease and complex behaviours. Discuss bioethical issues raised by these techniques and their application. Benefit from three weeks in small group seminars lead by research professors focusing on current advances in mammalian molecular biology.

Prerequisite: BIO230H1, PSL300H1, BCH210H1

Corequisite: PSL301H1

Exclusion: BCH311H1/BIO349H1/CSB349H1/MGY311Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL372H1 - Mammalian Physiology Laboratory

Hours: 12L/36P

A laboratory course covering selected topics in physiology.

Prerequisite: BIO230H1/(BIO240H1, BIO241H1)/BIO255H1, BCH210H1/BCH242Y1, MAT100-series/PHY100-series, PSL300H1, PSL301H

Corequisite: BCH370H1 (recommended)

Exclusion: CSB348H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL374H1 - Advanced Physiology Laboratory

Hours: 12L/36P/12S

A problem-based laboratory course focused on the integration and control of organ systems to understand body functions. Enrollment in this course is restricted to students in the Physiology Specialist and Major Programs although permission is granted to students in other programs upon approval by the Department.

Prerequisite: BIO230H1/(BIO240H1, BIO241H1)/BIO255H1, PSL300H1, PSL301H1, PSL372H1

Exclusion: CSB348H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL378H1 - Field Physiology: Marine Mammal Autopsy

Hours: 12L/24T/36P

An opportunity to go outside of the traditional university classroom and actively participate in a marine mammal autopsy. Learn the diversity and adaptive nature of marine mammalian physiology/anatomy as it compares to human. The course is 2 weeks (in May), one week of hands-on tissue dissection, and one week of group discussions of the findings and draft report preparation. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: BIO270H1, BIO271H1/PSL201Y1/PSL280H1/PSL300H1, PSL301H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL379H0 - Comparative Marine Mammal Physiology in the Field

Hours: 24T/36P

Hands-on monitoring of physiological measures with live dolphins, manatee and sea lions; field observations and applied learning to a physiology project. Two-weeks at the end of April early May: 1st week at marine research center in Mexico, 2nd week of wrap-up discussion and integration of data at U of T. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: BIO220H1/BIO230H1/BIO270H1/BIO271H1/CSB343H1/PSL280H1/PSL201Y1/PSL300H1/PSL301H1/PSY362H1/any other relevant course

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL398H0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSL404H1 - Regenerative Medicine

Hours: 24L/12T

Regenerative medicine promises to restore body function that has been lost due to disease, damage or age. Students will explore selected molecular, stem cell and tissue engineering developments to better understand how the body normally functions and how cells, tissues, and organs can be repaired or replaced.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1, PSL301H1

Recommended Preparation: PSL350H1/BCH311H1/CSB349H1/MGY311Y

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL420H1 - Reproduction: Development and Function

Hours: 24L

This course provides an in-depth review of the development and function of the male and female reproductive systems. Topics include sex determination and differentiation, steroidogenesis, gametogenesis, hormonal control of the reproductive axis, the female ovulatory cycle, fertilization and implantation, infertility and assisted reproduction approaches.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1, PSL301H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL421H1 - Pregnancy and Birth: From Implantation to Newborn Life

Hours: 24L

General overview of the integrated physiological events associated with fetal development, pregnancy and birth. The approach emphasizes physiological processes using insights gained from studies of humans, animals, cells and genes. Where appropriate the clinical consequences of aberrant development are reviewed.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1, PSL301H1

Recommended Preparation: PSL420H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL424H1 - Cellular and Molecular Basis of Endocrine Disorders

Hours: 24S

Explore how researchers uncover the molecular and cellular basis of endocrine disorders. Learn about experimental design, state-of-the-art research tools, and data interpretation. Topics include disorders in: hormone regulation, secretion and action; circadian rhythms; and sexual development and reproduction. Each week students engage in class discussion related to research seminars delivered by faculty.

Prerequisite: PSL300H, PSL301H,

PSL350H/BCH311H/CSB349H/MGY311H

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL425H1 - Integrative Metabolism and its Endocrine Regulation

Hours: 24L

This course integrates the newest findings and experimental approaches from cellular and molecular biology into metabolic function at the tissue, organ and whole body level.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, PSL300H1, PSL301H1

Recommended Preparation: PSL305H1/PSL303Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL432H1 - Theoretical Physiology

Hours: 24L

Theoretical treatment of neurophysiology. Mathematical modeling and analysis of neurophysiological systems.

Prerequisite: MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1; APM346H1/MAT244H1

Recommended Preparation: PHY200-series; PSL201Y1/PSL300H1/(BIO270H1, BIO271H1)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL440Y1 - Neuroscience I: Systems and Behaviour

Hours: 96L

Introduction to systems neuroscience. A review of basic neuroanatomy and physiology followed by in-depth study of selected sensory and motor systems, with an emphasis on clinical applications in the second term. Students with an elementary neuroscience background progress to reading neuroscience literature on their own.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1/PSY290H1/CSB332H1 or equivalent
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL444Y1 - Neuroscience II: Cellular and Molecular

Hours: 72L

Overview of the fundamentals of cellular and molecular aspects of brain function. Course material is updated yearly to reflect the rapid evolution of ideas in Neuroscience.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1, PSL301H1, CSB332H1 or permission of instructor
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL450H1 - Mechanisms of Neural and Endocrinal Secretion

Hours: 24L

Exocytosis and other aspects of secretion mainly in neurons and neuroendocrine cells, but also in pancreatic cells. Topics include synapse anatomy and physiology, synaptic plasma membrane and vesicle proteins, membrane fusion, genetic tools, endocrine secretion, plasticity in neurotransmitter release, diseases arising from secretion defects.

Prerequisite: BCH210H1, PSL300H1/(BIO240H1, BIO241H1), PSL350H1/CSB349H1/BCH311H1/MGY311Y1
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL452H1 - Membrane Physiology

Hours: 24L

Biophysics and molecular biology of ion channels. Topics include equivalent circuits for cells, molecular structure of voltage-gated channels, distribution of channels, relationship between single-channel and whole-cell recording, and regulation of channel function by voltage, phosphorylation, G-proteins and metabolites.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1, PSL301H1
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL462H1 - Molecular Aspects of Cardiovascular Function

Hours: 36L

Heart anatomy and development, ion channels and contractile proteins involved in cardiac and smooth muscle contraction are studied. Emphasis is on regulation of electrical and contractile function of kinases, metabolism, volume and ions.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1, PSL301H1, PSL304H1
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL470H1 - Cardiovascular Physiology

Hours: 24L

Development of the cardiovascular system from conception to adulthood with particular emphasis on maturational changes, age-related differences and developmental problems from cellular/molecular to whole organ/system.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1, PSL301H1
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL472H1 - Sleep Physiology and Chronobiology

Hours: 24L

This course covers the physiology underlying sleep and circadian rhythms, and their impact on important physiological processes and health. The integrative nature of the basic physiological processes is emphasized via discussions and clinical presentations. Overall, the aim is to present the full spectrum of integrative physiology from molecules and cells to understanding the sick patient.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1, PSL301H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL480H1 - Diving Physiology of Marine Mammals

Hours: 24L/6T

This course compares and contrasts the physiological and anatomical adaptations exhibited by the different species of marine mammals in relationship to humans, with respect to diving.

Prerequisite: (BIO270H1, BIO271H1)/PSL201Y1/PSL300H1, PSL301H1; PSL280H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL495H1 - Communicate Biomedical Science

Hours: 6L/2T/18S

Research, critique and write a manuscript on a topic of your choice in the scientific literature while guided by classes and assignments that develop advanced science communication skills; and by a mentor expert in your area of clinical or basic physiology.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1; PSL301H1; PSL372H1; 13.5 additional credits; and permission of Department

Exclusion: BCH479H1; HMB490H1; HMB491H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL496Y1 - Translational Physiology Research Project

Hours: 144P

Engage in supervised original science research, either basic or clinical, combined with a healthcare placement. Develop skills in defining scientific questions, designing experiments, analyzing data, and communicating your results. Gain insight into the power of translational bench-to-bedside research. Discover your interest in becoming a science researcher. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1, PSL301H1, PSL310H1, PSL372H1, permission of Department.

Exclusion: PSL497H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL497H1 - Translational Physiology Research Project

Hours: 72P

Engage in original science research, either basic or clinical, combined with a healthcare placement. Develop skills in defining scientific questions, designing experiments, analyzing data, and communicating your results. Gain insight into the power of translational bench-to-bedside research. Discover your interest in becoming a science researcher. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: PSL300H1, PSL301H1, PSL310H1, PSL372H1, permission of Department.

Exclusion: PSL496Y

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL498Y1 - Project in Physiology

Hours: 144P

Laboratory research project with reading assignments leading to a final report. By special arrangement with a Physiology staff member after admission to course. PSL498Y1 is recommended for students applying to the Physiology graduate program. Enrollment in this course is restricted to students in the Physiology Specialist and Major Programs, although permission is granted to students in other programs upon approval by the Department. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: (PSL304H1, PSL305H1)/PSL303Y1, PSL372H1, PSL374H1, permission of Department

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSL499H1 - Project in Physiology

Hours: 72P

Laboratory research project with reading assignments leading to a final report. By special arrangement with a Physiology staff member after admission to course. PSL499H1 is recommended for students applying to the Physiology graduate program. Enrollment in this course is restricted to students in the Physiology Specialist and Major Programs, although permission is granted to students in other programs upon approval by the Department. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: (PSL304H1, PSL305H1)/PSL303Y1, PSL372H1, PSL374H1, permission of Department

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

Planetary Science Programs

Planetary Science Specialist (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

One 300+-level FCE must be included in the program.

(14 full courses or equivalent, including at least one 400+series course)

First Year:

(CHM138H1, CHM139H1)/CHM151Y1;
(MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1; (PHY131H1,
PHY132H1)/(PHY151H1, PHY152H1) (MAT137Y1 and PHY151H1, PHY152H1 preferred)

First or Second Year:

MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Second or Third Year:

AST221H1; CHM225Y1/(PHY252H1, PHY256H1); CHM238Y1;
GLG206H1, GLG216H1/GLG207H1; MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1
(MAT237Y1 preferred); MAT244H1; PHY250H1, PHY254H1

Third and/or Fourth Years:

1. PHY395H1

2. At least three of AST325H1; CHM327H1, CHM338H1;
GLG318H1, GLG440H1, GLG465H1; PHY354H1, PHY407H1,
PHY408H1

3. One additional 300+series course; consult with appropriate Undergraduate Secretary for course selection

Fourth Year:

PLN420H1, PLN425H1

Planetary Science Courses

PLN420H1 - Interdisciplinary Seminar in Planetary Science

Hours: 24S

Discussion of topics of current interest in planetary science with emphasis on papers published in scientific journals. This course is intended for students in the final year of the Planetary Science specialist program. Students must enrol with the course coordinator.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PLN425H1 - Research in Planetary Science

Hours: 120P

Research report by student in consultation with individual staff member in Astronomy, Chemistry, Geology or Physics. This course is intended for students in the final year of the Planetary Science specialist program. Students must enrol with the course coordinator. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

Introduction

The study of Political Science at the University of Toronto is wide-ranging and diverse. Courses are offered in political theory, Canadian government, international relations, and the politics of societies that are industrialized, developing, and in transition. Many courses deal with issues (such as environmental politics, diversity, peace and conflict, globalization) that cut across fields. Course offerings are designed to introduce students to Political Science at the first year level, provide the foundations for further study at the second year level, and provide specialized lecture and seminar courses at the intermediate and advanced levels. Studies in Political Science provide students with a good grounding in one of the chief social science disciplines and an opportunity to explore the issues that confront us as individuals, groups, societies and on the international level as we prepare for the twenty-first century. In addition to the materials covered, Political Science courses are set up to offer students an opportunity to learn writing and analytical skills to support a challenging and diverse career.

Courses in Political Science dovetail with programs in many other disciplines of the social sciences and the humanities: Economics, Sociology, History, Philosophy, and Psychology. A student interested in Canadian studies or urban problems, for example, would be well advised to choose courses from all these disciplines, as would someone interested in international affairs or foreign area studies. A student planning graduate work in the social sciences should seek to obtain a basic understanding of each of these disciplines.

Detailed information on our programs, extended descriptions of courses, and background information on the interests of our instructors can be found on our website. The Association of Political Science Students, the students' organization for Political Science undergraduates, has an office in Room 1091, Sidney Smith Hall.

Political Science Programs

Political Science Specialist (Arts Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program. All students who request the program and obtain at least the specified mark(s) in the required course(s) will be eligible to enrol.

Required courses:

i) Applying after first year (or four full courses or the equivalent):

A final mark of at least 67% in POL 101Y or POL 200Y or one full POL course or the equivalent in half courses.

ii) Applying after second year (or eight full courses or the equivalent):

A final mark of at least 70% in any two full POL courses or the equivalent in half courses.

Completion Requirements:

(10 POL full courses or the equivalent in half courses. Of these, at least 3.0 full course equivalents must be 300+ series courses and 1.0 full course equivalent must be 400- series. Only 1.0 POL 100-level course will be counted towards the POL program.)

First Year:

POL101Y1

Higher Years:

1. POL 200Y1

2. One of the following: POL201Y1/POL203Y1/POL207Y1/POL208Y1/POL215Y1

3. POL214Y1/POL224Y1

4. POL222H1 and POL232H1

5. POL320Y1

6. 4.0 additional POL full course equivalents

Of these, at least 2.0 full course equivalents must be 300+ series courses and 1.0 full course equivalent must be 400- series.

Note:

- Students must complete one full course equivalent each in at least two of the following three fields: comparative politics, development studies, international relations. See the Department's website <http://politics.utoronto.ca/undergraduate/courses/fallwinter-timetable> for POL courses by area group.
- It is recommended that students take POL222H1 (Introduction to Quantitative Reasoning I) and POL232H1 (Introduction to Quantitative Reasoning II) in their second year of study.

Political Science Major (Arts Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program. All students who request the program and obtain at least the specified mark(s) in the required course(s) will be eligible to enrol.

Required courses:

i) Applying after first year (or four full courses or the equivalent):

Political Science Minor (Arts Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program. All students who request the program and obtain at least the specified mark(s) in the required course(s) will be eligible to enrol.

Required courses: a minimum grade of 65% in 1.0 POL full course equivalent.

Completion Requirements:

(4.0 POL full courses or their equivalent)

1. 4.0 POL full course equivalents. Of these, at least 1.0 full course equivalent must be 300+ series courses and only 1.0 POL 100-level course will be counted towards the POL program.

Regarding Political Science Courses

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

PLEASE NOTE:

- Not all courses listed in the 2017-18 calendar are offered every year. Please check the Department's website for the list of courses offered in 2017-18.
- Prerequisites and exclusions are enforced for all 2nd, 3rd and 4th year courses. Please consult the POL section of the 2017-18 Faculty of Arts & Science Registration Instructions and Timetable for details. Students without course prerequisites will be removed at any time they are discovered.
- Enrolment is limited for all 300-level and 400-level courses. See the Faculty of Arts & Science Registration Instructions and Timetable for details.

- Nearly all POL 400-level courses are offered as joint undergraduate-graduate seminars with class sizes ranging from 15-25.
- Full course equivalents are either a full course or the equivalent in half courses.

Political Science Courses

POL101Y1 - Democracy, Dictatorship, War, and Peace: An Introduction

Hours: 48L/24T

This course is an introductory survey of the main currents and important themes in political science, emphasizing the sub disciplines of international relations, comparative politics, and political theory.

Exclusion: POL103Y1, POL105Y1, POL108Y1, any 100-level POL course with the exception of AP, IB, CAPE, or GCE transfer credits
Distribution Requirements: Social Science
Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

POL200Y1 - Political Theory: Visions of the Just/Good Society

Hours: 48L/24T

A selective presentation of critical encounters between philosophy and politics, dedicated to the quest for articulation and founding of the just/good society. Among the theorists examined are Plato, Aristotle, Machiavelli, Hobbes and Locke.

Exclusion: POLB70H3/POLB71H3/POLC70H3/POLC71H3/POL200Y5
Distribution Requirements: Social Science

POL469H1 - Ethics and International Relations

Hours: 24S

The course aims to explore the requirements of justice and fairness in international affairs. It is common to theorize international relations in terms of interests and power. But even the most cursory look at what important actors actually do in their international interactions reveals that they use normative language all the time. This has not gone unnoticed, with investigations of ethics in the international arena multiplying in recent years. Drawing on readings from political philosophy, legal theory, and normative international relations theory, the course will take up practical ethical dilemmas encountered in world affairs. The main focus of the course will be on institutions. Examples will be drawn from the issue areas of trade, health, and the environment, among others.

Prerequisite: POL208Y1/POL208Y5/POLB80H3 and POLB81H3

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

and POL C71H3

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

POL476H1 - Topics in Public Policy

Hours: 24S

The course is designed for advanced students with serious interests in the public policy field. Specific topics covered will vary from year to year.

Prerequisite: POL214Y1/POL214Y5/POLB50Y3/POL224Y1/
POL317H1/POL317Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

POL476Y1 - Topics in Public Policy

Hours: 48S

The course is designed for advanced students with serious interests in the public policy field. Specific topics covered will vary from year to year.

Prerequisite: POL214Y1/POL214Y5/POLB50Y3/POL224Y1/
POL317H1/POL317Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

POL477H1 - Advanced Topics in International Political Economy

Hours: 24S

The course is designed for advanced students with serious interests in the subfield of international political economy. Specific topics covered will vary, but all involve the deep interplay between politics and economics in the contemporary world.

Prerequisite: POL208Y1/POL208Y5/POLB80H3 and POLB81H3;
ECO100Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

POL478H1 - Topics in Methods

Hours: 24S

Various topics are taken up each year, the content of which depends on the instructor.

Prerequisite: POL232H1/POL242Y1/POL322H1/equivalent

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

POL479H1 - Topics in Middle East Politics

Hours: 24S

The course examines the contemporary politics of the Middle East and North Africa. It seeks to examine the relative importance of political, socio-economic and ideological factors in the context of such issues as the resilience of authoritarianism, the rise of civil society, and the resurgence of Islamic activism. Theoretical discussion is followed by case studies.

Prerequisite: POL201Y1/POLB90H3 and POLB91H3; minimum 14 credits

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

POL480H1 - Studies in Comparative Political Theory

Hours: 36S

We will critically examine what "comparative political theory" is and what it would mean to genuinely "deparochialize" political theory, that is, to de-center Euro-American thought in the study of political ideas. The course neither presupposes background knowledge of any non-Western thought tradition, nor does it aspire to provide students with sufficient knowledge of particular traditions to ground serious scholarly contributions to this emerging field. To provide that background would require a series of specialized courses in, e.g., East Asian political thought, Indian political thought, Latin American political thought, Indigenous political thought, African political thought, and so on. Rather, the course aims at sharpening our understanding of (a) the purposes served by "deparochializing" political theory; and (b) the various methods by which we can seek to serve these purposes.

Prerequisite: POL200Y1/POL200Y5/POL320Y1/POL320Y5/
JPP343H1/JPP343Y1/POLC70H3 and POLC71H3

Exclusion: POL480Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

POL481H1 - Geopolitics of Cyberspace

Hours: 24S

The Geopolitics of ICTs course is an intensive examination of the ways in which states and non-state actors are contesting the newly evolving terrain of global digital-electronic-telecommunications. Topics covered include Internet censorship and surveillance, information warfare, computer network attacks, hacktivism, and governance of global communications. The course is organized as a series of intensive modules. One feature of the class will be a "hands-on" analysis of censorship circumvention and network interrogation techniques at the Citizen Lab (<http://www.citizenlab.org/>).

Prerequisite: POL208Y1/POL208Y5/POLB80H3 and POLB81H3

Exclusion: POL481Y1/POL486Y1 (taken in 2008-09)

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

POL482H1 - The Politics of Disease and Epidemic

Hours: 24S

Examines the mutually constitutive relationship between HIV/AIDS and the social, economic and political characteristics of its "host" society. Class readings focus on South Africa but students will each research key features of the epidemic in the developing country of their choice.

Prerequisite: POL201Y1/POLB90H3 and POLB91H3; minimum 14 credits

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

POL484H1 - Topics in Political Thought I

Hours: 24S

A seminar on a central problem in political thought. It proceeds through the reading of a small number of major texts. Content in any given year depends on instructor.

Prerequisite: POL320Y1/POL320Y5/POLC73H3 and POLC74H3

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

POL484Y1 - Topics in Political Thought I

Hours: 48S

A seminar on a central problem in political thought. It proceeds through the reading of a small number of major texts. Content in any given year depends on instructor.

Introduction

Overview:

Portuguese is the sixth most widely used language in the world. It is spoken by more than two hundred and sixty million people on four continents inhabited by the Lusophone population: Europe, Africa, Asia, and the Americas. Twenty percent of all residents of the Western Hemisphere are Brazilians, a fact attesting to the truth that one out of every five Americans - North, Central, South - speaks Portuguese as his or her native language. The literature of Portugal has a tradition that goes back as far as the twelfth century, and the discoveries of its Renaissance seafarers led the language and the culture to all corners of the globe.

The Department offers an integrated curriculum, combining courses in language, linguistics, literature and culture. Courses in the studies of the Lusophone world provide a diverse, flexible and detailed examination of the Portuguese language and its cultures. The skills and knowledge developed in these courses lay the groundwork for careers in teaching, journalism, translation, publishing, and foreign services, as well as for research in a variety of fields. In the Canadian job market, command of Portuguese language is a definite advantage. Toronto has one of the largest Portuguese speaking diasporas, and Canada has been establishing strong cultural, political and business ties with Brazil.

Why should I learn Portuguese?

- Portuguese gives you access to a rich and fascinating culture.
- Portuguese is the world's sixth most widely spoken language.
- Portuguese is a mother tongue in the 5 continents, parallel only to English and Spanish.
- Portuguese is the most widely spoken language in the Southern Hemisphere.
- Portuguese unites Portuguese-speaking diasporas all over the world in countries such as Canada, the United States, South-Africa, France or Switzerland.

- Portuguese has one of the highest growth rates as a second language in the Internet, in social networks and in learning as a foreign language.
- Portuguese is a Romance language, so if you already know another Romance language (Spanish, Italian, etc.), you will find it easier to learn it.
- Portuguese is now the first foreign language in the educational system of many countries.
- Portuguese is the official language of some of the fastest growing economies in the world, namely Brazil and Angola.

What can I do with a degree in Portuguese?

- Education
- Marketing, Editing, Copywriting
- Journalism, Media
- Library and Information Sciences
- Public Relations
- Research
- Foreign Services/Foreign Affairs Specialist
- International development
- Political Aid
- National and international law

How is the program structured?

For many students, our program begins with the language sequence.

Language sequence:

1. The Department reserves the right to place students in the language course best suited to their linguistic preparation. Please contact Prof. Manuela Marujo (manuela.marujo@utoronto.ca) if you would like to take a Placement test to help you determine your level of linguistic competence in Portuguese.
2. Students who, in the department's assessment, have an adequate knowledge of Portuguese may be required to take a Portuguese literature or culture course instead of a language course at any level.

The progression of courses in the language sequence is designed to accommodate a wide range of previous language experience. Students are placed in the appropriate language course based on their proficiency as determined by departmental assessment.

Students who have had little to no previous experience in studying Portuguese may enrol in an intensive course, PRT100Y1.

Students who have a strong background in Spanish language (native fluency or minimum SPA320Y1), should enrol in PRT120Y1.

Students who have had previous experience in studying Portuguese may enrol in several intermediate and advanced courses, depending on their background and their level of preparation. Speakers with an intermediate level of Portuguese, including those who successfully completed PRT100Y1 or PRT120Y1, should enrol in PRT220Y1.

Those students who have had exposure to spoken Portuguese in an informal context (i.e., those who live in a Portuguese-speaking environment; for instance, those who have grown up in a Portuguese-speaking country, or who live in Portuguese speaking families), but who have had little to no exposure to written Portuguese, should enrol in PRT219Y1. Students who qualify for this course are able to understand and speak Portuguese. They speak

Portuguese relatively fluently, but they usually do not write or read Portuguese.

Students who have completed PRT219Y1 or PRT220Y1, should proceed to PRT320Y1. Those students who come to the program with an advanced level of Portuguese as assessed by the department, should also proceed to take PRT320Y1.

Following PRT320Y1, students are qualified to enrol in PRT420H1. This course is appropriate for students with a relatively high vocabulary base and good command of grammar who need to increase their lexicon, and who need further formal instruction in grammar and writing.

PRT423H1, a course for advanced speakers of Portuguese, trains students to develop their skills in a range of professional language fields, such as finances, law, medicine and education.

Students who are unsure of what is the most appropriate placement for them in the language sequence should contact the Associate Chair of the department, Prof. Manuela Marujo (manuela.marujo@utoronto.ca) to receive personal assessment and recommendation for proper placement.

Fluent speakers of Portuguese who have received a high school or a higher level of education in Portuguese language, and who in the department's assessment do not need further training in language, may enrol immediately in any linguistics, literature or culture course.

Literature, culture and linguistics courses:

Portuguese opens the door to a rich range of cultural expressions in literature, film, and art, from the world-changing contribution of Renaissance Portugal to the contemporary Brazilian and Luso-African diaspora. Whether it is Nobel-prize winning Portuguese literature or the excitement of the Brazilian cinema novo, Lusophone writers, filmmakers, and artists continue to shape and change contemporary global culture.

Portuguese also opens the door to the study of the Romance language family. The Department offers students the opportunity to advance their language skills through the systematic reflection on the language structure. Through a variety of courses with a theoretical and experimental focus in linguistics, students acquire basic skills that can be transferred to teaching or research programs. Through collaboration with other language and linguistics programs, students are provided with opportunities and training to conduct research in linguistics with a focus on Portuguese language.

The Department encourages students to consider completing part of their course work at a university in Portugal or Brazil.

Students should contact the Undergraduate Coordinator early on in the course of their university career to receive advice on how to proceed with their studies, and to thus assure that they can receive their degree by the time of planned graduation. ## Portuguese Programs

Portuguese Specialist (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

Consult Professor Sanda Munjic, Department of Spanish and Portuguese.

(10 full courses or their equivalent, including at least one 400-series course)

First Year:

PRT100Y1/PRT120Y1/PRT219Y1/PRT220Y1

Second Year:

1. PRT220Y1/PRT320Y1

2. PRT258H1

Third and Fourth Years:

1. PRT320Y1

2. PRT420H1 / PRT423H1

3. Plus additional PRT courses to make ten courses. Up to two full-course equivalents may be taken from cognate departmental or college offerings: GGR, HIS, LAS, POL, SPA. A complete list of eligible courses is available from the Undergraduate Coordinator.

Portuguese Major (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

Consult Professor Sanda Munjic, Department of Spanish and Portuguese.

(7 full courses or their equivalent)

First Year:

PRT100Y1/PRT120Y1/PRT219Y1/PRT220Y1

Second Year:

1. PRT220Y1/PRT320Y1

2. PRT258H1

Third and Fourth Years:

1. PRT320Y1

2. PRT420H1 is recommended for students who start in PRT100Y1, and is required for students who start in PRT220Y1 or higher language course.

3. Plus additional PRT courses to make seven courses. Up to one full-course equivalent may be taken from cognate departmental or college offerings: GGR, HIS, LAS, POL, SPA. A complete list of eligible courses is available from the Undergraduate Coordinator.

Portuguese Minor (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

Consult Professor Sanda Munjic, Department of Spanish and Portuguese.

4 full courses or their equivalent, including at least one course at the 300+ level.

First Year:

PRT100Y1/ PRT220Y1; PRT219Y1 (for native / bilingual speakers of Spanish)

Second Year:

PRT220Y1 / PRT320Y1;

Third Year:

PRT320Y1

Additional PRT courses to make four (4.0 FCE) courses. Up to one full-course (1.0 FCE) equivalent of cognate credit may be taken in Spanish.

Faculty of Arts & Science Language Citation

The Department of Spanish and Portuguese participates in the Faculty of Arts and Science's Language Citation initiative for Portuguese. For a full description of the Language Citation requirements, see the Calendar in the "Degree Requirements" section.

To complete the language citation in Portuguese students will normally complete the two language-sequence courses that follow the introductory level:

PRT219Y1 or PRT220Y1
PRT320Y1

Native and bilingual speakers should complete PRT219Y1 and two additional half-courses in Portuguese in the 300- or 400-series.

Students should note that, as explained in this Calendar, the Language Citation is not equivalent to an academic program and that enrolment in a program is not necessary in order to earn the recognition bestowed by the Citation.

To request the citation, e-mail your request with your student ID number to the Undergraduate Coordinator (spanport.undergraduate@utoronto.ca).

Portuguese: see also European Studies;
Latin American Studies

Regarding Portuguese Courses

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Notes

1. The Department reserves the right to place students in the language course best suited to their linguistic preparation.
2. Students who, in the department's assessment, have an adequate knowledge of Portuguese may be required to take a Portuguese linguistics, literature or culture course instead of a language course at any level.

Portuguese Courses

PRT100Y1 - Portuguese for Beginners

Hours: 48L/48T

Introduction to the Portuguese language for beginning students. Overview of basic grammatical structures, development of vocabulary and oral and written expression.

Prerequisite: No previous knowledge of Portuguese.

Exclusion: PRT110Y1, PRT120Y1, PRT219Y1, PRT220Y1, PRT320Y1, PRT420H1, PRT420Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

PRT120Y1 - Portuguese for Spanish Speakers

Hours: 48L/24T

Introduction to the Portuguese language for speakers of Spanish. Overview of basic grammatical structures, development of vocabulary and oral and written expression.

Prerequisite: Native (or near-native) knowledge of Spanish (min. SPA320Y for non-native speakers of Spanish); no previous knowledge of Portuguese.

Exclusion: PRT100Y1, PRT110Y1, PRT219Y1/PRT220Y1

Recommended Preparation: Native knowledge of Spanish; or min. equivalency of SPA320Y.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

PRT219Y1 - Academic Portuguese

Hours: 48L/24T

Meets the needs of students who have had exposure to spoken Portuguese in an informal context (living in a Portuguese speaking country, or in a Portuguese speaking family) but little to no exposure to written Portuguese. The course reviews English/ Portuguese spelling differences; written and spoken registers of Portuguese, and basic aspects of the grammatical system. The course (1) provides students with the essential understanding of Portuguese grammatical system; (2) builds their vocabulary; and (3) trains them to express themselves formally in both spoken and written Portuguese.

Prerequisite: Basic to relatively high ability to speak and understand Portuguese; limited or no formal education in Portuguese.

Exclusion: PRT100Y1, PRT110Y1, PRT120Y1, PRT220Y1

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

PRT220Y1 - Intermediate Portuguese

Hours: 48L/24T

Intermediate Portuguese for non-natives. Intensive grammar review of the structures of Portuguese integrated with an introduction to reading authentic Portuguese material, with practice designed to build vocabulary and to improve oral and written expression.

Prerequisite: PRT100Y1/PRT120Y1

Exclusion: PRT219Y1/PRT110Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

PRT250H1 - Introduction to Lusophone Culture

Hours: 24L

A survey of historical and cultural trends in the Portuguese-speaking world, from colonial past to the present. (Offered in alternate years; taught in English)

Exclusion: PRT252

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

PRT258H1 - Introduction to Luso-Brazilian Studies (formerly PRT258Y1)

Hours: 24L

The introductory study of literary texts and consideration of the various ways authors express and situate themselves in culture. Semiotics, gender, the literary canon, advertising, the nature of literary language, and cinema.

Exclusion: PRT258Y1

Recommended Preparation: PRT219Y1/PRT220Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

PRT299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PRT320Y1 - Advanced Portuguese

Hours: 48L/24T

Intensive practice in written and oral Portuguese for the advanced student. Selective review of grammar with emphasis on complex language structures.

Prerequisite: PRT219Y1/PRT220Y1 or equivalent

Exclusion: PRT420Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

PRT322H1 - Introduction to Portuguese Linguistics

Hours: 24L

An overview of theoretical and methodological aspects of Portuguese linguistics (phonology, morphology, syntax and semantics). Students will work on hands-on problem sets and will analyze structural similarities and differences between the two worldwide main Portuguese varieties - Brazilian and European Portuguese.

Prerequisite: PRT219Y1/PRT220Y1

Corequisite: PRT320Y1

Recommended Preparation: PRT320Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PRT350H1 - Portuguese Language and Society

Hours: 24L

Explores how factors such as ethnicity, gender, social class and age affect the use of Portuguese language and determine its characteristics. The course overviews mostly the aspects of Brazilian and European Portuguese. (Offered in alternate years.)

Prerequisite: PRT219Y1/PRT220Y1

Corequisite: PRT320Y1

Recommended Preparation: PRT320Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PRT356H1 - 20th C Port Literature

Hours: 24S

A course on a specific topic in Portuguese linguistics, designed for advanced students. Course content and instructor are established on a yearly basis.

Prerequisite: PRT219Y1 / PRT220Y1

Corequisite: PRT320Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PRT358H1 - Topics in Portuguese Studies

Hours: 24L

In years when this course is offered, topics are described in detail on the departmental webpage. Students can enrol in this course multiple times, as long as the topic of the course is different. For any questions, please check with the department.

Prerequisite: PRT219Y1/PRT220Y1, PRT258H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

PRT364H1 - Portuguese Language in the World

Hours: 24L

An overview of the varieties of Portuguese spoken in four continents (Europe, South America, Africa, Asia) and a discussion of the structural similarities and differences between the two most extensively studied varieties: European and Brazilian Portuguese. Analysis of linguistic variation in contemporary Portuguese in terms of phonetics, syntax and lexicon. (Offered in alternate years.)

Prerequisite: PRT219Y1/PRT220Y1

Recommended Preparation: PRT320Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PRT368H1 - Brazilian Indigenous Languages

Hours: 24L

Overview of linguistic diversity of Brazil, current practices in the maintenance and revitalization of languages and strategies for empowering indigenous peoples. Linguistic properties of Brazilian languages; introduction to language description by working on small data sets; discussion of the influence of Brazilian indigenous languages on Brazilian Portuguese. Taught in English. (Offered in alternate years.)

Prerequisite: Any 200-level course

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PRT398H0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PRT399Y0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PRT420H1 - Advanced Academic Portuguese

Hours: 24L

A study of advanced aspects of formal Portuguese through reading and extensive writing practice, with an aim at developing skills necessary for academic and professional writing and oral presentations.

Prerequisite: PRT320Y1 or equivalent

Exclusion: PRT420Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

PRT423H1 - Portuguese in the Work Context

Hours: 24L/12P

This experiential learning course provides opportunities for students to develop language on a range of topics from financial, legal, medical to educational. It trains students in cross-cultural competence through immersion in work context.

Prerequisite: PRT320Y1

Recommended Preparation: PRT420H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

PRT455H1 - Lusophone Cinema

Hours: 24L

Explores the films of iconic Angolan, Brazilian, Cape Verdian, Mozambican and Portuguese directors in the context of political and cultural national movements. (Offered in alternate years.)

Introduction

Psychology is the branch of science that focuses on the behaviour of human beings and animals. Our courses span the various areas of psychology and introduce students to the methods used in psychological research. The basic tools of a research psychologist include experimentation in the laboratory and field, naturalistic observation, and the use of statistical methods in interpreting data.

Our faculty have highly diversified interests which are reflected in the number and variety of our undergraduate course offerings. These include courses in cognitive neuroscience, cognitive psychology, computational neuroscience, developmental psychology, human and animal learning, perception, personality psychology, physiological psychology, and social psychology.

Regarding Psychology Programs

Psychology programs at the St. George Campus are designated Type 2 Limited, which means there are a finite number of spaces to offer students. Please note that just meeting the minimum admission requirements does not guarantee one a spot in any of our programs and, in most cases, students will need to exceed them to be competitive because of the volume of applications in comparison to the number of program spaces available.

Entry into all Psychology programs requires the minimum of a senior-level (Gr. 12) high school course in Calculus. Please note that this requirement will not be waived, nor can it be substituted with a different type of math course (i.e. Data Management, Algebra, Geometry, etc.). Students who completed PSY100Y1 before 1998 at the University of Toronto are exempt from the Calculus requirement. Also, effective for admission to the University starting in September 2018, a grade 12 science credit in biology, physics, or chemistry will be required (pending Faculty approval).

Psychology Programs

Psychology Research Specialist - Thesis (Science Program)

Description:

This program is designed for students who have demonstrated a particular interest and aptitude for research and who want to complete a thesis. Admission to the program is based on strong academic performance and expressed interest in research.

Enrolment Requirements:

Students should apply at the end of their second year and begin the program in their third. Interested students should ideally apply for a PSY Major or Specialist (Non-thesis) at the end of their first year. All students accepted into or considering the Research Specialist program should enrol in a PSY lab course in their third year. In addition to applying in the spring via the Arts & Science website, students may also apply directly to the department in the fall of their third year and begin the program that January. The deadline for the second round of applications is usually in October. More information on the fall applications can be found at <http://home.psych.utoronto.ca/undergraduate/info/rsp.htm>.

The Research Specialist program is a Type 3 program and, therefore, enrolment is limited to no more than 15 students per year. Eligibility is highly competitive and based on the following criteria. Please note that meeting the following minimum requirements does not guarantee admission.

- PSY100H1 with a final mark of at least 80% (AP and IB Psychology are not accepted)
- A senior-level (Gr. 12) high school course in Calculus
- Completion of at least 8 FCEs
- Completion of PSY201H1 and PSY202H1 (or equivalent courses in statistics), with an overall average of at least 75%
- Minimum completion of an additional 2 FCEs at the 200-level in PSY (taken from the PSY210H1 - PSY290H1 series), with an overall average of at least 78% taken from the top four grades (this does not include PSY201H1 or PSY202H1)

Effective for admission to the University starting in September 2018, a grade 12 science credit in biology, physics, or chemistry will be required (pending Faculty approval)

Completion Requirements:

Required Courses (10 FCEs):

1. First Year: PSY100H1
2. Statistics: PSY201H1 and PSY202H1 (or equivalent courses in statistics)
3. 1 FCE from PSY210H1, PSY220H1, PSY230H1, PSY240H1 (Cluster A)
4. 1 FCE from PSY260H1, PSY270H1, PSY280H1, PSY290H1 (Cluster B)
5. 0.5 FCE in PSY at the 300/400-level from Group 1 in Cluster A

6. 0.5 FCE in PSY at the 300/400-level from Group 1 in Cluster B
7. 1 FCE in PSY at the 300/400-level from Group 1 (any Cluster)
8. One lab course (0.5 FCE), and no more, taken from PSY319H1, PSY329H1, PSY339H1, PSY 359H1, PSY379H1, PSY389H1, or PSY399H1
9. PSY309H1
10. PSY409H1
11. PSY400Y1
12. 2 FCEs from Groups 1 and/or 2, at any level

(Please note that these are all individual requirements and cannot overlap or be used twice).

Psychology Specialist (Science Program)

Description:

You should consider pursuing the Specialist Program in Psychology if you want a greater concentration in Psychology than provided by the Major Program. Please note that having a Specialist is not required in order to be admitted to a graduate program in Psychology later on.

Enrolment Requirements:

The Specialist is a Type 2L (Limited) program that can only accept a limited number of students. The quantity of applications received in a given year always far exceeds the number of spaces available in the program. Eligibility will be based on the following criteria, however, achieving the minimum marks listed does not guarantee admission to the Specialist in any given year. Please have a back-up plan/program in place, should you not be admitted.

Applying with fewer than 8 FCEs completed:

- PSY100H1 with a final mark of at least 80% (AP and IB Psychology are not accepted)
- A senior-level (Gr. 12) high school course in Calculus
- Completion of at least 4 FCEs

Effective for admission to the University starting in September 2018, a grade 12 science credit in biology, physics, or chemistry will be required (pending Faculty approval)

Applying with 8 or more FCEs completed:

- Completion of PSY100H1 (AP and IB Psychology are not accepted)
- A senior-level (Gr. 12) high school course in Calculus
- Completion of at least 8 FCEs
- PSY201H1 and PSY202H1 (or equivalent courses in statistics), plus at least 1 FCE in PSY at the 200-level (taken from the PSY210H1 - PSY290H1 series) with an average of 75%* across all four courses. If more than two PSY 200-levels have been completed, we will take the two with the highest grades.

Effective for admission to the University starting in September 2018, a grade 12 science credit in biology, physics, or chemistry will be required (pending Faculty approval)

* In past admission cycles, the average grade cut-off for the Specialist program ranged from approximately 83-86%. This may vary from year to year, and can even be higher.

Completion Requirements:

Required Courses (10 FCEs):

1. First Year: PSY100H1
2. Statistics: PSY201H1 and PSY202H1 (or equivalent courses in statistics)
3. 1 FCE from PSY210H1, PSY220H1, PSY230H1, PSY240H1 (Cluster A)
4. 1 FCE from PSY260H1, PSY270H1, PSY280H1, PSY290H1 (Cluster B)
5. 0.5 FCE in PSY at the 300/400-level from Group 1 in Cluster A
6. 0.5 FCE in PSY at the 300/400-level from Group 1 in Cluster B
7. 1.5 FCEs in PSY at the 300/400-level from Group 1 (any Cluster)
8. One lab course (0.5 FCE), and no more, taken from PSY319H1, PSY329H1, PSY339H1, PSY379H1, PSY389H1, or PSY399H1
9. Two seminar courses (1 FCE), and no more, taken from JLP471H1, PSY410H1, PSY420H1, PSY430H1, PSY440H1, PSY460H1, PSY470H1, PSY471H1, PSY480H1, PSY490H1, PSY497H1
10. 2.5 FCEs from Groups 1 and/or 2, at any level

(Please note that these are all individual requirements and cannot overlap or be used twice).

Psychology Major (Science Program)

Description:

You should consider pursuing the Major Program in Psychology if you want to concentrate in Psychology together with another discipline.

Enrolment Requirements:

The Major is a Type 2L (Limited) program that can only accept a limited number of students. The quantity of applications received in a given year always far exceeds the number of spaces available in the program. Eligibility will be based on the following criteria, however, achieving the minimum marks listed does not guarantee admission to the Major in any given year. Please have a back-up plan/program in place, should you not be admitted.

Applying with fewer than 8 FCEs completed:

- PSY100H1 with a final mark of at least 75% (AP and IB Psychology are not accepted)
- A senior-level (Gr. 12) high school course in Calculus
- Completion of at least 4 FCEs

Effective for admission to the University starting in September 2018, a grade 12 science credit in biology, physics, or chemistry will be required (pending Faculty approval)

Applying with 8 or more FCEs completed:

- Completion of PSY100H1 (AP and IB Psychology are not accepted)
- A senior-level (Gr. 12) high school course in Calculus
- Completion of at least 8 FCEs
- PSY201H1 (or equivalent course in statistics), plus at least 1 FCE in PSY at the 200-level (taken from the PSY210H1 - PSY290H1 series) with an average of 73%* across all three courses. If more than two PSY 200-levels have been completed, we will take the two with the highest grades.

Effective for admission to the University starting in September 2018, a grade 12 science credit in biology, physics, or chemistry will be required (pending Faculty approval)

* In past admission cycles, the average grade cut-off for the Major program ranged from approximately 80-84%. This may vary from year to year, and can even be higher.

Completion Requirements:

Required Courses (7 FCEs):

1. First Year: PSY100H1
2. Statistics: PSY201H1 (or an equivalent course in statistics)
3. 1 FCE from PSY210H1, PSY220H1, PSY230H1, PSY240H1 (Cluster A)
4. 1 FCE from PSY260H1, PSY270H1, PSY280H1, PSY290H1 (Cluster B)
5. 0.5 FCE in PSY at the 300/400-level from Group 1 in Cluster A
6. 0.5 FCE in PSY at the 300/400-level from Group 1 in Cluster B
7. 1 FCE in PSY at the 300/400-level from Group 1 (any Cluster)
8. 0.5 FCE in PSY at the 400-level from Group 1 (any Cluster)
9. 1.5 FCEs from Groups 1 and/or 2, at any level

(Please note that these are all individual requirements and cannot overlap or be used twice).

Environment & Behaviour Minor (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(4 full courses or their equivalent; must include at least one full course equivalent at the 300+-level.

Enrolment in the Minor program is limited to students also enrolled in the Psychology Minor/Major/Specialist.

Higher Years:

1. ENV221H1, ENV222H1; PSY220H1, PSY335H1/PSY435H1
2. One FCE from ENV333H1, ENV335H1; ENV361H1/ENV381H1 (if ENV381H1 taken in 2015-16 or 2016-17); JGE321H1; JGE331H1; SOC385H1
3. One FCE from PSY320H1, PSY321H1, PSY327H1/PSY427H1, PSY336H1

Psychology Minor (Science Program)

Description:

You should consider pursuing the Minor Program in Psychology if you are interested in Psychology as a part of your general education or as a complement to your training in another profession (i.e., nursing, rehabilitation medicine, physical health and education, social work, etc.).

Enrolment Requirements:

The Minor is a Type 2L (Limited) program that can only accept a limited number of students. The quantity of applications received in a given year always far exceeds the number of spaces available in the program. Eligibility will be based on the following criteria; however, achieving the minimum marks listed does not guarantee admission to the Minor in any given year. Please have a back-up plan/program in place, should you not be admitted.

Applying with fewer than 8 FCEs completed:

- PSY100H1 with a final mark of at least 73% (AP and IB Psychology are not accepted)
- A senior-level (Gr. 12) high school course in Calculus
- Completion of at least 4 FCEs

Effective for admission to the University starting in September 2018, a grade 12 science credit in biology, physics, or chemistry will be required (pending Faculty approval)

Applying with 8 or more FCEs completed:

- Completion of PSY100H1 (AP and IB Psychology are not accepted)
- A senior-level (Gr. 12) high school course in Calculus
- Completion of at least 8 FCEs
- PSY201H1 (or equivalent course in statistics), plus at least 1 FCE in PSY at the 200-level (taken from the PSY210H1 - PSY290H1 series) with an average of 70%* across all three courses. If more than two PSY 200-levels have been completed, we will take the two with the highest grades.

Effective for admission to the University starting in September 2018, a grade 12 science credit in biology, physics, or chemistry will be required (pending Faculty approval)

* In past admission cycles, the average grade cut-off for the Minor program ranged from approximately 77-79%. This may vary from year to year, and can even be higher.

Completion Requirements:

Required Courses (4 FCEs):

1. First Year: PSY100H1
2. Statistics: PSY201H1 (or an equivalent course in statistics)
3. 1 FCE from PSY210H1/PSY220H1/PSY230H1/PSY240H1/PSY260H1/PSY270H1/PSY280H1/PSY290H1
4. 1 FCE in PSY at the 300/400-level from Group 1 (any Cluster)
5. 1 FCE from Groups 1 and/or 2, at any level

(Please note that these are all individual requirements and cannot overlap or be used twice).

Group 1 Courses:

Some PSY courses are included in both of Clusters A and B and may count in either cluster, but not both, for program requirements. For Individual Projects or Special Topics courses being used to complete the cluster requirement, please confirm group cluster with the Undergraduate Administrator (PSY405H1/405Y1/406H1/406Y1 and PSY307H1/308H1/407H1/408H1). No more than 1 FCE of PSY405H1/405Y1/406H1/406Y1 can be used towards any PSY program. PSY202H1, PSY299Y1, and PSY305H1 can also be used towards program requirements as part of the final requirement for each program (except for PSY202H1 with the Specialist programs, as they are already required).

Group 2 Courses:

Please note that the courses in Group 2 are optional and that enrolment priority is not given to PSY program students.

Combined Degree Program (CDP) in Science and Education: Psychology (Major), Honours Bachelor of Science/Master of Teaching

The Combined Degree Program in Arts/Science and Education is designed for students interested in studying the intersections of teaching subjects and Education, coupled with professional teacher preparation. Students earn an Honours Bachelor's degree from the Faculty of Arts and Science (St. George) and an accredited professional Master of Teaching (MT) degree from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE). They will be recommended to the Ontario College of Teachers for an Ontario Teacher's Certificate of Qualifications as elementary or secondary school teachers. The CDP permits the completion of both degrees in six years with 1.0 FCE that may be counted towards both the undergraduate and graduate degrees.

Program requirements:

1. Minor in Education and Society, Victoria College
2. Major in Psychology (first teaching subject)
3. Minor in an area corresponding to the second teaching subject as determined by OISE
(see http://pepper.oise.utoronto.ca/~jhewitt/mtresources/intermediate\_senior\_teaching\_subject\_prerequisites\_2016-17.pdf)

See here for additional information on the CDP, including admission, path to completion and contact information.

Regarding Psychology Courses

We encourage students at all levels, and particularly those who are beginning a program in Psychology, to consult the undergraduate section of the Psychology web site (<http://home.psych.utoronto.ca/undergraduate.htm>) before selecting courses and to discuss their proposed programs with the Undergraduate Administrator.

Courses in the various areas within Psychology and the numbering system associated with these courses follow a specific pattern: PSYXXX. The first digit represents the year, and the second digit represents the area in which the course belongs. Social Psychology, for example, is identified by "2." Therefore, PSY220 at the second year, PSY320, 321, 322, etc. at the third year, and PSY420, 421, 424, etc. at the fourth year represent the Social Psychology courses. Other areas within Psychology follow a similar pattern, with their own identifying number in the middle.

Please note that the Dept. of Psychology will not waive course prerequisites under any circumstances and that Psychology courses do not have co-requisites. Students will need to have prerequisites completed BEFORE taking a course.

First-Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

200-Series Courses

Students registered in a St. George campus PSY program will be given priority to enrol in all PSY courses above the 100-level. Please see the online Arts and Science Registration Instructions and Timetable for more details on enrolment controls.

300-Series Courses

Almost all 300/400-level lecture courses require PSY201H1 (Statistics I), or its equivalent, as one of their prerequisites. This will not be waived. Students must complete the statistics requirement before taking any 300- or 400-level PSY lecture courses. Similarly, 300-level lab and 400-level seminar courses require PSY202H1 (Statistics II) or its equivalent.

400-Series Courses

The 400-series courses comprise of lecture courses, seminars, individual projects, and the thesis course for Research Specialists.

Psychology Courses

PSY100H1 - Introductory Psychology

Hours: 36L

A brief introductory survey of psychology as both a biological and social science. Topics will include physiological, learning, perceptual, motivational, cognitive, developmental, personality, abnormal, and social psychology.

Exclusion: PSY100Y1/PSY100Y5/PSYA01Y3/PSYA01H3/PSYA02H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY201H1 - Statistics I

Hours: 36L

Fundamentals of descriptive and inferential statistics, including population and sampling distributions, simple association, probability, estimation, and hypothesis testing.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1

Exclusion: ECO220Y1/ECO227Y1/EEB225H1/GGR270H1/HMB325H1/POL232H1/POL242Y1/SOC202H1/STA220H1/STA248H1

Recommended Preparation: Grade 12 Calculus

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PSY202H1 - Statistics II

Hours: 36L

Fundamentals of statistical analysis of experimental and observational data including linear models, the analysis of variance, a priori contrasts, post-hoc tests, power analysis and effect size calculations.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion)

Exclusion: ECO220Y1/ECO227Y1/STA221H1/SOC300H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PSY210H1 - Introduction to Development

Hours: 36L

The developmental approach to the study of behaviour with reference to sensorimotor skills, cognition, socialization, personality, and emotional behaviour.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1/COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSY210H5/PSYB20H3/PSYB21H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY220H1 - Introduction to Social Psychology

Hours: 36L

Contemporary areas of research in social psychology: social perception, attitudes, inter-personal relations, and group processes.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1/COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSY220H5/PSYB10H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY230H1 - Personality and Its Transformations

Hours: 36L

Theory and research in personality structure and dynamics: the interaction of cultural and biological factors in the development and expression of individual differences.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1/COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSY230H5/PSYB30H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY240H1 - Introduction to Abnormal Psychology

Hours: 36L

A critical survey of concepts, theories, and the state of research in the area of psychopathology and therapeutic methods.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1/COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSY240H5/PSYB32H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY260H1 - Learning and Plasticity

Hours: 36L

Concepts, theories, and applications of classical and contemporary learning theories, including classical and operant conditioning. Current theories of the physiological and anatomical basis of learning and memory, including synaptic plasticity, the role of the hippocampus, amygdala, frontal cortex and other brain regions. Theories will be related to a practical understanding and applications such as drug addiction, phobias and other disorders.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1/COG250Y1, OR registered in the Cognitive Science program

Exclusion: PSY360H5/PSYB45H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY270H1 - Introduction to Cognitive Psychology

Hours: 36L

An introduction to research and theory on the neural and cognitive architecture of attention, memory, language, thinking and reasoning.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1/COG250Y1, OR registered in the Cognitive Science program

Exclusion: PSY270H5/PSYB57H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY280H1 - Sensation and Perception

Hours: 36L

An introduction to the physiological and psychological basis of perception across the different sensory modalities in humans and lower animals, with an emphasis on vision. Exploring visual perception such as shape and objects, scenes, colour, space, and motion as well as auditory perception of simple and complex sounds, and location. Further topics may include touch, including perception of temperature, pain and body posture, the chemical senses, and cross-modal influences of the senses on one another. In-class demonstrations may supplement the lectures.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1/COG250Y1, OR registered in the Cognitive Science program

Exclusion: PSY280H5/PSYB51H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY290H1 - Physiological Psychology

Hours: 36L

Provides students with a solid background into the biological basis of behaviour. Animal and human research topics include functional neuroanatomy, neural signalling, sensory and motor control, motivational systems, and hormones, and emotions.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1/COG250Y1, OR registered in the Cognitive Science program

Exclusion: HMB200H1/HMB220H1/PSL300H1/PSY290H5/PSYB64H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY305H1 - The Treatment of Psychological Data

Hours: 36L

This course emphasizes the advanced use of statistical computer program packages for the treatment of psychological data collected in laboratory and field studies. Students analyze sets of data and interpret results. Various methods of ensuring the trustworthiness and accuracy of analysis are discussed.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PSY306Y0 - Special Topics in Psychology Abroad

Hours: 48L

Special Topics in Psychology for the SummerAbroad Program. Course topics, content, and instructor may vary from one year to another. More information about Psychology course offerings can be obtained from the Professional & International Programs office at Woodsworth College.

Prerequisite: Registration in any psychology and/or social science Major or Specialist, and the completion of at least 8 FCEs.

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY307H1 - Special Topics in Psychology

Hours: 36L

A lecture course providing in-depth examination of specific topics/themes relating to Psychology. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Priority is given to PSY Major program students during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1, PSY201H1 (or exclusion), and one further 200-level PSY half-course

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY308H1 - Special Topics in Psychology

Hours: 36L

A lecture course providing in-depth examination of specific topics/themes relating to Psychology. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Priority is given to PSY Major program students during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1, PSY201H1 (or exclusion), and one further 200-level PSY half-course

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY309H1 - Research Specialization: Practicum

Hours: 36P

Research Specialists learn about the research opportunities within our department, and develop their skills in the areas of critical thinking, writing, and oral presentation. Students also conduct a pre-thesis research project under the supervision of a faculty member. Ideally, students should complete a PSY lab course (PSY3*9H1) prior to taking this course, however, taking it concurrently is acceptable as well. Enrolment is restricted to PSY Research Specialists. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion)

Corequisite: PSY3*9H1 (PSY lab course)

Exclusion: PSY309H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY311H1 - Social Development

Hours: 36L

Theory and research in social attachment, aggression, morality, imitation and identification, altruism, and parental discipline, with discussion of methodological issues.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY210H1/PSY220H1

Exclusion: PSY311H5/PSYC21H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY312H1 - Cognitive Development

Hours: 36L

Examines the developmental of knowledge in fundamental domains such as spatial perception, navigation, object perception, number, language, and theory of mind. Emphasis is on current experimental findings and how they address centuries-old debates surrounding the origin and nature of human knowledge.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY210H1, and PSY270H1/COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSY312H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY313H1 - Psychology of Aging

Hours: 36L

Age changes in sensory and perceptual processes, motor skill, learning, memory, and personality. Theory, methodological problems, social, cultural, and environmental influences that shape behaviour and attitudes towards and among the elderly.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY210H1

Exclusion: PSY213H5/PSY313H5/PSYC21H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

JLP315H1 - Language Acquisition

Hours: 36L

Infants' abilities at birth, prelinguistic development, the first words, phonological, syntactic and semantic development. Social variables influencing development of language, bilingualism, models of development, language play. (Sponsored by the Departments of Linguistics and Psychology, but administered solely by the Dept. of Linguistics).

Prerequisite: One full course equivalent at the 200+-level in LIN/JAL/JUP/PSL/PSY/COG

Exclusion: PSY315H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY316H1 - Perceptual Development

Hours: 36L

The course examines human perceptual development during the first 2-3 years of life. Vision and audition are emphasized. Some topics are: pattern and colour vision, depth perception, infant speech perception.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY280H1

Exclusion: PSY316H5

Recommended Preparation: PSY210H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY319H1 - Developmental Laboratory

Hours: 36P

Provides an overview of developmental psychology methods. The class conducts an original research project, including design, data collection, data analysis, and a written report. Course capacity is limited to 15 students and priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY210H1

Exclusion: PSY319H5/PSYC26H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY320H1 - Social Psychology: Attitudes

Hours: 36L

Intensive study of social attitude development, description, measurement, modification, and organization.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1

Exclusion: PSY320H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY321H1 - Cross-Cultural Psychology

Hours: 36L

One of the hallmarks of human behaviour is its diversity. Some of the ways in which we differ are thought to be relatively idiosyncratic (e.g., specific aspects of personality), whereas others are fairly systematic. Cultural psychology is one area of research in human behaviour that examines systematic differences resulting from individuals' cultural backgrounds. This course will introduce you to the consideration of cultural variation in the study of human thought and behaviour.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1, and PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSY321H5/PSYC14H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY322H1 - Intergroup Relations

Hours: 36L

An in-depth examination of theories and research in intergroup relations; focuses on stereotyping, prejudice, discrimination, and stigma.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1

Exclusion: PSYC12H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY323H1 - Sex Roles and Behaviour

Hours: 36L

The effect of sex-role expectations on how men and women behave and perceive the world: theories of sex-role development, physiological and cultural determinants of sex differences, power relationships between men and women.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY210H1/PSY220H1/PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSYD18H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY326H1 - Social Cognition

Hours: 36L

An examination of theory and research on how we make sense of ourselves and our social world. Topics covered include goals, mood, memory, hypothesis testing, counterfactual thinking, stereotypes, and culture.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY328H1 - Psychology and the Law

Hours: 36L

This course deals with psychological issues in the law, with particular reference to criminal law. It focuses mainly on research that has been done on pretrial publicity, eyewitness testimony, rules of evidence, and other factors that might affect jury decisions.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1

Exclusion: PSY328H5/PSYC39H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY329H1 - Social Psychology Laboratory

Hours: 36P

Illustrates major methodologies within social psychology, such as attitude measurement, observation of small groups, and experiments. Course capacity is limited to 15 students and priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1

Exclusion: PSY329H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY330H1 - Psychometrics

Hours: 36L

Concepts and methods for the measurement of abilities, interests and personality: reliability, validity, interpretation of test scores, norms, observational methods, structured tests, interview, projective techniques. Ethical problems in assessment. Not a course in test administration.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion)

Exclusion: PSY331H5/PSYC37H3

Recommended Preparation: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY230H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY331H1 - Social Psychology of Emotion

Hours: 36L

An in-depth review of the role of emotion in human psychology, with an emphasis on the links between emotion and cognition. Topics include theories of emotion, emotion regulation, emotional expression, and emotional experience, the role of emotion in decision-making, and the relationships between emotion, motivation and behaviour.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1, and PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSYC18H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY332H1 - Organizational Behaviour

Hours: 36L

An analysis of the individual, group, and institutional structures and processes that influence behaviour within organizations. Topics include motivation, leadership, communication, management theory, group processes and team work, supervision, and organizational culture.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1/PSY230H1

Exclusion: MGT260H1/RSM260H1/WDW260H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PSY333H1 - Health Psychology

Hours: 36L

Examines research evidence concerning the impact of psychological factors on physical health and illness.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY336H1 - Positive Psychology

Hours: 36L

A review of the field of positive psychology, which is the study of happiness and fulfillment. Topics include personal growth, meaning, hedonic and eudaimonic approaches to well-being, gratitude, awe, flow states, mindfulness and meditation.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1/PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSY324H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY337H1 - Advanced Personality Psychology

Hours: 36L

This course covers major topics in personality psychology including prominent theories and current research in the area. Theoretical frameworks are integrated with specific applications in primary sources. Specific topics may include personality structure, personality development, psychodynamic approaches, genetic methodology, and emotion regulation.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSYC35H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY339H1 - Individual Differences Laboratory

Hours: 36P

Introduction to methods involved in individual differences or personality research. Group and individual projects focus on assessment of individual difference characteristics and on experimentation including such characteristics. Course capacity is limited to 15 students and priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1/PSY230H1

Exclusion: PSY329H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY341H1 - Psychopathologies of Childhood

Hours: 36L

This course focuses on cognitive and neuropsychological aspects of neurodevelopmental and psychiatric disorders in children from clinical and theoretical perspectives.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY210H1/PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSY341H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY342H1 - Cognition and Psychopathology

Hours: 36L

Work in psychological disorders has increasingly used the theories and methodologies of cognitive psychology to guide research. This course will examine accounts of clinical disorders informed by cognitive experimental psychology, with emphasis on recent work in affective disorders.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY230H1/PSY240H1/PSY270H1

Exclusion: PSY340H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY343H1 - Theories of Psychopathology and Psychotherapy

Hours: 36L

Examines various theories of how personality functioning may become impaired and corresponding psychotherapeutic interventions. Emphasis on empirical assessment of personality dysfunction and therapy effectiveness.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSY343H5/PSYC36H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY359H1 - Human Neuroimaging Laboratory

Hours: 36P

Introduction to brain imaging methods used in cognitive, developmental, and social neuroscience. Course projects will cover experimental design, imaging techniques, and data analysis. Course capacity is limited to 15 students and priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1, PSY270H1/PSY280H1, PSY210H1/PSY220H1/PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY362H1 - Animal Cognition

Hours: 36L

The study of memory, representation, concept learning, and other cognitive processes in non-human animals.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY260H1

Exclusion: PSY362H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY369H1 - Psychobiology Laboratory

Hours: 36P

Formerly numbered PSY399H1, this lab is an introduction to experimental methods in behavioural neuroscience, including neuroanatomical and psychopharmacological methods in rodents. Course projects will cover experimental design, laboratory techniques, data analysis, and scientific writing. Course capacity is limited to 12-15 students and priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY290H1/HMB200H1

Exclusion: HMB310H1/PSY399H1/PSY399H5/PSYC06H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY370H1 - Thinking and Reasoning

Hours: 36L

Problem-solving as a model of directed thinking; conceptual behaviour and mental representation; induction, deduction and learning; probabilistic reasoning; creative thinking and complex problem solving.

Prerequisite: PSY270H1/COG250Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY371H1 - Higher Cognitive Processes

Hours: 36L

This course covers selected topics pertaining to higher cognitive processes including expertise, consciousness, creativity, and human and artificial intelligence.

Prerequisite: PSY270H1/PSY370H1/COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSY371H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY372H1 - Human Memory

Hours: 36L

Current theories and data on human memory: processes involved in encoding, storage, and retrieval.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY260H1/PSY270H1/COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSY372H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

JLP374H1 - Psychology of Language

Hours: 36L

Human and other animal communication, structure of human language, word meaning and semantic memory, psychological studies of syntax, bilingualism, language and thought, language errors and disorders. (Sponsored by the Departments of Linguistics and Psychology, but administered solely by the Dept. of Linguistics).

Prerequisite: One FCE from LIN228H1, LIN229H1, LIN232H1, LIN241H1, PSY260H1, PSY270H1, PSY280H1, PSY290H1, COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSY374H5, PLIC55H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY378H1 - Engineering Psychology

Hours: 36L

The application of our knowledge of human information processing capabilities to improve human-machine systems design in a number of engineering environments including aviation, computer software, human-computer interaction, and nuclear power plants.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY270H1/PSY280H1/COG250Y1

Recommended Preparation: PSY202H1 (or equivalent)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY379H1 - Human Memory and Learning Laboratory

Hours: 36P

Examination of issues and methods in human memory research. Students conduct supervised research projects, and read, critique, and write research articles. Course capacity is limited to 15 students and priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY260H1/PSY270H1/COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSY379H5/PSYC58H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY380H1 - Vision Science

Hours: 36L

Integrates psychology, neuroscience, and computer science approaches to the study of vision science. Topics include: spatial vision; perception of objects, function, and category; motion perception; visual attention, memory, and imagery; and consciousness. Demonstrations/in-class experiments supplement lectures and readings.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY280H1

Exclusion: PSYC51H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY389H1 - Perception Laboratory

Hours: 36P

Examination of issues and methods in perception research. Students conduct supervised research projects, and read, critique, and write research articles. Course capacity is limited to 15 students and priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY280H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY390H1 - Behavioural Genetics

Hours: 36L

An examination of how genes contribute to the production of behaviour, either as structural elements or direct participants in behavioural regulation. Covers molecular genetics, natural selection, and genetic methods followed by specific examples of congenic disorders that affect behaviour and studies of normal behaviours in human and animal models.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY260H1/PSY290H1/HMB200H1/HMB265H1

Exclusion: PSY355H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY395H1 - Neuroethics

Hours: 36L

An examination of how developments in neurology and neuroscience can be used to inform ethical and legal issues related to free will, responsibility, competence, education, morality, and empathy in healthy people and in people with confirmed or suspected neurological disorders.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY260H1/PSY270H1/PSY280H1/PSY290H1

Recommended Preparation: Review of basic brain functions

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY396H1 - Neurochemical Basis of Behaviour

Hours: 36L

The functional relevance of neurotransmitters, with particular emphasis on their role in mediating behaviour.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY290H1/HMB200H1

Exclusion: PCL475Y1/PSYC62H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY397H1 - Biological Rhythms

Hours: 36L

Daily, monthly, annual and other rhythms and methods of measuring them. Behavioural and physiological aspects of biological clocks. The importance of rhythms in experimental design, in research on brain function, in affective disorders, and the use animals make of rhythms in migration and other behaviours.

Prerequisite: PSY290H1/HMB200H1/PSL300H1

Exclusion: JZP326H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY400Y1 - Research Specialization: Thesis

Hours: TBA

An individual thesis done under the direction of a faculty member. Lecture and seminar presentations of proposals in the Fall session. Enrolment is restricted to PSY Research Specialists. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Enrolment in the PSY Research Specialist program, PSY309H1, and PSY3*9H1 (PSY lab course)

Exclusion: PSY400Y5/PSYC98Y3

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY402H1 - Psychology Seminar

Hours: 24S

Examination in depth of specific topics in psychology at the graduate level. These seminars vary from year to year in terms of the number given, the topics, and the restrictions on enrolment. Students must get prior consent from the instructor of the graduate seminar they are interested in taking and submit this consent in writing to the department at which time you will be enrolled for undergraduate credit. Consult the Undergraduate Administrator for more details.

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY403H1 - Psychology Seminar

Hours: 24S

Examination in depth of specific topics in psychology at the graduate level. These seminars vary from year to year in terms of the number given, the topics, and the restrictions on enrolment. Students must get prior consent from the instructor of the graduate seminar they are interested in taking and submit this consent in writing to the department at which time you will be enrolled for undergraduate credit. Consult the Undergraduate Administrator for more details.

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY404H1 - Psychology Seminar

Hours: 24S

Examination in depth of specific topics in psychology at the graduate level. These seminars vary from year to year in terms of the number given, the topics, and the restrictions on enrolment. Students must get prior consent from the instructor of the graduate seminar they are interested in taking and submit this consent in writing to the department at which time you will be enrolled for undergraduate credit. Consult the Undergraduate Administrator for more details.

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY405H1 - Individual Projects

Hours: TBA

An intensive laboratory or applied research project under the supervision of a Department of Psychology faculty member. Project must be academically demanding and uniquely suitable for the individual student. Additional information and applications are available at the department and on its website. This course is open to all Psychology program students.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), and appropriate background for the proposed work

Exclusion: PSY303H1/PSY304H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY405Y1 - Individual Projects

Hours: TBA

An intensive laboratory or applied research project under the supervision of a Department of Psychology faculty member. Project must be academically demanding and uniquely suitable for the individual student. Additional information and applications are available at the department and on its website. This course is open to all Psychology program students.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), and appropriate background for the proposed work

Exclusion: PSY303H1/PSY304H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY406H1 - Individual Projects

Hours: TBA

An intensive laboratory or applied research project under the supervision of a Department of Psychology faculty member. Project must be academically demanding and uniquely suitable for the individual student. Additional information and applications are available at the department and on its website. This course is open to all Psychology program students.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), and appropriate background for the proposed work

Exclusion: PSY303H1/PSY304H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY406Y1 - Individual Projects

Hours: TBA

An intensive laboratory or applied research project under the supervision of a Department of Psychology faculty member. Project must be academically demanding and uniquely suitable for the individual student. Additional information and applications are available at the department and on its website. This course is open to all Psychology program students.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), and appropriate background for the proposed work

Exclusion: PSY303H1/PSY304H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

PSY407H1 - Special Topics in Psychology

Hours: 36L

A lecture course providing in-depth examination of specific topics/themes relating to Psychology. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Priority is given to PSY Major program students during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1, PSY201H1 (or exclusion), and one further 200-level PSY half-course

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY408H1 - Special Topics in Psychology

Hours: 36L

A lecture course providing in-depth examination of specific topics/themes relating to Psychology. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Priority is given to PSY Major program students during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1, PSY201H1 (or exclusion), and one further 200-level PSY half-course

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY409H1 - Research Specialization: Theoretical Foundations

Hours: 24S

Addresses the central theoretical issues that structure contemporary research in each of the major areas of psychology. The aim is to provide an informal overview of the field as a whole. Enrolment is restricted to PSY Research Specialists.

Prerequisite: Enrolment in the PSY Research Specialist program, PSY309H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY410H1 - Developmental Psychology Seminar

Hours: 24S

Examination in depth of a limited topic within developmental psychology. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Course capacity is limited to 20 students and enrolment priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY210H1

Exclusion: PSY410H5/PSYD20H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY414H1 - Moral Development

Hours: 36L

Lecture courses examining cognitive-developmental, psychoanalytic, sociobiological, behaviouristic and cultural-anthropological approaches to moral development. Issues covered include definitions of morality, the relationship between moral judgement and action, gender differences and commonalities, and the role of culture in moral development.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY210H1

Exclusion: PSY314H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY417H1 - Aging and Social Cognition

Hours: 36L

Lecture course examining theory and research on the social cognitive aspect of aging. Topics range from impression formation and causal attributions to perceptions of control and emotions.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1

Exclusion: PSY317H1/PSY415H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY420H1 - Social Psychology Seminar

Hours: 24S

Examination in depth of a limited topic within social psychology. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Course capacity is limited to 20 students and enrolment priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1

Exclusion: PSY420H5/PSYD12H3/PSYD15H3/PSYD16H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY421H1 - Person Perception

Hours: 36L

This lecture course discusses how we perceive, categorize, and form impressions of other people, relying on readings from primary sources in the scientific literature.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1, PSY230H1/PSY240H1, and PSY270H1/PSY280H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY424H1 - Social Psychology of Interpersonal Relationships

Hours: 36L

This lecture course focuses on the social psychology of interpersonal relationships between individuals, especially romantic or close relationships and friendships. It surveys what social psychologists have learned about the development, maintenance, disruption or dissolution of personal relationships, as well as current social psychological theories of interpersonal relationships.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1

Exclusion: PSY324H1/PSY327H5/PSYD11H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY425H1 - Self-Consciousness

Hours: 36L

The distinguishing feature of our species is the reflexivity of our consciousness - the ability to conceive of and interpret ourselves and our experiences. For us, consciousness involves self-consciousness. All our higher symbolic capabilities rest upon this foundation. The aim of this lecture course is to trace out a variety of frames through which we may examine and understand the shared aspects of our subjectivity as self-conscious agents. Using a multidisciplinary that draws together ideas and insights from psychology, sociology, philosophy, anthropology, and biology. The broader purpose of the course is to promote articulation and critical acumen in how we think about reflexive experience.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1, PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSY325H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY426H1 - Motivational Theories in Social Psychology

Hours: 36L

With intensive reading and discussion of 'classic' and contemporary articles, this advanced lecture course in social psychology focuses on the central issues, methods, and findings in the study of motivation. Topics include self-regulation, achievement, and reward/punishment.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or equivalent), PSY220H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY427H1 - Media Psychology

Hours: 36L

This lecture course examines how we come to understand ourselves and our world, and learn to feel, judge, and act, through the simulacrum of personal and mass communication technologies. The aim is to provide students with a deeper understanding of the highly commodified symbolic environment that surrounds them and in which they participate as audience and, increasingly, producer. Although the focus is psychological, the history, sociology, political economy, and technology of various media will be discussed in relation to the changing forms of public and private life in the 21st century.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or equivalent), PSY220H1, and PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSY327H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY428H1 - Critical Psychology

Hours: 36L

This lecture course examines the assumptions and commitments that underlie psychological science; and explores its institutional relations within culture and society. Bringing the background and context of the discipline into focus allows for a better understanding of the choices implicit in psychological research.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1

Exclusion: PSY420H1 (taken in Fall of 2013)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY430H1 - Personality Seminar

Hours: 24S

Examination in depth of a limited topic within the area of personality. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Course capacity is limited to 20 students and enrolment priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSY430H5/PSYD30H3/PSYD32H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY434H1 - Maps of Meaning: The Architecture of Belief

Hours: 36L

This lecture course is based on the book Maps of Meaning: The Architecture of Belief. Maps of Meaning lays bare the grammar of mythology, and describes the relevance of that grammar for interpretation of narrative and religion, comprehension of ideological identification, and understanding of the role that individual choice plays in the maintenance, transformation and destiny of social systems.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSY334H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY435H1 - Environmental Psychology

Hours: 36L

This lecture course explores how psychologists can contribute to finding solutions to today's pressing environmental challenges. Topics include persuasion, community-based social marketing, social influence, social capital, and the many ways in which the physical environment affects psychological processes. The course takes a multi-scalar approach to the human-environment relationship, covering individual, community, cultural and global levels of scale, through the lens of complex dynamic systems theories.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1, PSY220H1, OR registered in an Environmental Studies/Science program

Exclusion: PSY335H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY440H1 - Abnormal Psychology Seminar

Hours: 24S

Examination in depth of a limited topic within abnormal psychology. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Course capacity is limited to 20 students and enrolment priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY230H1/PSY240H1

Exclusion: PSY440H5/PSYD33H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY450H1 - History of Psychology

Hours: 36L

This lecture course discusses the philosophical predecessors and early development of modern psychology, schools of thought, and shifts in areas of theory and research, as well as history and philosophy of science, in general.

Prerequisite: One full course equivalent at the PSY 200+-level

Exclusion: PSY300H1/PSYC85H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PSY460H1 - Learning Seminar

Hours: 24S

Examination in depth of a limited topic in human or animal learning. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Course capacity is limited to 20 students and enrolment priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY260H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY470H1 - Memory Seminar

Hours: 24S

Examination in depth of a limited topic within the area of memory. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Course capacity is limited to 20 students and enrolment priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY270H1/COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSYD50H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

JLP471H1 - Advanced Psycholinguistics

Hours: 24S

Seminar in advanced topics in psycholinguistics. Content varies from year to year. (Sponsored by the Departments of Linguistics and Psychology, but administered solely by the Dept. of Linguistics).

Prerequisite: JLP374H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY471H1 - Cognition Seminar

Hours: 24S

Examination in depth of a limited topic in cognition. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Course capacity is limited to 20 students and enrolment priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY270H1/COG250Y1 (may be additional prerequisites based on seminar topic given)

Exclusion: PSY471H5/PSY50H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY473H1 - Social Cognitive Neuroscience

Hours: 36L

Social cognitive neuroscience is an emerging interdisciplinary field that seeks to integrate theories of social psychology and cognitive neuroscience to understand behaviour at three fundamentally interrelated levels of analysis (social, cognitive, and neural). Topics such as self-regulation, cooperation, decision-making, emotion, morality, and prejudice will be examined in this lecture course.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY220H1, and PSY270H1/PSY290H1

Exclusion: PSY373H1/PSY353H5/PSYD17H3

Recommended Preparation: PSY326H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY474H1 - Computation in Psychology

Hours: 36L

This lecture course surveys computational perspectives on the mind and brain and introduces computational tools for connecting psychological and neural data to theory. Topics may include neural networks, probabilistic models, pattern recognition, and other techniques applicable to psychological research and general analysis. Basic familiarity with programming is recommended but not required.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion)

Exclusion: PSY471H1 (Fall of 2015)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PSY475H1 - Attention and Performance

Hours: 36L

This lecture course discusses visual attention; attentional selection for object recognition, feature integration, and action; attention in action-relevant space; movements of attention; eye-hand coordination, eye and limb movements; action-specific perception and effort-based models of perception; ecological perception and the perception of affordances.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY270H1/PSY280H1/COG250Y1

Exclusion: PSY375H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY480H1 - Seminar in Perception

Hours: 24S

An in-depth examination of current issues in perception (e.g. perceptual organization, object and face recognition, motion perception). Emphasis is on the psychological perspective, but integrates physiological and computational perspectives as well. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Course capacity is limited to 20 students and enrolment priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY280H1

Exclusion: PSY480H5/PSYD51H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY490H1 - Brain Activity & Behaviour Seminar

Hours: 24S

An in-depth examination of current issues in brain and behaviour science (e.g. activity of neurons, sensory, motor, motivational, and higher cortical systems.). Content in any given year depends on instructor. Course capacity is limited to 20 students and enrolment priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists.

Prerequisite: PSY202H1 (or exclusion), PSY290H1/HMB200H1

Exclusion: PSY490H5/PSYD66H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY492H1 - Neurobiology of Learning and Memory

Hours: 36L

Understanding the complexities of how the mammalian nervous system acquires and stores information and how it transforms this information into appropriate behavior is fundamentally important to our understanding of both animal and human behavior. This lecture course explores empirical and theoretical contributions to our understanding of the neural basis of learning and memory.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY260H1/PSY290H1/HMB200H1

Exclusion: PSY392H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY493H1 - Cognitive Neuroscience

Hours: 36L

This is a capstone lecture course surveying research on how the mind arises from the brain. The first objective of the course is to understand how processes in human brains (ranging from the firing of a single neuron to the dynamics of billions) support cognitive abilities (such as recognizing a face, remembering a birthday from childhood, understanding the words in a spoken lecture, or planning a route home from class). The second objective of the course is to understand the methods of contemporary cognitive neuroscience research, to enable students to read primary literature and to understand ongoing debates.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY260H1/PSY270H1/PSY290H1/HMB200H1

Exclusion: PSY393H1/PSYC55H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY494H1 - Physiology and Psychology of Emotion

Hours: 36L

This lecture course discusses the role of brain and body in the expression and experience of emotion in humans considered through the experimental, physiological, theoretical, and clinical literatures.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY260H1/PSY270H1/PSY290H1/HMB200H1

Exclusion: PSY394H1/PSYC18H3

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY495H1 - Sex and the Brain

Hours: 36L

This lecture course explores the scientific literature underlying the concept that female/male, gay/straight, and transgendered behaviours are based on brain differences. Original scientific papers will be read in close detail for design and interpretation of the experiments. The goal is to gain an understanding of the science and psychology underlying sex/gender, popular conceptions of sex, and the sexual brain. Topics include: the making of sex, hormone action, brain-based sexual behaviours, sex and cognition, and sex and sexuality/gender identification.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY290H1/NRS200H1

Exclusion: PSY354H5/PSY395H5

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

PSY496H1 - Cognitive Dysfunction in Neurological Disorders

Hours: 36L

This lecture course provides an in-depth examination of the cognitive dysfunction found in neurological disorders, including Alzheimer's Disease, Parkinson's Disease, and Schizophrenia. The course focuses on how cognitive impairments relate to neuropsychological models of the specific disease (specifically how these models provide insights into the biological mechanisms underlying the cognitive symptoms) and cognition, more broadly.

Prerequisite: PSY201H1 (or exclusion), PSY270H1/PSY290H1

Exclusion: PSY471H1 (Winter of 2015)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

PSY497H1 - Advanced Topics in Biological Rhythms

Hours: 24S

This seminar course discusses circadian rhythms with emphasis on non-photic entrainment and phase shifting of rhythms by behaviour (e.g., social interactions, becoming active). Properties and physiological mechanisms for non-photic effects and comparisons with those for photic effects. Although the emphasis is on basic principles, possible applications will also be discussed. Course capacity is limited to 20 students and enrolment priority is given to PSY Specialists and Research Specialists.

Prerequisite: PSY397H1

Exclusion: JZP428H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

Offered by the Dalla Lana School of Public Health

Introduction

Public health is the science and art of preventing disease and promoting health through organized population-based efforts. The focus of public health is to prevent rather than treat disease and to positively affect determinants of health through a wide range of strategies, including the surveillance and assessment of population health and the promotion of healthy behaviours, healthy environments and healthy public policies. In addition to these activities, the identification and treatment of those with disease may be vital to preventing it in others, such as during an outbreak of an infectious disease. Hand washing, vaccination programs, the inspection of restaurants, laws banning smoking in public places and tax credits for childhood physical activity programs are examples of public health measures. Public health includes sub-disciplines such as epidemiology, biostatistics, occupational and environmental health, public health policy, and social and behavioural health sciences.

Public Health Sciences Courses

PHS100H1 - Global Health Grand Opps

Hours: 24L/24T

This course introduces students to basic public health-related concepts, significant aspects of the historical development of global health, and a selection of topics illustrating the broad and evolving nature of this field. In addition, it helps students explore the contributions that various disciplines/fields offer to global health.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHS300H1 - HIV Prevention Research

Hours: 24L

This course engages students in in-depth learning about HIV research. In addition to learning about methods and issues from a variety of research disciplines as applied to HIV, students will be expected, with guidance, to design a study relevant to the content of the course.

Recommended Preparation: STA220H1 or equivalent

Distribution Requirements: Science; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HMB325H1 - Statistics Applied to Human Biology

Hours: 24L/24T

(This course is not being offered in the 2017-2018 Academic Year. Students are advised to take STA288H1 instead.)

Find out how to use statistics in your research, and critically assess published data using statistical concepts. The examples used in these lectures and small-group sessions are taken solely from human biology studies.

Prerequisite: 0.5 FCE from a first year math or physics course, BIO220H1, BIO230H1/BIO255H1, HMB265H1/BIO260H1

Exclusion: ECO220Y1/ECO227Y1/PSY202H1/SOC300H1/STA221H1/STA248H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

HMB342H1 - Epidemiology of Health & Disease

Hours: 24L/24T

This course engages students in the fundamental science of epidemiology applied to health and disease. After an introduction to various measures of health and disease, the scientific methods used to investigate, analyze, prevent and control health problems will be illustrated using biomedical and public health examples.

Prerequisite: 9 FCE complete, HMB200H1/HMB201H1/HMB202H1/HMB203H1/ HMB204H1

Exclusion: HST373H1

Recommended Preparation: HMB325H1 or other statistics course

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

STA365H1 - Applied Bayesian Statistics

Hours: 36L

Bayesian inference has become an important applied technique and is especially valued to solve complex problems. This course first examines the basics of Bayesian inference. From there, this course looks at modern, computational methods and how to make inferences on complex data problems.

Prerequisite: STA302H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

PSY407H1 - Special Topics in Psychology

Hours: 36L

A lecture course providing in-depth examination of specific topics/themes relating to Psychology. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Priority is given to PSY Major program students during the first enrolment period.

Prerequisite: PSY100H1, PSY201H1 (or exclusion), and one further 200-level PSY half-course

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

GGR433H1 - Built Environment and Health

Hours: 36S

Linking across fields that include public health, geography and planning, this course examines the growing evidence and ways in which human health is affected by the design and development of the built environment in which we live, work and play. The course considers how various planning and development decisions impact population and individual health, particularly in relation to chronic diseases, injuries, and mental health.

Prerequisite: 10.0 FCE's

Exclusion: GGR400H1 (2012-13)

Recommended Preparation: 1.0 FCE in Geography (SOC SCI/BR=3)

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

GGR434H1 - Building Community Resilience

Hours: 36S

Examines concepts of resilience as a way of building the capacity of communities to (a) respond to predicted disruptions/shocks associated with climate change, global pandemics, anticipated disruptions in global food supply, energy insecurity, and environmental degradation; and (b) nurture the development of alternative spaces that support the emergence of more life-sustaining structures and practices. Includes explicit attention to equity and public health, and explores issues such as: participatory governance of social-ecological systems, the nature of social change, complexity science, the role of social movements, indigenous and political ecology perspectives.

Prerequisite: 10 FCEs

Exclusion: GGR400H1 (2011-12)

Recommended Preparation: 1.0 FCEs in Geography

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HMB436H1 - Medical and Veterinary Mycology

Hours: 16L/6P/8S

This lecture-based course will familiarize students with fungi of public health importance, particularly those that cause disease in humans and other animals. The course will focus on the clinical presentation, pathophysiology, and treatment of fungal infections, as well as the ecology, physiology and evolutionary biology of the agents responsible. The course will also address other ways in which fungi influence human and animal health.

Prerequisite: 14 FCE complete, HMB265H1/ BIO260H1

Exclusion: BOT405H1

Recommended Preparation: EEB268H1, EEB331H1/CSB353H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Living Things and Their Environment (4)

STA465H1 - Theory and Methods for Complex Spatial Data

Hours: 36L

Data acquisition trends in the environmental, physical and health sciences are increasingly spatial in character and novel in the sense that modern sophisticated methods are required for analysis. This course will cover different types of random spatial processes and how to incorporate them into mixed effects models for Normal and non-Normal data. Students will be trained in a variety of advanced techniques for analyzing complex spatial data and, upon completion, will be able to undertake a variety of analyses on spatially dependent data, understand which methods are appropriate for various research questions, and interpret and convey results in the light of the original questions posed.

Prerequisite: STA302H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes

Public Policy

Introduction

Solving real-world policy challenges requires the use of multi-disciplinary tools to analyze problems, determine the best means to deal with those problems, and decide on the best course of action. An undergraduate Major in Public Policy provides a unique opportunity for students in Social Science disciplines to think in an interdisciplinary way, by drawing on theories and approaches, as well as tool kits developed in the core disciplines of Economics and Political Science, and beyond. Students in this program develop theoretical and applied reasoning skills in policy analysis, as well as a solid grounding in quantitative methods and research.

Regarding Public Policy Programs

The Major program in Public Policy is offered jointly by the School of Public Policy, the Department of Economics, and the Department of Political Science. Students may enroll after their first- or second-year of undergraduate studies, and must meet the prerequisite conditions for all second-year and higher courses.

The Program Director and Program Assistant are available for consultation. For enquiries or an appointment call the Undergraduate Administrator, Petra Jory at 416-978-5402 or send an e-mail to p.jory@utoronto.ca.

Public Policy Programs

Major in Public Policy (Arts Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

First Year:

1. POL101Y1 (67%)
  - OR TrinityOne Public Policy courses TRN160Y and/or TRN161Y (75%) / VicOne policy streams (75% in 1.0 FCE)
  - *Students entering through TrinityOne/VicOne streams will be ineligible to take upper year POL courses until they have completed POL214Y
2. Either ECO100Y1 (with a final mark of at least 67%) or ECO105Y1 (with a final mark of at least 80%), AND
3. Optional MAT133Y1 or equivalent (65%)
  - *MAT133Y or equivalent (65%) is required for those students studying ECO206Y, ECO208Y, ECO210Y, ECO227Y in their upper years
  - *MAT133Y or equivalent (no minimum grade) is required for those students studying ECO200Y, ECO202Y, ECO204Y, ECO209Y, ECO220Y in their upper years

*MAT133Y or equivalent (65%) is not required for those students studying PPG200H1

Second Year:

1. ECO200Y1/ECO204Y1/ECO206Y1/PPG200H1
  - PPG200H does not serve as PREREQUISITE for upper year ECO courses
  - ECO200+ is required for those who plan to take ECO courses at the 300+ level.
2. ECO220Y1/
(POL222H1+POL232H1)/SOC202H1/
STA220H1/STA221H1/STA248H1/
STA255H1/STA261H1
3. POL214Y

Students may enroll after their first- or second-year of study. Achieving the minimum grade requirements outlined above does not necessarily guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

Completion Requirements:

(7.5 FCEs)

The Major program in Public Policy is offered jointly by the School of Public Policy, the Department of Economics, and the Department of Political Science. Students enroll after first-year, and must meet the prerequisite conditions for all second-year and higher courses.

With the approval of the program director, students can take public policy oriented courses outside this list.

Students may enroll after their first- or second-year of study. Achieving the minimum grades outlined above does not necessarily guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

Public Policy Courses

PPG200H1 - Microeconomics for Policy Analysis

Hours: 24L

The objectives are: (1) To provide students with a foundation in microeconomic analysis and; (2) To demonstrate how this foundation can be applied to design, predict the effects of and evaluate public policies.

Students will be equipped to understand the main issues on a range of policy topics such as taxation, social insurance, welfare and income support programs.

Prerequisite: ECO100Y1/ECO105Y1

Exclusion: ECO200Y1, ECO204Y1, ECO206Y1

Recommended Preparation: POL101Y1

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PPG301H1 - Introduction to Public Policy

Hours: 24L

The course introduces students to the study of public policy, the policy process and our policy institutions in Canada. The course examines how issues emerge, how important ideas are framed, priorities are established, and agendas are set and managed. It explores how institutions - formal and informal rules which enable and constrain actors - shape policy-making in Canada.

Prerequisite: (ECO200Y1/ECO204Y1/ECO206Y1/PPG200H1), (ECO220Y1/POL242Y1/SOC202H1/STA220H1/STA221H1/STA248H1/STA255H1/STA261H1), POL214Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PPG401H1 - The Role of Government

Hours: 24L

This course explores the government's role in promoting efficiency and equity in both the financing and delivery of public policy goals. It explores the conditions when government involvement is important, the policy levers available to government in promoting social policy, market failures, and conditions for efficiency. It examines the role of government in many of the major areas of social policy such as health care, education, redistribution, the environment, financial regulations and other important issues.

Corequisite: PPG301H1

Recommended Preparation: ECO200Y1/ECO204Y1/ECO206Y1/PPG200H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

The Study of Religion

As an intellectual inquiry into an important dimension of human experience, the study of religion enables students to grasp an essential aspect of the cultures of the world and the interactions among them. We look at the development of religious beliefs, practices, and doctrines as they intersect with the history of peoples and cultures right up to the contemporary world. The study of religion also prepares students for a wide range of careers, such as social work, law, politics from the local to the international level, teaching, medicine, or leadership in religious organizations. Combined with appropriate language preparation, it can also open out into graduate work leading to the M.A. and Ph.D. in the growing number of universities offering advanced graduate degrees in the field, and in our University's own Graduate programs.

Historically, the academic study of religion has taken a variety of forms, each with its own rationale. The Department identifies itself with a model in which the major religious traditions (e.g., Buddhism, Christianity, Hinduism, Islam, Judaism) are studied within a comparative frame. We employ and encourage a variety of approaches (e.g., historical, textual, social scientific) without sacrificing specialized skills and training. The diversity which characterizes this model is reflected in the variety of courses offered or cross-listed by the Department, and by the wide range of training and expertise of our faculty.

Programs are described in detail in the Departmental Handbook; it also includes a limited number of cross-listed courses offered by Colleges or departments such as East Asian Studies, History, Near and Middle Eastern Civilizations, Philosophy, and Sociology. Students aiming to complete any RLG program should consult the Undergraduate Administrator at least once a year for assistance in selecting courses that address the student's interests and fulfill the programs requirements.

Religion Programs

Buddhist Studies Specialist (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(10 full courses or their equivalent)

1. A full year of introductory courses in the first or second year, to be selected from RLG100Y1/RLG280Y1 or RLG101H1F and RLG101H1S.
2. No later than the third year of study: RLG200H1. RLG200H1 is a prerequisite for all 400-level courses.
3. RLG206H1.
4. One course drawn from RLG 209H1/211H1/212H1/213H1.
5. Two consecutive (FCE) language courses in one of: Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Sanskrit or Tibetan.
6. A total of nine half-courses (or equivalent) chosen from the list below. At least five half-courses (or equivalent) must be RLG courses (EAS324H1, EAS325H1, and EAS361Y1 are counted as RLG courses here). At least five half-courses (or equivalent) must be taken at the 300-level or higher.
Second year courses: RLG205H1, RLG245H1, RLG246H1, FAH260H1, EAS209H1, EAS215H1, HIS280Y1, HIS281Y1, HIS282Y1, HIS283H1, NEW214Y1, NEW232Y1, PHL237H1.
Third year courses: RLG316H1, RLG356H1, RLG361H1.

RLG363H1, RLG366H1, RLG368H1, RLG372H1, RLG373H1, RLG375H1, RLG371H5, RLG373H5, RLG374H5, RLGC07H3S, FAH363H1, FAH364H1, FAH368H1, EAS338H1, EAS361Y1, EAS346H1, HIS380H1, NEW332H1, NEW333H1, NEW339H1, PHL337H1.

7. One half-course at the 400 level.

Fourth year courses: RLG462H1, RLG463H1, RLG464H1, RLG465H1, RLG466H1, RLG467H1, RLG468H1, RLG469Y1, RLG470H1, RLG470H5, RLG473H1, FAH461H1, HIS485H1, NEW433H1.

8. RLG404H1 or RLG405H1 or RLG406H1, a capstone integrative course. (Note: this does not fulfil the requirement of the 400 level FCE in #7 above.)

Religion Specialist (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(10 full courses or their equivalent)

1. A full year of introductory courses in the first or second year, to be selected from RLG100Y1/RLG280Y1 or RLG101H1F and RLG101H1S.
  2. No later than the third year of study: RLG200H1. RLG200H1 is a prerequisite for all 400-level courses.
  3. One course from RLG202H1/RLG203H1/RLG204H1/RLG205H1/RLG206H1/RLG208H1/RLG241H1.
  4. One course from RLG209H1/211H1/212H1/RLG213H1.
  5. Any other 200 level RLG course (excluding language courses).
  6. Seven RLG half-courses at the 300+ level. Students should develop a focused program of study and may consult the Associate Chair or program office for advice.
  7. One half-course at the 400 level in your area of focus.
  8. Five other RLG half-courses at any level.
  9. RLG404H1 or RLG405H1 or RLG406H1, a capstone integrative course (note: this does not fulfil the requirement of the 400-level courses in #7, above.)
- Four half-course cross-listed courses may be counted towards the fulfillment of the degree (consult the Religion website for a list of eligible courses).

It is highly recommended that Religion Specialists who are interested in pursuing graduate training also complete two full years of a relevant foreign language. This should be discussed early in a student's program with the Associate Chair or other Religion professors.

Religion: Christian Origins Specialist (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(10 full courses or their equivalent)

1. A full year of introductory courses in the first or second year, to be selected from RLG100Y1/RLG280Y1 or RLG101H1F and RLG101H1S.
2. RLG241H1.
3. RLG203H1.
4. No later than the third year of study: RLG200H1. RLG200H1 is a prerequisite for all 400-level courses.
5. Four half-courses in Greek, normally fulfilled by GRK101H1, GRK102H1 + GRK200H1, and GRK201H1 and GRK202H1. (Note: Upon approval of the program coordinator, students may be permitted to substitute for these courses two full courses in another ancient language, e.g., Syriac, Aramaic.)

6. Four 300+ half-courses chosen from RLG319H1, RLG320H1, RLG321H1, RLG322H1, RLG323H1, RLG324H1, RLG326H1, RLG327H1, RLG328H1.

7. One half-course from RLG448H1, RLG449H1, RLG451H1, RLG452H1, RLG453H1, RLG454H1, RLG455H1, RLG458H1.

8. Three half-courses or the equivalent chosen from CLA204H1, CLA230H1, CLA231H1, CLA232H1, CLA233H1, CLA305H1, CLA308H1, CLA310H1, CLA364H1, CLA368H1, CLA369H1, CLA371H, CLA378H1, NMC351H1, NMC252H1, NMC270H1, NMC351H1, NMC360H1, NMC361H1, NML352H1, NML353H1, NML356Y1, NML357H1, NML358H1, NML359H1, NML451H1, NML452H1, FAH309H1, FAH313H1, FAH318H1, FAH319H1, FAH424H1.

9. Two half-courses in another religious tradition, preferably an Asian tradition such as Hinduism, Sikhism or Buddhism.

10. RLG404H1 or RLG405H1, or RLG406H1, a capstone integrative course. (Note: this does not fulfil the requirement of the 400-level FCE in #7 above.)

Buddhist Studies Major (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(7 full courses or their equivalent)

1. A full year of introductory courses in the first or second year, to be selected from RLG100Y1/RLG280Y1 or RLG101H1F and RLG101H1S.
2. No later than the third year of study: RLG200H1. RLG200H1 is a prerequisite for all 400-level courses.
3. RLG206H1
4. A total of eight half-courses (or equivalent) chosen from the following list; at least six half-courses must be RLG courses (EAS324H, EAS325H, and EAS361Y are counted as RLG courses here). Six half-courses must be taken at the 300-level or higher.
Second year courses: RLG205H1, RLG236H1, RLG245H1, RLG246H1, RLGB03H3F, RLGB07H3F, FAH260H1, EAS209Y1, EAS215H1, HIS280Y1, HIS281Y1, HIS282Y1, HIS283H1, NEW214Y1, NEW232Y1, PHL237H1.
Third year courses: RLG316H1, RLG356H1, RLG361H1, RLG363H1, RLG366H1, RLG367H1, RLG368H1, RLG371H1, RLG372H1, RLG373H1, RLG375H1, RLG371H5, RLG373H5, RLG374H5, RLGC07H3S, FAH361H1, FAH362H1, FAH363H1, FAH364H1, FAH368H1, EAS324H1, EAS325H1, EAS338H1, EAS361Y1, EAS346H1, HIS380H1, NEW331H1, NEW332H1, NEW333H1, NEW339H1, PHL337H1.
5. One half-course at the 400 level, selected from the following: RLG462H1, RLG463H1, RLG464H1, RLG465H1, RLG466H1, RLG467H1, RLG468H1, RLG469H1, RLG470H1, RLG470H5, RLG473H1, RLG490Y1, FAH461H1, HIS409H1, HIS485H1, NEW433H1.
6. RLG4041H1 or RLG405H1 or RLG406H1, a capstone, integrative course. (Note: this does not fulfil the requirement of the 400 level FCE in #5 above.)

Islamic Studies Major (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(6.5 full courses or their equivalent)

1. A full year of introductory courses in the first or second year, to be selected from RLG100Y1/RLG280Y1 or RLG101H1F and

RLG101H1S.

2. RLG200H1. RLG200H1 is a prerequisite for all 400-level courses and must be taken no later than the third year of study.

3. RLG204H1 or NMC283Y1. If taking RLG204H1 an additional RLG half-course is required

4. One courses from the RLG209H1/RLG211H1/RLG212H1/RLG213H1.

5. Any other 200-level RLG course.

Regarding Courses in Religion

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

200-Series Courses

No 200-series course has a 100-series RLG course prerequisite or Co-requisite.

300-Series Courses

All 300-series courses normally presuppose at least three prior RLG half-courses (or equivalent). Only specific Prerequisites or recommended preparations are listed below. Students who do not meet the Prerequisites but believe they have adequate academic preparation should consult the Undergraduate Administrator regarding entry to the course.

400-Series Courses

400-series courses are intended primarily for Specialists and Majors who have already completed several RLG courses. Almost all 400-level courses are E indicator courses and require the instructor's permission. Students must enrol at the Department.

Independent Research Courses

Student-initiated intensive research courses supervised by faculty members of the Department. The student must obtain both a Supervisor's agreement and the Department's approval in order to register. The maximum number of Independent Research courses one may take is two full-course equivalents. Deadline for submitting applications to Department, including Supervisor's approval, is the first week of classes of the session. A full-course may be compressed into a single session or spread through two sessions; a half-course may similarly be done in either one session or across two sessions. These courses are open to majors and specialists only.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

RLG227H1 - Animals and Religion

Hours: 24L

Animals appear in numerous myths, legends and parables, as anthropomorphized symbols of human traits, as bearers of moral instruction, as agents of supernatural powers, and as divine messengers. Such questions as how to treat them properly and how human beings differ from them have helped define religious and cultural identities for millennia. This course examines how animals figure into religious and cultural identities by examining their place in myths, legends, and parables. It also examines the intersection of religious cosmologies, animal ethics, and environmental problems, including global warming, water depletion, and mass extinction, and the role of religion in ameliorating or exacerbating these problems.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

RLG228H1 - Religion and the Environment

Hours: 24L/12T

RLG385H1 - Becoming Modern

Hours: 24L

What does it mean to be modern? Words like modern, modernity, and modernism are used to mark a fundamental boundary between our era and all that came before it (or lies outside of it); but most of us are hard-pressed to offer a solid account of what exactly this boundary is. This course examines the relationship between: a fundamental shift in the nature of daily experience; an order-of-magnitude expansion of the power of the State; a dramatic reorganization of religious experience and cultures; and a tremendous growth in the enterprise of Western science and technological production. We trace this reorientation over the last two centuries and examine its consequences using philosophical, literary, theological, and scientific sources, as well as recent scholarly work on the topic.

Prerequisite: See note above for general prerequisites

Introduction

Rotman Commerce at the University of Toronto offers a rigorous curriculum combining studies in management, economics, and the arts and sciences for an enriched professional undergraduate experience. The program explores the role of commerce in modern society while developing skill and confidence in analysis, effective communications and decision making.

The Bachelor of Commerce degree builds on a common foundation of a range of business disciplines and economics. Rotman Commerce students specialize in one of three areas: Accounting (either Public Accounting or Financial Reporting and Control), Finance and Economics, or Management. Each stream combines courses in management and applied economics with a variety of courses in the arts and sciences. The balance assures graduates of a solid understanding of business and modern society along with a command of critical skills across business disciplines, decision-making, and leadership.

Rotman Commerce graduates enter a wide range of professions, and frequently become financial analysts, accountants, marketing analysts, economists, managers of firms and government, or entrepreneurs. Some commerce students elect to undertake post-graduate studies. Law schools and MBA programs have been particularly favoured destinations of recent graduates.

Faculty from the Rotman School of Management who teach in Rotman Commerce are listed above.

Bachelor of Commerce (BCom) Degree Requirements

This is a four-year Honours program.

To qualify for a Bachelor of Commerce degree, a student must:

- Complete twenty full-course equivalents, including no more than six 100-series courses;
- Complete one of the Specialist programs – Accounting, Finance and Economics, or Management, (see below);
- Complete the Arts and Science Breadth Requirements*
- Obtain standing (i.e., complete with a grade of 50% or more or CR) in at least six 300- or 400-series courses, including at least one 400-series course. No more than one 300+ series transfer credit may be counted towards these six. (Students participating in an approved exchange program may count ALL 300+ transfer credits from the exchange towards the required six.)
- Achieve a cumulative GPA of 1.85 or more by the time of graduation.

*Note: September 2016 and onward all Commerce students will follow the Arts and Science Breadth Requirements and are no longer required to have 1.0 FCE from category 1 (BR1). There is no Breadth Requirement status for RSM100Y1/RSM100H1/MGT100H1, and MGT201H1. September 2017 and onward all Commerce students will receive BR status for MAT133Y1 (BR5) and ECO220Y1 (BR3+5) and courses deemed equivalent.

Graduation

There are two graduation periods each year: June (degree requirements completed by the end of the Fall/Winter session) and November (degree requirements completed by the end of the Summer session). Students must request graduation using the Student Web Service or in the College Registrar's Office as they are not automatically assessed for graduation. Graduation requests must be submitted by the deadlines specified in the Sessional Dates section of the Calendar. Prospective graduands should check Degree Explorer at the end of March/late September to see if their programs have been confirmed as completed by the relevant department(s) or program office(s). They should also check Degree Explorer at the end of May/late October for confirmation of their eligibility for graduation by the Office of the Faculty Registrar.

Prospective graduands should receive an email from the Office of Convocation providing details of the convocation ceremony in late March/mid-October. An e-mail will be sent from the Office of the Faculty Registrar in late October/late May to students who have a request for graduation confirming their eligibility.

Rotman Commerce Notes

Enrolment in Rotman Commerce programs is limited. Most students are admitted to first-year with a Rotman Commerce Admission Guarantee (see below for terms and conditions). Rotman Commerce students choose their Specialist program after first year, provided that the conditions of the "guarantee" have been met. A number of spaces are also available in second-year for other Arts & Science students who were not admitted with the guarantee (see section on "Other Students" below for details).

First Year Rotman Commerce Students Admitted with the Rotman Commerce Guarantee:

Students admitted with the Rotman Commerce Admission Guarantee will be invited to enroll in their Specialist after first-year, provided that the following requirements have been met:

- Complete RSM100H/RSM100Y Introduction to Management with a final mark of at least 67%
- Complete ECO101H1 Principles of Microeconomics with a final mark of at least 63% AND ECO102H1 Principles of Macroeconomics with a final mark of at least 63% or
  - Complete ECO100Y Introduction to Economics with a final mark of 67%
- Complete MAT133Y Calculus and Linear Algebra for Commerce with a final mark of at least 63%, or
  - MAT135H1 with a final mark of at least 60% AND MAT136H1 with a final mark of at least 60%, or
  - MAT137Y1 with a final mark of at least 55%, or
  - MAT157Y1 with a final mark of at least 55%.
- Accumulate a minimum of 4.0 credits

These requirements must be met within one calendar year of the student's enrolment in Arts & Science. For students beginning their studies in September, the requirements must be satisfied no later than the end of the following Summer Session.

Students may repeat any of the required courses once, in order to attain the requisite mark. The repeated course(s) must be completed within the calendar year (as per the terms of the "guarantee"); as such, the repeated course(s) must be taken during either the Winter or Summer Session of first-year (i.e. a student may not extend the terms of her/his guarantee in order to attain the minimum marks).

Failure to meet any of these requirements, or failure to complete all the required courses within the calendar year (assuming full-time studies), will result in losing the admission guarantee. Note that none of the required courses may be completed using the CR/NCR option.

Part-Time Students:

Students holding the Rotman Commerce Guarantee, who have applied for and been admitted to Part-Time study, will be assessed for entry into Rotman Commerce programs at the point when they have completed 4.0 credits including the required courses (see above for Rotman Commerce Guarantee). To qualify under the Part-Time provision, students must have been enrolled in a part-time course load from the beginning of each session. They may repeat each of the required courses only once in order to attain the minimum marks.

Other Students:

A limited number of spaces in Rotman Commerce are available to Arts & Science students who were not admitted to first-year with the Admission Guarantee. The number of spaces available is determined annually.

An application must be submitted in late-April/May of each year and admission decisions are made and communicated in late-June. All admission requirements must be completed by May 1 in order to be eligible for admission. Students who have not completed the necessary requirements (see below for specifics) by May 1 must apply for admission the following year.

Admission Requirements:

- Complete MGT100H1/RSM100H/RSM100Y Introduction to Management with a final mark of at least 67%
- Complete ECO101H1 Principles of Microeconomics with a final mark of at least 63% AND ECO102H1 Principles of Macroeconomics with a final mark of at least 63% or
  - Complete ECO100Y Introduction to Economics with a final mark of 67%
- Complete MAT133Y with a final mark of at least 63%, or
  - MAT135H1 with a final mark of at least 60% AND MAT136H1 with a final mark of at least 60%, or
  - MAT137Y1 with a final mark of at least 55%, or
  - MAT157Y1 with a final mark of at least 55%.
- Attain an average of at least 73% across the qualifying courses (RSM100H1/MGT100H1/RSM100Y1, ECO101H1 and ECO102H1 OR ECO100Y1, and MAT133Y1 (or equivalent)). Note: in the case of repeated attempts, the highest mark attained will be considered when calculating this average
- Accumulate a minimum of 4.0 credits
- Submit the Rotman Commerce Supplemental Application

Admission will be based on marks and the Rotman Commerce Supplemental Application. If an Arts and Science student is admitted to Rotman Commerce then MGT100H1 will be considered equivalent to RSM100H1.

Note: Meeting the minimum academic requirements does not guarantee admission to the program.

For information regarding admission to the program, contact Rotman Commerce at 416.946.0844 or rc.admissions@utoronto.ca

Additional Notes:

- Tuition Fees: Students enrolling in Rotman Commerce programs pay fees that are higher than other Arts & Science programs.
- Mathematics Note: MAT133Y1 satisfies the minimum Program requirements. Students who are likely to enroll in 200+ series MAT, STA and/or CSC courses are advised to take MAT135H1 and MAT136H1 or MAT137Y1 instead, noting that MAT137Y1 is a theoretically-oriented course for mathematically-based disciplines such as Mathematics, Computer Science, and Statistics.
- Maximum Term Load: Rotman Commerce students are limited to a maximum of 6.0 credits in any Fall/Winter session of their program and a maximum of 2.0 credits in their Summer session.

Introduction

St. Michael's College offers a number of programs which emerge from its academic strength in various scholarly fields and reflect its centuries-old Christian intellectual traditions. Please consult the relevant websites for more complete information on each program.

SMC One: The Gilson Seminar

New for 2017-18, St. Michael's College offers first-year students the chance to join an exclusive seminar that will explore the intersection of faith with today's most important questions.

The Seminar consists of two half-courses, each featuring lectures, small-group discussions, community events, and guest speakers.

Fall 2017: The Gilson Seminar in Faith and Ideas

Inspired by the Catholic intellectual tradition and from a variety of perspectives, we will explore questions related to faith and ecology, science, literature and politics. The Seminar features a weekly lecture on a major topic and a small tutorial in which you will have a chance to explore the subject in greater depth. Throughout this course, you will have a chance to read, reflect, discuss and write about timely issues while engaging with timeless ideas. Students will receive 0.5 course credits for taking this course, which would be one of normally 5 courses that they would take in the Fall term.

Summer 2018: The Gilson Seminar in Faith and Rome

This course features a two-week international learning experience in Rome, Italy, that explores the roles that the Catholic Church and Vatican have played in ecology, science, literature and politics. The Seminar features daily lectures and site-specific talks and tours in and around Rome. You will have a chance to immerse yourself in the living history of one of the world's great centres of belief and culture and in turn to reflect, discuss, and write about this experience. Students will receive 0.5 course credits for taking this course, which runs in the Summer term.

Book and Media Studies:

An interdisciplinary and historical investigation of the role of printing, books and reading in cultures past and present. Topics explored include: manuscript and book production, internet publishing, book illustrations, censorship, advertising, readership and electronic media.

Celtic Studies:

Examines the literature, languages, history, music, folklore and archaeology of the peoples of Ireland, Scotland and Wales. Investigates Celtic identities in the ancient and modern worlds, and explores the transmission of Irish, Scottish and Welsh traditions to Canada and the United States.

Christianity and Culture:

A multidisciplinary exploration of Christian traditions from artistic, literary, philosophical, theological, scientific, social and historical perspectives.

Mediaeval Studies:

An interdisciplinary treatment of the history, art, literature and thought of the Middle Ages.

St. Michael's also offers a number of courses, listed below, which form part of the above programs, or of the programs of other colleges and departments, or are a reflection of staff and student academic interests not always available in departmental course offerings.

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1>.

St. Michael's College Courses

SMC One: The Gilson Seminar

SMC188H1 - SMC One: The Gilson Seminar in Faith and Ideas (formerly SMC188Y1)

Hours: 12L/12S

This seminar is an interdisciplinary exploration of leading scholarly, intellectual and public questions related to ecology, science, literature, and public life. From a variety of perspectives, the seminar considers how religion, and how different kinds of religious experience, figure in the broader context of human affairs. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Admission to SMC One

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, Trinity One, Vic One, UC One, Woodsworth One, SMC188Y1

Prerequisite: Completion of five undergraduate full course equivalents

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

SMC323H1 - Mediaeval Latin II (formerly LAT323H1)

Hours: 48S

Through the close reading of fewer but longer texts than in SMC222H1, this course gives students a deepened acquaintance of the linguistic features of mediaeval Latin, as well as with its literature, and generic and stylistic conventions. A solid foundation in basic Latin morphology, syntax and vocabulary is assumed.

Prerequisite: LAT202H1/SMC222H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

SMC324H1 - The Study of the Bible in the Middle Ages

Hours: 24L/12T

This course explores mediaeval biblical commentary and the various approaches taken by the exegetes to uncover the secrets of the sacred page, for instance through the four senses of Scripture: history, allegory, tropology, and anagogy.

Recommended Preparation: SMC210H1/SMC212H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

SMC326H1 - Mediaeval Music: thought and practice

Hours: 24L

An introduction to musical theory and practice in the middle ages: sacred and secular music, monophony and polyphony, performers and patrons, notation and orality. No prior background in music or ability to read music is required.

Prerequisite: SMC203Y1/SMC206H1/SMC210H1/SMC212H1/MUS111H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

SMC358H1 - The Mediaeval Book

Hours: 24S

This course examines the most salient aspects of mediaeval manuscript culture. We will study, first, how the parchment for books was folded, pricked, ruled and bound, and second, what scripts were employed in the different codices. We will also examine the various types of books made in the Middle Ages and the challenges they pose to modern scholars.

Recommended Preparation: LAT100Y1/LAT102H1; SMC210H1/SMC212H1 or a course in mediaeval history.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

SMC359H1 - Mediaeval Theology

Hours: 24L

An introduction to the discipline of theology as taught in the mediaeval schools. Building on a basic knowledge of Christian scriptures and of philosophical argument, this course will offer an organic exposition of mediaeval theology, together with an introduction into the scientific method of theological investigation as practised in the Middle ages.

Recommended Preparation: SMC210H1/SMC212H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

SMC361H1 - Mediaeval Law (formerly SMC405H1)

Hours: 24S

Mediaeval jurisprudence combines the high technical quality of Roman law with the requirements of Christianity. The seminar provides an overview of the development of mediaeval learned jurisprudence; select texts from Roman and canon law, with their glosses, are read in order to explore more specifically the methods and concerns of mediaeval jurists.

Exclusion: SMC405H1

Recommended Preparation: HIS220Y1/SMC210H1/SMC212H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

Mark S. Bonham Centre for Sexual Diversity Studies

Faculty List

Professor

B. Cossman, LL. B, LL. M

Lecturer

S. Rayter, MA, Ph D

Introduction

The Sexual Diversity Studies Program (Specialist, Major, Minor) allows students to focus on questions of sexual identity, difference, and dissidence across disciplinary lines and cultural frameworks. By examining sexual diversity across time and place, students will learn about the ways different cultures have separated the sexual from the nonsexual, the normal from the abnormal, and what the regulation of sexuality can tell us about how power operates along the lines of gender and race, for example. Students will gain an understanding of how and why certain sexual practices have come under scrutiny, and the significance of the various labels and identities that we have attached to them.

Sexual Diversity Studies Courses

JSU237H1 - Introduction to HIV/AIDS: Health, Sexuality and Gender (formerly UNI237H1)

Hours: 24L

A critical examination of the HIV/AIDS global pandemic from a multidisciplinary perspective and with an emphasis on sexuality. The course examines the basic biology of HIV/AIDS and then covers social, historical, political, cultural, gender, and public health aspects of HIV/AIDS. Attention is given to the distinct features of vulnerable and marginalized populations, prevention, treatment, drug development, and access to medicines.

JSU237H1 is particularly intended for students in the Health Studies and/or Sexual Diversity Studies programs.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SDS255H1 - History and Perspectives in Sexual Diversity (formerly UNI255H1)

Hours: 24L/12T

An interdisciplinary examination of sexuality across cultures and periods. How are sexualities represented? How are they suppressed or celebrated? How and why are they labeled as straight, gay, lesbian, bisexual, queer, or perverse? How do sexualities change with ethnicity, class, and gender?

Exclusion: UNI255H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SDS256H1 - Social Scientific Approaches to Sexuality (formerly UNI256H1)

Hours: 24L/12T

A cross-cultural perspective on the methodological and theoretical approaches used by social scientists to study human sexuality and gendered diversity.

Exclusion: UNI256H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

JPS315H1 - Sexual Diversity Politics

Hours: 24L

An interdisciplinary examination of the development of political visibility by gays, lesbians, bisexuals, and the transgendered in the contemporary period; and an analysis of public policy on and state regulation of sexual diversity in Canada, the U.S., Europe, with additional attention paid to developments in Latin America, East Asia, and Africa. (Given by the Department of Political Science and the Sexual Diversity Studies Program)

Prerequisite: SDS255H1/SDS256H1/UNI255H1/UNI256H1/one full course on the politics of 20th century Europe, U.S., or Canada/one full course on gender or sexuality/permission of the instructor

Exclusion: POL315H1/POL315Y1/JPU315H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

JSU325H1 - Queerly Canadian (formerly UNI325H1)

Hours: 36L

This course focuses on Canadian literary and artistic productions that challenge prevailing notions of nationality and sexuality, exploring not only how artists struggle with that ongoing Canadian thematic of being and belonging, but also celebrate pleasure and desire as a way of imagining and articulating an alternative national politics.

Prerequisite: SDS255H1/SDS256H1/CDN2671 (formerly UNI267H1), CDN268H1 (formerly UNI268H1) or permission of the instructor

Exclusion: SDS375H1 Special Topics: Queerly Canadian, UNI325H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

SDS345H1 - Sex and the Epidemic: Social Work, HIV, and Human Sexuality (formerly UNI345H1)

Hours: 36L

HIV has forever changed the way human beings understand sexuality. Through a social justice lens, this course examines the nature of community norms, laws, popular media, and the academy to explore how the epidemic has impacted the provision of social services in relation to the diversity of human sexuality.

Prerequisite: SDS255H1/SDS256H1/UNI255H1/UNI256H1

Exclusion: UNI345H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SDS346H1 - Feminist and Queer Approaches to Technology (formerly UNI346H1)

Hours: 24L

What do electronic technologies mean for feminist and queer identity, activism, sociability, art, and politics? This course considers a range of critical pressure points central to digital studies, including social networking, participatory media, digital archives, databases, new media activism, performance, embodiment, and representations of race, gender, and sexuality in electronic contexts.

Prerequisite: SDS255H1/SDS256H1/UNI255H1/UNI256H1 or permission of the instructor

Exclusion: UNI346H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

SDS354H1 - Theories of Sexuality I: The Foundations (formerly UNI354H1)

Hours: 24L

A survey of classic western theories of sexuality; each theory is examined in terms of the practices it allows and prohibits. Under consideration are not only the descriptive and/or prescriptive aspects of a particular framework but its epistemic grounds, and implications for understanding identity, body, community, and state.

Prerequisite: SDS255H1/SDS256H1/UNI255H1/UNI256H1

Exclusion: UNI354H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

SDS355H1 - Theories of Sexuality II: Contemporary Perspectives (formerly UNI355H1)

Hours: 24L

An integrated survey of some ways in which sexuality has been theorized recently. How have desire and its identities been conceptualized and deployed? What are the implications for psychoanalysis, feminism, and cultural production? What interconnections are yet to be made between sexuality and the markers of gender, race, and class?

Prerequisite: SDS255H1/SDS256H1/UNI255H1/UNI256H1 or permission of the instructor

Exclusion: UNI355H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

SDS365H1 - Sexuality and Law (formerly UNI365H1)

Hours: 24L

The course explores the legal regulation of sexuality. How does law understand, constitute and regulate sex, sexuality and sexual diversity? It will consider the role of different types of regulation, including criminal law, family law and constitutional law, and explore issues ranging from sex work and pornography to same sex marriage to transgender discrimination.

Prerequisite: POL315H1/SDS255H1/SDS256H1/UNI255H1/UNI256H1 or permission of the instructor

Exclusion: UNI365H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SDS375H1 - Special Topics in Sexual Diversity Studies A (formerly UNI375H1)

Hours: 24L

Topics vary from year to year depending on instructor. This seminar is intended to expose students in the Sexual Diversity Studies program to topics that may not be covered by permanent university courses.

Prerequisite: SDS255H1/SDS256H1/UNI255H1/UNI256H1 or permission of the instructor

Exclusion: UNI376H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

SDS377H1 - Lesbian Studies (formerly UNI377H1)

Hours: 24L

This multidisciplinary course examines multiple lesbian identities that have varied in time and place. The course will pose such questions as: What does lesbian mean? Why have changes occurred in meaning? How has the identity of lesbian been culturally represented and politically expressed in various social and political contexts? It will also take up contemporary theoretical, cultural, and political understandings of lesbianism.

Prerequisite: SDS255H1/SDS256H1/UNI255H1/UNI256H1

Exclusion: UNI377H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SDS378H1 - Queer Youth Studies in Education (formerly UNI378H1)

Hours: 24L

Experiences of queer youth are explored in various education settings through academic research, personal essays, and visual and performing arts to investigate how queer youth define themselves, what they are learning, the curriculum and pedagogy used in the learning process and the possibilities of said learning for social change, individual and community well-being.

Prerequisite: SDS255H1/SDS256H1/UNI255H1/UNI256H1 or permission of the instructor

Exclusion: UNI378H1; UNI376H1 (2013-2014 session)

Introduction

For over one thousand years the countries of the Slavic world have played a prominent role in international life, and have provided our civilization with numerous writers, musicians, philosophers, religious and political thinkers, and scientists of note. The richness of the Slavic cultures has a special significance for Canada, since the vast influx of Slavs, which began in the last century, has contributed greatly to the Canadian cultural mosaic.

The Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures offers an extensive range of courses in Russian, Polish, Ukrainian, Czech and Slovak, Bosnian, Croatian, Serbian, and Macedonian languages, literatures, culture, and film as well as in Slavic linguistics. Within this range there are courses suitable for inclusion in a wide variety of programs of study, whether or not the student has studied any Slavic language previously. Some students may specialize in Slavic Languages and Literatures, i.e. Russian, Polish or Ukrainian (see Programs of Study). Others may simply wish to gain a working knowledge of Russian or another Slavic language to aid their reading of important material in another field. Language study emphasizes small instructional groups, with some laboratory or conversational practice, and the use of literary materials.

Courses in the literatures and cultures of various Slavic countries explore the artistic, intellectual, and social currents of their civilizations, trace the literary history of each country, and examine the works of major authors. Many of our literature, culture, and film courses are taught in English and do not require special linguistic preparation.

The growing importance of Eastern Europe in contemporary affairs has had the effect of making academic study of this area especially lively and relevant. The student whose interest in the Russian or East European world is political, historical, or sociological can specialize in Russian and East European Studies, or pursue a course in Political Science, History, or Sociology, and at the same time take language courses, and perhaps selected courses in literature, in this Department. Students planning to specialize in Economics, Psychology, Mathematics, or any number of other fields, who have a special interest in the Russian or East European area, will find an advanced knowledge of Russian or of another Slavic language an important intellectual and professional asset.

Students intending to take a Program offered by the Department are asked to study carefully the Programs of Study and are urged to begin their language training as soon as possible. A Departmental brochure is available on request.

Faculty of Arts & Science Language Citation

The Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures participates in the Faculty of Arts and Science's Language Citation initiative. Students may achieve this Citation in Bosnian, Croatian, Czech, Polish, Russian, Serbian, and Ukrainian. Students interested in completing the Language Citation in languages taught in the Slavic Department but not listed here should consult the Undergraduate Coordinator of the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures.

Language study is a demanding and intellectually rewarding educational experience. Our students learn to communicate both orally and in writing in other languages and are thus able to experience other parts of the world in more intimate ways. Their access to other cultures opens doors for further study and employment. Students in our department also have the opportunity to read a vast array of world-renowned authors in the original languages, as well as works – normally not available in English – in other areas of study, for example, cinema studies, drama, folklore, history, intellectual history, philosophy, mathematics, and political science.

The Language Citation recognizes a significant level of achievement in language study. For course selection students should consult the Undergraduate Coordinator as early as possible since not every language course is offered each year. Students who begin language study at the Intermediate level should consult the Undergraduate Coordinator for approval of advanced literature and culture courses that may satisfy the requirements for the Language Citation.

The Language Citation in Bosnian, Croatian, or Serbian is available to students who complete SLA257H1, SLA277H1, and an additional FCE in South Slavic literature or culture with readings and discussion in the target language with a grade of at least B-. The Language Citation in Macedonian is available to students who complete SLA209H1, SLA213H1 and an additional FCE in South Slavic literature or culture with readings and discussion in the target language with a grade of at least B-. Consult the Undergraduate Coordinator for approval of advanced literature and culture courses that may satisfy the requirements for the Language Citation.

The Language Citation in Czech is available to students who complete SLA204Y1, SLA305H1, and SLA435H1 with a grade of at least B-.

The Language Citation in Polish is available to students who complete SLA206H1, SLA207H1, SLA306H1 and SLA336H1 with a grade of at least B-.

The Language Citation in Russian is available to students who complete, with a grade of at least B- , two FCEs: SLA220Y1, SLA320Y1, or SLA420Y1.

The Language Citation in Ukrainian is available to students who complete SLA208Y1 as well as one additional FCE at the 300 level or higher from among the Ukrainian courses. Transfer language credits also eligible.

Students should note that, as explained in the Language Citation section of the Degree Requirements chapter of this Calendar, the Language Citation is not equivalent to an academic program and that enrolment in a program is not necessary in order to earn the recognition bestowed by the Citation.

Regarding Slavic Languages and Literatures Courses

Note: The Department reserves the right to place students in the language course best suited to their linguistic preparation

Interdisciplinary Courses

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Bosnian, Croatian, Macedonian and Serbian Courses: Please see South Slavic Courses

Macedonian Courses: Please see South Slavic Courses

Russian language student placement policy

All students who have studied Russian outside the University of Toronto must take a language placement test prior to enrolling into a Russian language course. Contact the Department for test dates and times.

Native speakers of Russian are not allowed to enroll into any Russian language course, with the exception of SLA402/403 and linguistics courses (SLA330, SLA452). Native speakers may enroll into any Russian literature and culture course, and any Russian language and literature POST (language requirement will be replaced with the equivalent number of literature and culture FCEs in consultation with the Undergraduate Coordinator).

Heritage speakers of Russian are allowed to enroll into a Russian language course only by special permission from the Russian language program coordinator, Prof. Julia Mikhailova (julia.mikhailova@utoronto.ca). Heritage speakers may enroll into any Russian literature and culture course, and any Russian language and literature POST (if necessary, language requirement will be replaced with the equivalent number of literature and culture FCEs in consultation with the Undergraduate Coordinator).

Who are native and heritage speakers of Russian?

For academic purposes, the Department considers a student to be a native speaker of Russian if s/he meets one of the following criteria:

- a) The student left Russia at the age of 10 or later.
- b) The student lived in a Russian-speaking country (any former Soviet republic) before the age of 10 and did elementary schooling in Russian.

For academic purposes, the Department considers a student to be a heritage speaker of Russian if s/he meets one of the following criteria:

- a) The student left Russia before the age of 10.
- b) The student lived in a Russian-speaking country (any former Soviet republic) before the age of 10 but did elementary schooling in a language other than Russian.

- c) The student was born and/or grew up outside of a Russian-speaking country but speaks some Russian at home.

It is the responsibility of individual students to furnish documentation proving their native- or heritage-speaker status. In the absence of such documentation, the Department reserves the right to deny enrolment into Russian language courses. Heritage and native speakers of Russian who enroll in a Russian language course and fail to identify themselves to the Department engage in cheating and will be treated in accordance with the university policy on academic misconduct.

Introduction

Sociology's key principle is that patterned social relationships create opportunities for, and place constraints on, human action. The influence of this idea is widespread. New research agendas in law, literature, economics, and other disciplines reflect the notion that beyond individual motives, goals, values, beliefs and emotions, patterned social relationships help to make us who we are. Our courses and faculty research examine how patterned social relationships shape and are shaped by gender roles and families; health; immigration and ethnic relations; labour markets, work and social inequality; political structures and processes; crime, law and deviance; culture; cities; and networks, and communities.

To test explanations regarding the influence of social relationships on various aspects of human behaviour, sociologists collect and analyze observational, survey, experimental, and historical data. Accordingly, the sociological perspective and the research skills learned by studying sociology prepare students for a wide variety of careers in industry, government, education, politics, health and journalism. Medical, legal, and environmental fields report an increasing need for sociologists. Municipal, provincial and federal governments hire in areas like urban sociology, community relations, policy and planning, and statistical analysis. In private business, sociologists work in management consulting firms and polling organizations, as well as in labour relations and human resources.

A professional career in sociology requires training beyond the undergraduate level. However, the critical, analytical and research skills that undergraduate sociology students learn open many employment opportunities. Over a third of Canadian undergraduates in sociology go on to be employed in business, finance and administrative occupations, and just under a third in government service, social science, and educational fields.

Regarding Sociology Programs

Enrolment in sociology programs is limited (Type 2L). Consult the Arts & Science Program Enrolment web site for application procedures.

NOTE 1: Obtaining 65% or more in SOC101Y1 or a combined average of 65% or more in SOC102H1+SOC103H1, SOC102H1+SOC150H1, SOC103H1+SOC150H1, or SOC100H1+SOC150H1 is required for entry into the sociology major and minor programs. Entry to the sociology specialist program at the end of the first year requires a minimum of 80% in SOC101Y1 or a minimum combined average of 80% in SOC102H1+SOC103H1, SOC102H1+SOC150H1, SOC103H1+SOC150H1, or SOC100H1+SOC150H1. Achieving the minimum grades does not guarantee acceptance into the programs. Credit for higher-level SOC courses will not waive these requirements.

NOTE 2: Transfer credits of SOC1**H without exclusion cannot be used to meet program admission or requirements.

Sociology Programs

Sociology Specialist (Arts Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Eligibility will be competitive and based on a student's mark (minimum combined average of 70% in SOC201H1, SOC202H1, and SOC204H1. Achieving the 70% minimum mark does not guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

Students interested in the Specialist program normally apply and enter from the Major program, after having completed the first half of Year 2 requirements of that program as below. Students demonstrating exceptional interest and achievement in the Introductory course may enter at the end of Year 1.

NOTE: Students cannot combine a Sociology Specialist program with another Sociology program (Major or Minor) for their degree.

Entry Requirements:

From the Major program:

A minimum combined average of 70% in SOC201H1, SOC202H1, and SOC204H1

From Year 1:

A minimum combined average of 80% in SOC101Y1, or a combination of SOC102H1+SOC103H1, SOC102H1+SOC150H1, SOC103H1+SOC150H1, or SOC100H1+SOC150H1.

Completion Requirements:

(10 FCEs in Sociology)

1. SOC101Y1, or a combination of SOC102H1+SOC103H1, SOC102H1+SOC150H1, SOC103H1+SOC150H1, or SOC100H1+SOC150H1.
2. SOC201H1, SOC202H1, and SOC204H1
3. SOC251H1, SOC252H1, and SOC254H1
4. 2.0 SOC FCEs from 300 level "Program-Only" courses (rotating list every year)
5. 1.0 SOC FCEs at the 400 level

6. An additional 3.0 FCEs in Sociology at the 200 or 300 level (1.0 of which must be taken at the 300 level, i.e., 2.0 FCEs at the 200 or 300 level and 1.0 at the 300 level)

Sociology Major (Arts Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Eligibility will be competitive and based on a student's mark (minimum average of 65%) in 1.0 FCE at the 100-level. Achieving the 65% mark does not guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

NOTE: Students cannot combine a Sociology Major program with another Sociology program (Specialist or Minor) for their degree.

Entry Requirements:

1. A minimum combined average grade of 65% in SOC101Y1, or a combination of SOC102H1+SOC103H1, SOC102H1+SOC150H1, SOC103H1+SOC150H1, or SOC100H1+SOC150H1.
2. 3 full courses (3.0 FCEs) towards a degree (can be from sociology or other departments).

Completion Requirements:

(7.0 FCEs in Sociology)

1. SOC101Y1, or a combination of SOC102H1+SOC103H1, SOC102H1+SOC150H1, SOC103H1+SOC150H1, or SOC100H1+SOC150H1.
2. SOC201H1, SOC202H1, and SOC204H1
3. 1.0 FCEs from SOC251H1, SOC252H1, and SOC254H1
4. 1.0 SOC FCEs from 300 level "Program-Only" courses (rotating list every year)
5. 0.5 SOC FCEs at the 400 level
6. An additional 2.0 FCEs in Sociology at the 200 or 300 level (0.5 of which must be taken at the 300 level, i.e., 1.5 FCEs at the 200 or 300 level and 0.5 at the 300 level)

Sociology Minor (Arts Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program that can only accommodate a limited number of students. Eligibility will be competitive and based on a student's mark (minimum average of 65%) in 1.0 SOC FCE at the 100-level. Achieving the 65% mark does not guarantee admission to the program in any given year.

NOTE: Students cannot combine a Sociology Minor program with another Sociology program (Specialist or Major) for their degree.

Entry Requirements:

1. A minimum grade of 65% (see above) in SOC101Y1, or a combination of SOC102H1+SOC103H1, SOC102H1+SOC150H1, SOC103H1+SOC150H1, or SOC100H1+SOC150H1.
2. 3 full courses (3.0 FCEs) towards a degree (can be from sociology or other departments).

Completion Requirements:

(4.0 FCEs in Sociology)

1. SOC101Y1, or a combination of SOC102H1+SOC103H1, SOC102H1+SOC150H1, SOC103H1+SOC150H1, or SOC100H1+SOC150H1.
2. Three additional SOC courses (3.0 FCEs), which includes at least 1.0 SOC FCE at the 300 level, ie., 2.0 SOC FCEs at the 200 OR 300 level and 1.0 SOC FCE at the 300 level.

Combined Degree Program (CDP) in Arts and Education: Sociology (Major), Honours Bachelor of Arts/Master of Teaching

The Combined Degree Program in Arts/Science and Education is designed for students interested in studying the intersections of teaching subjects and Education, coupled with professional teacher preparation. Students earn an Honours Bachelor's degree from the Faculty of Arts and Science (St. George) and an accredited professional Master of Teaching (MT) degree from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE). They will be recommended to the Ontario College of Teachers for an Ontario Teacher's Certificate of Qualifications as elementary or secondary school teachers. The CDP permits the completion of both degrees in six years with 1.0 FCE that may be counted towards both the undergraduate and graduate degrees.

Program requirements:

1. Minor in Education and Society, Victoria College
2. Major in Sociology (first teaching subject)
3. Minor in an area corresponding to the second teaching subject as determined by OISE
(see http://pepper.oise.utoronto.ca/~jhewitt/mtresources/intermediate\_senior\_teaching\_subject\_prerequisites\_2016-17.pdf)

See here for additional information on the CDP, including admission, path to completion and contact information.

Regarding Sociology Courses

Note:

Transfer credits of SOC1**H without exclusion cannot be used to meet program admission or requirements.

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Sociology Courses

SOC100H1 - Introduction to Sociology

Hours: 24L/12T

Sociologists investigate how social relations shape human behaviour. By systematically observing social milieux, conducting surveys, analyzing official statistics, inspecting historical documents, and carrying out experiments, they analyze the opportunities and constraints that help to make people what they are in different social contexts. This course introduces students to the sociological perspective and sociological approaches by investigating a wide range of human behaviours and institutions. Topics include social inequality, race and ethnicity, gender, sexuality, culture and politics among others.

Exclusion: SOC101Y1, SOC102H1, SOC103H1, SOCA01H3, SOCA02H3; SOC100H5

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC150H1 - Sociological Inquiries

Hours: 24L/12T

Using topics such as the mass media, crime and deviance, education, health, or others, this course continues to examine what is Sociology, its relationship with common sense and other disciplines, and the nature and goals of sociological research. Students will also have an opportunity to learn and develop important skills useful to prepare for second year courses and beyond.

Prerequisite: SOC100H1 or SOC102H1 or SOC103H1

Exclusion: SOC101Y1, (SOC102H1 + SOC103H1), SOC200H1, SOC200Y1, SOCB05H3, SOC221H5, SOC200Y5

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC201H1 - Classical Sociological Theory

Hours: 24L/12T

Introduction to the history, nature, and role of sociological theory, through an examination of the works of key classical theorists such as Karl Marx, Max Weber, Emile Durkheim, Georg Simmel, and others.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level.

Exclusion: SOC203Y1; SOC231H5

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC202H1 - Introduction to Quantitative Methods in Sociology

Hours: 24L/12T

Introduction in quantitative social science research from descriptive statistics to hypothesis testing using various strategies for the analysis of bivariate relationships.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level.

Exclusion: SOC200Y5, SOC222H5, ECO220Y1, ECO227Y1, GGR270H1, PSY201H1, STA220H1, STA248H1, POL232H1, POL242Y1, POL322H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC204H1 - Introduction to Qualitative Methods in Sociology

Hours: 24L/12T

Introduction to the methods and issues of qualitative research, the theories, methods for data collection and analysis, and the personal and ethical issues relating to qualitative research.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level.

Exclusion: SOC302H1; SOCC23H3; SOC387H5

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC205H1 - Urban Sociology

Hours: 24L

This course reviews theories of urban genesis and urban form; the interrelationship of urbanization, industrialization and modernization, issues in urban living (housing, transportation, urban-renewal, poverty, unemployment, etc.); urban social networks (ethnic and cultural heterogeneity, neighbourhood, community and other voluntary associations).

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC205Y1

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC207H1 - Sociology of Work & Occupations

Hours: 24L

The nature and meaning of work in relation to changes in the position of the professions, unions and government, of women and minority groups, and in industrial societies more generally. Career choice and strategies, occupational mobility, and individual satisfaction at work.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100level

Exclusion: SOC207Y1; SOC227H5

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC208H1 - Introduction to Social Policy

Hours: 24L

This course introduces students to the concepts, history and development of social policy in economically developed welfare states. It examines the problems and concepts of the policy process, exploring the political, economic, and institutional frameworks that structure public choices about social policy in Canada, and compare systems of social policy around the world.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC297H1S (2016/2017)

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC209H1 - Sexuality and Modernity

Hours: 24L

This course examines questions related to sexuality, with a special focus on the social construction of sexual identity, practice, community and desire. To do so, we proceed self consciously with a critical analysis of the modern study of sexuality, and the ways in which sexual science, as a kind of social practice, has affected the construction and regulation of sexual orientation.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC395H1S (2015/2016) and SOC387H1F (2016/2017)

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC210H1 - Ethnicity in Social Organization

Hours: 24L

The course explores the concepts of race and ethnicity and major theories to understand race and ethnic relations.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC210Y1

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC212H1 - Sociology of Crime & Deviance

Hours: 24L

This course provides an overview of the study of crime and deviance. We critically examine how scholars have gone about studying crime and deviance (the methods they use and the statistics they employ) as well as the major sociological explanations for crime and deviance. We also consider the empirical evidence as it relates to the validity of these explanations and some of the policy fallout from different theoretical approaches.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC212Y1; SOC211H5

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC214H1 - Family Patterns

Hours: 24L

This course examines diverse family patterns, to show the economic, political and cultural factors that influence families. A brief social history of family paves the way for an examination of the various family patterns common in Canada today. Special attention is paid to the gender relations at the heart of family.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC214Y1; SOCB49H3; SOC244H5

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC218H1 - Asian Communities in Canada

Hours: 24L

The course will explore the structures and processes of Asian communities in Canada. Historical development of various Asian communities will be explored.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC218Y1/SOC342Y1/SOC394Y1

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC220H1 - Social Inequality in Canada

Hours: 24L

This course is concerned with the causes and consequences of economic inequality. More specifically, it explores how achieved and ascribed characteristics are related to social class and related economic outcomes. Although some of the material will be comparative and pertain to modern Democracies generally, emphasis will be on Canadian society.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC220Y1, SOC296H1 (20109)

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC243H1 - Sociology of Health and Illness

Hours: 24L

This course examines (1) the social causes of illness and disease, (2) the experience of illness, and social processes that shape both of these issues, including medicalization. It focuses on population health, the relation between agency and structure, and macro-micro connections. Professional health care is discussed to the extent that it provides context for analyses of illness patterns and experiences.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC242Y1; SOC239H5

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC246H1 - Sociology of Aging

Hours: 24L

This course deals with population aging, cohort effects, inter-generational relations, historical variation in effects of social environment on aging, how health and family relationships vary with age, and social policies related to aging. The whole life course is considered, but the emphasis on adulthood and old age.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC245Y1; SOC334H5

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC249H1 - Sociology of Migration

Hours: 24L

This course examines contemporary migration flows, types and causes of migration, theories of migration, immigration policies, and migrant integration with emphasis on Canada.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC307Y1

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC250Y1 - Sociology of Religion

Hours: 48L

This course will examine religious beliefs, practices, and experiences from a historical-sociological and comparative perspective. Classical and contemporary theories will be reviewed and applied to investigate such topics as: the social origins of religions; the formation of religious communities; heresies, schisms and the making of orthodoxies; secularization and fundamentalism; cults and new religious movements; religious regulation of the body and person; and the variable linkages of religion to politics, war, art and science.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: RLG210Y1

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC251H1 - Contemporary Sociological Theory

Hours: 24L/12T

A selective introduction to major contemporary thinkers and approaches whose ideas have achieved wide influence, as well as an on-going inquiry into the nature and role of sociological analysis.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1/SOC203H1

Exclusion: SOC376H1; SOC389Y1; SOC232H5

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC252H1 - Intermediate Quantitative Methods in Sociology

Hours: 24L/12T

Provides students with the opportunity to develop an understanding of the logic of multivariate analysis by applying various strategies for the analysis of complex multivariate data.

Prerequisite: SOC202H1

Exclusion: SOC300H1, SOC300Y1, ECO220Y1, PSY202H1, STA221H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC254H1 - Intermediate Qualitative Methods in Sociology

Hours: 24L/12T

An in-depth examination of key methods of qualitative research, and an opportunity to design and conduct qualitative research that draws from key debates, methodologies, and methods in the field.

Prerequisite: SOC204H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC256H1 - Lives and Societies

Hours: 24L

Characteristics of very different kinds of societies, from hunters and gatherers to modern postindustrial countries, and how these affect features of individual lives including: life stages, their status, and transitions between them; the variety of possible life courses; rates of birth and death, and their implications for people, their kin, and their societies.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC255Y1

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC260H1 - Fundamentals of Political Sociology

Hours: 24L

An introduction to key topics in political sociology such as social movements, electoral alignments, parties as organizations, the welfare state, revolution, policymaking, state formation, nationalism and imperialism.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC260Y1, SOC297H1 (20111); SOCB30H3; SOC335H5

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC265H1 - Gender and Society

Hours: 24L

This course first explores how sociologists conceptualize gender and study gender. Then, it explores the varied nature of gender relations, with a focus on the social organization of gender today.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC365Y1; SOCB22H3; SOC275H5

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC280H1 - Sociology of Culture

Hours: 24L

The course examines the social origins of culture, the cultural patterns found in various groups and institutions, and the influence culture has on important aspects of society.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC281H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC282H1 - Introduction to Social Problems

Hours: 24L

Examines a variety of widely discussed social problems, including poverty, crime, substance abuse, sexism, climate change and urban sprawl, using sociological theories to understand the causes of these problems. Will also examine the "social construction" of these social problems and factors that influence public attention and concern.

Prerequisite: 0.5 SOC FCE at the 100-level

Exclusion: SOC382Y1

Recommended Preparation: SOC150H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC293H1 - New Topics in Sociology

An opportunity to explore new topics in sociology. Topics vary from year to year based on the instructor. Consult the Departmental website: <http://sociology.utoronto.ca/st-george-campus/courses-3/new-topics-in-so...>

Recommended Preparation: SOC200H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC313H1 - Social Control

Hours: 24L

This course examines how society has gone about controlling specific types of deviants (e.g., gang members, sex and drug offenders) and acts of deviance (e.g., organized crime, the deviance of social control agents). In examining these individuals and acts, attention is also directed to why they are defined as deviant and sanctioned, and why some types of deviance are less likely to be detected and sanctioned than others. Finally, consideration is also given to a range of sanctions that have been used to control deviance and the empirical evidence on their effectiveness.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC212Y1, SOC326H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC212H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC314H1 - Family Relations

Hours: 24L

This course explores the dynamics of structure and agency in the making of families. It does so by examining the social relations of sexuality, parenthood and other activities involved in making families. It examines normative patterns and the gender, class, and racial inequalities embedded in them as well as the diversity of family patterns.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC214Y1, SOC327H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC214H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC315H1 - Domestic Violence

Hours: 24L

This course will provide an overview of the different forms of domestic criminal violence, concentrating primarily on intimate partner violence and child abuse. We will focus on the methodological problems in assessing the nature and extent of these types of violence, the risk factors and correlates of both offending and victimization and the theoretical explanations that have been offered for these crimes. We also consider the social and legal responses to intimate partner violence and child abuse.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC328H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC212H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC316H1 - Sociology of Health Care

Hours: 24L

Examines factors that influence the organizational structure of health care systems, how these organizations develop, how they are maintained, and how they can be change.

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC333H1 - Quality of Institutions and Lives

Hours: 24L/12T

Theory and research on quality of life encompass studies of subjective dimensions of individual wellbeing, such as happiness, and studies that focus on objective indicators of the quality of institutions and settings, such as child mortality rates. Quality-of-life theories range from (sometimes utopian) classical sociological theories with a historical and political slant to recent interdisciplinary theories that integrate sociological, psychological, and philosophical approaches.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1, SOC202H1, SOC204H1 & 1.0 FCE from SOC251H1/SOC252H1/SOC254H1

Exclusion: SOC362H1; SOC263H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC334H1 - Sociology of Mental Health and Mental Disorders

Hours: 24L/12T

An overview of the link between social inequality and emotional inequality, focusing on differences in mental health across social groups and the role of stress and coping resources in explaining group differences.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1, SOC202H1, SOC204H1 & 1.0 FCE from SOC251H1/SOC252H1/SOC254H1

Exclusion: SOC363H1; SOC262Y1; SOC264H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC335H1 - Urban Health

Hours: 24L/12T

Cities are home to particular populations (the poor, the homeless, racial and ethnic minorities, immigrants, and the young and old) and have distinct risks and protections relevant to health. Patterns of health in cities, historical developments, and emerging literature and methodology are used to uncover how everyday settings influence health.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1, SOC202H1, SOC204H1 & 1.0 FCE from SOC251H1/SOC252H1/SOC254H1

Exclusion: SOC364H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC337H1 - Gender Relations

Hours: 24L/12T

This course examines the dynamics of gender in daily life - in sexuality and intimate relations, in parenting and families, and in paid work and workplace organizations, as well as in popular culture. It examines the social construction of gender in individuals and in social organizations, in order to understand gender inequality.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1, SOC202H1, SOC204H1 & 1.0 FCE from SOC251H1/SOC252H1/SOC254H1

Exclusion: SOC365H1; SOC365Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC338H1 - Sociology of Women and Work

Hours: 24L/12T

This course focuses on women's paid and unpaid work and the relationship between the two. It analyzes the gender gap in earnings, the sexual segregation of the labour force, the restructuring of paid work, sexual harassment, paid domestic work, and the division of housework and child care.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1, SOC202H1, SOC204H1 & 1.0 FCE from SOC251H1/SOC252H1/SOC254H1

Exclusion: SOC366H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC339H1 - Race, Class, and Gender

Hours: 24L/12T

In this class, we analyze the ways in which race, class, gender and sexuality interact and shape communities, life opportunities, perspectives and politics. We will read contemporary ethnographies concerning work, socialization, and urban life against current sociological theories about inequality and intersectionality, and identity.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1, SOC202H1, SOC204H1 & 1.0 FCE from SOC251H1/SOC252H1/SOC254H1

Exclusion: SOC367H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC340H1 - Comparative Political Sociology

Hours: 24L/12T

The study of comparative (historical and cross-national) variation in outcomes that are the subject of research by political sociologists.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1, SOC202H1, SOC204H1 & 1.0 FCE from SOC251H1/SOC252H1/SOC254H1

Exclusion: SOC371H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC260H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC341H1 - Production and Consumption of Culture

Hours: 24L/12T

Social structure of formal and informal groups producing culture; careers in such cultural worlds; the effect of how culture is produced on the nature of culture; how culture is consumed and received; the prestige of different cultural forms and their changes over time.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1, SOC202H1, SOC204H1 & 1.0 FCE from SOC251H1/SOC252H1/SOC254H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC342H1 - The Sociology of Women and International Migration

Hours: 24L/12T

Examines the international migration of women in postindustrial economies with emphasis on Canada. Topics include: theories of female migration; the impacts of immigration policies; migration trends and entry status; integration issues pertaining to family, language knowledge, citizenship and economic status; labour market barriers and public policy considerations.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1, SOC202H1, SOC204H1 & 1.0 FCE from SOC251H1/SOC252H1/SOC254H1

Exclusion: SOC383H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC343H1 - Neighbourhoods & Communities in Canada

Hours: 24L/12T

Uses recent and historical data to demonstrate the changing social characteristics of local neighbourhoods and larger communities, as these have been affected by industrialization, immigration and other factors and as they affect the life chances of their residents.

Provides students with active learning experiences through research activities using Census data.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1, SOC202H1, SOC204H1 & 1.0 FCE from SOC251H1/SOC252H1/SOC254H1

Exclusion: SOC384H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC202H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC344H1 - Sociology of Everyday Life

Hours: 24L/12T

This course explores the phenomenological and organizational foundation of everyday experience. It focuses on the structure and social interactions that shape everyday life, and explains the social order that makes everyday life seem smooth and relatively effortless. The course offers experience in qualitative research and writing.

Prerequisite: SOC201H1, SOC202H1, SOC204H1 & 1.0 FCE from SOC251H1/SOC252H1/SOC254H1

Exclusion: SOC388H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: **Restricted to Sociology Program students only**

SOC345H1 - Global Inequality

Hours: 24L/12T

This course examines the social processes that characterize stratification and social inequality across the globe, by looking at whether global inequality is growing, shrinking or stagnant and the impact of globalization on global inequality, with particular emphasis on examining disparities over time in education, income/wealth and health.

SOC355H1 - Introduction to Social Network Analysis

Hours: 24L

This course covers the fundamentals of the social network perspective, including a short introduction to social network theory and a survey of major findings in social network research. We will study how patterns of relations between social actors develop and how they affect outcomes such as health, status attainment, and inequality. Students will write a proposal to conduct research from a social network perspective.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC330H1, SOC355Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC356H1 - Technology and Society

Hours: 24L

This course analyzes the interplay between new communication technologies and society. It will consider how technological developments affect social systems, and conversely, how social systems affect the nature and use of technology. Much of the course will be devoted to studying the impact of computerization and the advent of the information highway.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC331H1; SOC356Y1

Recommended Preparation: SOC201H1 OR SOC203H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC357H1 - Lives in Canada

Hours: 24L

The life course in Canada, in the twentieth century and today, with some comparisons to other first world countries. How lives have changed over the past century; how lives are affected by history and social location; the impact of the life trajectories on health and crime.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC257H1, SOC332H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC220H1 or SOC281H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC360H1 - Social Movements

Hours: 24L

This course examines the sociological study of collective action. Students will explore how movements in a variety of historical and global contexts endeavor to produce social change. In this process, we will examine political and cultural opportunities and obstacles, organizational dynamics, resources, collective action frames, strategies and tactics.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC279H1; SOC329H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC362H1 - Quality of Institutions and Lives

Hours: 24L

Theory and research on quality of life encompass studies of subjective dimensions of individual wellbeing, such as happiness, and studies that focus on objective indicators of the quality of institutions and settings, such as child mortality rates. Quality-of-life theories range from (sometimes utopian) classical sociological theories with a historical and political slant to recent interdisciplinary theories that integrate sociological, psychological, and philosophical approaches.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC263H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC363H1 - Sociology of Mental Health and Mental Disorders

Hours: 24L

An overview of the link between social inequality and emotional inequality, focusing on differences in mental health across social groups and the role of stress and coping resources in explaining group differences.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC262Y1, SOC264H1, SOC344H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC364H1 - Urban Health

Hours: 24L

Cities are home to particular populations (the poor, the homeless, racial and ethnic minorities, immigrants, and the young and old) and have distinct risks and protections relevant to health. Patterns of health in cities, historical developments, and emerging literature and methodology are used to uncover how everyday settings influence health.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC396H1 in 02-03 or 04-05; SOC335H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC365H1 - Gender Relations

Hours: 24L

This course examines the dynamics of gender in daily life – in sexuality and intimate relations, in parenting and families, and in paid work and workplace organizations, as well as in popular culture. It examines the social construction of gender in individuals and in social organizations, in order to understand gender inequality.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC365Y1; SOC337H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC265H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC366H1 - Sociology of Women and Work

Hours: 24L

This course focuses on women's paid and unpaid work and the relationship between the two. It analyzes the gender gap in earnings, the sexual segregation of the labour force, the restructuring of paid work, sexual harassment, paid domestic work, and the division of housework and child care.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC367H1 - Race, Class, and Gender

Hours: 24L

In this class, we analyze the ways in which race, class, gender and sexuality interact and shape communities, life opportunities, perspectives and politics. We will read contemporary ethnographies concerning work, socialization, and urban life against current sociological theories about inequality and intersectionality, and identity.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC339H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC371H1 - Comparative Political Sociology

Hours: 24L

The study of comparative (historical and cross-national) variation in outcomes that are the subject of research by political sociologists.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC270H1; SOC340H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC260H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC381H1 - Culture and Inequality

Hours: 24L

How location in socioeconomic, ethnic, gender, and generational groups shapes individual cultural repertoires; how culture affects individual positions in stratification hierarchies; and the role of culture in group boundaries and struggles.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC281H1; SOC348H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC382H1 - Production and Consumption of Culture

Hours: 24L

Social structure of formal and informal groups producing culture; careers in such cultural worlds; the effect of how culture is produced on the nature of culture; how culture is consumed and received; the prestige of different cultural forms and their changes over time.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC381Y1; SOC341H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC281H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC383H1 - The Sociology of Women and International Migration

Hours: 24L

Examines the international migration of women in postindustrial economies with emphasis on Canada. Topics include: theories of female migration; the impacts of immigration policies; migration trends and entry status; integration issues pertaining to family, language knowledge, citizenship and economic status; labour market barriers and public policy considerations.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC342H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC384H1 - Neighbourhoods & Communities in Canada

Hours: 24L

Uses recent and historical data to demonstrate the changing social characteristics of local neighbourhoods and larger communities, as these have been affected by industrialization, immigration and other factors and as they affect the life chances of their residents. Provides students with active learning experiences through research activities using Census data.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC343H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC202H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC386H1 - New Topics in Sociology

An opportunity to explore new topics in sociology. Topics vary from year to year based on the instructor. Consult the Departmental website: <http://sociology.utoronto.ca/st-george-campus/courses-3/new-topics-in-so...>

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

SOC388H1 - Sociology of Everyday Life

Hours: 24L

This course explores the phenomenological and organizational foundation of everyday experience. It focuses on the structure and social interactions that shape everyday life, and explains the social order that makes everyday life seem smooth and relatively effortless. The course offers experience in qualitative research and writing.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 200+ level

Exclusion: SOC344H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC390Y1 - Independent Research

Independent Research courses allow students to pursue a specific topic of interest. These courses are offered at the 300-level, as full or half courses. Students work independently with a professor in the Department who acts as research supervisor. There are no formal class meetings, lectures, or readings other than what is agreed to with the supervisor. Professors accept supervisory responsibility at their discretion. They are not required to serve as research supervisors. It is recommended that students approach a professor working in the same sub-discipline of sociology. Often students become interested in a topic through a SOC course and approach the instructor of that course for supervision; however, this is not required. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Students must have completed 10.0 courses towards their degree, plus a SOC course at the 300+ level to be eligible for 300-level Independent Research. For further details, please visit our website at:

SOC448H1 - Sociology & Emotions

Hours: 24L

From social cohesion to intergroup violence, emotional processes influence social outcomes. Moral aspects of experience in particular are linked to emotions such as shame and pride. Students in this course will review major theories of, and a variety of empirical approaches to, the link between social and emotional processes. They will be encouraged to extend ideas and analyses in the published literature to new topics. Restricted to 4th-year sociology specialists and majors._

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 300+ level (preferably selected from the Recommended Preparation list for this course)

Exclusion: SOC348H1

Recommended Preparation: SOC313H1 or SOC355H1 or SOC362H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC455H1 - Researching from a Social Network Perspective

Hours: 24L

The course will cover methods for analyzing social network data and familiarize students with software created for working with these data. Each student will complete an empirical research project.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 300+ level

Exclusion: SOC355Y1

Recommended Preparation: SOC300H1 or SOC302H1 or SOC356Y1 or SOC357H1 or SOC381Y1 or SOC388H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC465H1 - Advanced Studies in Gender

Hours: 24L

This course explores major questions about the nature of gender and gender inequality. The course requires a careful review of key theoretical and empirical work addressing one of these questions and the completion of a research project.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 300+ level.

Recommended Preparation: SOC214H1 or SOC366H1 or SOC367H1 or SOC365H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC478H1 - Social Context of Public Policy

Hours: 24L

This course explores how policy processes and frameworks need to be evaluated in light of the social context in which they are developed. Factors to be considered include the interplay between public values and expectations and public policy; the implications of cultural diversity and demographic change, and understandings of ethical principles of conduct in public organizations. A related goal is to help students learn how to use empirical research to answer highly contested issues in policy circles and in public life. These objectives are pursued by introducing students to major trends in inequality in Canada, assessing these trends within a comparative context, reflecting on their normative implications, and examining alternative policy responses to these developments. Restricted to 4th-year sociology specialists and majors.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 300+ level.

Recommended Preparation: SOC301Y1 or SOC303H1 or SOC304H1 or SOC314H1 or SOC336H1 or SOC363H1 or SOC364H1 or SOC365H1 or SOC371H1 or SOC383H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC479H1 - Advanced Studies in Social Movements

Hours: 24L

This course focuses on current debates and research findings in the study of social movements. Restricted to 4th-year sociology specialists and majors.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 300+ level (preferably selected from the Recommended Preparation list for this course)

Exclusion: SOCC04H3

Recommended Preparation: SOC371H1 or SOC478H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC483H1 - Culture and Cognition

Hours: 24L

This course examines the social foundations of thinking and action, with a focus on how individuals think and act through shared cognitive schemas that are embedded in larger social structures. The course is organized around a wide-ranging array of classical and contemporary theories that help explain the various factors that shape culture and cognition. There is a research component to put this analytical understanding into practice. Restricted to 4th-year sociology specialists and majors.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 300+ level

Exclusion: SOC483Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SOC484H1 - Children of Immigrants

Hours: 24L

Nearly one-quarter of Canada's population are immigrant offspring, defined as those who immigrate as children or those who are Canadian born with foreign born parents. This course examines sociological perspectives, language and bilingualism, racial and ethnic identities, family structure and relationships, marriage, education and labour market experiences of immigrant offspring. Restricted to 4th-year sociology specialists and majors.

Prerequisite: 1.0 SOC FCE at the 300+ level (preferably selected from the Recommended Preparation list for this course)

SOC490Y1 - Independent Research

Independent Research courses allow students to pursue a specific topic of interest. These courses are offered at the 400-level, as full or half courses. Students work independently with a professor in the Department who acts as research supervisor. There are no formal class meetings, lectures, or readings other than what is agreed to with the supervisor. Professors accept supervisory responsibility at their discretion. They are not required to serve as research supervisors. It is recommended that students approach a professor working in the same sub-discipline of sociology. Often students become interested in a topic through a SOC course and approach the instructor of that course for supervision; however, this is not required. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Students must have completed 15.0 courses towards their degree, plus a SOC course at the 300+ level to be eligible for 400-level Independent Research. For further details, please visit our website at:

South Asian Studies

Students study South Asia in an approach attentive to global formations. They are introduced to the study of South Asia—Bangladesh, India, Pakistan, Nepal, Sri Lanka—through a wide angle view of Asian modernities, political economies, and cultures, all the while delving into to specialist close-ups of South Asia. With open access to comparative courses in the Contemporary Asian Studies program, students can learn from tenured and tenure-track faculty specialists in South, East, and Southeast Asia.

With a curriculum motivated by the moving present—the changing face of South Asia today—the South Asian Studies minor offers rigorous training in major debates and questions in the rich field of South Asian Studies, and provides a basic foundation for many directions of future study. From historical contexts of ethnic conflict, to postcolonial readings of ancient traditions, to the politics of religious and ethnic identities, to the workings of vast-scale democracy and capitalism, to the worlds of cinema and public culture, students are exposed to the dynamic landscapes—political, material, and mythic—that constitute South Asia today.

South Asian Studies Courses

SAS114H1 - Introduction to South Asian Studies (formerly SAS114Y1)

Hours: 24L

An interdisciplinary introduction to South Asian Studies emphasizing inquiry and critical analysis, drawing attention to the specificities of individual nations as well as the factors (historical, political, economic and cultural) that define South Asia as a region. Some attention will be paid to the South Asian Diaspora.

Exclusion: NEW114Y1, SAS114Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CAS201H1 - Asian Sites, Global Questions, Part 1

Hours: 24L

This course, along with CAS202H1, addresses Asia empirically in contemporary global formations and as an idea in the global imagination. It introduces students to critical research methods and scholarship on Asia and its transnational formations. At the same time, it grapples with contemporary global problems, as well as Asian-Canadian connections posed by the unique configurations of politics, economy, culture and historical memory in contemporary Asian sites. Interdisciplinary analytical and research methods are introduced to provide area studies grounding and conceptual framing. This course provides preparation to delve into located Asia-based studies to ask universal questions on the nature of democracy, authoritarianism, markets, social justice, and the meanings and media for cultural expression. It informs students aiming to take more advanced courses on Asia and globalization and provides the foundation for the Contemporary Asian Studies major and minor. CAS201H1 introduces students to basic social science frameworks in the study of global Asia.

Prerequisite: 4 FCEs

Exclusion: CAS200Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CAS202H1 - Asian Sites, Global Questions, Part 2

Hours: 24L

This course, along with CAS201H1, addresses Asia empirically in contemporary global formations and as an idea in the global imagination. It introduces students to critical research methods and scholarship on Asia and its transnational formations. At the same time, it grapples with contemporary global problems, as well as Asian-Canadian connections posed by the unique configurations of politics, economy, culture and historical memory in contemporary Asian sites. Interdisciplinary analytical and research methods are introduced to provide area studies grounding and conceptual framing. This course provides preparation to delve into located Asia-based studies to ask universal questions on the nature of democracy, authoritarianism, markets, social justice, and the meanings and media for cultural expression. It informs students aiming to take more advanced courses on Asia and globalization and provides the foundation for the Contemporary Asian Studies major and minor. CAS202H1 puts the frameworks introduced in CAS201H1 in conversation with practical methods in applied/policy studies.

Prerequisite: CAS201H1

Exclusion: CAS200Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CAS310H1 - Comparative Colonialisms in Asia

Hours: 24L

This course analyzes the impact of colonialism in South, East, and Southeast Asia and the various ways in which pre-colonial traditions intersect with and reshape colonial and postcolonial process across the various regions of Asia. The course will examine the conjunctures of economy, politics, religion, education, ethnicity, gender, and caste, as these have played out over time in the making and re-making of Asia as both idea and place. Attention will be paid to postcolonial and indigenous theories, questions of the colonial from the perspective of Asian Studies, and debates about the meaning of postcolonialism for the study of Asia now and in the future.

Prerequisite: CAS200Y1 or CAS201H1

Recommended Preparation: CAS202H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

SAS318H1 - Colonialism and Tradition

Hours: 24L

This course analyzes the impact of colonialism in South Asia and the various ways in which tradition intersects with and has reshaped colonialism in postcolonial South Asia. The course will examine the role of religion, education, ethnicity, gender, and caste. Some attention will be paid to postcolonial and indigenous theory.

Prerequisite: At least 6 FCEs

Recommended Preparation: SAS114H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CAS320H1 - Comparative Modernities in Asia

Hours: 24L

Since at least the late 1700s, the effects of capitalism across the globe have profoundly transformed the landscapes of human livelihood, consumption, production and governance in Asia. While colonial empires have declined, new empires have emerged, and a growing number of countries have witnessed the rise of nationalism and independent states, social, political and technological revolutions, and most recently neoliberal globalization. This course theorizes and explores these dramatic changes in a comparative framework. It is aimed at students wishing to better understand the great transformations of modern Asia in a global context.

Prerequisite: CAS200Y1 or CAS201H1

Recommended Preparation: CAS202H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CAS350H1 - Asian Youth Cultures

Hours: 24L

In focusing on youth in Asia, this course brings together two disputed cultural formations of substantial contemporary importance. Both youth and Asia are increasingly invoked on the global stage in support of a wide range of interests. Examining practices of young people and the idea of youth in the context of Asia requires critical attention to the promises and fears that attach to the rise of Asian economies, international demographic transitions, the growth of a global middle-class, increasing consumption disparities, changing immigration patterns, expanding technological skills, global/local environmental concerns, and young peoples shifting political priorities and loyalties. The course may consider: youth subcultures, styles, music, and politics.

Prerequisite: Minimum of 6 FCEs

Recommended Preparation: CAS200Y1 or CAS201H1 and CAS202H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

CAS360H1 - Asian Genders

Hours: 24L

This course will explore ways that gender is mobilized and produced in parts of Asia. It seeks to understand gender in its diversity and in attempts to "fix" or locate it in various bodies and places. Attempts will be made to see how gender is made knowable in terms of sexuality, medicine, nation, class, ethnicity, religion, and other discourses.

Prerequisite: Minimum of 6 FCEs

Recommended Preparation: CAS200Y1 or CAS201H1 and CAS202H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CAS370H1 - Asian Cities

Hours: 24L

This course offers a multidisciplinary perspective of urban life in Asia. The thematic focus will be on how the urban intersects with modernities and postcolonial formations. Drawing on recent scholarship in the social sciences and the humanities, we will examine the realignment of cultural, political, and economic forces associated with Asia's diverse processes of urbanization.

Prerequisite: Minimum of 6 FCEs

Recommended Preparation: CAS200Y1 or CAS201H1 and CAS202H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CAS390H1 - Special Topics

Hours: 24L

Course content varies in accordance with the interest of the instructor. Check <http://munkschool.utoronto.ca/ai/cas> for an updated description.

Prerequisite: Minimum of 6 FCEs

Recommended Preparation: CAS200Y1 or CAS201H1 and CAS202H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

SAS390H1 - Special Topics in South Asian Studies

Hours: 24L

Course content varies in accordance with the interest of the instructor.

Prerequisite: SAS114H1 and at least 9 FCEs, or permission from the instructor.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

CAS393H1 - Independent Research

Hours: TBA

Supervised independent research on a topic agreed on by the student and supervisor before enrolment in the course. Open to advanced students with a strong background in contemporary Asian studies. A maximum of one year of Independent Research courses is allowed per program. Contact hours with the supervisor may vary, but typically comprise of one hour per week. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: At least 10 FCEs, permission from Program Director

CAS393Y1 - Independent Research

Hours: TBA

Supervised independent research on a topic agreed on by the student and supervisor before enrolment in the course. Open to advanced students with a strong background in contemporary Asian studies. A maximum of one year of Independent Research courses is allowed per program. Contact hours with the supervisor may vary, but typically comprise of one hour per week. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: At least 10 FCEs, permission from Program Director

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

CAS400H1 - Interdisciplinary Research in Methods in Contemporary Asian Studies

Hours: 24S

This seminar addresses Asian worlds In Asia, transnationally, and locally to cultivate new approaches to global processes and problems. The course explores key Asian sites that open new configurations for studying interactions between economic/environmental development, political change, and migration and cultural politics. It provides an advanced and systematic overview of the research methodologies that students have been exposed to throughout the CAS program. These include historical-archival, ethnographic, visual/media, and statistical/quantitative methods that allow us to map Asian political, economic, and cultural formations, and through them, global challenges. The seminar builds interdisciplinary conversations attentive to both critical problematizing and problem-solving, to qualitative and applied projects. Together with CAS450H1, it is the required capstone to the Contemporary Asian Studies major.

Prerequisite: CAS200Y1/(CAS201H1, CAS202H1); CAS310H1

Exclusion: CAS400Y1

Recommended Preparation: CAS320H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Note: This course will offer an International Course Module in Indonesia in February Reading Week 2018.

CAS414H1 - Public Culture and Media in Asia

Hours: 24S

This upper-level seminar will introduce students to the interdisciplinary study of popular culture and mass-mediated cultural forms in Asia. Through readings about popular protest, festivals, cinema, print, television, and music this course provides methodological tools to interpret the politics of representation and the formation of alternative modernities in the Asian continent and among the diaspora. The course will furthermore familiarize students with a range of theoretical lenses for conceptualizing the different meanings of the public from a modern Asian perspective.

Prerequisite: At least 14 FCEs

Exclusion: NEW414H1, SAS414H1

Recommended Preparation: CAS200Y1 or CAS201H1 and CAS202H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

CAS420H1 - Asia and the New Global Economy (formerly JPA420H1)

Hours: 24S

This course explores the rise of Asia and its integration into the new global economy (labour, capitalism, knowledge economy, economic nationalism, inequality, gender, the meaning of capitalism, democracy, among others), exposing students to diverse disciplinary perspectives. Geographical coverage is pan-Asian, including East, Southeast and South Asia.

Prerequisite: At least 14 FCEs

Exclusion: JPA420H1

Recommended Preparation: CAS200Y1 or CAS201H1 and CAS202H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CAS430H1 - Nationalism and Revolution in Asia

Hours: 24L

This course explores the far-reaching social, political, and cultural transformations in modern East, Southeast, and South Asia, focusing on the twentieth-century revolutionary histories and struggles to establish modern nation-states. The course adopts a topical approach within a chronological and comparative framework to highlight major historical movements and theoretical issues significant to the Asian experience.

Prerequisite: At least 14 FCEs

Exclusion: HIS382H1, ASI430H1

Recommended Preparation: CAS200Y1/(CAS201H1, CAS202H1), CAS310H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CAS450H1 - Asian Pathways Research Practice

Hours: 24S

This seminar builds on the systematic overview of research methodologies of the Contemporary Asian Studies major and its capstone course, CAS400H1. CAS450H1 provides students with the opportunity to research questions of contemporary relevance stemming from Asia and its transnational networks and communities. Addressing a range of methodologies, including historical-archival, ethnographic, visual/media, and statistical/quantitative, the course emphasizes research experience outside the classroom, in Asia as well as locally with communities in Toronto. Students will develop their own research contributions while working collaboratively.

Prerequisite: At least 14 FCEs, including CAS200Y1/(CAS201H1, CAS202H1); CAS310H1; CAS400H1

Exclusion: CAS400Y1

Recommended Preparation: CAS320H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CAS498H1 - Independent Research

Hours: TBA

Supervised independent research on a topic agreed on by the student and supervisor before enrolment in the course. Open to advanced students with a strong background in contemporary Asian studies. A maximum of one year of Independent Research courses is allowed per program. Contact hours with the supervisor may vary, but typically comprise of one hour per week. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: At least 14 FCEs including CAS200Y1/(CAS201H1 and CAS202H1), CAS310H1; enrolment in the Contemporary Asian Studies major or minor, and permission from the Program Director

Recommended Preparation: CAS320H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

CAS498Y1 - Independent Research

Hours: TBA

Supervised independent research on a topic agreed on by the student and supervisor before enrolment in the course. Open to advanced students with a strong background in contemporary Asian studies. A maximum of one year of Independent Research courses is allowed per program. Contact hours with the supervisor may vary, but typically comprise of one hour per week. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: At least 14 FCEs including CAS200Y1/(CAS201H1, CAS202H1), CAS310H1; enrolment in the Contemporary Asian Studies major or minor, and permission from the Program Director

Recommended Preparation: CAS320H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Introduction

Overview:

Spanish is the most widely spoken language of the Americas, with 130 million speakers in North America alone, more than 400 million worldwide, and with growing numbers in Canada. It is the fourth most widely spoken language in the world, and it is the official language in 21 countries on three continents: Europe, Africa, and Latin America.

Spanish opens the door to the study of a rich range of cultural expressions in literature, film and art, from medieval and early modern Transatlantic world, to the literary and cultural productions of contemporary Spanish and Spanish American societies. The department offers a wide selection of courses at the introductory (second year), intermediate (third year) and advanced (fourth year) level in literature, culture and linguistics. Students are encouraged to complement and expand on the training they receive in these courses by taking courses in other academic units. By the time of their graduation, our students acquire skills to read analytically fictional and non-fictional, literary and visual texts. They thus gain a deep knowledge of Hispanic cultures, as well as the skills to reflect critically on the world in which they live.

Spanish also opens the door to the study of the Romance language family. The Department offers students the opportunity to advance their language skills through the systematic reflection on the language structure, from the sound system to the morphology and syntax. Through a variety of courses with a theoretical and experimental focus in linguistics, students acquire basic skills that can be transferred to teaching or research programs. Through collaboration with other language and linguistics programs, students are provided with opportunities and training to conduct research in linguistics with a focus on Spanish language.

What can I do with a degree in Spanish?

Plenty! Spanish is recognized as one of the four United Nations official languages. A degree in Spanish linguistics, literature, and culture opens up career paths both domestically and internationally. The skills that students acquire through the study of Spanish and of the Spanish-speaking world either prepare them directly for, or are an asset in some of the following fields:

- media, journalism, marketing, public relations;
- domestic government services and NGOs; foreign services and foreign affairs specialist; international development; political aid,
- commerce, finances, tourism and hospitality
- post-graduate studies and academic careers; cultural work
- editing, publishing, translation, education
- library and information sciences
- careers in the health profession, including medicine, speech pathology and audiology
- computational linguistics, speech recognition and synthesis

Web site: www.spanport.utoronto.ca

The Department offers Specialist, Major and Minor programs, as well as language citation certificate.

How is the program structured?

For many students, our program begins with the language sequence.

Language sequence:

1. The Department reserves the right to place students in the language course best suited to their linguistic preparation.
2. Students who, in the department's assessment, have an adequate knowledge of Spanish may be required to take a Spanish literature, culture or linguistics course instead of a language course at any level.

The progression of courses in the language sequence is designed to accommodate a wide range of previous language experience. Students are placed in the appropriate language course based on their proficiency, as determined by the on-line placement test and departmental assessment.

Placement test:

Students who have studied Spanish before joining the department should take the on-line placement test by going to the following link:

<http://spanport.utoronto.ca/undergraduate/spanish> ("Placement test")

Please, read carefully the instructions that explain how to take the test. The placement test can be taken only once. Should the student be able to take the test more than once, the results of the first test will be used to determine the placement.

If you cannot assess your placement level from the available information, please contact the Undergraduate Coordinator at: spanport.undergraduate@utoronto.ca and you will receive personal advice for placement in the language sequence.

Students with no previous knowledge of Spanish: enrol in SPA100Y1.

The recommended sequence of language courses for those students who have had little or no previous training in the language is the following:

SPA100Y1 -> SPA220Y1 -> SPA320Y1 -> SPA420H1

Students with previous knowledge of Spanish: take the placement test.

Students who have studied Spanish before joining the department may enrol in several courses – beginners', intermediate or advanced – depending on their background and their level of preparation. This includes those students who have travelled or lived briefly in the Spanish-speaking world.

The recommended sequence of language courses for those students who join the department having mastered a beginner's level of Spanish, including those who successfully completed SPA100Y1, is the following:

SPA220Y1 -> SPA320Y1 -> SPA420H1

The recommended sequence of language courses for those students who join the department having mastered an intermediate level of Spanish, including those who have successfully completed SPA220Y1, is the following:

SPA320Y1 -> SPA420H1

Native or bilingual speakers of Spanish:

Those students who have native fluency in Spanish because they have had a life-long exposure to spoken Spanish in an informal context (i.e., those who have lived in a Spanish-speaking country, or those who live in a Spanish-speaking family) – should enrol in SPA219Y1. Students who qualify for this course have distinctly different learning needs than those students who learned Spanish as a foreign language. They have a native knowledge of the language, and are able to understand and speak Spanish, but they have had little or no exposure to written Spanish. The recommended language sequence for such students is the following: SPA219Y1 -> SPA420H1

Students who have completed the equivalent of a high school degree or higher level of education in a Spanish-speaking country can skip the language sequence. However, if they have not studied descriptive grammar, they should enrol in SPA420H1. Please consult the Undergraduate Coordinator for placement advice.

Fluent (native) speakers of Spanish who have received high school degree, or a higher level of education in Spanish language, and who in the department's assessment do not need further training in language, may enrol immediately in any literature, culture or linguistics course.

Throughout the language sequence, stress is laid both on the cultural component of language acquisition and on the range of practical applications to which both the spoken and the written language may be put. Courses in business Spanish and in the structure of the Spanish language provide an array of possible options for students in the upper years.

Literature, culture and linguistics courses:

Students are encouraged to enrol early on in their academic career in several second-year courses as they transition from the language sequence (SPA219Y1 / SPA220Y1 / SPA320Y1) into the third and fourth year courses in literature, culture and linguistics.

SPA258H1 is a foundational course for the students who plan to pursue a major or a specialist degree in Spanish. While permitting students to advance their skills in reading and composition, this course also introduces information literacy, and the terms and methods of literary analysis through study of a wide selection of brief literary texts. Intermediate level students (SPA220Y1) who are comfortable reading short texts, and who have well developed writing and speaking skills for the intermediate level, may take that course while enrolled in SPA220Y1 (preferable in their second semester of SPA220Y1). Others should complete SPA220Y1 before taking SPA258H1.

The other courses offered in the 200-series (SPA221H1 and SPA259H1) are not required for a Specialist or Major degree, but are recommended for students who need to hone their language skills before advancing to the upper level literature, culture and linguistics courses.

SPA221H1 (Spanish Pronunciation) is a companion course to SPA220Y1. Students who are interested in this course are best advised to enrol while taking SPA220Y1.

SPA259H1 is a course that introduces students to the techniques of cultural analysis. Although not a degree requirement, this course is a popular option for students enrolled in the program. It has the same language requirements as SPA258H1 (students can take it either while enrolled in SPA220Y1, or upon completion of SPA220Y1).

Following the language sequence, and upon successfully completing SPA258H1, students pursuing a specialist and major degrees will fulfil in the due course of their university career the remaining degree requirements:

- One half-course in Hispanic linguistics from the 300/400 series
- One half course in Spanish peninsular literature from the 300/400 series
- One half course in Spanish American literature from the 300/400-series
- SPA420H1
- SPA454H1

SPA420H1 (Advanced Grammar) and SPA454H1 (Cervantes: Don Quijote) are the capstone courses in the Spanish program. Students should plan to take these courses towards the end of their university studies, as by that time they will have acquired language fluency, and become versed in the reading of extended and complex texts in Spanish, and will have honed their skills in textual analysis.

Students should contact the Undergraduate Coordinator early on in the course of their university career to receive advice on how to proceed with their studies, and to thus assure that they can receive their degree by the time of planned graduation. ## Faculty of Arts & Science Language Citation

The Department of Spanish and Portuguese participates in the Faculty of Arts and Science's Language Citation initiative for Spanish. For a full description of the Language Citation requirements, see the Calendar in the "Degree Requirements" section.

To complete the language citation in Spanish students will normally complete the two language-sequence courses that follow the introductory level:

SPA220Y1

SPA320Y1

Native and bilingual speakers should complete SPA219Y1 and two additional half-courses in Spanish in the 300- or 400-series.

Students should note that, as explained in this Calendar, the Language Citation is not equivalent to an academic program and that enrolment in a program is not necessary in order to earn the recognition bestowed by the Citation.

To request the citation, e-mail your request with your student ID number to the Undergraduate Coordinator (spanport.undergraduate@utoronto.ca).

Regarding Spanish Courses

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Notes

1. The Department reserves the right to place students in the language course best suited to their linguistic preparation.
2. Students who, in the department's assessment, have an adequate knowledge of Spanish may be required to take a Spanish literature, culture or linguistics course instead of a language course at any level.
3. All courses are taught in Spanish unless otherwise specified.

Spanish Courses

SPA100Y1 - Spanish for Beginners

Hours: 48L/48T

Introduction to the Spanish language for beginning students; overview of basic grammatical structures, development of vocabulary and oral and written expression.

Prerequisite: No previous knowledge of Spanish, or placement test results.

Exclusion: SPA219Y1, SPA319Y1, SPA220Y1, SPA320Y1, SPA420H1

Introduction

Statistical methods have applications in almost all areas of science, engineering, business, government, and industry. The practising statistician is involved in such diverse projects as designing clinical trials to test a new drug, economic model-building to evaluate the costs of a guaranteed-income scheme, predicting the outcome of a national election, planning a survey of television viewing habits, and estimating animal populations.

Today's consumer is bombarded with the results of so many quantitative studies using statistical methodology that it is necessary to know something about statistics in order to be properly critical. A basic knowledge of statistics should be an integral part of everyone's general education.

Probability theory is used to analyse the changing balance among the age-groups in a population as the birth rate changes, the control force needed to keep an aircraft on course through gusts of wind, the chance that the demand for electricity by all the customers served by a substation will exceed its capacity. These are just three of many phenomena that can be analysed in terms of randomness and probability.

The course offerings are intended not only for specialists in the theory of the subject but also to serve the needs of the many other disciplines that use statistical methods, e.g. in sample survey design and experimental design. Students following the Specialist Program are encouraged to include courses in major fields of application in their overall program. The Major Program can be profitably combined with specialization in another discipline. Students in these programs may also qualify for the A. Stat. designation from the Statistical Society of Canada.

Both applied and theoretical courses are offered in Statistics and Probability. The foundation courses STA220H1, STA221H1, STA247H1, STA248H1, STA255H1, STA257H1, and STA261H1 are distinguished primarily by their mathematical demands, as indicated by the prerequisites. Students interested in the Biological or Social Sciences will generally find the most relevant courses of the more advanced offerings to be STA302H1, STA303H1, STA304H1, STA305H1 and STA429H1. The probability course STA347H1 will be of interest to those whose field of application includes stochastic models.

Statistical Sciences Programs

Applied Statistics Specialist (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(10.0 FCEs plus a disciplinary focus requiring 2.0-3.5 FCEs)

First year:

1. CSC108H1/CSC120H1/CSC121H1/CSC148H1, (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1.
2. Recommended: introductory course in disciplinary focus. STA130H1 is also strongly recommended.

Second year

3. MAT223H1/MAT240H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, (STA220H1/STA221H1/ECO220Y1,STA255H1)/(STA247H1,STA248H1)/(STA257H1,STA261H1)
MAT223H1/MAT240H1 can be taken in first year.

Upper years:

4. STA302H1, STA303H1, STA304H1/STA305H1, STA355H1, STA410H1, STA437H1, STA442H1, STA490Y1
5. 0.5 FCEs from STA 300+-level offerings
6. 1.0 FCEs from the following list:
MAT224H1/MAT247H1, MAT244H1/MAT267H1
APM236H1/APM346H1/APM462H1
CSC148H1/CSC207H1

Disciplinary Focuses

Students in the Applied Statistics Specialist program must complete at least one disciplinary focus.

To enrol in one or more focuses, students must first be enrolled in the Applied Statistics Specialist program. Enrolment instructions can be found on the Arts & Science Current Students program enrolment web site. Focuses can be chosen on ACORN after admission to the program, which begins in July.

Health Studies: (2.0 FCE) HST209H1, HST211H1, HST373H1, HST330H1/HST411H1/HST464H1

Global Health: (2.5 FCE) BIO120H1, BIO130H1, HMB203H1, HMB323H1, HMB342H1/HMB433H1 (Recommended: HMB433H1)

Health and Disease: (3.0 FCE) BIO120H1, BIO130H1, HMB202H1, HMB265H1, HMB302H1, HMB321H1/HMB322H1/HMB422H1

Fundamental Genetics and its Applications: (3.0 FCE) BIO120H1, BIO130H1, HMB201H1, HMB265H1, HMB301H1, HMB321H1/HMB421H1/HMB441H1 (Recommended: HMB421H1)

Neuroscience: (3.5 FCE) BIO120H1, BIO130H1, PSY100H1, HMB200H1/HMB220H1, HMB265H1, HMB300H1, HMB420H1/HMB440H1 (Recommended: HMB420H1)

Social Psychology: (2.0 FCE) PSY100H1, PSY220H1, PSY322H1, PSY326H1/PSY321H1/PSY424H1/PSY426H1/PSY405H1/PSY406H1

Cognitive Psychology: (2.0 FCE) PSY100H1, PSY270H1, PSY493H1, PSY342H1/PSY405H1/PSY406H1

Sociolinguistics: (3 FCE) LIN100Y1; 2 of LIN228H1, LIN229H1, LIN232H1 or LIN241H1; LIN351H1 and LIN456H1

Psycholinguistics: (3 FCE) LIN100Y1; 2 of LIN228H1, LIN229H1, LIN232H1 or LIN241H1; 2 of JLP374H1, JLP315H1 or JLP471H1

Astronomy & Astrophysics: (2.5 or 3.0 FCE):
(PHY131H1,PHY132H1)/(PHY151H1,PHY152H1); AST221H1, AST222H1; (PHY252H1, AST320H1)/AST325H1/AST326Y1

Sociology: (2.5 FCE) SOC100H1+SOC150H1 (minimum combined average grade of 65%); SOC204H1; 1.0 FCE from SOC303H1, SOC312H1, SOC336H1, SOC355H1, SOC363H1, SOC364H1.

Students interested in advanced study in Sociology should consider additional courses, in particular SOC201H1, SOC251H1, and SOC254H1

Ecology (3.0 FCE): BIO120H1, BIO220H1; 2.0 FCE from (with at least 0.5 FCE at the 400 level) EEB319H1/EEB321H1/EEB328H1/EEB365H1/EEB428H1/EEB433H1/EEB440H1 or ENV234H1/EEB334H1/EEB432H1

Evolutionary Biology (3.5 FCE): BIO120H1, BIO130H1, BIO220H1; 1.5 FCE from HMB265H1/BIO260H1, EEB318H1, EEB323H1, EEB324H1, EEB325H1, EEB362H1, EHJ352H1; 0.5 FCE from EEB440H1, EEB455H1, EEB459H1, EEB460H1

Notes:

* BIO260H1 requires BIO230H1 as a prerequisite.

* Students in the Applied Statistics specialist focus in Evolutionary Biology can request that HMB waive the co-requisite of BIO230H1 for HMB265H1 and that EEB waive the prerequisite of BIO230H1 for EEB460H1. These waivers will only be considered for students in the Applied Statistics specialist focus in Evolutionary Biology. All other pre- and co-requisites are required.

Economics (3.5 FCE): (ECO101H1, ECO102H1), ECO200Y1/ECO206Y1, ECO202Y1/ECO208Y1, 0.5 FCE 300+ series ECO course with the exception of ECO374H1 and ECO375H1

Statistics Specialist (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(11.0 full courses or their equivalent)

First Year:

CSC108H1/CSC120H1/CSC121H1/CSC148H1, MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, STA130H1 is strongly recommended.

Second Year:

MAT223H1/MAT240H1, MAT224H1/MAT247H1, MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1; STA257H1, STA261H1
(MAT223H1/MAT240H1 recommended in 1st year) while CSC148H1 might well be taken in 2nd year)

Higher Years:

1. STA302H1, STA303H1, STA347H1, STA355H1, STA410H1, STA442H1
2. 2 full year courses from the given list: (STA414H1/CSC411H1), STA422H1, STA437H1, STA447H1, STA452H1, STA453H1, STA457H1, STA465H1, STA480H1
3. 1.5 full year courses from: ACT451H1, ACT452H1, ACT460H1; APM412H1; MAT327H1, MAT334H1/MAT354H1, MAT337H1/MAT357H1, MAT301H1/MAT347Y1
CSC207H1, CSC310H1, CSC336H1/CSC436H1, STA300 + level courses

Note: Students planning to take any of these courses should ensure they have the required prerequisites.

Statistics Major (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(6.5 full courses or their equivalent, including at least one STA 400-series course)

First Year:

CSC108H1/CSC120H1/CSC121H1/CSC148H1 (may be taken in 2nd year); (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1. STA130H1 is strongly recommended.

Second Year:

MAT223H1/MAT240H1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1;
(STA220H1/STA221H1/ECO220Y1, STA255H1)/ (STA247H1, STA248H1)/ (STA257H1, STA261H1)/ECO227Y1

(MAT223H1/MAT240H1 recommended in 1st year, MAT221H1 is not allowed)

Higher Years:

1. STA302H1
2. 3 half (H) course equivalents from all available STA300+ level courses (For example, a student interested in economics/commerce/finance might think to include STA304H1, STA347H1, STA457H1 in their programme, while someone engaged in a life science might entertain STA303H1, STA305H1, STA437H1. On the other hand, a student with an interest in pure math might choose to focus on applications of that subject matter to theoretical probability and statistics, selecting STA347H1, STA355H1 towards a major in statistics.)
3. 1 half (H) course equivalent from the available STA400+ level courses (For those anticipating a future professional need to analyze large arrays of data STA410H1, STA414H1 are certainly very worthy of consideration.)

Statistics Minor (Science Program)

Completion Requirements:

(4 full courses or their equivalent)

First Year:

MAT133Y1 (70%)/(MAT135H1,
MAT136H1)/MAT135Y1/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1, CSC108H1/CSC120H1/CSC121H1/CSC148H1 (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1 is strongly recommended)

STA130H1 is also strongly recommended.

Second Year:

MAT221H1 (70%)/MAT223H1/MAT240H1,
(STA220H1/STA221H1/ECO220Y1, STA255H1)/ (STA247H1, STA248H1)/ (STA257H1, STA261H1)/ECO227Y1

MAT221H1 (70%)/MAT223H1/MAT240H1 recommended in 1st year

Higher Years:

STA302H1

1 half (H) course equivalents from all available STA300+ level courses

Regarding Statistical Sciences Courses

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

Statistical Sciences Courses

STA130H1 - An Introduction to Statistical Reasoning and Data Science

Hours: 24L/24P

This course, intended for students considering a program in Statistical Sciences, discusses the crucial role played by statistical reasoning in solving challenging problems from natural science, social science, technology, health care, and public policy, using a combination of logical thinking, mathematics, computer simulation, and oral and written discussion and analysis.

Corequisite: MAT136H1/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Exclusion: Any of STA220H1/STA255H1/STA248H1/STA261H1/ECO220Y1/ECO227Y1 taken previously or concurrently

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA201H1 - Why Numbers Matter

Hours: 36L

This course teaches non-science students the importance of quantitative reasoning to many different areas. It explores a variety of applications to such diverse subjects as economics, gambling, politics, poetry, graphics, music, medicine, demographics, sports, secret codes, and more, using only basic high school level mathematics combined with logical thinking.

Exclusion: This course is not open to first-year students, nor to students enrolled in any science Major or Specialist program

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA220H1 - The Practice of Statistics I

Hours: 36L

An introductory course in statistical concepts and methods, emphasizing exploratory data analysis for univariate and bivariate data, sampling and experimental designs, basic probability models, estimation and tests of hypothesis in one-sample and comparative two-sample studies. A statistical computing package is used but no prior computing experience is assumed. Note: STA220H1 does not count as a distribution requirement course.

Prerequisite: Grade 12 Mathematics and one University course in the physical, social, or life sciences

Exclusion: ECO220Y1/ECO227Y1/GGR270H1/PSY201H1/SOC300Y1/STA250H1/STA261H1/STA248H1/STA288H1/EEB225H1

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA221H1 - The Practice of Statistics II

Hours: 36L/12T

Continuation of STA220H1 (or similar course), emphasizing major methods of data analysis such as analysis of variance for one factor and multiple factor designs, regression models, categorical and non-parametric methods (Note: STA221H1 does not count as a distribution requirement course).

Prerequisite: STA220H1/STA288H1/PSY201H1/GGR270H1/EEB225H1

Exclusion: ECO220Y1/ECO227Y1/GGR270Y1/PSY202H1/SOC300H1/SOC202H1/SOC252H1/STA261H1/STA248H1

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA247H1 - Probability with Computer Applications

Hours: 36L/12T

Introduction to the theory of probability, with emphasis on applications in computer science. The topics covered include random variables, discrete and continuous probability distributions, expectation and variance, independence, conditional probability, normal, exponential, binomial, and Poisson distributions, the central limit theorem, sampling distributions, estimation and testing, applications to the analysis of algorithms, and simulating systems such as queues (Note: STA247H1 does not count as a distribution requirement course).

Prerequisite: (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1; CSC108H1/CSC148H1

Exclusion: ECO227Y1/STA255H1/STA257H1

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA248H1 - Statistics for Computer Scientists

Hours: 36L/12T

A survey of statistical methodology with emphasis on data analysis and applications. The topics covered include descriptive statistics, data collection and the design of experiments, univariate and multivariate design, tests of significance and confidence intervals, power, multiple regression and the analysis of variance, and count data. Students learn to use a statistical computer package as part of the course (Note: STA248H1 does not count as a distribution requirement course).

Prerequisite: STA247H1/STA257H1; CSC108H1/CSC148H1

Exclusion: ECO220Y1/ECO227Y1/GGR270Y1/PSY201H1/SOC300H1/SOC202H1/SOC252H1/STA220H1/STA221H1/STA250H1/STA255H1/STA261H1/STA288H1/EEB225H1

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA255H1 - Statistical Theory

Hours: 36L/12T

This course deals with the mathematical aspects of some of the topics discussed in STA250H1. Topics include discrete and continuous probability distributions, conditional probability, expectation, sampling distributions, estimation and testing, the linear model (Note: STA255H1 does not count as a distribution requirement course).

Prerequisite: STA220H1/ STA221H1/ ECO220Y1 (note: ECO220Y1 may be taken as a co-requisite), MAT133Y1(70%)/ (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/ MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1

Exclusion: ECO227Y1/ STA257H1/ STA261H1/ STA247H1/ STA248H1

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA257H1 - Probability and Statistics I

Hours: 36L/12T

A mathematically rigorous introduction to probability, with applications chosen to introduce concepts of statistical inference. Probability and expectation, discrete and continuous random variables and vectors, distribution and density functions, the law of large numbers. The binomial, geometric, Poisson, and normal distributions. The Central Limit Theorem. (Note: STA257H1 does not count as a distribution requirement course).

Prerequisite: (MAT135H1, MAT136H1(70%))/MAT137Y1/ MAT157Y1 (MAT137Y1/MAT157Y1 is strongly recommended)

Corequisite: MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1 (MAT237Y1/ MAT257Y1 is strongly recommended), MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Exclusion: ECO227Y1/STA247H1

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA261H1 - Probability and Statistics II

Hours: 36L/12T

A rigorous introduction to the theory of statistical inference and to statistical practice. Statistical models, parameters, and samples. Estimators for parameters, sampling distributions for estimators, and the properties of consistency, bias, and variance. The likelihood function and the maximum likelihood estimator. Hypothesis tests and confidence regions. Examples illustrating statistical theory and its limitations. Introduction to the use of a computer environment for statistical analysis. (Note: STA261H1 does not count as a distribution requirement course).

Prerequisite: STA257H1

Corequisite: MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, MAT223H1/ MAT240H1

Exclusion: ECO227Y1/STA248H1/STA255H1

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA288H1 - Statistics and Scientific Inquiry in the Life Sciences

Hours: 36L/18P

Introduction to statistics and its connection to all stages of the scientific inquiry process. Issues around data collection, analysis and interpretation are emphasized to inform study design and critical assessment of published research. Statistical software is used to conduct descriptive and inferential statistics to address basic life sciences research questions.

Prerequisite: BIO230H1/BIO255H1

Exclusion: STA220H1, PSY201H1, GGR270H1, ECO220Y1, ECO227Y1, SOC202H1, EEB225H1, HMB325H1, STA248H1, STA261H1, PCL376H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

STA302H1 - Methods of Data Analysis I

Hours: 36L

Introduction to data analysis with a focus on regression. Initial Examination of data. Correlation. Simple and multiple regression models using least squares. Inference for regression parameters, confidence and prediction intervals. Diagnostics and remedial measures. Interactions and dummy variables. Variable selection. Least squares estimation and inference for non-linear regression.

Prerequisite: STA248H1/STA255H1/STA261H1/ECO227Y1, CSC108H1/CSC120H1/CSC121H1/CSC148H1, MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA303H1 - Methods of Data Analysis II

Hours: 36L

Analysis of variance for one-and two-way layouts, logistic regression, loglinear models, longitudinal data, introduction to time series.

Prerequisite: STA302H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA304H1 - Surveys, Sampling and Observational Data (formerly STA322H1)

Hours: 36L

Design of surveys, sources of bias, randomized response surveys. Techniques of sampling; stratification, clustering, unequal probability selection. Sampling inference, estimates of population mean and variances, ratio estimation. Observational data; correlation vs. causation, missing data, sources of bias.

Prerequisite: ECO220Y1/ECO227Y1/GGR270H1/PSY201H1/SOC300H1/SOC202H1/STA220H1/STA255H1/STA261H1/STA248H1/EEB225H1

Exclusion: STA322H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA305H1 - Design and Analysis of Experiments (formerly STA332H1)

Hours: 36L

Experiments vs observational studies, experimental units. Designs with one source of variation. Complete randomized designs and randomized block designs. Factorial designs. Inferences for contrasts and means. Model assumptions. Crossed and nested treatment factors, random effects models. Analysis of variance and covariance. Sample size calculations.

Prerequisite: STA302H1

Exclusion: STA332H1, STA402H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA347H1 - Probability

Hours: 36L

An overview of probability from a non-measure theoretic point of view. Random variables/vectors; independence, conditional expectation/probability and consequences. Various types of convergence leading to proofs of the major theorems in basic probability. An introduction to simple stochastic processes such as Poisson and branching processes.

Prerequisite: STA247H1/STA255H1/STA257H1/ECO227Y1/MAT223H1/MAT240H1; MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1 (Note: STA257H1 and MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1; (MAT223H1, MAT224H1)/MAT240H1 are very strongly recommended)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA355H1 - Theory of Statistical Practice

Hours: 24L/12P

STA355H1 provides a unifying structure for the methods taught in other courses, and will enable students to read methodological research articles or articles with a large methodological component. Topics covered include statistical models and distributions; fundamentals of inference: estimation, hypothesis testing, and significance levels; likelihood functions and likelihood-based inference; prior distributions and Bayesian inference.

Prerequisite: STA255H1/STA248H1/STA261H1/ECO227Y1, MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1, MAT223H1/MAT240H1
Recommended Preparation: CSC108H1/CSC120H1/CSC121H1/CSC148H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA365H1 - Applied Bayesian Statistics

Hours: 36L

Bayesian inference has become an important applied technique and is especially valued to solve complex problems. This course first examines the basics of Bayesian inference. From there, this course looks at modern, computational methods and how to make inferences on complex data problems.

Prerequisite: STA302H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA398H0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

STA399Y0 - Research Excursions

Hours: TBA

An instructor-supervised group project in an off-campus setting. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

STA410H1 - Statistical Computation

Hours: 36L

Programming in an interactive statistical environment. Generating random variates and evaluating statistical methods by simulation. Algorithms for linear models, maximum likelihood estimation, and Bayesian inference. Statistical algorithms such as the Kalman filter and the EM algorithm. Graphical display of data.

Prerequisite: STA302H1, CSC108H1/CSC120H1/CSC121H1/CSC148H1, MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA414H1 - Statistical Methods for Data Mining and Machine Learning

Hours: 36L

Statistical aspects of supervised learning: regression with spline bases, regularization methods, parametric and nonparametric classification methods, nearest neighbours, cross-validation and model selection, generalized additive models, trees, model averaging, clustering and nearest neighbour methods for unsupervised learning.

Prerequisite: CSC108H1/CSC120H1/CSC121H1/CSC148H1, STA302H1/CSC411H1, STA303H1 (recommended)

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA422H1 - Theory of Statistical Inference

Hours: 36L

This course examines current theory of statistical inference, particularly likelihood-based methods and Bayesian methods with an emphasis on resolving present conflicts; log-model expansion and asymptotics are primary tools.

Prerequisite: STA355H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA437H1 - Methods for multivariate data

Hours: 24L/12P

Practical techniques for the analysis of multivariate data; fundamental methods of data reduction with an introduction to underlying distribution theory; basic estimation and hypothesis testing for multivariate means and variances; regression coefficients; principal components and partial, multiple and canonical correlations; multivariate analysis of variance; profile analysis and curve fitting for repeated measurements; classification and the linear discriminant function.

Prerequisite: STA302H1/STA352Y1

Recommended Preparation: APM233Y1/MAT223H1/MAT240H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA442H1 - Methods of Applied Statistics

Hours: 36L

Advanced topics in statistics and data analysis with emphasis on applications. Diagnostics and residuals in linear models, introduction to generalized linear models, graphical methods, additional topics such as random effects models, designed experiments, model selection, analysis of censored data, introduced as needed in the context of case studies.

Prerequisite: STA302H1, CSC108H1/CSC120H1/CSC121H1/CSC148H1

Recommended Preparation: At least an additional 1.0 FCE in STA courses at the 300 or 400 level

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA447H1 - Stochastic Processes (formerly STA348H1)

Hours: 36L

Discrete and continuous time processes with an emphasis on Markov, Gaussian and renewal processes. Martingales and further limit theorems. A variety of applications taken from some of the following areas are discussed in the context of stochastic modeling: Information Theory, Quantum Mechanics, Statistical Analyses of Stochastic Processes, Population Growth Models, Reliability, Queuing Models, Stochastic Calculus, Simulation (Monte Carlo Methods).

Prerequisite: STA347H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA450H1 - Topics in Statistics

Hours: 36L

Topics of current research interest are covered. Topics change from year to year, and students should consult the department for information on material presented in a given year.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA452H1 - Mathematical Statistics I (formerly STA352Y1)

Hours: 36L

Statistical theory and its applications at an advanced mathematical level. Topics include probability and distribution theory as it specifically pertains to the statistical analysis of data. Linear models and the geometry of data, least squares and the connection to conditional expectation. The basic concept of inference and the likelihood function.

Prerequisite: MAT223H1/MAT240H1; MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1; (STA257H1,STA355H1)/STA347H1. Note: MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1; (MAT223H1, MAT224H1)/MAT240H1 very strongly recommended.

Exclusion: STA352Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA453H1 - Mathematical Statistics II (formerly STA352Y1)

Hours: 36L

Continuation of STA452H1: statistical theory and its applications at an advanced mathematical level. Topics include classical estimation, theory with methods based on the likelihood function and the likelihood statistics. Testing hypothesis and the evaluation of confidence from both a bayesian and frequentist point of view.

Prerequisite: STA452H1

Exclusion: STA352Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA457H1 - Time Series Analysis

Hours: 36L

An overview of methods and problems in the analysis of time series data. Topics include: descriptive methods, filtering and smoothing time series, theory of stationary processes, identification and estimation of time series models, forecasting, seasonal adjustment, spectral estimation, bivariate time series models.

Prerequisite: STA302H1; MAT235Y1/MAT237Y1/MAT257Y1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA465H1 - Theory and Methods for Complex Spatial Data

Hours: 36L

Data acquisition trends in the environmental, physical and health sciences are increasingly spatial in character and novel in the sense that modern sophisticated methods are required for analysis. This course will cover different types of random spatial processes and how to incorporate them into mixed effects models for Normal and non-Normal data. Students will be trained in a variety of advanced techniques for analyzing complex spatial data and, upon completion, will be able to undertake a variety of analyses on spatially dependent data, understand which methods are appropriate for various research questions, and interpret and convey results in the light of the original questions posed.

Prerequisite: STA302H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA480H1 - Fundamentals of Statistical Genetics

Hours: 36L/9P

Statistical analysis of genetic data is an important emerging research area with direct impact on population health. This course provides an introduction to the concepts and fundamentals of statistical genetics, including current research directions. The course includes lectures and hands-on experience with R programming and state-of-the-art statistical genetics software packages.

Prerequisite: STA303H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA490Y1 - Statistical Consultation, Communication, and Collaboration (formerly STA490H1)

Hours: 48L/48P

Through case studies and collaboration with researchers in other disciplines, students develop skills in the collaborative practice of Statistics. Focus is on pragmatic solutions to practical issues including study design, dealing with common complications in data analysis, and ethical practice, with particular emphasis on written communication.

Prerequisite: STA303H1 (permission of instructor)

Corequisite: one additional 400 level STA course

Exclusion: STA490H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA496H1 - Readings in Statistics

Hours: TBA

Independent study under the direction of a faculty member. Persons wishing to take this course must have the permission of the Undergraduate Secretary and of the prospective supervisor. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

STA497H1 - Readings in Statistics

Hours: TBA

Independent study under the direction of a faculty member. Persons wishing to take this course must have the permission of the Undergraduate Secretary and of the prospective supervisor. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes
(5)

STA498Y1 - Readings in Statistics

Hours: TBA

Independent study under the direction of a faculty member. Persons wishing to take this course must have the permission of the Undergraduate Secretary and of the prospective supervisor. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes
(5)

STA499Y1 - Readings in Statistics

Hours: TBA

Independent study under the direction of a faculty member. Persons wishing to take this course must have the permission of the Undergraduate Secretary and of the prospective supervisor. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes

Introduction

Trinity College offers Trinity One, a set of first-year courses, an independent studies program, and three inter-disciplinary programs: Ethics, Society, and Law; Immunology; International Relations. The Major Program in Ethics, Society, and Law assembles courses offered by a variety of Departments and Colleges, including History, Philosophy, Political Science, Religion, Sociology, Woodsworth College and Trinity College. The Specialist and Major Programs in Immunology are assembled from offerings by the Departments of Biochemistry, Immunology, Molecular Genetics. The International Relations Program encompasses courses offered by the Departments of History, Political Science, Economics and Trinity College.

The Margaret MacMillan Trinity One Program

Trinity One provides first-year students with the opportunity to explore together significant issues and ideas pertaining to the conduct of human life and world affairs. Trinity One has five streams, each linked to a prominent aspect of the College's intellectual identity: Public Policy, Ethics, Society & Law, International Relations, Health Science and Society, and Biomedical Health. Each stream includes two seminar courses limited to 25 students. These courses foster small-group discussion and emphasize the development of critical-thinking, oral-presentation, writing and research skills. Co-curricular events enable students in the streams of Trinity One to hear guest speakers and to engage in informal conversation with one another and with their professors. Please see the Trinity One webpages: <http://www.trinity.utoronto.ca/prospective/first-year-learning/trinity-one.html>

Immunology Studies

Consult Prof. Alberto Martin (416-978-4230)
For more information please see the entry under Immunology or the Immunology departmental web site.

Independent Studies

Consult the Director, Dr. J. Gilmour, Trinity College (office is located in room 312N, North Bldg., Munk School of Global Affairs, 1 Devonshire Place) (416-946-8951).

The Trinity College Independent Studies Program is open to students of all colleges. Only full-time students are eligible to apply. It allows you to undertake extensive research into a topic that interests you, and it is an especially suitable way of doing interdisciplinary work on subjects that are not directly part of the present university curriculum.

Participation in the program is restricted to students who have completed at least 10 courses. The maximum number of independent studies half courses for which a student may receive credit is one, and the maximum number of independent studies full course equivalents for which a student may receive credit is two. Normally the work done is to be the equivalent of two full courses. Permission to register in an independent studies half course, or in an independent studies full course, will normally be granted only to students with a cumulative GPA of at least 3.50. Permission to undertake an independent studies project for the equivalent of two full courses will normally be granted only to students with a cumulative GPA of at least 3.70. Your proposal must also be approved by your supervisor and accepted by the Director of the program.

Students must submit to the Director before the beginning of the academic year a copy of their academic transcript and an outline of their topic (signed by the supervisor) and a suggested bibliography. For evaluation of the work done in the program a short thesis or equivalent is required, prepared and submitted by the last day of classes in the fall or winter session as appropriate. The supervisor and a second reader (nominated by the supervisor and approved by the Director) are responsible for the evaluation. The Director will require regular progress reports throughout the year. Students must have a supervisor and second reader in order to get approval for their projects.

Either the supervisor or the second reader must be a tenured University of Toronto faculty member. A supervisor who is not a tenured University of Toronto faculty member will normally be required to be a full-time faculty member of the University.

Students enrolling for the first time register for one or more of TRN300H1, TRN301Y1, TRN302Y1, or for one or more of TRN400H1, TRN404Y1, and TRN405Y1, as appropriate. Those enrolling for a second time register in one or more of TRN400H1, TRN404Y1, and TRN405Y1, as appropriate.

Trinity College Programs

International Relations Specialist (Arts Program)

Description:

The study of international relations dates back to antiquity and remains one of the most vital disciplines in the academic community. Its purpose is to explore the enduring questions of the origins of war and the maintenance of peace, the nature and exercise of power within an international system, and the changing character of the participants in international decision-making.

Drawing on the strengths of faculty members in History, Economics, and Political Science, the International Relations Specialist Program offers a structured and interdisciplinary education. The program provides students with knowledge of the historical and contemporary dimensions of the international system while introducing them to the methodologies employed in historical, political and economic analysis.

Enrolment Requirements:

The International Relations Specialist is a Type 3 program. Applicants must complete an application form including a Statement of Interest. Enrolment is limited to students with a combined average of at least 75% in the required first-year courses: (1) ECO100Y1/ECO101H1 + ECO102H1/ECO105Y1; (2) HIS103Y1 or TRN150Y1/TRN151Y1 or HIS102Y1 or two of VIC181H1, VIC183H1, VIC184H1, VIC185H1; (3) one introductory modern language course or MAT133Y1/MAT137Y1 or MAT135H1 + MAT136H1. Achieving the threshold mark does not necessarily guarantee admission to the program in any given year. Students who are not admitted to the program may reapply for admission in a subsequent year.

Completion Requirements:

International Relations Specialist (Arts program) (13 full courses or the equivalent)

Consult the Office of the International Relations Program, room 310N, Munk School of Global Affairs, 416-946-8950.

1. First year: ECO100Y1/ECO101H1 + ECO102H1/ECO105Y1: students are strongly encouraged to take ECO101H1 + ECO102H1; HIS103Y1 or TRN150Y1/TRN151Y1 (in Trinity One) or HIS102Y1 or two of VIC181H1, VIC183H1, VIC184H1, VIC185H1 (in Vic One); one introductory modern language course or MAT133Y1/MAT137Y1 or MAT135H1 + MAT136H1.

2. Required 200+-level courses: POL208Y1; ECO230Y1/ (ECO364H1 + ECO365H1); TRN250Y1; ECO342Y1/ECO341H1 + ECO342H1; HIS311Y1 or HIS344Y1/HIS344H1 + one of (HIS306H1/ HIS316H1/ HIS324H1/ HIS326H1/ HIS338H1/ HIS343H1/ HIS350H1/ HIS361H1/ HIS364H1/ HIS377H1/ HIS379H1/ HIS385H1/ HIS396H1/ HIS397H1/ JHA384H1/ NMC378H1/ TRN307H1/ TRN308H1); POL312Y1/POL326Y1/ POL340Y1; TRN411Y1/TRN419Y1.

3. Second year: POL208Y1; TRN250Y1. Students are advised to take at least two additional FCEs in the program in second year, including ECO230Y1 if they select this course rather than ECO364H1 + ECO365H1.

4. Third year: Recommended courses: HIS311Y1 or HIS344Y1/ HIS344H1 + one of (HIS306H1/ HIS316H1/ HIS324H1/ HIS326H1/ HIS338H1/ HIS343H1/ HIS350H1/ HIS361H1/ HIS364H1/ HIS377H1/ HIS379H1/ HIS385H1/ HIS396H1/ HIS397H1/ JHA384H1/ NMC378H1/ TRN307H1/ TRN308H1); POL312Y1/ POL326Y1/ POL340Y1; ECO364H1 + ECO365H1 if selected instead of ECO230Y1.

5. Third or fourth year: ECO342Y1 or ECO341H1 + ECO342H1.

6. Fourth year: TRN411Y1/TRN419Y1; 1.0 FCE from a 400-level course offered by TRN, ECO, HIS, POL or VIC that complements core studies in international relations, such as: ECO403H1, ECO419H1, ECO429H1, ECO459H1; HIS401H1, HIS401Y1, HIS405Y1, HIS415Y1, HIS416H1, HIS442H1, HIS445H1, HIS451H1, HIS457H1, HIS465Y1, HIS470H1, HIS473Y1, HIS479H1, HIS492H1, HIS493H1, HIS498H1; POL410H1, POL410Y1, POL411H1, POL412H1, POL413H1, POL417Y1, POL435H1, POL441H1, POL442H1, POL456Y1, POL459Y1, POL466H1, POL468H1, POL469H1, POL477H1, POL481H1, POL486H1, POL486Y1, POL487H1/Y1, POL495Y1, POL496H1; TRN409H1, TRN409Y1, TRN421Y1, VIC476H1. Students may substitute 400-level courses from different units or with different courses from within these units if accompanied by a rationale regarding a student's specific program of study that must be approved by the Program Director.

7. In second, third or fourth year 2.0 FCEs from: ANT452H1; ECO200Y1, ECO202Y1, ECO206Y1, ECO208Y1, ECO324H1; EUR200Y1; GGR439H1; HIS241H1, HIS242H1, HIS250Y1, HIS251Y1, HIS271Y1, HIS304H1, HIS306H1, HIS316H1, HIS324H1, HIS326H1, HIS334H1, HIS338H1, HIS343H1, HIS350H1, HIS361H1, HIS364H1, HIS376H1, HIS377H1, HIS379H1, HIS385H1, HIS396H1, HIS397H1; JHA384H1; JPA376Y0; LAS200H1, LAS201H1; NMC378H1; POL101Y1, POL201Y1, POL300H1, POL302Y1, POL323Y1, POL324H1, POL329H1, POL361H1, POL362H1, POL384H1; SLA380H1; TRN307H1, TRN308H1. Students may substitute courses from different units or with different courses from within these units if accompanied by a rationale regarding a student's specific program of study that must be approved by the Program Director.

Note:

1. Access to courses in the International Relations Specialist is not guaranteed; students must check prerequisites.
2. Not all of the courses in the International Relations Specialist are offered every year.
3. Students may change from the International Relations Specialist Major to the International Relations Specialist only if they meet current Specialist requirements and only if places are available.

Ethics, Society, and Law Major (Arts Program)

Description:

In this program, students examine some of the difficult normative questions facing contemporary society, including those concerning the law. For example, should assisted suicide, or the purchase of services from prostitutes, be crimes in Canada? The program includes optional courses in philosophy, religion, anthropology, classics, economics, geography, political science, sociology and criminology, and draws upon the resources of the University of Toronto's Centre for Ethics, located at Trinity College. Students in the major acquire knowledge and skills that equip them to think in a well-informed and well-reasoned way about complex social issues with ethical and legal dimensions. The program prepares them for reflective and engaged citizenship in a democratic, pluralistic society and in a world of global interconnections. Please see the ES&L webpages: <http://www.trinity.utoronto.ca/current/programs-courses/esl/esl.html>.

Enrolment Requirements:

The Ethics, Society, and Law Major is a Type 2 limited enrolment program. Enrolment is limited to students with an overall average of 73% or higher in 3 FCEs (at the end of first year) selected from courses that are categorized as BR=2 and/or BR=3. Please note that TRN170Y1 can also be included as a full credit towards selection even though it is classified as BR=1+2. For students applying at the end of second year, a minimal overall average of 73% is required in 3 FCEs from courses that count towards the program including at least 1.0 FCE from: ETH201H1, ETH210H1, ETH220H1, ETH230H1, PHL265H1, PHL271H1, PHL275H1, and POL200Y1. In either case, achieving the threshold mark does not necessarily guarantee admission to the program in any given year. Applications beyond second year will be assessed on a case-by-case basis.

Completion Requirements:

Ethics, Society, and Law Major (Arts program)
(7 full courses or the equivalent)

1. First year: While no specific courses are required in first year, course selection should take into account the programs admission requirements above, as well as the prerequisites for 200+ level courses students plan to take to complete the program.
2. Second year: PHL271H1, TRN203H1, and TRN204H1 are required courses that students are recommended to take in second year (their first year of registration in the program).
3. Third year: TRN303H1.
4. Fourth year: TRN412H1.
5. 1 FCE from ETH201H1, ETH210H1, ETH220H1, ETH230H1, ETH350H1, ETH401H1, PHL265H1, PHL275H1, POL200Y1, to be taken in any year of registration in the program.
6. 3.5 FCEs from Groups A-D, including at least 0.5 from each of Groups A-C and at least 2.0 at the 300+ level. Courses taken in fulfillment of requirement 5 above may not be counted toward the Group courses here.

Group A (Ethics)

International Relations Major (Arts Program)

Description:

The study of international relations dates back to antiquity and remains one of the most vital disciplines in the academic community. Its purpose is to explore the enduring questions of the origins of war and the maintenance of peace, the nature and exercise of power within an international system, and the changing character of the participants in international decision-making.

Drawing on the strengths of faculty members in History, Economics, and Political Science, the International Relations Specialist Program offers a structured and interdisciplinary education. The program provides students with knowledge of the historical and contemporary dimensions of the international system while introducing them to the methodologies employed in historical, political and economic analysis.

Enrolment Requirements:

The International Relations Major is a Type 3 program. Applicants must complete an application form including a Statement of Interest. Enrolment is limited to students with a combined average of at least 70% in the required first-year courses: (1) ECO100Y1/ECO101H1 + ECO102H1/ECO105Y1; (2) HIS103Y1 or TRN150Y1/TRN151Y1 or HIS102Y1 or two of VIC181H1, VIC183H1, VIC184H1, VIC185H1. Achieving the threshold mark does not necessarily guarantee admission to the program in any given year. Students who are not admitted to the program may reapply for admission in a subsequent year.

Faculty List

Associate Professors

E. Gilbert, MA, Ph.D. (Canadian Studies) (on leave in 2017-2018)
L. Mar, Ph.D (Canadian Studies)

Assistant Professor

Ryan Hall, Ph.D (Canadian Studies) (June 2017)

Senior Lecturer

J. Plotnick, MA, MSc (Writing Workshop) (on leave in 2017-2018)

Lecturers

J. John, BA, Ph.D. (Cognitive Science)
S. Rayter, MA, Ph.D. (Sexual Diversity Studies)
R. Salutin, MA (Canadian Studies)
J. Vervaeke, MA, Ph.D (Cognitive Science)

Introduction

University College offers a number of programs and courses outside the areas traditionally covered by departments. These include UC One and programs and courses in Canadian Studies, Cognitive Science, Drama, Health Studies, and Sexual Diversity Studies, in addition to 199Y1 Seminars, and introductory courses for non-specialists in mathematics. The overall aims of the College Programs are to foster interdisciplinary work in significant areas of study and to encourage intellectual breadth. Many program courses are open to students not enrolled in the programs themselves.

UC One: Engaging Toronto

UC One is an exciting initiative that provides first-year students with a special university experience. Students choose from one of four courses, each of which is designed to engage with the city from a different perspective. Classroom learning is directly linked to real life experience.

UC One is a full-credit course, one of five courses typically taken by a first-year Faculty of Arts and Science student. Enrolment in each course is limited to 25 students. Students enrol in one of the following four full year courses:

- UNI101Y1: Citizenship in the Canadian City
- UNI102Y1: Performing the City
- UNI103Y1: Gradients of Health in an Urban Mosaic
- UNI104Y1: Sex in the City

In UC One, you can choose a stream that complements your own interests.

Weekly lectures and seminars will be supplemented with prominent guest speakers, including political and business leaders, activists from non-governmental organizations, theatre directors, artists, and health practitioners. Students will have the opportunity to meet with the speakers and socialize with their fellow students after each guest lecture. Students will also participate in a range of field trips across the city.

UC One requires an application that is found on the UC One website at: www.uc.utoronto.ca/ucone. All first-year students in the Faculty of Arts and Science (St. George campus) are eligible for admission. Students may apply to more than one UC One seminar by ranking their preferences. Those participating in other One programs are excluded from UC One.

The Canadian Studies Program (Specialist, Major, Minor)

offers opportunities to study contemporary Canada in an interdisciplinary manner and to explore cultural, social, economical and political developments in this complex and diverse country. Students are encouraged to consider additional courses in Aboriginal Studies in completing the requirements of the Program.

The Cognitive Science Program (Major)

The Cognitive Science Program introduces students to the field of cognitive science: the interdisciplinary study of mind in humans and machines. Our students gain an understanding of such mental phenomena as perception, language, reasoning, and consciousness, and they integrate this understanding with an account of how the human brain works.

The Cognitive Science Arts Major has three course streams: Perception and Attention; Thinking and Reasoning; and Language and Cognition. The Cognitive Science Science Major has two streams: Computational Cognition and Cognition and the Brain. Courses include: COG250Y1 Introduction to Cognitive Science; COG341H1 and COG342H1 Issues in Cognitive Science; COG401H1 and COG402H1 Seminar in Cognitive Science; COG499H1 Independent Study; as well as courses drawn from offerings in Computer Science, Linguistics, Philosophy, and Psychology.

The Drama Program (Specialist, Major, Minor)

is described elsewhere in this Calendar, under Drama.

The Health Studies Program (Specialist, Major)

focuses the many areas of study that surround, interact with and support bio-medical research and clinical activity in regard to health, including health policy, practices, research methods, and socio-cultural expression. The Major serves as a general introduction; the Specialist provides a more intense research focus with more methodological emphasis.

The Sexual Diversity Studies Program (Specialist, Major, Minor)

allows students to focus on questions of sexual identity, difference, and dissidence across disciplinary lines and cultural frameworks. By examining sexual diversity across time and place, students will learn about the ways different cultures have separated the sexual from the nonsexual, the normal from the abnormal, and what the regulation of sexuality can tell us about how power operates along the lines of gender and race, for example. Students will gain an understanding of how and why certain sexual practices have come under scrutiny, and the significance of the various labels and identities that we have attached to them.

UNI and DRM courses are staffed by a combination of specific program staff members and members of various University departments, and are open to all students at the University. Further information on University College programs is available at www.uc.utoronto.ca. Further information on DRM is available at <http://dramacentre.utoronto.ca/>.

University College Programs

Canadian Studies Specialist (Arts Program)

Description:

Canadian Studies courses offer opportunities to study contemporary Canada in an interdisciplinary manner to explore cultural, social, economic, and political developments in this complex and diverse country. Students are encouraged to consider additional courses in Indigenous Studies in completing the Program requirements.

Enrolment Requirements:

Completion of four FCEs are required for enrolment in the Canadian Studies Specialist or Major program; no minimum GPA required. Students are responsible for checking co- and prerequisites for all courses. Please note that not all courses are offered on an annual basis. A list of approved Canadian Studies courses can be found on the website at www.uc.utoronto.ca/canadianstudies/. Other courses that are in the current academic Calendar that include significant Canadian content may be considered for approval by the Canadian Studies Program Director. Consult the Canadian Studies Program Office, UC173, University College, 416-946-4025. Email: canadian.studies@utoronto.ca.

Completion Requirements:

(11 full courses or their equivalent in Canadian Studies approved courses including at least 4 FCEs at the 300+ level, 1 FCE of which must be at the 400 level.)

First Year: No specific first-year requirements. (Students are advised to take introductory courses that will serve as prerequisites for optional courses of interest taken later in the program.)

1. (CDN267H1, CDN268H1), HIS263Y1

2. (CDN367H1, CDN368H1)

3. 0.5 FCE of any one of the following: CDN307H1/CDN335H1/CDN380H1/CDN390H1/JSU325H1

4. CDN420Y1/CDN435Y1 or another fourth-year Canadian Studies course approved by the Program Director.

5. Students will take another 6.5 FCEs offered by the Canadian Studies Program, or from the list of courses approved by the Canadian Studies program (see: www.uc.utoronto.ca/canadianstudies/). Suitable courses not on the list may be considered for approval by the Program Director.

Health Studies Specialist (Arts Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program with a finite number of spaces. For details on the admission requirements and application process please visit the Health Studies website at www.uc.utoronto.ca/healthstudies/

Completion Requirements:

(11.0 FCEs, including at least 2.0 FCE at the 400 level.)

First Year: No specific courses required. Students are advised to take introductory courses that will serve as prerequisites for optional courses of interest to them later in the program; we recommend at least 1.0 FCE in life sciences (e.g. BIO120H1 and BIO130H1) and 1.0 FCE in social sciences or humanities (e.g., PHL100Y1 or SOC100H1 and SOC150H1). UNI103Y1 would also be an asset, and can be counted towards program requirements.

Second Year: HST209H1, HST211H1, HST250H1;

0.5 FCE in statistics: STA220H1 or equivalent;

1.5 FCE of the following courses: ANT208H1/HMB202H1/HMB203H1/INS205H1/JSU237H1/NFS284H1/PHL281H1/SOC204H1/SOC243H1/STA221H1/TRN235H1/TRN236H1

Third Year: HST310H1, HST330H1, HST350Y1, HST373H1; 1.5 FCE of the following courses: HST307H1/HST308H1/HST309H1/ANT345H1/ANT348H1/ANT358H1/GGR340H1/HPS319H1/HMB303H1/HMB323H1/INS340Y1/INS350H1/PHL380H1/PHL381H1/PHL383H1/PHS300H1/SOC363H1/SOC364H1/WGS367H1

Fourth Year: HST450Y1; 1.0 FCE of the following courses: HST408H1/HST409H1/HST410H1/HST411H1/HST410H1/HST440H1/HST464H1

The remaining 1.5 FCE can include any courses not previously taken from the lists above, or any of the following: HST400Y1/HST480H1/UNI103Y1/ANT460H1/ENV430H1/HAJ453H1/HMB433H1/HMB498Y1/HMB422H1/HMB406H1/HMB462H1/HMB434H1/IRE378H1/JFP450H1/NEW344Y1/PHL440H1/RLG440H1/SOC427H1

Canadian Studies Major (Arts Program)

Description:

Canadian Studies courses offer opportunities to study contemporary Canada in an interdisciplinary manner to explore cultural, social, economical and political developments in this complex and diverse country. Students are encouraged to consider additional courses in Indigenous Studies in completing the Program requirements.

Enrolment Requirements:

Completion of four courses is required for enrolment in the Canadian Studies Specialist or Major program; no minimum GPA required.

Please note that not all courses are offered on an annual basis. A list of approved Canadian Studies courses in the current academic Calendar that include significant Canadian content may be considered for approval by the Canadian Studies Program Director. #### Completion Requirements:

(7 full courses or their equivalent in Canadian Studies approved courses with 2 FCEs at the 300+ level, and 0.5 FCE of which must be at the 400 level)

First Year: No specific first-year requirements. (Students are advised to take introductory courses that will serve as prerequisites for optional courses later in the program.)

1. (CDN267H1, CDN268H1), HIS263Y1
2. (CDN367H1, CDN368H1)
3. 0.5 FCE of any one of the following: CDN307H1/CDN335H1/CDN380H1/CDN390H1/JSU325H1
4. CDN405H1 or another fourth-year Canadian Studies course approved by the Program Director.
5. Students will take another 3 FCEs offered by the Canadian Studies Program, or in the list of courses approved by the Canadian Studies Program (see: www.utoronto.ca/canadianstudies). Suitable courses not on the list may be considered for approval by the Program Director.

Cognitive Science Major (Arts Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a Type 2 program. Enrolment is limited and admission requires the completion of either COG250Y1, or a combination of 1.5 FCE in CSC, LIN, PHL, PSY (no more than 1 FCE from a single department). Please note that meeting the minimum admission requirements does not guarantee one a spot in any of our programs, depending on the number of program spaces available.

Students are responsible for checking co- and prerequisites for all courses. Please note that not all courses are offered on a regular basis. A list of approved Cognitive Science courses can be found on the website: www.utoronto.ca/requirements. For any questions, consult the Cognitive Science Program Office, UC173, University College, 416-946-4025. #### Completion Requirements:

(8 FCEs)

Where noted below, please consult the Faculty of Arts & Science Course Calendar on prerequisites. Note that those interested in taking upper-level computer science courses should begin with CSC108H1, not CSC104H1.

First Year:

CSC104H1/CSC108H1/CSC120H1; LIN102H1 (note: LIN200H1 does not serve as prerequisite for upper year LIN courses); COG250Y1

Second Year:

STA220H1/PSY201H1; PSY270H1

Second Year and Higher:

PHL342H1; PSY473H1/PSY493H1; and 3 FCEs from one of Stream 1, 2, or 3:

Stream 1: Perception and Attention

PHL232H1; PSY280H1; and 2.0 FCEs of any of the following: COG341H1; COG342H1; PSY312H1; PSY380H1; PSY475H1; PHL340H1; PHL405H1; JLP374H1; NEW333H1; NEW438H1

COG415H1/COG498H1/COG499H1

For those with the appropriate prerequisites: CSC207H1; CSC320H1; CSC420H1

Stream 2: Language and Cognition

1.5 FCEs of any of the following: LIN232H1; LIN241H1; JLP315H1; LIN331H1; LIN341H1; JLP374H1

1.5 FCEs of any of the following: COG341H1; COG342H1; JLP471H1; JLS472H1; JLS473H1; PSY312H1; PHL245H1; PHL340H1; PHL345H1; PHL351H1; PHL451H1; NEW333H1; NEW438H1

COG415H1/COG498H1/COG499H1

For those with the appropriate prerequisites: CSC401H1; CSC485H1

Stream 3: Thinking and Reasoning

PHL245H1; PSY260H1; and 2.0 FCEs of any of the following: COG341H1; COG342H1; PSY312H1; PSY370H1; PSY371H1; PSY372H1; PHL246H1; PHL340H1; PHL347H1; JLP374H1; JLP471H1; JLS472H1; JLS473H1; NEW333H1; NEW438H1

COG415H1/COG498H1/COG499H1

For those with the appropriate prerequisites: CSC207H1; CSC304H1; CSC321H1; CSC384H1; CSC486H1

Fourth Year: COG401H1

Cognitive Science Major (Science Program)

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a Type 2 program. Enrolment is limited and admission requires the completion of either COG250Y1, or a combination of 1.5 FCE in CSC, LIN, PHL, PSY (no more than 1 FCE from a single department). Please note that meeting the minimum admission requirements does not guarantee one a spot in any one of our programs, depending on the number of program spaces available.

Completion Requirements:

(8 FCE)

Note that some Computer Science courses included below under Streams 1 and 2 have unlisted co- or prerequisites. Please consult the Faculty of Arts and Science Course Calendar. Those interested in the Science Major are advised to consider also registering for a Computer Science Specialist, Major, or Minor (for Stream 1) or a Human Biology Neuroscience Specialist or Major (for Stream 2).

First Year:

CSC108H1/CSC120H1 (recommended option); CSC148H1; MAT135H1 and MAT136H1 (or MAT137Y1); COG250Y1 (may be taken as a corequisite in Year 2)

Second Year:

STA220H1/STA257H1/PSY201H1

Second Year and Higher:

PHL342H1; PSY473H1/PSY493H1; and 3 FCEs from one of Stream 1 or 2:

Stream 1: Computational Cognition

Computational cognition is the interdisciplinary study of the information-processing underpinnings of cognitive mental processes. It seeks an understanding of cognition in mathematical terms and to apply this understanding to debates in artificial intelligence, cognitive psychology, and beyond.

No more than 1.5 FCEs of the 3 FCEs required from this list of options may come from any single 3-letter course designator, except for CSC courses. For CSC courses, a minimum of 1 FCE and up to 2 FCEs may be chosen. At least 1 FCE of the 3 FCEs must be at the 300+-level. CSC207H1; CSC304H1; CSC321H1; CSC324H1; CSC384H1; CSC401H1; CSC420H1; CSC485H1; CSC486H1; COG341H1/COG342H1; COG415H1; COG498H1/COG499H1; LIN102H1; LIN228H1; LIN232H1; LIN241H1; JLP315H1; LIN323H1; LIN331H1; LIN341H1; JLP374H1; JLP471H1; PHL240H1; PHL245H1/CSC330H1; PHL246H1; PHL345H1; PHL347H1; PHL348H1; PHL349H1; PHL355H1; PSY210H1; PSY220H1; PSY230H1; PSY260H1; PSY270H1; PSY280H1; PSY290H1; PSY312H1; PSY305H1; PSY316H1; PSY330H1; PSY331H1; PSY362H1; PSY370H1; PSY371H1; PSY372H1; PSY378H1; PSY379H1; PSY380H1; PSY414H1; PSY475H1; NEW232Y1; NEW333H1; NEW438H1

COG499H1

Stream 2: Cognition and the Brain

Today's cognitive scientists are more interested than ever before in the way the brain implements the information-processing underpinnings of cognitive mental processes. The study of cognition and the brain is the study, grounded in cognitive neuroscience, of those aspects of brain activity directly relevant to the performance of cognitive functions.

BIO120H1 and BIO220H1 (or BIO150Y1); and 2 FCEs of the following courses, with at least 1 FCE coming from PSY courses. At least 0.5 FCE of the 2 FCEs must be at the 300+-level. CSC207H1; CSC321H1; PHL355H1; PHL357H1; PSY270H1; PSY280H1; PSY290H1; PSY312H1; PSY316H1; PSY331H1; PSY362H1; PSY380H1; PSY390H1; PSY396H1; PSY397H1; PSY473H1; PSY492H1; PSY494H1; COG341H1/COG342H1; COG415H1; COG498H1/COG499H1; NEW232Y1; NEW333H1; NEW438H1; JLP471H1; JLS472H1; JLS473H1

Enrolment Requirements:

This is a limited enrolment program with a finite number of spaces. For details on the admission requirements and application process please visit the Health Studies website at www.utoronto.ca/healthstudies/

Completion Requirements:

(8.0 FCEs, including at least 1.5 FCE at the 400 level.)

First Year: No specific courses required. Students are advised to take introductory courses that will serve as prerequisites for optional courses of interest to them later in the program; we recommend at least 1.0 FCE in life sciences (e.g. BIO120H1 and BIO130H1) and 1.0 FCE in social sciences and/or humanities (e.g., PHL100Y1 or SOC100H1 and SOC150H1). UNI103Y1 would also be an asset, and can be counted towards program requirements.

Second Year: HST209H1, HST211H1, HST250H1;

0.5 FCE in statistics: STA220H1 or equivalent;

1.0 FCE of the following courses: ANT208H1/ HMB202H1/ HMB203H1/ INS205H1/ JSU237H1/ NFS284H1/ PHL281H1/ SOC204H1/ SOC243H1/ STA221H1/ TRN235H1/ TRN236H1

Third Year: HST310H1, HST330H1, HST373H1; 1.0 FCE of the following courses: HST307H1/ HST308H1/ HST309H1/ HST350Y1/ ANT345H1/ ANT348H1/ ANT358H1/ GGR340H1/ HPS319H1/ HMB303H1/ HMB323H1/ INS340Y1/ INS350H1/ PHL380H1/ PHL381H1/ PHL383H1/ PHS300H1/ SOC363H1/ SOC364H1/ WGS367H1

Fourth Year: 1.5 FCE of the following courses: HST400Y1/ HST408H1/ HST409H1/ HST410H1/ HST411H1/ HST440H1/ HST451Y1/ HST464H1/ HST480H1

The remaining 1.0 FCE can include any courses not previously taken from the lists above, or any of the following: UNI103Y1/ ANT460H1/ ENV430H1/ JFP450H1/ HAJ453H1/ HMB406H1/ HMB422H1/ HMB433H1/ HMB434H1/ HMB462H1/ HMB498Y1/ IRE378H1/ NEW344Y1/ PHL440H1/ RLG440H1/ SOC427H1

Not all courses are offered every year. Students are responsible for checking prerequisites for all courses. Courses in the current academic Calendar that include content of relevance to Health Studies may be considered for program inclusion in consultation with the Health Studies Program Director.

Asian Canadian Studies Minor (Arts Program)

Description:

The Minor in Asian Canadian Studies provides students with an opportunity to better understand the historical, socio-cultural, economic, and political forces that shape our knowledge about people of Asian heritage in Canada, and in relationship to Asia and the diaspora. The category "Asian Canadian" is widely understood to refer to people in Canada of East Asian, South Asian, Southeast Asian, and West Asian ancestry.

The program is interdisciplinary. Courses foreground the intersections of race and ethnicity with other indices of difference, such as gender, class, migration, sexuality, language, and spirituality, in local, national, and global contexts. Students take two required half-year core courses in Canadian Studies; select from an array of courses on Asian Canadian Studies; and supplement their program with the large number of cross-listed program courses noted below. The Minor in Asian Canadian Studies is easily combined with more traditional disciplinary areas of study, such as Anthropology, Art, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science and Sociology, or with interdisciplinary studies in Contemporary Asian Studies, Diaspora and Transnational Studies, and East Asian Studies.

Students will be encouraged to take full advantage of the opportunities available through the Canadian Studies Program, including an annual undergraduate student conference and a journal, ImagiNATIONS, produced by and for undergraduate students. The Canadian Studies Student Union is a focal point for social as well as academic pursuits, and is open to students pursuing a Minor in Asian Canadian Studies.

Admission Requirements:

Students are responsible for checking co- and prerequisites for all courses. Please note that not all courses are offered on an annual basis. Hours: 12P/54S

Who belongs? Who governs? Who decides? In this course you will examine the concepts of citizenship, public space, political membership, civic responsibility, and belonging. You will address topics such as Aboriginal sovereignty claims, urban multiculturalism, public housing, and greening the city. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Admission to UC One

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, St. Mike's One, Trinity One, Vic One, Woodsworth One

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3); Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

UNI102Y1 - Performing the City

Hours: 12P/54S

You will explore the connections between the performing arts, urban spaces, and cultural diversity. How does theatrical performance affect how people perceive the city? What are the alternatives to established theatres, and how does community activism inform performing arts in Toronto? Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Admission to UC One

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, St. Mike's One, Trinity One, Vic One, Woodsworth One

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1); Society and its Institutions (3)

UNI103Y1 - Gradients of Health in an Urban Mosaic

Hours: 12P/54S

In this course, you will examine how Toronto's varied communities access and use health care, and how they may encounter barriers in doing so. You will study how economic disparities, shifting demographics, and government policies affect health policy and the right to access resources. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Admission to UC One

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, St. Mike's One, Trinity One, Vic One, Woodsworth One

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3); Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

UNI104Y1 - Sex in the City

Hours: 12P/54S

You will learn about the sexual politics of the city and how cities and their neighbourhoods become sexualized and desexualized spaces. In Sex in the City, you will examine what "sex" means to Toronto's varied, multicultural communities by looking at urban space, cultural productions, law enforcement, safety and health resources and more. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Admission to UC One

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, St. Mike's One, Trinity One, Vic One, Woodsworth One

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1); Society and its Institutions (3)

UNI105Y1 - The Urban Mind

Hours: 12P/54S

This course will examine the role of Cognitive Science in various locations throughout Toronto such as Baycrest, MaRS, and the Rotman Centre to see how Cognitive Science contributes to the development of important new technologies, lines of scientific investigation, and innovations for the business world. The cognitive tasks and challenges of communal, and particularly urban, living are also examined.

Prerequisite: Admission to UC One

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, St. Mike's One, Trinity One, Vic One, Woodsworth One

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

Canadian Studies

CDN202H1 - Aspects of Quebec Culture (formerly UNI202H1)

Hours: 24S

An exploration of modern Québec culture as expressed in literature and the performing arts. Through a selection of internationally-known entertainers, we examine form, artistic innovation, communication of information and knowledge, and spectatorship. Novels and plays provide key elements such as tradition and historical context.

Exclusion: UNI202H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

CDN205H1 - Topics in Canadian Studies I (formerly UNI205H1)

Hours: 24L

A focused introduction to specific issues in Canadian culture and society. Content will vary from year to year. Specific course information will be available on the Canadian Studies website at www.utoronto.ca/canadianstudies.

Exclusion: UNI205H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

CDN218H1 - Voices in Canadian Writing (formerly UNI218H1)

Hours: 24S

A study of the variety of voices in Canadian fiction with a focus on contemporary writers. Issues such as marginalization, migration, diaspora and the formulation of the Canadian canon are discussed.

Exclusion: UNI218H1

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

CDN221H1 - Culture and the Media in Canada (formerly UNI221H1)

Hours: 24L

An exploration of the encounter between culture and mass communication in Canadian society. The course considers the role of major cultural institutions such as the CBC, the NFB, and their granting bodies. The emergence of new media and its relationship to mass media is also addressed.

Exclusion: UNI221H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

CDN225H1 - Asian Canadian Space & Place

Hours: 24L

A comprehensive examination of the socio-cultural dimensions of space and place in the contemporary Asian Canadian context. Explores Asian Canadian landscape, culture and heritage, place and identity formation, multiculturalism and nationalism, spatial conflict and contestation, and the political economy of cultural space.

Prerequisite: 4.0 FCE or permission of instructor

Recommended Preparation: CDN267H1/CDN268H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CDN230H1 - Asian Canadian History (formerly UNI230H1)

Hours: 24L

The course examines the history of Asian Canadians from the mid-1800s to the present by analyzing their contributions to the socio-cultural, economic, and political development of Canada. It explores how Asian Canadian history reconfigures prevailing understanding of race, migration, multiculturalism, and national identity through intersectional, comparative, and transnational frameworks.

Exclusion: UNI230H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

CDN267H1 - Canadian Nationalisms (formerly UNI267H1)

Hours: 24L

A critical examination of contemporary forms of Canadian nationalism. This interdisciplinary course will interrogate national formations across theoretical works, policy documents, and cultural representations. Students will address the ways that nationalist discourses constitute difference, especially with respect to race, ethnicity, gender, and sexuality.

Exclusion: UNI220Y, UNI267H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

CDN268H1 - Canada and Globalization (formerly UNI268H1)

Hours: 36L

Students examine the impact of contemporary globalization on Canada, and for Canada's place in the world. The course is interdisciplinary in its approach and addresses globalization from a wide range of perspectives, including mobility, trade, urbanization, health, religion, environmental change, technology, communications, and the arts.

Exclusion: UNI220Y, UNI268H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CDN280H1 - Canadian Jewish History (formerly UNI280H1)

Hours: 24L

This course focuses on initial settlement patterns of Jews in Toronto and elsewhere, community growth including suburbanization, and contemporary challenges such as anti-Semitism and assimilation.

Exclusion: UNI280H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CDN305H1 - Topics in Canadian Studies II (formerly UNI305H1)

Hours: 24L

An in-depth study of selected questions in contemporary Canadian culture and society. Content will vary from year to year. Specific course information will be available on the Canadian Studies website at www.uc.utoronto.ca/canadianstudies/.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CDN340H1 - The History of Canadian-U.S. Relations

Hours: 24L

Over time, Canadians and Americans have developed distinct identities and cultures, but their histories have always been closely linked. This course examines the complex interrelationship between Canada and the United States, from the colonial period through the present day, especially its political, cultural, and indigenous dimensions.

Prerequisite: 0.5 FCE in a CDN course or permission of instructor

Exclusion: CDN305H1 (Canadian Topics II: The History of Canadian-U.S. Relations)

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CDN355H1 - Digital Tools for Innovative Research

Hours: 24S

This course will introduce students to quantitative research tools developed through the Digital Humanities. Students will learn to use online text analytics tools in order to understand how quantitative methods can support critical academic research of the study of Canada. Quantitative digital analysis will be applied to a wide range of Canadian digital academic archives and community hubs.

Prerequisite: One of: CDN202H1/CDN205H1/CDN218H1/CDN221H1/CDN230H1/CDN267H1/CDN268H1/CDN367H1/CDN368H1/HIS263Y1/SOC218H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CDN365H1 - The Canadian Arctic

Hours: 24S

This course surveys topics related to the Canadian Arctic. Through a critical interdisciplinary lens, the course looks at a broad set of issues including discovery and history, the environment and climate change, economic and resource development, sovereignty and security, social conditions, governance, and First Nations, Inuit, and Metis perspectives.

Prerequisite: At least 4.0 FCE in Faculty of Arts & Science/1.0 FCE in Canadian Studies

Exclusion: CDN406H1 (Topics in Canadian Studies III: Canadian Arctic Policy Development and Inuit Recognition)

Recommended Preparation: CDN267H1, CDN268H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CDN367H1 - Canadian Pluralism (formerly UNI367H1)

Hours: 24S

Students will examine the complexities of social and cultural interaction in the context of changing Canadian demographics. This course compares and contrasts policies regarding indigenous rights, migration, multiculturalism, and citizenship with contemporary cultural narratives in literature, painting and film.

Prerequisite: CDN267H1/CDN268H1

Exclusion: UNI320Y1, UNI367H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

CDN368H1 - Canada's Borders (formerly UNI368H1)

Hours: 24S

The Canadian border is being reshaped by the increasing transnational movement of people, goods and ideas. Students will examine border issues relating to mobility, trade, and security from a wide range of interdisciplinary perspectives, from public policy to contemporary media, such as TV, films, and novels.

Prerequisite: CDN267H1/CDN268H1

Exclusion: UNI320Y1, UNI368H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CDN380H1 - Socio-Cultural Perspective of the Canadian Jewish Community (formerly UNI380H1)

Hours: 24L

This course examines the relationship between prominent Canadians who happen to be Jews and those whose works are founded in Jewish identity; the diversity of the community on the basis of religion, language, class, ideology, etc.; contributions to the arts and scholarship; and the role and contribution of Jewish women.

Exclusion: UNI380H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

CDN390H1 - Chinese Canadian Studies (formerly UNI390H1)

Hours: 24S

This course examines socio-cultural, political and economic aspects of Chinese communities in Canada. It explores how the study of Chinese Canadians challenges and augments our understanding of issues such as immigration and diaspora, multiculturalism, and race and ethnicity.

Prerequisite: CDN230H1/CDN267H1/CDN268H1/CDN307H1 or by permission of instructor

Exclusion: UNI390H1

Recommended Preparation: CDN230H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

CDN395H1 - Independent Study in Asian Canadian Studies (formerly UNI395H1)

Hours: TBA

An opportunity to write an independent research paper in Asian Canadian Studies under direction of a faculty member. Students wishing to take this course must have their essay proposal and supervisor approved by the Canadian Studies Program Director. The application for enrolment should be made in the term preceding study. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: CDN267H1/CDN268H1

Exclusion: UNI395H1

CDN405H1 - The University in Canada (formerly UNI405H1)

Hours: 24S

This seminar course will address the role of universities in Canadian society and in the lives of Canadians. Students will explore both contemporary issues in Canadian higher education and consider the historical contexts from which they emerged.

Prerequisite: CDN367H1/CDN368H1

Exclusion: UNI405H1

Recommended Preparation: CDN267H1, CDN268H1, CDN367H1, CDN368H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CDN406H1 - Topics in Canadian Studies_III

Hours: 24S

An in-depth study of selected questions in contemporary Canadian culture and society. Content will vary from year to year. Specific course information will be available on the Canadian Studies website at www.utoronto.ca/canadianstudies.

Recommended Preparation: CDN267H1, CDN268H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

CDN420Y1 - Senior Essay (formerly UNI420Y1)

Hours: 48S

Students select an appropriate research topic and, in consultation with the Program Director, make arrangements with a suitable supervisor. Preferably, research projects must be approved by the supervisor and by the Director of the Canadian Studies Program by April of the preceding academic year. Students meet periodically during the year in seminar to participate in peer evaluations of: statement of research, literature review, methods of analysis, and to share reports of progress in research. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Normally open only to Majors and Specialists in the Canadian Studies program or permission of Director.

Exclusion: UNI420Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

CDN425H1 - Independent Research in Canadian Studies (formerly UNI425H1)

Hours: TBA

An opportunity to write a substantial research paper in Canadian Studies that integrates research methodologies and conceptual frameworks developed over the students course of study. Students must have their topic and supervisor approved by the Canadian Studies program director. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: CDN367H1, CDN368H1 or permission of Director

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

CDN430Y1 - Senior Seminar: Special Topics in Canadian Studies (formerly UNI430Y1)

Hours: 48S

An upper level seminar. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: CDN367H1 (formerly UNI367H1), CDN368H1 (formerly UNI368H1) or permission of the Director of the Canadian Studies program

Exclusion: UNI430Y1

CDN435Y1 - Active Citizenship in a Canadian Context (formerly UNI435Y1)

Hours: 48S

This course draws from theoretical works to critically examine the experiences of citizenship of various communities in Canada. A service learning component is incorporated so that students can themselves engage in active citizenship. The course develops extra-curricular expertise that can contribute to a student's professional CV.

Prerequisite: Completion of 10 FCEs, and application required. See <http://www.utoronto.ca/courses-offered-canadian-studies-program> for details.

Exclusion: UNI435Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1); Society and its Institutions (3)

JSU325H1 - Queerly Canadian (formerly UNI325H1)

Hours: 36L

This course focuses on Canadian literary and artistic productions that challenge prevailing notions of nationality and sexuality, exploring not only how artists struggle with that ongoing Canadian thematic of being and belonging, but also celebrate pleasure and desire as a way of imagining and articulating an alternative national politics.

Prerequisite: SDS255H1/SDS256H1/CDN2671 (formerly UNI267H1), CDN268H1 (formerly UNI268H1) or permission of the instructor

Exclusion: SDS375H1 Special Topics: Queerly Canadian, UNI325H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

JUG320H1 - The Canadian Wilderness

Hours: 24L

The idea of wilderness permeates narratives of Canadian national identity, while policy-makers seek to manage and contain natural areas. This course compares and contrasts historical and contemporary wilderness narratives in literature, painting and film with policies in areas such as conservation, urban planning, land claims and tourism.

Recommended Preparation: 8.0 FCE's

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

JUG325H1 - Landscapes of Violence in Canada

Hours: 24L

This course examines how violence is enacted in Canada, at various scales, and across domestic, urban, national, and international landscapes. We will interrogate what is meant by violence; examine its colonial, racial and patriarchal dimensions; explore the impact on people and communities; and attend to forms of resistance and repair.

Recommended Preparation: CDN267H1, CDN268H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Cognitive Science

COG250Y1 - Introduction to Cognitive Science (formerly JUP250Y1, UNI250Y1)

Hours: 78L

An introduction to the problems, theories and research [strategies] central to the interdisciplinary field focusing on the nature and organization of the human mind and other cognitive systems. Interrelations among the philosophical, psychological, linguistic and computer science aspects of the field are emphasized.

Exclusion: JUP250Y1, UNI250Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

COG341H1 - Issues on Attention, Perception and Consciousness

Hours: 36L

An examination of core topics in cognitive science building on introductions in COG250Y. Typical topics include: perception and attention; concepts; imagery; consciousness.

Prerequisite: COG250Y1 and one of PSY270H1/PHL342H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

COG342H1 - Issues on Concepts, Theories of Mind, Cognitive Evolution

Hours: 36L

An examination of core topics in cognitive science building on introductions in COG250Y. Typical topics include: concepts; theories of mind; cognitive evolution.

Prerequisite: COG250Y1 and one of PSY270H1/PHL342H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

COG401H1 - Seminar in Cognitive Science

Hours: 36S

Advanced treatment of cognitive science topics.

Prerequisite: 5.0 credits in courses listed in the cognitive science major.

Exclusion: COG402H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

COG402H1 - Seminar in Cognitive Science

Hours: 36S

Advanced topics in cognitive science.

Prerequisite: 5.0 credits in courses listed in the cognitive science major.

Exclusion: COG401H1

Distribution Requirements: Science; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

COG403H1 - Seminar in Cognitive Science

Hours: 36S

The role of Artificial Intelligence/Machine Learning in the design and construction of cognitive systems and their role within Cognitive Science. Topics may vary from year to year, but may include deep learning, neural networks, knowledge representation and reasoning, and computational Neuroscience.

Prerequisite: COG250Y1, CSC148H1, CSC384H1 (requires permission of the Cognitive Science director), (MAT135H1, MAT136H1)/MAT137Y1, PHL342H1, PSY473H1/PSY493H1, 0.5 FCE in statistics

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

COG415H1 - Cognitive Science in Practice

Hours: 18L/15P

This course provides COG students with the opportunities to practice quantitative and qualitative evaluation and assessment methods in real world situations and juxtapose theory with practice. Placement activities will ground topics such as problem solving, logistics, decision making, etc., through practical application, individual and group / in-class critical reflection.

Prerequisite: COG250Y1, COG341H1/COG342H1, PSY370H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

COG498H1 - Independent Study

Hours: TBA

Advanced Independent Study.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

COG499H1 - Individual Study in Cognitive Science

Hours: TBA

Individual studies. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Health Studies

HST209H1 - Introduction to Health: Determinants of Health & Health Care (formerly UNI209H1)

Hours: 24L

A multidisciplinary approach to understanding perspectives in health, health equity, and primary health care. Themes include critical discussion of the measurements of health outcomes and the socioeconomic and political factors that affect health, including neglected and marginalized populations in Canada and globally.

Exclusion: UNI209H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST211H1 - Health Policy in Canada (formerly UNI211H1)

Hours: 24L

Introduces students to health policy in Canada, with a particular focus on the social determinants of health, and on how to improve health through policy advocacy. Examines the policy making process in the Canadian context, and the development of health policy in Canada. Explores current debates about health issues

Exclusion: UNI211H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST250H1 - Introduction to Research Methods in Health Studies (formerly UNI250H1)

Hours: 36L

Offers students in Health Studies a basic understanding of research design and data collection on health topics. Also assesses the usefulness of research and data collection in the formation of health policy.

Exclusion: UNI250H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST307H1 - Special Topics in Health Studies I

Hours: 24L

The specific content of this course will vary from one year to another, depending on the availability of particular health researchers and scholars. Specific course information will be available on the Health Studies website at www.utoronto.ca/healthstudies/.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

HST308H1 - Aging and Health (formerly UNI308H1)

Hours: 24L

Provides an understanding of the interface between health and aging, and how to maintain wellness in a rapidly aging population. Examines theories of aging, the meaning of health in old age, myths about the health of Canada's older people, and emerging national and international responses to aging populations.

Prerequisite: HST209H1, HST211H1

Exclusion: UNI308H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST309H1 - Special Topics in Health Studies II (formerly UNI309H1)

Hours: 24L

The specific content of this course will vary from one year to another, depending on the availability of particular health researchers and scholars. Specific course information will be available on the Health Studies website at www.utoronto.ca/healthstudies/.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

HST310H1 - Critical Health Policy (formerly UNI310H1)

Hours: 24L

A critical, in-depth exploration of contemporary health and social issues. Political, social and economic forces at play in Canadian society are examined in relation to specific health issues and policies, in order to understand general societal and system dynamics of evolution and change, and to identify implications for reform efforts.

Prerequisite: HST209H1, HST211H1

Exclusion: UNI310H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST330H1 - Population Health (formerly UNI330H1)

Hours: 24S

Extends students' understanding of population-based strategies of health promotion in Canada. Topics include: variations in health status as affected by population patterns, class, gender, ethnicity, employment, and family composition; major causes of morbidity and mortality; the concept of "community health", opportunities and constraints facing public policy.

Prerequisite: HST250H1, STA220H1

Exclusion: UNI330H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST350Y1 - Health Research & Practice (formerly UNI350Y1)

Hours: 48S

For students enrolled in the Health Studies Specialist and Major programs. Students engage in activities that will prepare them for independent research and practicum projects. Includes, but not limited to, sessions on topic selection and program development, finding a supervisor, ethics and professionalism, formulating a grant proposal.

Prerequisite: HST250H1

Exclusion: UNI350Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

HST373H1 - Epidemiology (formerly UNI373H1)

Hours: 24S

Introduces students to the principles and methods of epidemiology. Emphasis on descriptive methods and study design. Computational techniques, measurement problems, and issues that surround the drawing of inferences from area-level or other aggregate data will be discussed.

Prerequisite: STA220H1/GGR270H1

Exclusion: HMB342H1, UNI373H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST400Y1 - Health Studies Practicum

Hours: 172P/24S

Individual field placement with a health-related institution or organization, in which the student applies theory and skills to specific projects and/or tasks. Culminates in an oral and written report. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: HST350Y1, permission of the Director

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST407H1 - Advanced Special Topics in Health Studies I

Hours: 24L

The specific content of this course will vary from one year to another, depending on the availability of particular health researchers and scholars. Specific course information will be available on the Health Studies website at www.utoronto.ca/healthstudies/.

HST409H1 - Advanced Special Topics in Health Studies II (formerly UNI409H1)

Hours: 24S

The specific content of this course will vary from one year to another, depending on the availability of particular health researchers and scholars. Specific course information will be available on the Health Studies website at www.utoronto.ca/healthstudies/.

Exclusion: UNI409H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

HST410H1 - Case Studies in Health Policy (formerly UNI408H1)

Hours: 36S

Analyses the formation and implementation of health policy through the use of case studies. Each case deals with a substantive health policy issue. Using case studies, students will learn to understand and analyze the processes by which public policies are formed, and perform comparisons of policy alternatives.

Prerequisite: HST211H1

Exclusion: UNI408H1, HST408H1

Recommended Preparation: HST310H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST411H1 - Political Economy of Health (formerly UNI411H1)

Hours: 24L

Examines the production and distribution of health and illness within and across populations. A political economy approach is used to better understand the fundamental origins of health inequalities, the political action that is required to tackle them, and the obstacles that hinder the possibilities for such action.

Prerequisite: HST209H1

Exclusion: UNI411H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST440H1 - Health & Pharmaceuticals (formerly UNI440H1)

Hours: 24L

A critical examination of drug development, including the role of health professionals and the pharmaceutical industry in researching, testing, marketing, licensing, and evaluating pharmaceutical drugs. Topics include the differing needs for drug development, evaluation and dispensing in lower income countries, and potential conflicts of interest in drug development.

Prerequisite: HST209H1/HMB303H1

Exclusion: UNI440H1, UNI330H1 (Health & Pharmaceuticals) taken prior to 2010-11

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST450Y1 - Undergraduate Health Research Project (formerly UNI450Y1)

Hours: 48L

Students engage in a specific research project during their last two years within the program. Student will prepare an undergraduate thesis by the end of the course. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: HST250H1, STA220H1, HST350Y1

Exclusion: UNI450Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

HST451Y1 - Independent Research in Health Studies (formerly UNI451Y1)

Hours: TBA

This two-semester course designation will permit students to gain academic credit for health studies pursued independently under the supervision of a University of Toronto faculty member; or to participate in an ongoing health research project under the joint supervision of the projects Principal Investigator and the Director of the Health Studies Program. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: HST209H1, HST250H1

Exclusion: UNI451Y1

Recommended Preparation: HST350Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

HST464H1 - The Nature of International Health (formerly UNI464H1)

Hours: 24L

Explores the historical, ideological, economic, political, and organizational factors that shape the theory and practice of international health (IH). Students will be encouraged to critically examine some of the central tensions embedded in this field.

Prerequisite: HST209H1/HMB303H1

Exclusion: UNI464H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

HST480H1 - Independent Research in Health Studies (formerly UNI480H1)

Hours: TBA

This one-semester course will permit students to gain academic credit for health studies pursued independently, or to participate in an ongoing health research project, under the supervision of a University of Toronto faculty member. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: HST209H1, HST250H1

Exclusion: UNI480H1

Recommended Preparation: HST350Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

JSU237H1 - Introduction to HIV/AIDS: Health, Sexuality and Gender (formerly UNI237H1)

Hours: 24L

A critical examination of the HIV/AIDS global pandemic from a multidisciplinary perspective and with an emphasis on sexuality. The course examines the basic biology of HIV/AIDS and then covers social, historical, political, cultural, gender, and public health aspects of HIV/AIDS. Attention is given to the distinct features of vulnerable and marginalized populations, prevention, treatment, drug development, and access to medicines.

JSU237H1 is particularly intended for students in the Health Studies and/or Sexual Diversity Studies programs.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHS100H1 - Global Health Grand Opps

Hours: 24L/24T

This course introduces students to basic public health-related concepts, significant aspects of the historical development of global health, and a selection of topics illustrating the broad and evolving nature of this field. In addition, it helps students explore the contributions that various disciplines/fields offer to global health.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

PHS300H1 - HIV Prevention Research

Hours: 24L

This course engages students in in-depth learning about HIV research. In addition to learning about methods and issues from a variety of research disciplines as applied to HIV, students will be expected, with guidance, to design a study relevant to the content of the course.

Recommended Preparation: STA220H1 or equivalent

Distribution Requirements: Science; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Other University College Courses

JUM202H1 - Mathematics as an Interdisciplinary Pursuit

Hours: 24L/12T

A study of the interaction of mathematics with other fields of inquiry: how mathematics influences, and is influenced by, the evolution of science and culture. Art, music, and literature, as well as the more traditionally related areas of the natural and social sciences may be considered. (Offered every three years)

JUM202H1 is particularly suited as a Science Distribution Requirement course for Humanities and Social Science students.

Exclusion: JUM102H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

JUM203H1 - Mathematics as a Recreation

Hours: 24L/12T

A study of games, puzzles and problems focusing on the deeper principles they illustrate. Concentration is on problems arising out of number theory and geometry, with emphasis on the process of mathematical reasoning. Technical requirements are kept to a minimum. A foundation is provided for a continuing lay interest in mathematics. (Offered every three years)

JUM203H1 is particularly suited as a Science Distribution Requirement course for Humanities and Social Science students.

Exclusion: JUM103H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

JUM205H1 - Mathematical Personalities

Hours: 24L/12T

An in-depth study of the life, times and work of several mathematicians who have been particularly influential. Examples may include Newton, Euler, Gauss, Kowalewski, Hilbert, Hardy, Ramanujan, Gdel, Erds, Coxeter, Grothendieck. (Offered every three years)

JUM205H1 is particularly suited as a Science Distribution Requirement course for Humanities and Social Science students.

Exclusion: JUM105H1

Distribution Requirements: Science

Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

UNI299Y1 - Research Opportunity Program

Hours: TBA

Credit course for supervised participation in faculty research project. Details at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/rop>. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

UNI393Y1 - University College Independent Studies

Hours: TBA

An opportunity to design an independent research course of study at the 300 level not otherwise available within the Faculty. Normally, students will have a minimum cGPA of 3.0 and have completed 10 FCEs. Permission of a faculty supervisor and approval by the Vice-Principal are required. Those registered in a UC program or UC-registered students should submit a written proposal and application form to the Programs Office (UC173) for approval. Applications for Y and F courses are due by 30 June prior to the academic year; S courses to be submitted by 15 September; Summer proposals are due by 15 February. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Application form is available at the University College website at www.uc.utoronto.ca/

Prerequisite: Permission of University College Vice-Principal

UNI394H1 - University College Independent Studies

Hours: TBA

An opportunity to design an independent research course of study at the 300 level not otherwise available within the Faculty. Normally, students will have a minimum cGPA of 3.0 and have completed 10 FCEs. Permission of a faculty supervisor and approval by the Vice-Principal are required. Those registered in a UC program or UC-registered students should submit a written proposal and application form to the Programs Office (UC173) for approval. Applications for Y and F courses are due by 30 June prior to the academic year; S courses to be submitted by 15 September; Summer proposals are due by 15 February. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Application form is available at the University College website at www.uc.utoronto.ca/.

Prerequisite: Permission of University College Vice-Principal

UNI495Y1 - University College Independent Studies

Hours: TBA

An opportunity to design an independent research course of study at the 400 level not otherwise available within the Faculty. Normally, students will have a minimum cGPA of 3.0 and have completed 15 FCEs. Permission of a faculty supervisor and approval by the Vice-Principal are required. Those registered in a UC program or UC-registered students should submit a written proposal and application form to the Programs Office (UC173) for approval. Applications for Y and F courses are due by 30 June prior to the academic year; S courses to be submitted by 15 September; Summer proposals are due by 15 February. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Application form is available at the University College website at www.uc.utoronto.ca/.

Prerequisite: Permission of University College Vice-Principal

UNI496H1 - University College Independent Studies

Hours: TBA

An opportunity to design an independent research course of study at the 400 level not otherwise available within the Faculty. Normally, students will have a minimum cGPA of 3.0 and have completed 15 FCEs. Permission of a faculty supervisor and approval by the Vice-Principal are required. Those registered in a UC program or UC-registered students should submit a written proposal and application form to the Programs Office (UC173) for approval. ## Introduction

Victoria College (Vic) is committed to providing students with a personal and inclusive university experience inside and outside the classroom. This is an environment where students and faculty are engaged in building a community that welcomes diversity, embraces creativity and is energized by challenge.

At Vic, we nurture a close-knit learning environment from the very beginning of your academic career. Whether it is through our Vic One program, Vic One Hundred or the 199 courses offered by the Faculty of Arts and Science, every first-year Victoria College student takes at least one small seminar course. You will experience here the academic advantages of being a student at one of Canada's leading research universities combined with the intimacy of a small liberal arts college.

Vic One

Victoria College offers first-year Arts and Science students an opportunity for a unique educational experience that draws upon the College's history and identity. Eight streams with differing emphases are available in this foundation year program, known as Vic One. Each is named in honour of respected Canadian leaders with strong ties to Victoria College. The Margaret Chambers stream, named after a Victoria College graduate in mathematics who became an investor and philanthropist, is suited to students interested in commerce, management, economics, and policy. The Northrop Frye stream, named after the former Victoria College professor and distinguished literary critic, focuses on the humanities. The Paul W. Gooch stream, named after the former President of Victoria University who inspired the Vic One program, comprises studies in philosophy, ethics, religion, and diversity. The Norman Jewison stream, named after the former Victoria University Chancellor and celebrated film director, is oriented towards the creative arts and society. The Lester B. Pearson stream, named after the former Canadian Prime Minister, is concerned with the social sciences. The Egerton Ryerson stream, named after the first Principal of the College who was a pioneer in Canadian education, introduces issues in education and teaching. The Arthur Schawlow Stream, named after the Physics Nobel laureate, is geared towards the physical and mathematical sciences. The Augusta Stowe-Gullen stream, named after the first woman to graduate from a Canadian medical school, is of interest to students wishing to pursue studies in the life sciences. The eight streams feature lively seminars and dialogue, and are enriched by weekly plenary sessions with guest professors, visiting artists, writers, ambassadors and other public figures.

The Vic One streams comprise up to three FCEs of the five FCEs taken by most first-year students. Two required courses in each stream are seminar courses given by faculty of Victoria College. They have a limited enrolment of 25 students in each class. The third co-requisite course is listed with each course description. Students who have questions about their Vic One co-requisite course must contact the Vic One Liaison Officer vic.one@utoronto.ca.

Vic One enrolment requires an application that is found on the Vic One website (www.vic.utoronto.ca). All first-year students in the Faculty of Arts and Science (St. George campus), regardless of college membership, are eligible for admission to Vic One. Admission decisions are based on extra-curricular activities, a short original essay and the student's entering grades.

PLEASE NOTE: Vic One students are NOT eligible to enrol in Vic One Hundred courses, 199 first-year seminars or any other One program.

Vic One Hundred: First Year Seminars

Vic One Hundred is a Victoria College initiative that offers first-year Arts and Science students the opportunity to experience a small class environment. These limited enrolment courses facilitate close contact with distinguished teaching faculty and fellow students, while providing an excellent gateway to, and foundation for, subsequent studies.

PLEASE NOTE: Vic One Hundred seminar courses are NOT open to students enrolled in any One program (including Vic One) or 199Y first-year seminars.

Enrolment in a first-year seminar course (199s and Vic One Hundred) is limited to 1.0 FCE. Students may take a combination of Vic One Hundred and 199H seminars as long as enrolment does not exceed 1.0 FCE.

Combined Degree Program (CDP) in Arts/Science and Education (Victoria College and Ontario Institute for Studies in Education)

The Combined Degree Program in Arts/Science and Education is designed for students interested in studying the intersections of teaching subjects and Education, coupled with professional teacher preparation. Students earn an Honours Bachelor's degree from the Faculty of Arts and Science (St. George) and an accredited professional Master of Teaching (MT) degree from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE). The CDP permits the completion of both degrees in six years with 1.0 FCE that may be counted towards both the undergraduate and graduate degrees.

Program requirements:

1. Minor in Education and Society, Victoria College
2. Major in one of the following areas, corresponding to the first teaching subject:

- English
- History
- Mathematics
- Psychology
- Sociology

3. Minor in an area corresponding to the second teaching subject as determined by OISE.

See http://pepper.oise.utoronto.ca/~jhewitt/mtresources/intermediate\_senior\_teaching\_subject\_prerequisites\_2016-17.pdf

Application Process

Applicants apply successively to the H.B.A./H.B.Sc. program, the MT program, and the CDP. See the department/college page for admission requirements in the relevant Major and Minor programs.

In the Spring term of Year 3 of the Bachelor program, students apply at OISE for conditional admission to the MT. To be considered for conditional admission to the Master of Teaching and the Combined Degree Program, students must meet the following admission requirements:

- Have completed or be on course to complete the Education and Society Minor Program (Victoria College)
- Be registered in the 3rd year of the H.B.Sc. or H.B.A. Degree Program, in one of the above listed major programs.
- Have completed at least half of the teaching subjects prerequisite courses (i.e. 3.0 FCEs in 1st teaching subject, and 1.5 FCE in 2nd teaching subject) by the end of third year.
- Have an average grade equivalent of at least B+, normally demonstrated by an average grade in the 2nd year.
- Provide at least two letters of reference.
- Meet other qualifications as specified by the MT program.

See: http://www.oise.utoronto.ca/mt/How\_To\_Apply.html

Once students have accepted a conditional offer of admission to the MT program, they will be eligible to take 1.0 graduate FCE at OISE in their fourth year, which will count towards both the undergraduate degree and the Master of Teaching degree.

If the student does not meet the above conditions, the offer of conditional admission to the Combined Degree Program will be rescinded. Students in this position could apply separately to the Master of Teaching outside of the Combined Degree Program.

For students to be given full, unconditional admission to the MT program, they must:

- Maintain at least a B+ (3.3) average in their final year or over senior courses.
- Achieve a grade of at least B+ average in the 1.0 graduate FCE taken in Year 4.
- Have completed required courses to meet the first and second teaching subjects.
- Successfully complete the requirements for the H.B.Sc./H.B.A. program.
- Have the undergraduate degree confirmed.

Academic Path to Completion for the CDP

Year 1-4: H.B.Sc./H.B.A program and degree requirements

Year 4: 1.0 FCE in the MT graduate courses

Year 5-6: 9 FCEs of the MT program requirements

Creative Expression and Society Program

The Minor in Creative Expression and Society allows students to develop creative and communicative proficiency by taking part in one or more workshop-style courses in fiction, non-fiction, or poetry writing and/or creative expression through aural and visual media. Students will also explore the reciprocal relationship of the creative arts and society by studying social issues in the arts, the influence of writers and artists on society, and the impact of society and the marketplace on creative endeavours. Courses explore such topics as the arts and public opinion; reception and interpretation; marketing and reviewing; censorship and criticism; ethics and accountability. This program fosters the exercise of creativity while making the relationship of creative expression and social conditions a subject for reflection and dialogue.

Education and Society (Arts Program)

The Vic-sponsored Education and Society Minor is open to all Arts and Science students. This program is for those who are interested in education, either as a skill that will prepare you for many occupations, or as a strong background for admission to a teacher education program, such as the Combined Degree Program with OISE (separate application required, see below) or another consecutive teacher education program.

Literature and Critical Theory Program (Formerly Literary Studies)

The Literature and Critical Theory program (formerly Literary Studies) is based on a pair of ideas. The first is that many of the most important issues that engage our attention call for a multidisciplinary approach. The second is that the kind of critical analysis demanded by the study of literary texts offers powerful tools for investigating other cultural and social forms, both past and present. Central to the program is the comparative study of forms of representation – texts, media, institutions, and theories — in diverse cultures and historical periods. This requires thinking seriously about what it means to compare and what it means to translate.

The Literature and Critical Theory program will attract students who are interested in exploring and generating links between literature and historical, cultural, political, social, and psychological forces. The program trains students to think about how problems of the present are tied to those of the past, and to consider critically how we both represent this past and imagine possible futures. Students will be engaged in the practice of close, contextualized analyses of literary texts and other discursive forms, including artefacts, institutions and social practices, originating in different languages, geographical locations, and historical periods.

Literary production, like all forms of cultural production, invariably exceeds the boundaries of the nation, and increasingly so in today's globalized world. The boundaries between various cultural media are similarly porous, and the aesthetic values by which we identify, judge, and classify literary and cultural objects are historically shaped. For these reasons, students will be encouraged to study in more than one language and to work with a variety of media. Our courses explore literary and cultural movements across languages, geographical regions, epochs, media, and disciplines.

Material Culture Program

What does it mean to live in a “material world”? What might we learn from studying the things that surround us? In an increasingly consumer-oriented, globalized and digital age, how do objects express the longstanding beliefs and values of different societies? Material culture is the study of objects – clothing, household goods, machinery, built forms – that show signs of human influence. The program engages students in the study of material culture (tangible things, broadly defined); supports research projects which originate with studies of artefacts; and fosters trans-disciplinary and inter-institutional dialogues amongst students, scholars, stewards and purveyors of material culture – within the university and at a range of cultural agencies. We examine the meanings people invest in their things, across cultures and time periods, and consider processes of production and consumption, including moments of invention, exchange, use, re-use, divestment, disposal, and collection. Students will work with curators and other professionals to analyze the social and cultural relevance of objects as part of understanding of a culture or society. The Minor is designed to complement programs in such disciplines as Asian Studies, Near and Middle Eastern Studies, Geography, History, Art, History of Science and Technology, Semiotics, Renaissance Studies, and Anthropology.

Renaissance Studies Program

The Renaissance Studies Program lets you study one of the most critical periods in European and world history. Changes in art and literature, in social and political development, and in technology and science transformed European concepts of the individual, society, and the world.

Many aspects of our modern world had their origin in this period: our emphasis on the study of human affairs; our irrepressible interest in the exploration of the universe, in science, and in medicine; the institutions of church and state as we know them today. The Renaissance is also a period of unparalleled European contacts with non-European civilizations – from the powerful Islamic world of the Near East and North Africa to the great pre-Columbian civilizations of the Americas, from the uncharted forests of equatorial Africa to the exotic lands of the Indian subcontinent and the Far East, nothing seemed too distant or too inaccessible for the European mind or merchant.

This interdisciplinary program is particularly attractive to students of history, politics, literature, fine art, history of science, music and theatre, because it assembles aspects of all these studies to focus on one seminal period in Western civilization.

Science and Society Program

The Science and Society program studies the complex, interdependent relationship between science, technology, and society. The influence of scientific research and its applications is evident in virtually all aspects of modern life, from our conception of societal obligation and familial relations, to our interaction with the commonplace materials and objects we use to sustain ourselves. However, scientific and technological development is in turn affected by and shaped by politics, public opinion, moral beliefs and cultural practices.

Courses in this program explore topics such as ethical uses of technology, scientific revolutions and controversies, science-related policy and politics, modeling and communication of scientific research, and knowledge transfer from research to commercial and societal applications.

Semiotics and Communication Studies Program

Semiotics is the science of communication and sign systems, in short, of the ways people understand phenomena and organize them mentally, and of the ways in which they devise means for transmitting that understanding and for sharing it with others. Although natural and artificial languages are therefore central to semiotics, its field covers all non-verbal signalling and extends to domains whose communicative dimension is perceived only unconsciously or subliminally. Knowledge, meaning, intention and action are thus fundamental concepts in the semiotic investigation of phenomena.

Victoria College Programs

Literature and Critical Theory Specialist in the Comparative Literature Stream (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(12.5 FCE, including at least 3.0 FCE at 300-level and 1.0 FCE at 400-level)

1. First year in program: VIC202Y1
2. First or second year in program: VIC203H1, VIC205H1

Second or higher years in program:

3. 3.5 FCE from VIC204H1, VIC301H1, VIC302H1, VIC303H1, VIC304H1, VIC305H1, VIC306H1, VIC307H1, VIC308H1, VIC401H1/VIC401Y1, VIC403H1, VIC494H1/VIC494Y1.
4. 0.5 FCE in Breadth Requirement Category 5: The Physical and Mathematical Universes, or another half course approved by the program director, to fulfill the Quantitative Reasoning competency required in the program.
5. VIC402H1
6. 6.0 FCE in languages or literatures drawn from other departments. At least 4.0 of these involve reading texts in a language other than English, including at least 2.0 at the 300+ level. These courses must be pre-approved by the program coordinator to ensure they will be counted towards this program of study.

Literature and Critical Theory Specialist in the Cultural Theory Stream (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(12.5 FCE, including at least 3.0 FCE at 300-level and 1.0 FCE at 400-level)

1. First year in program: VIC202Y1
2. First or second year in program: VIC203H1, VIC205H1

Second or higher years in program:

3. 3.5 FCE from VIC204H1, VIC301H1, VIC302H1, VIC303H1, VIC304H1, VIC305H1, VIC306H1, VIC307H1, VIC308H1, VIC401H1/VIC401Y1, VIC403H1, VIC494H1/VIC494Y1.
4. 0.5 FCE in Breadth Requirement Category 5: The Physical and Mathematical Universes, or another half course approved by the program director, to fulfill the Quantitative Reasoning competency required in the program.
5. VIC402H1
6. 4.0 FCE in ONE other discipline - African Studies, Anthropology, Caribbean Studies, Cinema Studies, Classics, Drama, East Asian Studies, Equity Studies, Fine Art, History, Music, Political Science, Philosophy, Psychology, Sociology, Women and Gender Studies, and other departments as approved by the program coordinator.

7. 2.0 FCE in a language other than English, including at least 1.0 at the 300+ level.

Renaissance Studies Specialist (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

(10 FCE, including at least 3.0 FCE at 300-level and 1.0 FCE at 400-level):

1. 3.0 FCE from: VIC240Y1, VIC241Y1, VIC341H1, VIC342H1, VIC343Y1, VIC344H1, VIC345H1, VIC346H1, VIC347H1, VIC348Y1, VIC349H1/VIC349Y1, VIC392H1/VIC392Y1, VIC449H1/VIC449Y1, VIC492H1/VIC492Y1
2. 1.0 FCE in Literature from: ENG220Y1, ENG301H1, ENG302Y1, ENG303H1, ENG304Y1, ENG330H1, ENG331H1, ENG335H1, ENG336H1; FRE319H1, FRE320H1; ITA200H1, ITA249H1, ITA300H1, ITA312H1, ITA325H1, ITA332H1, ITA356Y0, ITA357Y0, ITA370H1, ITA400H1, ITA420H1, ITA431H1; SPA352H1, SPA368H1, SPA452H1, SPA454H1

Science and Society Minor (Arts Program)

Completion Requirements:

The Minor in Science and Society is an interdisciplinary program that focuses on the different ways science and technology shape modern society and, in turn, how society shapes science and technology. From the food we eat to the way we conceive family relations or our obligations to future generations, our daily practices and our beliefs are increasingly influenced by scientific research and its applications. In turn, politics, public opinion, moral beliefs and cultural practices affect scientific and technological development. Courses in this program address such topics as science and values, science-related policy and politics, ethical uses of technology, scientific revolutions and controversies, modeling and communication of scientific research, and knowledge transfer from research to commercial and societal applications.

Vic One: Gooch Stream

VIC166H1 - Common Vices and Neglected Virtues: Intro to Ethics of Character

Hours: 24S

Vice is popular: a prestigious university press has brought out a series of seven books on the Seven Deadly Sins. This course examines such questions as the following. Are greed, lust and gluttony just bad names for necessary and otherwise acceptable instincts? What is the place, in a good human life, of such qualities as honesty, trust, civility and the like? Are vices and virtues culturally determined or a matter of individual preference? Can character be taught, or is it rather a matter of genes and luck? Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Admission to Vic One

Corequisite: VIC167H1, VIC168H1, VIC169H1, and 1.0 FCE in any 100-level course in ANT or PHL or RLG

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Woodsworth One, 199 seminars, Vic One Hundred courses.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

VIC167H1 - Ideas and Fine Thoughts

Hours: 24S

This course examines how political ideas are formed and developed through literature, art, plays, essays and philosophical works in the twentieth century. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Admission to Vic One

Corequisite: VIC166H1, VIC168H1, VIC169H1, and 1.0 FCE in any 100-level course in ANT or PHL or RLG

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Woodsworth One, 199 seminars, Vic One Hundred courses.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC168H1 - Identity and Equality in the Public Sphere

Hours: 24S

This course explores current legal and philosophical debates around equality, discrimination, and the shaping of individual and group identities. It addresses the way values, affiliation, and identities have an impact on the public sphere of law and policy-making - and the ways in which law and policy, in turn, shape our conceptions (and misconceptions) of people's identities. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Admission to Vic One

Corequisite: VIC166H1, VIC167H1, VIC169H1, and 1.0 FCE in any 100-level course in ANT or PHL or RLG

VIC103Y1 - Ideas and Fine Thoughts

Hours: 48S

This course examines how political ideas are formed and developed through literature, art, plays, essays and philosophical works in the twentieth century. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: VIC103H1; Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; 199 seminars or other Vic One Hundred seminars.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC105H1 - Odysseys: The Search for Meaning

Hours: 24S

Metaphors and motivations of journeying have long intrigued human beings as they have attempted to understand the meaning of their existence: the setting out, the seeking for a desired object, the pilgrimage of religious observance, and the longing to return home. Through texts, art, music and film, this course will explore some of the shaping journey-myths of our culture from classical, Hebrew, medieval and modern sources. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC106H1 - Psychology and Society

Hours: 24S

This course explores central developments and ongoing controversies in the scientific study of the human mind, brain and behaviour. It examines topics such as: psychoanalysis, behaviourism, humanistic psychology, evolutionary psychology, intelligence testing, and feminist perspectives. Goals include understanding the historical evolution and social relevance of scientific psychology. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: VIC206H1, Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC107H1 - Evolution, Genetics, and Behaviour

Hours: 24S

In this course we examine major episodes in the history of evolution and genetics in the twentieth century. Topics include Darwinian evolution, sociobiology and evolutionary psychology, eugenics, and genetic screening and therapy. We will examine different views about the control of evolution and genetic manipulation in their socio-cultural-economic context and discuss the ethical and social implications of those views. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: VIC207H1, Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC108H1 - Belonging, Imagination and National Identity

Hours: 24S

This course will examine a number of questions related to the origins of national identities and the sustainability of nation-states. Topics covered will include: language, ethnicity, religion, politics, war, symbols, the arts, sport and public spectacle, and cuisine. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: VIC108Y1; Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

VIC109H1 - Innovators and Their Ideas

Hours: 24S

A study of the ideas and concerns of innovators who questioned traditional views and values. The course includes creative thinkers who challenged basic concepts on politics, literature, religion, and society. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: VIC109Y1; Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC110H1 - Critical Perspectives on Society

Hours: 24S

By means of short texts, film or art works this course explores such themes as the effect of technology on the political, the nature of democracy, the question of resistance through art and the role of violence in the social. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC112Y1 - Puzzles, Discovery and the Human Imagination

Hours: 48S

There has never been a period of time, nor has there ever been a culture, without some kind of puzzle tradition. Are puzzles just playful artefacts, intended merely to entertain? Or are they mirrors of something much more fundamental in human life? The course will take a close look at what puzzles tell us about the human mind and human culture. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; 199 seminars or other Vic One Hundred seminars.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC113H1 - Encountering Distant Climes: The Literature of Travel and Exploration

Hours: 24S

This course will study accounts of world travelers and explorers from the Middle Ages to the present, including representative examples drawn from the Age of Exploration, the Grand Tour, scientific and map-making expeditions, and the contemporary genre of travel writing. Particular attention will be given to the trans-cultural nature of travel, and the interactive aspects of the gulf between the observer and those observed. Students will analyze the diverse motivational factors behind excursions and expeditions, and apply a critique to written accounts in light of such factors as self-discovery, knowledge and imagination, Eurocentrism, orientalism, cultural relativism, colonialism/imperialism, race, gender, and eco-tourism. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC114H1 - Renaissance in Popular Culture

Hours: 24S

This course explores the depiction of the Renaissance in a wide range of plays, films and novels. The focus is on the exchange between film, fiction, and 'fact', and on how the values and concerns of the present shape creative recreations of the past in popular culture. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: VIC114Y1; Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

VIC115H1 - Imagined Power: Literature and Film

Hours: 24S

In this course we will study a number of literary and cinematic works that take up questions of power, duty, rights, responsibility, and freedom. Our texts will be drawn from a long history, and from many parts of the world. The sequence however will not be chronological. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: VIC115Y1; Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC116H1 - Politics of the Pen

Hours: 24S

A study of how literature challenges prevailing political beliefs and social norms. We will situate our discussion in the broader context of human rights and freedoms. We will examine cases where literature has been censored and writers have been imprisoned or driven into exile. Part of this course involves a community service-learning component. We will consider how this literature contributes to debate and advocacy around issues of social justice. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC117H1 - Understanding the Performing Arts: Interpretation and Expression

Hours: 24S

This course examines two key issues about the performing arts that concern both artists and theorists: the nature of interpretation and of expression. What might we mean when we say that a work, a piece of music or a dance for example expresses something? What is it to express? And what is the nature of interpretation? Are there any constraints or boundaries on interpretation? We will draw on both philosophers and non-philosophers to explore these sorts of questions. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC118H1 - The Rebel in History, Literature and Popular Culture

Hours: 24S

This course will examine the phenomenon of individuals and communities who rebel against the general social norms upheld by the majority in societies throughout history. These societal conventions can include generally-accepted moral and religious tenets, as well as the formal legal or political powers employed by those with the levers of social control. The rebels' motives can range from the purely criminal, as with many notorious outlaws, to struggles for social justice, in the case of rebellious slaves or proponents of civil disobedience. Students will develop a theoretical framework which they can apply to the lives and motivations of a diverse representation of social rebels and outsiders, among them: pirates and mutineers, bandits and members of street/biker gangs, anarchists, disaffected intellectuals and religious leaders, punks and goths. Besides examining the sociological and philosophical aspects of rebellion, the course will consider the rebel as a prominent element in popular culture. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

VIC119H1 - Myths and Legends in Modern Contexts

Hours: 24S

This course provides an introduction to modern forms of ancient narratives, exploring the ways in which selected ancient literary sources and myths have been adapted to modern Canadian literature. Ancient narratives or 'old stories' are often reused, reinterpreted or reconstructed in modern narratives and given new relevance in a contemporary context. Students will encounter sources and contexts of ancient narratives. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC134H1 - Globalization

Hours: 24S

This interdisciplinary course explores the contemporary character of globalization. The world is shrinking as money, goods, people, ideas, weapons, and information flow across national boundaries. Some commentators assert that a more tightly interconnected world can exacerbate financial disruptions, worsen the gap between rich and poor nations, undermine democracy, imperil national cultures, harm the environment, and give unconstrained freedom to predatory corporations. Others proclaim that globalization - understood as capitalism and free markets - fosters economic growth, encourages creative collaboration, inspires technological breakthroughs, and enhances human prospects for a better life, in rich and poor countries alike, in unprecedented ways. Our task is to evaluate the evidence and draw our own conclusions. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

VIC135H1 - The Death of Meaning

Hours: 24S

In The Origin of Species Darwin concluded there was no evidence to suggest that life was designed by a higher power. A corollary of this is that our lives lack any necessary purpose or meaning. Our readings will be directed to the question of what it means to lack 'Meaning'. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC136H1 - How to Study Everyday Life

Hours: 24S

An introduction to the academic study of everyday life. A cross-disciplinary discussion class drawing on a wide variety of examples from ordinary life, fantasy, and culture. We situate the apparently innocuous within larger patterns of social relations and social change. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

VIC137H1 - Science and Science Fiction

Hours: 24S

Based on reading and discussion of science fiction and popular science in the context of social issues, this seminar course explores the fantastic visions of humanity's future inspired by scientific advances during the twentieth century. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred; HPS260H1, HMB444H1
Distribution Requirements: Social Science
Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC159H1 - Vic One Hundred Special Topics Seminar

Hours: 24S

Topics vary from year to year. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred.
Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Science; Social Science

VIC159Y1 - Vic One Hundred Special Topics Seminar

Hours: 48S

Topics vary from year to year. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; 199 seminars or other Vic One Hundred seminar.
Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Science; Social Science
Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1); Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

Creative Expression and Society

IVP210H1 - Holography for 3D Visualization

Hours: 24L/36P

An introduction to the theory and practice of holography. Human perception & 3D visualization; fundamentals of 3D modeling; ray and wave optics; interference, diffraction, coherence; transmission and reflection holograms; colour perception; stereograms. Applications of holography in art, medicine, and technology. Computer simulation, design, and construction of holograms.

Exclusion: JOP210H1
Distribution Requirements: Science
Breadth Requirements: The Physical and Mathematical Universes (5)

VIC209H1 - How Stories Work

Hours: 24S

Stories give shape and substance to the things we believe in, from scientific theories and sacred texts to literary tales and philosophical propositions. They perpetuate ideals and identities, and sustain institutions and communities. This course will take up a set of texts from the arts, sciences, religions and several other storytelling traditions, ancient and modern, considering their claims to authority and making connections between them.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities
Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC270H1 - Listening: A Critical History

Hours: 24S

Surveying scenarios for public and private musical listening, from historical contexts to the present, this course explores critical questions about how we listen, including the relationship between musical genres and listening situations, the definition of music vs. noise, the influence of spectatorship, and the impact of changing technologies. Students discuss the changing aesthetics and ideologies of musical listening, considering ways in which listening shapes our understanding of the social and our awareness of communities.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities
Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC271H1 - Reading the Wild

Hours: 24S

In light of the environmental crisis, this seminar surveys a wide range of oral and written literature in order to discover how our approach to nature has changed over the centuries, what gains and losses have attended modernity, and what older cultures can teach us as we seek to preserve threatened ecosystems.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC273H1 - The Body: An Exercise

Hours: 24S

This course will sketch the vital role of the drama of the human body, aspects of its performance, comedy, tragedy and death, through selected parts of history, in life and as reflected in "art".

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC275H1 - Creative Writing: Short Fiction

Hours: 24S

This course is for aspiring fiction writers who wish to deepen their craft. Each seminar will feature a lecture on technical issues such as plot and characterization, as well as an analysis of a short story by a classic writer. Students will write their own stories, with editorial input from the instructor.

Prerequisite: Application Required.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC279H1 - Creative Non-Fiction

Hours: 24S

This course examines the forms, style, aims, and ethics of non-fictional forms such as documentary writing, journalism, and life-writing. It combines the study of examples from contemporary media with exercises in writing non-fictional prose.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC280H1 - Creative Writing: Poetry

Hours: 24S

A workshop course (with a literature component) in writing poetry. Designed for those with a serious ambition to be writers as evinced in work they are already doing. The literature component emphasizes multicultural dimensions of contemporary writing in English.

Prerequisite: Application required

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC281H1 - Popular Music, Technology, and the Human

Hours: 24S

This course explores ways in which popular music, sound and sound technologies have influenced our understanding of the recent human condition. Drawing on a variety of theoretical perspectives, we consider the musical uses of technology as both a material culture and a set of distinctly innovative practices that can create powerful transformations of consciousness, meaning and value.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC350Y1 - Creative Writing

Hours: 48S

A workshop course (with a literature component) in writing fiction and poetry. Designed for those with a serious ambition to be writers as evinced in work they are already doing. Does not offer instruction for beginning writers. Presupposes perfect and sophisticated written language skills. The Literature component emphasizes multicultural dimensions of contemporary writing in English.

Prerequisite: Application Required. Preference given to fourth and third-year students.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC352Y1 - Love, Sex and Death in Short Fiction

Hours: 48S

This course will examine how a variety of international authors, both nineteenth century and modern, handle the themes of mortality, sexual passion and love in their short fiction. Particular emphasis will be placed on the artistry of the writers' presentation, the role of dialogue, the economy of narrative, etc. Students will read Chekhov, The Kiss, Lady with a Dog and Tolstoy, Master and Man but will also be exposed to such contemporary popular authors as Elmore Leonard, When the Women Come Out to Dance; Truman Capote, Mojave; Richard Ford, The Occidentals; Philip Roth, The Dying Animal; Ian McEwan, The Cement Garden; and David Bezmozgis, Natasha.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC370H1 - Music and the Imagination

Hours: 24S

This course explores how music creatively reflects and inspires our sense of self, place and community through readings, close listening, case studies, and creative responses. We consider various sites of musical imagination, and the genres that intersect with them. Course discussion addresses how music participates in the social life of creativity, imagination and fantasy, and what these roles mean for music's significance in society and culture. No prior experience in music composition required.

Prerequisite: Completion of 6.0 FCE

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC371H1 - Documentary Journalism

Hours: 24S

This seminar course looks at the history and evolution of documentary journalism in print and/or visual media through changing contexts, including challenges in the digital era. Students discuss major stories in the news, focusing on some important practitioners of the genre and on ethical issues such as privacy, objectivity, and partisanship.

Prerequisite: Completion of 6.0 FCE

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC372H1 - Reviewing, Reception, and Reading Communities

Hours: 24S

While readers and audiences often are considered to be cultural "consumers," this course will consider reception as an active, creative, and often collaborative activity, by examining formal and informal practices of reviewing and response that may include fan/fanfic cultures, book clubs, community and nation-wide reading programs, and award competitions. Such contexts of reception will be considered along with their social, economic, and ethical implications.

Prerequisite: Completion of 6.0 FCE

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC470H1 - Soundscapes

Hours: 24S

This course surveys the growth of the field of Acoustic Ecology and the aesthetic, political, and ethical questions it engages. Students learn about creative and musical practices associated with this new attention to sound, and they gain experience with the practice of field recording and sonic-environmental sampling. The course culminates with a final Soundscape composition or creative mapping project. No previous experience in sound recording or composition required.

Prerequisite: Completion of 9.0 FCE

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC479Y1 - The Novel: A Master Class

Hours: 48S

Advanced young writers in this fourth-year seminar work to produce a short novel appropriate for submission to an agent or a publisher. The class does not offer instruction for beginning writers. It is intended for serious writers interested in learning about writing novels at a professional level.

Prerequisite: Application required

Education and Society

VIC260H1 - Equity and Diversity in Education

Hours: 36L

This course focuses on raising awareness and sensitivity to equity and diversity issues facing teachers and students in diverse schools and cultural communities. It builds knowledge of how oppression works and how cultural resources and educational practices may be brought to bear on reducing oppression and improving equity. The field experience in this course entails observation of and participation in equity and diversity efforts in a culturally-rooted school and/or community organization.

Prerequisite: Enrolment in Education and Society Minor

Exclusion: JSV202H1, SMC271H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

VIC261H1 - Child and Adolescent Development in Education

Hours: 36L

This course examines how children and adolescents develop and explores how best to facilitate their growth and learning in the area of education. Major topics include cognitive, emotional, social, moral, physical and language development. Themes addressed include interpersonal relationships such as pro-social and aggressive behaviour, as well as the influence of schooling, family life and culture. This course includes a 20-hour field experience located in a school and entails observation of development across various age groups. This may be satisfied by participation in Vic Reach or in another organization with the approval of the Program Coordinator.

Prerequisite: Enrolment Education and Society Minor

Exclusion: JSV201H1, SMC272H1

Distribution Requirements: Science; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC262H1 - Communication and Conflict Resolution in Education

Hours: 36L

This course aims to develop an understanding of social conflict and cultural diversity. How does conflict act as a catalyst for change? What do socio-cultural, cognitive, and motivational approaches teach us about conflict? Topics include: effects of conflict, human rights principles, cross-cultural understanding.

Prerequisite: Enrolment in Education and Society Minor

Exclusion: JSV200H1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

VIC360H1 - Education Internship

Hours: TBA

Students are required to complete an internship in an educational environment. This can be satisfied by participation in an organization with the approval of the Program Coordinator. Written assessment of the internship is required. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Prerequisite: Enrolment in Education and Society Minor, VIC362H1/EDU311H1

Exclusion: VIC360Y1

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

VIC360Y1 - Education Internship

Hours: TBA

Students are required to complete an internship in an educational environment. This can be satisfied by participation in an organization with the approval of the Program Coordinator. Written assessment of the internship is required. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

VIC361H0 - A Study of Chinese Literature and Culture

Hours: TBA

This course will compare selected works of Chinese and Canadian authors with a view to the presentation of such writing in an educational setting.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC362H1 - Introduction to Teaching

Hours: 24S

Builds understanding of teaching as professional practice. The course primarily focuses on the research base underlying policies and documents such as the Foundations of Professional Practice.

Prerequisite: Enrolment in Education and Society Minor (Arts)

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

VIC363H1 - Teaching Math: The JUMP Approach

Hours: 24S

This course will challenge the widely accepted idea that people need to be born with a special gift or natural ability to excel in mathematics. New research in education and cognitive science suggests that young learners often struggle in school because they are not taught in a way that allows their brains to work efficiently. This course will examine barriers that prevent students from learning and methods of teaching that can help all students reach their full potential (not only in math). Math lovers and math phobic students are welcome: the course aims to help students develop deeper levels of confidence and understanding in mathematics so they can become effective teachers themselves.

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

Literature and Critical Theory

VIC202Y1 - Forms of Representation

Hours: TBA

This course explores representation as a cultural and political problem from antiquity to the modern era. Representation will be analyzed as a means of depicting or constructing reality and as a tool for constituting individual and collective subjectivity. We consider literary and other modes of representation in their historical contexts.

Exclusion: VIC201Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC203H1 - Empires I

Hours: 24L/12T

This course examines the literary and non-literary representations that accompany imperial conquests and hegemony from pre-modern times to the emergence of the modern nation-state. We compare the establishment, interpretation and reinvention of cultural forms of empire (e.g. Ottoman, Persian, Roman) at local, national, transnational and global levels.

Exclusion: VIC203Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC204H1 - Canons and Canonicity

Hours: TBA

This course will consider the problem of canons in a variety of contexts: the aesthetic (including the literary, visual arts and music), but also the religious, the political, the philosophical and other discursive forms. Special focus will be on the problem of the relations across these boundaries.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC205H1 - Empires II

Hours: 24L/12T

This course examines the literary and non-literary representations that accompany imperial conquests and hegemony from the emergence of the modern nation-state through more recent developments in globalization. We compare the establishment, interpretation and reinvention of cultural forms of empire (e.g. British, Japanese, Spanish) at local, national, transnational and global levels.

Exclusion: VIC203Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC301H1 - Critical Writing Seminar

Hours: TBA

This course is a writing intensive class devoted to the practice and analysis of critical writing. We will explore the critical tradition, the public(s) for whom one writes, and the choice of voice, point of view, and writerly form. The class will be structured around workshop style discussion and writing exercises.

Recommended Preparation: VIC202Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC302H1 - Past and Futures

Hours: TBA

An introduction to representations of history, in which we will consider concepts that turn on the problem of time such as tradition, periodization, genealogy, memory, crisis, revolution, eschatology, and utopia.

Recommended Preparation: VIC202Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC303H1 - Memory and Trauma

Hours: TBA

This course will explore the problem of memory in relation to both collective and individual trauma. What pressure does trauma place on language, and agency, and how does it figure in commemoration, narrative, monumentalization, and other modes of representing the past?

Exclusion: VIC309H1 as taken in 2011-2012, VIC310Y1

Recommended Preparation: VIC202Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC304H1 - Praxis and Performance

Hours: TBA

This course will explore what it means to "act" in cultural, political, religious, and psychological realms. We focus on the historically shifting relations between theory and practice, between artifice and agency, and between theatricality and spectatorship.

Recommended Preparation: VIC202Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Material Culture

VIC224H1 - Introduction to Material Culture

Hours: 12P/24S

This course is about things - the everyday objects of past and present cultures. It examines the meanings people have invested in objects and how those meanings have changed over time. Using interdisciplinary approaches, students investigate objects found in homes, retail spaces, cities, art galleries and museums in order to develop new understandings of the objects that structure their daily lives and their material world.

Prerequisite: Completion of 4.0 FCE

Exclusion: VIC111H1/VIC111Y1, VIC224Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC224Y1 - Introduction to Material Culture

Hours: 24P/48S

This course is about things - the everyday objects of past and present cultures. It examines the meanings people have invested in objects and how those meanings have changed over time. Using interdisciplinary approaches, students investigate objects found in homes, retail spaces, cities, art galleries and museums in order to develop new understandings of the objects that structure their daily lives and their material world.

Prerequisite: Completion of 4.0 FCE

Exclusion: VIC111H1/VIC111Y1, VIC224H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC225Y1 - A History of the World in Objects

Hours: 48L/24P

Through a multidisciplinary approach, this course opens new perspectives on the history of artifacts, the evolution of a world of things, and the analysis of material culture. Lectures and tutorials are supplemented by hands-on exercises in museums and local communities.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1); Society and its Institutions (3)

VIC229H1 - Special Topics in Material Culture

Hours: 24S

An in-depth examination of some aspect of Material Culture theory or practice. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Not offered every year.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC229Y1 - Special Topics in Material Culture

Hours: 48S

An in-depth examination of some aspect of Material Culture theory or practice. Content in any given year depends on instructor. Not offered every year.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC326H1 - The Material Culture of Food

Hours: TBA

This course explores the material cultures which form around food and foodways in contemporary culture. It looks at foods as objects of production and consumption and at the material landscapes (culinary tools, the geography of the kitchen and restaurant, the archives - recipes, cookbooks, menus - that home cooks or chefs use) in order to "expose" the social, cultural and political dimensions of cooking, entertaining and eating.

Prerequisite: Completion of 6.0 FCE

Exclusion: VIC229H1 taken in 2015-2016

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC327H1 - Digital Material Culture

Hours: 24S

This course explores the materiality of digital objects, from image and music files to digital documents to video games and other software, and considers their status as material culture. It involves the primary study of digital objects and also considers the technological infrastructures, cultural contexts, and signifying systems in which they are produced, circulated, and interpreted.

Prerequisite: Completion of 6.0 FCE

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC328H1 - Materializing Cultural Identities

Hours: 24S

Students examine the expression of cultural identities in objects. Students are taught to think critically about the construction, use, display, and exchange of objects with significance for cultural identity. In addition to lectures and discussions, students participate in guided visits to sites - everyday, ritual, institutional - where negotiation of identity through objects occurs.

Prerequisite: Completion of 6.0 FCE

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC329H1 - Internship in Material Culture

Hours: TBA

A practical or experiential learning opportunity under the supervision of a faculty member, normally at a museum, art gallery or other cultural agency (as approved by the supervisor). Not eligible for CR/NCR.

Prerequisite: Completion of 9 FCE; Enrolled in the Material Culture minor

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

VIC329Y1 - Internship in Material Culture

Hours: TBA

A practical or experiential learning opportunity under the supervision of a faculty member, normally at a museum, art gallery or other cultural agency (as approved by the supervisor). Not eligible for CR/NCR.

Prerequisite: Completion of 9 FCE; Enrolled in the Material Culture minor

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

VIC429H1 - Advanced Topics in Material Culture, Information Systems and Meaning-Making

Hours: 24S

Content varies depending on instructor. Selected issues are examined in depth and at an advanced level.

Prerequisite: VIC224Y1/VIC225Y1 and completion of 9 FCE; and permission of instructor

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC444H1 - Themes in Material Culture

Hours: 24S

This fourth year seminar, required for students pursuing a minor in material culture, will have opportunities to explore themes in material culture studies, museum exhibitions and collections as well as processes of object analysis in greater depth and at an advanced level. Specific topics and research projects will vary according to the interests and specialties of course instructors and students.

Prerequisite: VIC224Y1/VIC225Y1 and completion of 9 FCE; or permission of instructor

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

Renaissance Studies

VIC141H1 - Discovery and Revolution

Hours: 24S

This course examines the emergence of a global modern world in relation to the upheavals of the Renaissance (1350-1700) and its discoveries and innovations in culture and society. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: VIC141Y1; Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC142H1 - Machiavelli: The Politics of Power

Hours: 24S

The name of Machiavelli unleashes powerful opinions and responses and conjures up trickery, duplicity and cynicism. Yet Machiavelli himself is arguably the least Machiavellian of political figures of the Italian Renaissance. This course examines the writings of Niccol Machiavelli, placing them in their historical context in order to understand this most controversial figure of the Renaissance, his influence and his lasting legacy. Not eligible for CR/NCR option.

Exclusion: VIC141Y; Innis One, Munk One, New One, SMC One, Trinity One, UC One, Vic One, Woodsworth One; No more than another 0.5 FCE from 199 seminars or Vic One Hundred

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

VIC240Y1 - The Civilization of Renaissance Europe

Hours: 48L

An interdisciplinary introduction to the civilization of the Renaissance illustrated by a study of the institutions, thought, politics, society and culture of both Italy and Northern Europe. Italian city states such as Florence, Urbino and Venice, Papal Rome and despotic Milan are compared with the northern dynastic monarchies of France and England.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1); Society and its Institutions (3)

VIC241Y1 - Renaissance Icons and Afterlives

Hours: 48S

Focusing on famous works like Michelangelo's David, Shakespeare's Hamlet, Cervantes' Don Quixote, and Monteverdi's Orfeo, this course explores some of the greatest masterpieces of the European Renaissance and their afterlives, cross-cultural adaptations, and appropriations in later and modern popular culture.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1); Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC341H1 - The Self and Society: Women, Men and Children

Hours: 24S

A study of the changing conception of the human self in the Renaissance, and of its representation by major authors: Erasmus, Rabelais, Marguerite de Navarre, Castiglione, Machiavelli and others.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC342H1 - Women and Writing in the Renaissance

Hours: 24S

Focusing on writers from various geographical areas, the course examines a variety of texts by early modern women (for example, treatises, letters, and poetry) so as to explore the female experience in a literate society, with particular attention to how women constructed a gendered identity for themselves against the backdrop of the cultural debates of the time.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC343Y1 - Sex and Gender (formerly VIC343H1)

Hours: 48S

An interdisciplinary approach to questions of gender and sexuality in early modern Europe, with special focus on the representations of the sexual drive, the gender roles of men and women, and varieties of sexual experience in the literature and art of the period.

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3); Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

VIC344H1 - Renaissance Narrative (formerly VIC242H1)

Hours: 24S

Focuses on analysis of short stories and longer prose works including, in English translation: Boccaccio's stories of love, fortune and human intelligence in the Decameron; Rabelais' humorous parody of high culture in Gargantua; the tragic tale of Romeo and Juliet; and the adventures of picaresque rogues in Lazarillo de Tormes and Nashe's Unfortunate Traveler.

Exclusion: VIC242H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC345H1 - Media and Communications in the Early Modern Era

Hours: 24S

This course examines the various media (printing press, representational art, music, preaching) and social and political forces (family and political networks, censorship, education, etc.) that conditioned the communication of ideas in early modern society.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC346H1 - The Idea of the Renaissance

Hours: 24S

This course examines the changing views of the Renaissance, from the earliest definitions by poets and painters to the different understandings of contemporary historians. We will pay attention to the interests and biases that have informed the idea of the Renaissance as an aesthetic, social, political, gendered, and eurocentric phenomenon.

Prerequisite: Completion of 6.0 FCE

Recommended Preparation: At least one half course in the art, literature, history, or philosophy of fifteenth or sixteenth century Europe

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

VIC347H1 - Studies in Renaissance Performance (formerly VIC347Y1)

Hours: 24L

Studies in the development of new forms in music, drama and dance in the Renaissance. The course will consist of seminars and lectures, and may incorporate live performances taking place in Toronto in addition to recordings.

Exclusion: VIC347Y1

Introduction

For the past 40 years, we have trained students to think deeply about how gender and sexuality operate at the individual, interpersonal, institutional and global levels. Drawing from a range of disciplines such as history and literature, sociology and law, we enable students to answer urgent and complex questions, such as how militarization can constrict men's aspirations for their lives, why there are income disparities between women and men, how sexual expression is scripted and can be re-scripted, and even what Lady Gaga could have in common with Shakespeare. In addition to training students to traverse the stanzas of a poem and a government report with equal care and skill in their quests, we also focus attention on matters of scale: when to aggregate and when to parse significant distinctions, how to think comparatively across space and time.

The Women and Gender Studies Institute at the University of Toronto is distinctive for its transnational approach, critically addressing how national borders and nationalist discourses frame the constructions of gender and sexuality. We study the effects of migration, diaspora and wars on experiences of home and heritage, family, desire and selfhood. We provide students the conceptual tools to connect processes of imperialism and globalization with emergent economies and forms of labor and consumption. Finally, we encourage students to reflect on the varied histories of feminism when framing their own activism in the present.

Our graduates go on to do innovative work in the public service, creative, and corporate sectors, becoming everything from documentary film-makers to grassroots activists to policy analysts in economic development agencies. All of them draw on the critical lens they develop in this program, becoming part of a rich community of graduates who maintain their connections with one another, and who come back to the classroom where they once were students to share their experiences.

Women and Gender Studies Courses

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study. Details can be found at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/fyh-1/.

100-Series Courses

WGS160Y1 is subject to certain enrolment restrictions. During the first (P) round of enrolment on ACORN, priority is given to Specialists, Majors and Minors in Women and Gender Studies. Please refer to the Arts & Science Registration Instructions and Timetable at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course> for course enrolment procedures.

Women and Gender Studies Courses

WGS160Y1 - Introduction to Women and Gender Studies

Hours: 48L/24T

An integrated and historical approach to social relations of gender, race, class, sexuality and disability, particularly as they relate to women's lives and struggles across different locales, including Canada.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1); Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

WGS260H1 - Texts, Theories, Histories (formerly WGS262H1/WGS262Y1)

Hours: 24L/12T

Examines modes of theories that shaped feminist thought and situates them historically and transnationally so as to emphasize the social conditions and conflicts in which ideas and politics arise, change and circulate.

Exclusion: WGS262H1/WGS262Y1

Recommended Preparation: WGS160Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

WGS271Y1 - Gender in Popular Culture

Hours: 48L

A critical examination of institutions, representations and practices associated with contemporary popular culture, mass-produced, local and alternative.

Exclusion: WGS271H1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

WGS273H1 - Gender & Environmental (In)Justice (formerly WGS273Y1)

Hours: 48L/24T

Using a transnational, feminist framework, this course examines material and conceptual interrelations between gendered human and non-human nature, ecological crises, political economies and environmental movements in a variety of geographical, historical and cultural contexts. Does environmental justice include social justice, or are they in conflict? What might environmental justice and activism involve?

Exclusion: WGS273Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

WGS275H1 - Men and Masculinities

Hours: 24L/12T

Examines how masculinities shape the lives of men, women, transgender people. Effects of construction, reproduction and impact of masculinities on institutions such as education, work, religion, sports, family, medicine, military and the media are explored. Provides critical analysis of how masculinities shape individual lives, groups, organizations and social movements.

Recommended Preparation: WGS160Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

WGS280H1 - Special Topics in Women and Gender Studies

Exclusion: WGS272H1/WGS272Y1

Recommended Preparation: WGS160Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

WGS385H1 - Gender and Neoliberalism

Hours: 24L

Reviews major feminist transnational, Marxist and Foucaultian approaches to the study of neoliberalism. Adopts a comparative, historical and global approach to the ways that gender is implicated in state restructuring, changing roles for corporations and non-governmental organizations, changing norms for personhood, sovereignty and citizenship, and changing ideas about time/space.

Recommended Preparation: WGS160Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

WGS386H1 - Gender and Critical Political Economy

Hours: 24L

Offers a critical analysis of political economy, its historical and contemporary contentions and the ruptures that open the space for alternative theorizing beyond orthodox and heterodox thinking, by inserting gender and intersecting issues of power, authority and economic valorization across multiple and changing spheres: domestic, market and state.

Recommended Preparation: WGS160Y1; WGS273Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

WGS395H1 - Indigeneity(s), hub spaces and decolonization

Hours: 24L

Examines practices emerging from Indigenous hub spaces where complex Indigeneities are negotiated and mobilized for social change. Students will analyse practices rooted in Indigenous feminism, and performance (including Indigenous hip-hop culture), as acts of decolonization; and explore their manifold expressions within Indigenous new media and other forms of community-based activism.

Recommended Preparation: WGS160Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

WGS396H1 - Writing the Body

Hours: 24L

Examines the ways in which bodies are lived and enscribed and represented through a variety of genres. Students will work through issues of corporeality and materiality in the production and reception of texts and will practice embodied writing on a personal level through in-class workshops and written assignments.

Exclusion: WGS332H1: Writing the Body

Recommended Preparation: WGS160Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

WGS397H1 - The Politics of Girlhood

Hours: 24L

The course communicates the growing field of "girl studies" and provides a critical exploration of the historical, social, psychological and political definitions attached to girlhood. We will move toward a feminist understanding of how definitions of girl-child shape individual experience, historical narratives, cultural representations, political agendas and futures.

Exclusion: WGS335H1: The Politics of Girlhood

Recommended Preparation: WGS160Y1

Distribution Requirements: Humanities; Social Science

Breadth Requirements: Thought, Belief and Behaviour (2)

WGS420H1 - Asian/North American Feminist Issues

Hours: 24L

A transpacific examination of issues that have directly and indirectly shaped the feminist and other related critical inquiries in Asia and among the Asian diasporas in Canada and the United States.

Prerequisite: WGS160Y1, one full course at the 300+ level in WGS, and one half course in WGS.

Distribution Requirements: Humanities

Breadth Requirements: Society and its Institutions (3)

WGS426H1 - Gender and Globalization: Transnational Perspectives

Hours: TBA

Critically examines current interdisciplinary scholarship on globalization, its intersections with gender, power structures, and feminized economies. Related socio-spatial reconfigurations, 'glocal' convergences, and tensions are explored, with emphasis on feminist counter-narratives and theorizing of globalization, theoretical debates on the meanings and impacts of globalization, and possibilities of resistance, agency, and change.

Prerequisite: WGS160Y1, one full course at THE 300+ level in WGS, and one half course in WGS.

Exclusion: WGS463H1, fall session 2009

Distribution Requirements: Social Science

Introduction

Woodsworth College is named in honour of James Shaver Woodsworth (1874-1942), minister, pacifist, social activist and Member of Parliament, who was strongly committed to broadening educational opportunities for all. The College traces its roots to 1905, when a part-time program leading to the Bachelor of Arts degree was established at the University of Toronto. In 1920 the Department of University Extension was organized to offer credit and non-credit courses. Woodsworth College was formally constituted in 1974 to offer credit courses primarily for part-time students in a number of faculties. In 1999 the College opened its doors to students proceeding directly from high school to full-time studies. Woodsworth College is now home to nearly 6000 students who enrol in the full range of Arts and Science courses and programs leading to Bachelor of Arts, Science or Commerce degrees.

Woodsworth College offers an exceptional range of programs for current students as well as for those seeking post-graduate opportunities. Woodsworth College is the home of Woodsworth One, First-Year Seminars, the Summer Abroad, TESOL Certificate and THE500 programs. Woodsworth College is also the home of two major access programs: The Millie Rotman Shime Academic Bridging Program and the Diploma to Degree Facilitated Transfer Program.

A special feature of Woodsworth College is the outstanding academic support it provides to students. These services include academic counseling, financial aid, study skills seminars, mentoring programs, the Academic Writing and Math Aid Centres, and Learning Strategists.

Centres Affiliated with Woodsworth College

In 2013, the undergraduate Criminology and Employment Relations programs became integrated with the graduate programs at the Centre for Criminology and Sociolegal Studies and the Centre for Industrial Relations and Human Resources respectively. The continuing relationship between the Centres and Woodsworth College helps to foster ongoing academic excellence for program students as they continue to benefit from the rich academic support services and facilities available at the College. Woodsworth College remains the home of the Undergraduate Program Office and the Criminology and Sociolegal Studies and Employment Relations undergraduate students' associations.

Woodsworth College Programs

Listed in this order:

- Woodsworth One
- First-Year Seminars
- Summer Abroad Programs
- Millie Rotman Shime Academic Bridging Program
- Diploma to Degree

Woodsworth One

Woodsworth One offers first-year students an intellectually challenging introduction to university-level studies, and builds students' sense of community within Woodsworth College and across the University of Toronto as a whole. It is designed to complement other first-year courses, thereby enhancing academic success in the first year and beyond. Woodsworth One promotes the development of strong critical thinking, information literacy, oral and written communication skills, and awareness of both the distinctive nature of particular academic disciplines and the practices and values common to all academic work.

Students take two half-credit seminars – one in each term – and participate in weekly co-curricular activities. Seminars are capped at 25 students to maximize opportunities for participation and to promote close contact with both the instructor and fellow students. The emphasis is on class discussion and problem-based learning. Students participate in role-playing games, simulations, debates and more. The co-curricular activities include field trips, film screenings, guest speakers, writing and research workshops, and test-taking seminars.

Woodsworth One has two streams, both of which take an interdisciplinary approach to their topics, drawing on a wide range of Social Sciences and Humanities perspectives. The Order and Disorder stream focuses on the role of laws, values, government policies, trade, and innovation in creating and disrupting both social and global order. The Popular Culture Today stream examines the products of the entertainment industry and the social behaviours associated with their consumption, exploring how popular culture works and what it means.

The Woodsworth One team is dedicated to supporting students' transition to university life, and to guiding their academic planning. In addition to the Program Coordinator, course instructors, and teaching assistants, the team includes the College Writing Centre, the College Learning Strategist, a dedicated Registrar, a program administrator, and student mentors. Each member of the team seeks to create a strong sense of community and to set students up for academic success.

Woodsworth One is geared towards first-year students enrolled in Social Sciences and Humanities within the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. In keeping with Woodworth College's tradition of open access, there is no incoming grade requirement. Applicants must submit an application that is available on our website.

Students participating in any other One program are excluded from Woodsworth One.

First-Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide first-year students with the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. Each Seminar focuses on specific disciplinary or interdisciplinary issues, questions or controversies of particular interest to the instructor, and introduces the students to the excitement of discovery inherent in academic work at the University of Toronto. In addition, students are encouraged to develop their ability to think analytically and to express ideas and logical arguments clearly and coherently, both orally and in writing. A list of current 199 Woodsworth College course offerings is available here.

Summer Abroad Programs

Students can prepare themselves for a future in the global village by participating in a Summer Abroad program and complete a University of Toronto course overseas in three to six weeks. These programs are designed to enrich students' academic lives by providing an exciting and educational international experience. Learning is not limited to the classroom; students will observe and experience many of the things they study, including the language, history, culture, art, religion, business, and politics of the host country.

Millie Rotman Shime Academic Bridging Program

The Academic Bridging Program is designed for individuals who have been away from formal education for some time and do not meet the University's established requirements for direct entry admission. These courses are intended to help ease the transition into first-year university courses in Humanities and Social Sciences after time away from prior education. Both part-time and full-time options are available to students. Students who successfully complete the Academic Bridging Program, earning a grade of 63% or above, are admitted to the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto, with one full credit towards their degree for those who complete the part-time Academic Bridging Program. Students who complete the full-time program may transfer up to two full credits towards their degree.

wdw.utoronto.ca/bridging

Diploma to Degree

The Diploma to Degree program is a pathway to university studies for students completing a two-year liberal arts diploma at one of our partner institutions, including George Brown College, Humber College and Seneca College.

The Diploma to Degree Program is a facilitated transfer program into Woodsworth College in the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto. The program is designed for students to transfer into programs in the social sciences and humanities with up to 6 transfer credits and retained credits from courses completed at the University of Toronto.

To be eligible for transfer, students must:

- Complete the 2-year diploma with a minimum 3.0 GPA
- Receive a recommendation from your college
- Have a minimum grade of 60% in a qualifying course at the University of Toronto.

Writing in the Faculty of Arts & Science

The ability to think critically and to write well-organized, clear, grammatical prose is important to your work in Arts and Science courses. It will also improve your chances if you apply to graduate or professional schools and will give you an advantage in the workplace. To help you develop your writing skills, Arts and Science provides a range of instructional resources.

NOTE: For courses in creative writing, see entries under “English” (ENG), “Innis College” (INI), and “Victoria” (VIC) in this Calendar.

Courses

Departments and programs integrate writing instruction into many of their courses, and some offer courses that concentrate on communication in their disciplines. Check the course listings by department.

Your course instructors and teaching assistants will provide guidelines for written assignments. They will often offer instruction in class and give you the opportunity to ask questions before assignments are due. You may ask them to discuss work that has been graded and returned to you.

In addition, the university offers several courses in writing effective essays:

- ENG100H1 (Effective Writing) is listed under “English” in this Calendar
- JEI206H1 (Writing English Essays) is listed under “English” and “Innis College”
- TRN190Y1 (Critical Reading and Critical Writing) is listed under “Trinity College”

Innis College offers a minor program called Writing and Rhetoric. It reflects the belief that strong skills in critical thinking and written communication are central to a liberal education. It is built on a foundation of long-standing Innis courses in academic and creative writing and on more recently mounted courses in professional writing, rhetoric, and media. Visit course listings under Innis College in this Calendar.

Victoria College offers a minor program called Creative Expression and Society. It has two components: (1) workshop-style courses allowing students to develop skills in creative expression and communication, and (2) courses encouraging students to analyze the relationship between creative arts and society. Visit course listings under Victoria College in this Calendar.

The University of Toronto at Mississauga (UTM) offers a major and minor program in Professional Writing and Communication. The University of Toronto at Scarborough (UTSC) offers a major and minor program in Creative Writing. Consult with your college registrar about taking courses at either campus, and see the UTM and UTSC calendars for more detail about courses offerings.

English Language Learning Opportunities

The English Language Learning \(ELL\) Program offers undergraduates in Arts and Science a variety of ways to develop both oral and written communication. For its intensive non-credit summer course, see the entry for ELL011H1E, Intensive Academic English, listed under “English Language Learning” in the calendar. During the fall and winter terms, programming includes free drop-in workshops using a variety of interesting activities to improve speaking, and also an online component for improving academic reading and writing.

Writing Centres

The writing centres at undergraduate colleges will help you develop the writing and critical thinking skills you need throughout your university studies. They offer, free of charge, both group and individual instruction.

Group instruction is offered through both in-course instruction and a series of workshops called Writing Plus. These intensive group workshops help prepare you to meet the expectations of university writing. They cover all stages of writing university papers, from understanding the assignment to revising the final draft. They also provide targeted advice for handling your reading load and the challenges of studying for tests and exams. Special sessions focus on writing admissions statements for graduate and professional programs. Dates and locations are listed online in the Writing Plus section of www.writing.utoronto.ca.

In individual consultations, trained writing instructors help you improve your ability to plan, write, and revise, focussing on course writing assignments of your choice. Instructors are familiar with writing conventions in the whole range of Arts and Science courses; many have specialized training in teaching students whose first language is not English. You are entitled to use the writing centre of the college where you are registered. Most colleges also allow students from other colleges to book appointments for writing assignments in a college program course. All the college writing centres use an online booking system that requires your UTORid for login. More information is available in the Writing Centres section of www.writing.utoronto.ca. Here is a list of Arts and Science writing centres.

- French Department Writing Labs: ask your professor or inquire at 416-926-2302
- Innis College Writing Centre, Rooms 315 and 322
- New College Writing Centre, Wilson Hall, Rooms 2045 and 2047
- Philosophy Department Writing Clinic, Jackman Humanities Building, Room 422.
- St. Michael's College Writing Centre, Kelly Library, Learning Commons
- Trinity College Writing Centre, Larkin Building, Room 302
- University College Writing Centre, Laidlaw Library, Rooms 214, 216, and 218
- Victoria College Writing Centre, Northrop Frye Hall, Rooms 103A and 103B
- Woodsworth College Academic Writing Centre, Room 214

Writing Resources

Campus libraries stock many reference guides for academic writing, some of them online. You will find both general handbooks on style and referencing, and guides on writing in specific disciplines. You can also consult the Advice section of the website Writing at the University of Toronto at www.writing.utoronto.ca. It contains short files addressing common issues in academic writing along with links to other useful online and print resources.

Message from the Dean

Welcome to the 2017-2018 academic year.

The Faculty of Arts & Science Calendar is your guide to the wide range of academic choices available to you. With over 300 undergraduate programs and 4,000 courses to choose from, you have a chance to pursue what you've always wanted to study as well as discover new interests. As a student in Arts & Science, you have the flexibility to assemble your degree the way you want – combine different subjects by doing majors and minors, or focus on a specific area by completing a specialist program. In addition, the Faculty's Foundational Year, Research Opportunities and Summer Abroad Programs provide our students unique learning experiences at different stages of their degree. While such choice is exciting, it can also be somewhat overwhelming! Please remember that there are many people who work in Arts & Science whose job it is to help you select your courses and programs based on your interests and goals. Your first stop for such advice is always your college registrar's office and I encourage you to take advantage of their expertise.

Besides the supports and services available at your College, the Faculty and the University at large, you have access to a number of online tools to help you succeed. Use Degree Explorer (degreeexplorer.utoronto.ca) to check your academic progress and plan your future course choices. Access past sessions' course evaluation results on BlackBoard (portal.utoronto.ca) and find out what other students had to say about these courses. Of course, whether you are in first or fourth year, there's more to life as a student than your courses. You can explore the variety of ways to get involved outside the classroom on the Co-Curricular Record database (ccr.utoronto.ca). We wish you all the best for the year and as always, we welcome your feedback and suggestions about what we can do to improve your experience as a student in Arts & Science. Just email us at ask.artsci@utoronto.ca.

Sincerely,

David Cameron, FRSC

Dean & Professor of Political Science

Important Notices

The undergraduate academic Calendar of the Faculty of Arts & Science is published online only. Any corrections and/or updates will be posted here. Students are strongly advised to check the Calendar regularly to keep informed of changes.

While Departmental counsellors and the Registrars of the Colleges are always available to give advice and guidance, it must be clearly understood that THE ULTIMATE RESPONSIBILITY RESTS WITH THE STUDENT for completeness and correctness of course selection, for compliance with prerequisite, co-requisite requirements, etc., for completion of Program details, for proper observance of the Breadth or Distribution Requirement and for observance of regulations, deadlines, etc.

Students are responsible for seeking guidance from a responsible officer if they are in any doubt; misunderstanding, or advice received from another student will not be accepted as cause for dispensation from any regulation, deadline, program or degree requirement.

Degrees Offered on the St. George Campus

Effective for students registering in a degree program in the Faculty for the first time in the 2001 summer session or later, ONLY 20-course (four-year) Honours B.A., B.Sc. and BCom degrees will be available. The St. George Campus of the Faculty of Arts and Science has discontinued the 15-course (three-year) B.A. and B.Sc. degrees. Students registered in a degree program in the Faculty before the 2001 summer session may still choose a 15-course (three-year) degree.

Changes in Programs of Study and/or Courses

The programs of study that our Calendar lists and describes are available for the year(s) to which the Calendar applies. They may not necessarily be available in later years or offered in all years. If the University or the Faculty must change the content of programs of study or withdraw them, all reasonable possible advance notice and alternative instruction will be given. The University will not, however, be liable for any loss, damages, or other expenses that such changes might cause.

For each program of study offered by the University through the Faculty, the courses necessary to complete the minimum requirements of the program will be made available annually. We must, however, reserve the right otherwise to change the content of courses, instructors and instructional assignments, enrolment limitations, pre-requisites and co-requisites, grading policies, requirements for promotion and timetables without prior notice.

Regulations and Policies

As members of the University of Toronto community, students assume certain responsibilities and are guaranteed certain rights and freedoms.

The University has several policies that are approved by the Governing Council and which apply to all students. Each student must become familiar with these policies. The University will assume that he or she has done so. The rules and regulations of the Faculty are listed in this Calendar. In applying to the Faculty, the student assumes certain responsibilities to the University and the Faculty and, if admitted and registered, shall be subject to all rules, regulations and policies cited in the Calendar, as amended from time to time.

All institution-wide University policies can be found at: http://www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/Governing\_Council/policies.htm

Those which are of particular importance to students are:

- Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters
- Code of Student Conduct
- University Assessment and Grading Practices Policy
- Policy on Official Correspondence with Students

More information about students' rights and responsibilities can be found at <http://life.utoronto.ca/get-help/rights-responsibilities/>

Enrolment Limitations

The University makes every reasonable effort to plan and control enrolment to ensure that all of our students are qualified to complete the programs to which they are admitted, and to strike a practicable balance between enrolment and available instructional resources. Sometimes such a balance cannot be struck and the number of qualified students exceeds the instructional resources that we can reasonably make available while at the same time maintaining the quality of instruction. In such cases, we must reserve the right to limit enrolment in the programs, courses, or sections listed in the calendar, and to withdraw courses or sections for which enrolment or resources are insufficient. The University will not be liable for any loss, damages, or other expenses that such limitations or withdrawals might cause.

Copyright in Instructional Settings

If a student wishes to tape-record, photograph, video-record or otherwise reproduce lecture presentations, course notes or other similar materials provided by instructors, he or she must obtain the instructor's written consent beforehand. Otherwise all such reproduction is an infringement of copyright and is absolutely prohibited.

Note that where such permission is granted by the instructor, materials reproduced are for the student's individual private use only, not for further reproduction or publication.

In the case of private use by students with disabilities, the instructor's consent will not be unreasonably withheld.

Person I.D. (Student Number)

Each student at the University is assigned a unique identification number. The number is confidential. The University strictly controls access to Person I.D. numbers. The University assumes and expects that students will protect the confidentiality of their Person I.D.'s.

Fees and Other Charges

The University reserves the right to alter the fees and other charges described in the Calendar.

Notice of Collection of Personal Information: Freedom of Information and Privacy Act

The University of Toronto respects your privacy.

Personal information that you provide to the University is collected pursuant to section 2(14) of the University of Toronto Act, 1971.

It is collected for the purpose of administering admissions, registration, academic programs, university-related student activities, activities of student societies, safety, financial assistance and awards, graduation and university advancement, and reporting to government.

The University is also required to report student-level enrolment-related data to the Ministry of Training, Colleges and Universities as a condition of its receipt of operating grant funding. The Ministry collects this enrolment data, which includes limited personal information such as Ontario Education Numbers, student characteristics and educational outcomes, in order to administer government postsecondary funding, policies and programs, including planning, evaluation and monitoring activities.

At all times it will be protected in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act. If you have questions, please refer to www.utoronto.ca/privacy or contact the University Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Coordinator at McMurich Building, room 104, 12 Queen's Park Crescent West, Toronto, ON, M5S 1A8.

Admission

Detailed admission requirements are contained in the University of Toronto Undergraduate Admissions Bulletin, which is available on the Enrolment Services web site, on the University's web site for future students, or through the Faculty of Arts & Science Student Recruitment Office.

Minimum Admission Requirements

The Faculty of Arts & Science is home to a rich and varied student body. Although most of our students are from Southern Ontario, we have students from every province of Canada and from over 90 foreign countries. We encourage application by qualified students from outside Ontario and outside Canada. Detailed information about admission requirements is available on the Enrolment Services web site (www.adm.utoronto.ca). The specific average or standing required for admission varies from year to year.

English Facility Requirement

Applicants whose first language (language learned at home as a child) is not English may have to present proof of English facility. For details, see the Enrolment Services web site.

Other Admission Categories

Admission with Transfer Credit

Candidates with acceptable standing at other universities, or at other divisions of this University, may be considered for admission with transfer credit provided that the content of the studies for which credit is sought is considered appropriate for inclusion in a degree program offered by the Faculty. Transfer credits are assessed to admitted students who have completed the online Transfer Credit application (www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/tc/onadmission). A $30.00 CAD fee will be required for transfer credit assessment to be completed.

Students who have completed more than two years of study at a recognized university cannot transfer into the same field of study and will be considered as equivalent to those who already hold a degree. Students who have completed a bachelor's degree: see section entitled "Admission of External Students to a Second Degree Program" in the next section. The Faculty grants up to a maximum of five credits to candidates who have completed a three-year diploma at Ontario Colleges of Applied Arts and Technology/Institutes of Technology and Advanced Learning, and up to a maximum of three generic credits to candidates who have completed a two-year diploma at Ontario Colleges of Applied Arts and Technology/Institutes of Technology and Advanced Learning. Otherwise a maximum of ten transfer credits may be granted for previous study. Students who have completed post-secondary studies are required to apply for on-admission transfer credit.

Regardless of the number of transfer credits granted, at least five of the six 300+series courses required for an Honours degree must be completed with a passing mark in this Faculty. Newly admitted students have one year from the date of their transfer credit assessment, or from the date of their first registration in the Faculty, whichever is later, to request a reassessment or adjustment. The same time limit applies to all departmental interviews required as part of the transfer credit assessment.

Candidates who have completed Arts & Science courses while enrolled in other Divisions of this University or while enrolled as non-degree students in this Faculty prior to degree studies will normally have these courses and grades included in the Arts & Science academic record. Business rules apply.

Admission from the University of Toronto Mississauga and the University of Toronto Scarborough

Candidates admitted for transfer from the University of Toronto Mississauga and the University of Toronto Scarborough will have all University of Toronto Mississauga or University of Toronto Scarborough courses, grades, Credit/No Credit requests, LWD requests, and grades included in their Arts & Science academic record, and will have Faculty rules and regulations applied to these; e.g., academic status, degree regulations, Dean's List. Note: a limit of six 100-level/A-level credits is applied. All 300+ level credits may apply to the 6.0 requirement for the degree in the Faculty of Arts & Science. Students admitted to Arts & Science may not retain University of Toronto Mississauga or University of Toronto Scarborough programs, whether complete or incomplete. Only Arts & Science programs may be used to complete degree requirements in the Faculty.

Students who have completed more than 10 UTM/UTSC full course equivalents towards an Arts & Science degree are not eligible to transfer to the Faculty of Arts & Science.

Admission "On Probation"

Candidates who fail to satisfy the Faculty's admission requirements, but successfully appeal for special consideration of the circumstances which have affected their studies at other universities, or other Faculties or Schools of this University including the University of Toronto Scarborough and the University of Toronto Mississauga, may be admitted On Probation. The academic requirements that such students must meet are the same as those required of students who encounter academic difficulties while registered in the Faculty. The academic status will be "On Probation" until the session in which the student achieves a final mark in any course (or a grade of FL% in a Pass/Fail course), at which time a further status will be assigned. Refer to Section Six, Rules and Regulations: Academic Status, in this Calendar. Students admitted On Probation may be at risk of academic suspension from the Faculty and are strongly urged to consult their college registrar for appropriate counselling before registering and if necessary, during the course of their studies.

Admission as a Non-Degree Student

Non-degree students are registered in the Faculty but are not proceeding towards a degree offered by the Faculty. Most Non-degree students have completed a degree and are taking further courses for their own purposes, including admission to graduate studies. Students admitted as degree students cannot become Non-degree students unless they have completed an Honours or Four Year degree. Note that not all privileges extended to degree students are extended to non-degree students (e.g., CR/NCR). To apply for admission as a Non-degree student, visit the Enrolment Services web site.

Students admitted as degree students and transferred to other universities should re-register at their College of last registration if they wish to return to the Faculty. The home university may still require a valid Letter of Permission in order to assess studies done at the University of Toronto for transfer credit.

Admission of External Students to a Second Degree Program

Applicants with a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science or equivalent from another university who wish to complete a second undergraduate degree in the Faculty of Arts & Science may apply for admission to a second degree program. It is not possible to complete a second undergraduate degree in the same field as the first degree. Those who are admitted will be granted a maximum of one year of transfer credit (5 full credit courses) - four at the 100 level and one at the 200 level. Before applying, external candidates are urged to determine whether a second degree is actually required for their purposes; for example, a "make-up" year as a non-degree student may satisfy admission requirements for a graduate program. Students who have completed post-secondary studies are required to apply for on-admission transfer credit. For admission and application information, visit the Enrolment Services web site at www.adm.utoronto.ca.

Admission as Non-Degree Visiting Students

Students with valid Letters of Permission from other accredited North American universities who have not been officially admitted to the Faculty of Arts & Science may register as visiting students at Woodsworth College, taking courses for transfer credit at their home university. Non-degree visiting student registration does not imply acceptance as either a student proceeding towards a degree or a non-degree student. Students will receive grade point averages and status as outlined in the Rules and Regulations section, and will have the consequences of these applied to them (e.g., probation and suspension for poor academic performance). Students must observe Faculty policies, including the prohibition on repeating a "passed" course. For application information and deadlines, please visit www.wdw.utoronto.ca/visit.

Admission as International Non-Degree Visiting Summer Students

Students with valid Letters of Permission from recognized international universities who have not been officially admitted to the Faculty of Arts & Science may register as visiting students through the International Summer Program (ISP) at Woodsworth College. Students take summer courses for transfer credit at their home university. Non-degree international visiting student registration does not imply acceptance as either a student proceeding towards a degree or a non-degree student. Students will receive grade point averages and a status. Students must observe Faculty policies, including the prohibition on repeating a "passed" course. For application information and deadlines, check the International Summer Program web site at www.isprogram.utoronto.ca.

Admission as Non-Matriculant Student

Candidates who do not meet the published admission requirements may qualify for various humanities and social science programs through either the Academic Bridging Program or the Transitional Year Programme.

The Academic Bridging Program is predominantly a part-time program (with a full-time option for students who qualify) intended for Canadian citizens/permanent residents/protected persons (convention refugees) who do not hold the published admission requirements to qualify for degree studies. Detailed information, including applications and deadlines for the Academic Bridging Program is available through the Academic Bridging Program, Woodsworth College, website at www.wdw.utoronto.ca/bridging.

Students restricted to a reduced course load on admission from the Academic Bridging Program may take no more than 2.5 courses over the Fall-Winter Sessions. They may take a maximum of 1.0 course in the Summer Session. See also Number of Courses Taken ("Course Load"). If these students wish to transfer to full-time studies, they may apply through their College Registrar after the session in which they pass the fourth course in the Faculty with a minimum cumulative Grade Point Average of 2.50. Candidates who have achieved the minimum required grade of 63% in the Bridging course for admission to the Faculty of Arts & Science may count the Bridging course towards their degree.

The Transitional Year Programme (TYP) is designed for those who could not finish high school because of financial constraints, family difficulties or other circumstances beyond their control. It is a one-year, full-time program leading toward admission into an Arts & Science degree program. Detailed information is available through www.utoronto.ca/typ.

Admission of Senior Citizens

Canadian citizens or permanent residents of Canada who are at least sixty-five years of age by the first day of the term may register in the Faculty at Woodsworth College as part time non-degree students. They do not have to meet the academic requirements for admission. Applicants can find more information here: uoftme.seniors

Re-Registration in the Faculty

Students who were previously registered as degree or non-degree students in this Faculty, who have completed at least one course in the Faculty, and who wish to return after an absence must submit a "Request for Re-registration Form" (charge $25) through their college registrar's office. Re-registration is necessary for students who have not registered in this Faculty within the previous 12 months.

Students who were previously registered in the Faculty but who did not achieve final standing (e.g. a final grade or CR/NCR) in at least one course must re-apply for admission through the Ontario Universities Application Centre.

Students with outstanding accounts may not re-register at the University until these accounts are paid. See the Office of Student Accounts website at www.fees.utoronto.ca for payment information; for payment deadlines, check the Registration Instructions.

"Request for Re-Registration" forms should be submitted at least one week prior to the fall/winter enrolment window for your year of study (see the Registration Instructions for details). Prior to course selection you will need to make sure you are enrolled in an appropriate combination of programs for your degree. It is advisable for you to make arrangements to see a counsellor at your college to go over changes in policies and procedures as well as to clarify the degree requirements you are following.

"Request for Re-Registration" forms can be accepted until mid-August for Fall/Winter enrolment although space in courses will be limited at this point.

Students who previously studied as non-degree visiting students do not request re-registration. They must submit a new visiting student application and valid letter of permission through Woodsworth College (see the section on "Admission as Non-Degree Visiting Students" above for details).

Admission to Other University of Toronto Faculties/Programs

Many professional studies require completion of one or more years of study in Arts & Science before you apply to them. For detailed admission and contact information on professional studies, please refer to www.artsci.utoronto.ca/futurestudents/academics/professional.

Student Services & Resources

Academic & Personal Counselling

The Colleges

Every Arts & Science student is a member of a college. Think of your college as your home in the familiar neighbourhood that is the university. All the colleges provide advising and support services for students. Academic advising, as well as counselling on financial and personal matters, is available through your college registrar's office. Also, each college provides its students with academic support services such as writing centres, math aid centres, libraries and computer facilities. And remember, no matter which college you belong to, you have access to all the courses and programs offered in Arts & Science.

The Registrar's Office of each student's college is the focal point for information and advice of all kinds, and should be consulted as soon as any problems of an academic or personal nature are encountered.

Students with complaints or problems relating to the teaching of courses (lectures, tutorials, evaluation, work-load, etc.) that they cannot resolve with the instructors concerned, can obtain advice and assistance either from the Associate Chair/Undergraduate Secretary of the particular Department, or from their College Registrar.

The Departments and College Program offices should be consulted for advice on courses and programs they sponsor. They also have web sites giving more details of courses and programs than is possible in the Calendar. First-year students are particularly urged to consult program sponsors during the Fall-Winter Session for details on enrolling in programs. (All students must enrol in at least one Specialist or two Majors or one Major + two Minor program(s) upon passing four courses.)

Students registered in Divisions other than Arts & Science who have problems with Arts & Science courses should go for advice either to the departmental Undergraduate Secretary or to the registrar of their own Faculty or School.

Office of the Faculty Registrar

The Office of the Faculty Registrar works closely with departments and colleges concerning virtually all matters relating to Arts & Science students: it coordinates counselling, registration and enrolment, student records, transfer credit, petitions, final examinations and graduation. The Office of the Faculty Registrar, located in Sidney Smith Hall, 100 St. George Street, Room 1006, can provide general information about registration and enrolment, course listings, building and classroom locations, etc. It is also the location of the University of Toronto Transcript Centre, which produces transcripts for all divisions of the University.

You can also get useful information about Arts & Science from the Faculty Registrar's web site (www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current). In addition, if you have questions about any aspect of your undergraduate experience, you can e-mail the Faculty Registrar at ask@artsci.utoronto.ca.

Services and Programs for Students

Academic Support

Your college registrar is a reliable first-stop whenever you have questions, concerns or are facing issues that are getting in the way of your success.

The writing centres in each of the colleges provide free individual consultations with trained writing instructors, who will help you to plan, write, and revise your essays, focusing on course writing assignments of your choice. Instructors are familiar with writing conventions in the whole range of Arts & Science courses; many have specialized training in teaching students whose first language is not English. You are entitled to use the writing centre of the college where you are registered as well as to book appointments at other colleges for help with program courses. Writing Centres also provide help with admissions letters for graduate or professional schools. www.writing.utoronto.ca/writing-centres/arts-and-science

Writing Plus is a series of group workshops covering all stages of writing university papers, from understanding the assignment to revising the final draft. Some workshops also provide targeted advice on general study skills and on the specific challenges of studying for tests and exams. Special two-hour sessions focus on writing admissions statements for graduate and professional programs. www.writing.utoronto.ca/writing-plus

The English Language Learning (ELL) Program is designed to help multilingual students achieve the high level of English required for top academic work at U of T. Our activities are free and non-credit. All sessions are taught by highly qualified instructors from the college writing centres. In May and in August of each year, ELL offers an intensive non-credit course, ELL011H1F, Intensive Academic English. During the Fall and Winter terms, ELL offers free, online academic writing instruction through the Reading eWriting activity, as well as on-site Communication Cafes which focus on academic discussions and oral presentations. www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/advising/ell

Academic Success is here to help you manage academic expectations and gain confidence in your learning. Develop and strengthen your skills in time management, self-management, reading, writing, note-taking and exam preparation. Build coping skills to deal with stress, anxiety, procrastination and perfectionism. Make an appointment with a learning strategist at the front desk or call 416-978-7970. Drop-in hours and first year study sessions with peer mentors are also available. asc.utoronto.ca.

If you have a disability, Accessibility Services is your home base for support. It is important to contact the office as soon as you are accepted to U of T so that accommodations for your needs are in place before classes start. All information about your disability is confidential and won't be shared with units outside of Accessibility Services without your consent. accessibility.utoronto.ca. 455 Spadina Ave., Suite 400; 416-978-8060.

At First Nations House, the Aboriginal Learning Strategist can help students develop their research, essay writing and study skills. Students can also get connected to academic support in specific fields of study, such as math and science. fnh.utoronto.ca. 563 Spadina Av. 3rd Fl.; 416-978-8227.

If you're facing challenging personal circumstances that are affecting your academic performance, there are many resources available to help you build coping skills and develop learning strategies. Visit www.healthandwellness.utoronto.ca for details.

Careers

Want to learn how to tap into the hidden job market, maximize your LinkedIn profile or meet professionals working in careers you are interested in? Check out Career Exploration & Education! They have a range of workshops, events and career exploration programs like the Extern Job Shadowing Program, Explore It and In the Field that connect you with professionals working in a variety of careers. You can also drop in and meet one of their Peer Career Advisors or visit the Career Learning Network (cfn.utoronto.ca) for hundreds of on and off-campus, paid and volunteer positions. careers.utoronto.ca 214 College St. Main Fl.; 416-978-8000.

International students must get a work permit if they wish to work off campus, are required to work in a co-op placement as part of their program or want to work in Canada after graduating. Contact the Centre for International Experience for assistance with work and post-graduation work permit applications. cie.utoronto.ca 33 St. George St.; 416-978-2564.

Diversity & Equity

Diversity and equity are fundamental values at the University of Toronto. Students from every background are supported by policies and resources that help create an inclusive environment and one that actively works against discrimination.

The Sexual and Gender Diversity Office offers support and information to students who are "out" or questioning their sexual orientation or gender identity. The office also works with students, faculty and staff to provide training and education on issues related to sexual diversity, anti-heterosexist programming, and events and programs for the LGBTQ community at U of T. www.sgdo.utoronto.ca. 21 Sussex Av. Suites 416-417; 416-946-5624

The Tri-campus Sexual Violence Prevention and Support Centre supports members of the University community in understanding the University's Policy on Sexual Violence and Sexual Harassment; facilitates access to support, services and accommodations for students, staff and faculty members who have experienced sexual violence; and provides training and education on preventing and responding to sexual violence. For more information, or to connect with Centre staff. Visit <https://www.thesvpcentre.utoronto.ca/>, call 416-978-2266, or email: thesvpcentre@utoronto.ca. Centre locations: University of Toronto, Mississauga 3094G, Davis Building; University of Toronto, St. George 702 Spadina Avenue; University of Toronto, Scarborough Room: 141, Environmental Science & Chemistry Building.

The Status of Women Office aims to improve the status of all women by identifying and removing barriers and inequities. www.status-women.utoronto.ca. 27 King's College Circle; 416-978-2196.

The Anti-Racism and Cultural Diversity Office provides complaint management and resolution for issues related to discrimination or harassment based on race, ancestry, place of origin, religion, colour, ethnic origin, citizenship or creed. You are also welcome to contact the office if you are seeking a forum to discuss ideas that will strengthen U of T's diverse community and its commitment to an equitable environment. www.antiracism.utoronto.ca. 215 Huron St.; 416-978-1259.

U of T's Multi-Faith Centre was created to provide a place for students, staff and faculty of all spiritual beliefs to learn to respect and understand one another. The Centre facilitates an accepting environment where members of various communities can reflect, worship, contemplate, teach, read, study, celebrate, mourn and share. multifaith.utoronto.ca 569 Spadina Av.; 416-946-3120.

Accessibility Services provides services and resources to students with all types of disabilities, such as physical, sensory, medical, mental health, learning and temporary. accessibility.utoronto.ca 455 Spadina Ave., Suite 400; 416-978-8060.

Family Life

The Family Care Office provides free confidential information, guidance, referrals, resources and advocacy for students, staff, faculty and their families. You can take advantage of free workshops, support groups and seminars. The Resource Centre contains practical information on a broad range of family care issues, from pregnancy and infant care to lesbian and gay parenting, from special needs children to caring for elderly family members. www.familycare.utoronto.ca. 214 College St. Main Fl.; 416-978-0951.

Community Safety

The Community Safety Office addresses personal and community safety issues for students, staff and faculty across all three campuses. The office provides assistance to students, staff and faculty who have had their personal safety compromised, develops and delivers educational initiatives addressing personal safety, promotes and delivers self-defense courses on campus, and coordinates and responds to critical incidents on campus. www.communitysafety.utoronto.ca. 21 Sussex Av. 2nd Fl.; 416-978-1485.

Community Service

Your learning experience is by no means limited to the campus. There are many reasons to volunteer in the University of Toronto community or for one of the hundreds of causes in the Greater Toronto Area — you'll not only gain invaluable skills that will better prepare you for the working world but also become more well-rounded and enjoy the fulfillment of helping others.

At U of T we provide you with opportunities to get involved in community work through volunteer postings, the Centre for Community Partnerships, volunteer chapters, volunteer fairs and initiatives led by student groups.

Regularly checking volunteer postings is the perfect way to get a feel for the wide range of opportunities that exist. Whether you're looking for experience in a specific area or are hoping to get ideas on how broaden your horizons, feel free to review postings throughout the school year. Off-campus volunteer jobs are posted on the Career Learning Network at the Career Centre. On-campus volunteer jobs are posted on Ulife.

The Centre for Community Partnerships: ccp.utoronto.ca 569 Spadina Av.; 416-978-6558.
Career Learning Network (Career Centre): cln.utoronto.ca. 214 College St.; 416-978-8000.
Ulife: www.ulife.utoronto.ca.

Rights & responsibilities

The University of Toronto respects and upholds all students' rights but also entrusts you with certain responsibilities and expects you to be familiar with, and follow, the policies developed to protect everyone's safety, security and integrity. <http://uoft.me/rights>.

U of T is committed to fairness in its dealings with its individual members and to ensuring that their rights are protected. In support of this commitment, the Office of the University Ombudsperson operates independently of the administration, being accountable only to the Governing Council, and has unrestricted access to all University authorities. <http://ombudsperson.utoronto.ca>. 416-946-3485.

Faith & Spirituality

The University of Toronto's Multi-Faith Centre was created to provide a place for students, staff and faculty of all spiritual beliefs to learn to respect and understand one another. The Centre facilitates an accepting environment where members of various communities can reflect, worship, contemplate, teach, read, study, celebrate, mourn and share. The Centre is also home to the offices of the Campus Chaplains Association and offers facilities, such as a main activity hall for large events, a meditation room with a "living wall" for quiet contemplation and meeting spaces. multifaith.utoronto.ca 569 Spadina Av.; 416-946-3120.

Housing

If you need help finding housing, the staff at Housing Services can help you. Use your JOIN/UTORid to log in and discover:

- the off-campus housing finder for more than 10,000 listings near U of T campuses with pre-approved landlords looking for student tenants
- the roommate finder to help connect you with other students looking for shared housing

On the Housing website you'll find useful information about:

- residence and Student Family Housing
- housing fairs to help connect you with other students, meet landlords and schedule viewings
- resources to help you deal with landlord and roommate conflicts
- info on tenant rights and responsibilities and more

housing.utoronto.ca. 214 College St., Student Success Centre, Rm. 150, 416-978-8045.

Health & Wellness

Wellness refers to your overall physical, emotional, intellectual, spiritual and social condition, not simply the absence of illness. So when you're not feeling your best, the friendly team at the Health and Wellness Centre offers a wide range of services to support you in achieving your personal and academic best.

The Health and Wellness Centre offers students similar services as a family doctor's office. The Health and Wellness team includes family physicians, registered nurses, counsellors, psychiatrists, a dietician, and support staff that provide confidential, student-centred health care, including comprehensive medical care, immunization, sexual health care, counselling and referrals. Services are available to all full- and part-time students who possess a valid TCard and have health insurance coverage. healthandwellness.utoronto.ca 214 College St. 2nd Fl.; 416-978-8030.

Professional Experience Year (PEY)

The Professional Experience Year (PEY) Internship Program provides students with an opportunity to gain industry experience in a field related to their academic program. The PEY program consists of a 12 – 16 month, full-time paid internship, beginning between May and September and ending the following year. The length of the internship allows sufficient time for students to undertake substantive projects and to be involved in challenging and productive work. As a result of the experience, students return to their studies with a greater understanding of their discipline from a practical, hands-on perspective. Students registered in the PEY program also participate in an intensive student development program, consisting of a variety of small and large group workshops, as well as individual career counselling appointments tailored to each student's needs and goals. The objective is for students to acquire knowledge and gain insight that will remain invaluable to their ongoing career development, beyond the academic years.

Students who join PEY are required to pay a fee upon registration, and those who secure an internship also must pay a placement fee, which is applied to the student's ROSI account in July/August. Students will then be registered in the PEY course. Neither the application fee, nor the placement fee is refundable. Part-time incidental fees will also apply, to maintain student status and the accompanying benefits. Tuition fees are not paid for the period that the student is on their internship. Students who secure a PEY internship must return to full-time studies following the completion of their 12 – 16 month internship.

Registration in the PEY program is open to eligible, full-time Arts & Science and Engineering students, in their 2nd or 3rd year of studies. Students must be in good academic standing and must have any outstanding balances paid in full. Due to the time commitment of the PEY program, the CGPA should be above 2.0 for the September registration. If you do not meet this 2.0 CGPA recommended minimum, we suggest focusing first on your studies, and registering for PEY in the following term in January.

For detailed PEY eligibility requirements and program timelines, please visit the Engineering Career Centre/PEY Office website at www.engineeringcareers.utoronto.ca or call 416-978-6649, 416-978-3881.

The Jack McClelland Writer-in-Residence

Each year the University appoints a well-known Canadian writer to work with students, faculty and staff interested in creative writing. For further information, contact the Department of English, 416-978-3190 or see www.english.utoronto.ca/facultystaff/wir.htm.

Student Unions and Associations

The Arts and Science Students' Union (ASSU)

The Arts and Science Students' Union (ASSU) represents the academic concerns of over 24,000 full-time undergraduates in the Faculty of Arts & Science on the St. George Campus. ASSU is an umbrella organization with over 65 student Course Unions. Getting involved with a Course Union is the best way to be directly involved in your education and it's an excellent way to meet other students in your discipline. ASSU offers many services including past term tests, locker rentals, photocopying, faxing and cheap pop. ASSU organizes speakers, free coffee days, EXAM JAM and runs a volunteer tutoring program called Project: Universal Minds, where university students go into local high schools and tutor students in English, Maths and Sciences. ASSU also awards many financial needs bursaries and extra-curricular involvement scholarships. Also, if you have any problems with your courses or instructors go to the ASSU office and discuss your options in complete confidence. ASSU is in Room 1068 Sidney Smith Hall; telephone 416-978-4903.

E-mail: students.assu@utoronto.ca

Web site: assu.ca

Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/assu.uoft>

The Association of Part-Time Undergraduate Students (APUS)

All part-time undergraduate students at the University of Toronto are members of APUS. The role of the Association is to ensure its members have access to a broad range of services, programmes and resources within the University. This is achieved by acting as a voice for part-time students across three campuses of the University and all levels of government. APUS offers a number of scholarships and bursaries, as well as other cost-saving services and events and programming to part-time students throughout the year. The APUS office, in Room 1089 of Sidney Smith Hall, is open days and evenings during the summer and winter sessions. For more information, please contact us via telephone 416-978-3993, send an e-mail to info@apus.ca or visit our website www.apus.ca.

First-Year Learning Communities

The First-Year Learning Communities (FLCs) program in the Faculty of Arts & Science is designed to improve the transitional experience for first-year students. FLCs (pronounced "flicks") provide first-year students with the opportunity to meet classmates, develop friendships, form study groups, and develop academic and personal skills, as well as introduce students to the resources, opportunities, culture, and treasures of the campus and its surrounding community. There is no cost to participate in the FLC program and students who successfully complete the program will receive a non-academic notation on their transcript.

The 25 students in each FLC will be enrolled in some of the same courses and will meet regularly outside of class time for valuable and engaging activities. Each FLC group is facilitated by an upper-year student Peer Mentor and an Assistant Peer Mentor, under the guidance of a faculty advisor, as well as a staff Advisor (from the college, department, or program); these individuals are the FLC Team. Some of the interesting and fun topics that may be covered in FLC meetings include: time management, study skills and strategies, community learning, academic integrity, getting involved on campus, mastering tests and exams, choosing a program of study, and career explorations. There will also be social activities and much more! Students interested in joining the FLC program should be motivated to learn and develop themselves personally and socially, as well as academically. You can find more detailed information about the FLC program on the FLC website: www.flc.utoronto.ca.

There are FLCs in eight academic areas of study: actuarial science, commerce, computer science, economics, life sciences, math, humanities, and social sciences.

Awards

For students with particularly noteworthy academic results, there are three specific forms of recognition:

Recognition of Exceptional Academic Achievement: "Dean's List Scholar"

This designation is given at the end of the Fall/Winter or Summer session to Faculty of Arts & Science degree students who complete their fifth, tenth, fifteenth, or twentieth degree credit* in the Faculty with a Cumulative Grade Point Average of 3.50 or higher.

*The following courses are included in this credit count for the Dean's List:

- Faculty of Arts & Science courses (H1/Y1/H0/Y0) completed for degree credit;
- Courses in other divisions (e.g. UTM, UTSC, SGS, etc.) completed for degree credit while registered as a student in the Faculty of Arts & Science;
- Retained Credits: Arts & Science courses (H1/Y1/H0/Y0) completed while registered as a student in another University of Toronto division (e.g. UTM/UTSC);
- Courses completed with a final standing of "CR" or "P" which meet the criteria above.

Excluded from this credit count for the Dean's List are:

- Transfer Credits from secondary school (e.g. AP, IB, GCE, etc.) and/or other post-secondary institutions;
- Other division courses (e.g. UTM, UTSC, etc.) completed while registered as a student in a division other than the Faculty of Arts & Science;

- Courses designated "Extra" on a student's academic record;
- Courses with a final grade of 49% or below, "F" or "NCR";
- EDU courses taken as part of the Concurrent Teacher Education Program (CTEP).

A "Dean's List Scholar" notation is automatically added to each qualifying student's transcript in late July (for those who satisfy the criteria at the end of the Fall/Winter session) and in late October (for those who satisfy the criteria at the end of the Summer session). There is no monetary value. Students who satisfy the criteria but do not receive a transcript notation by the dates above for the appropriate session should write to the Faculty Registrar, Faculty of Arts & Science, Sidney Smith Hall, 100 St. George St., Toronto ON, M5S 3G3 or at ask@artsci.utoronto.ca. Dean's List Scholar notations are not applied at the end of the Fall term.

Recognition of Exceptional Academic Achievement: "High Distinction" and "Distinction"

Students who graduate with a Cumulative GPA* of 3.50 or above are described as graduates "With High Distinction". This achievement is noted on the diploma and transcript.

Students who graduate with a Cumulative GPA* of 3.20 to 3.49 are described as graduates "With Distinction". This achievement is noted on the diploma and transcript.

* Note: the Cumulative GPA must be based on at least 5.0 credits taken for Faculty of Arts & Science degree credit.

Faculty Scholarships

The Faculty offers many academically-based scholarships and other awards to exceptional degree students. Full details of these scholarships are available on the Faculty web site at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/scholarships.

International Opportunities for Arts & Science students

Explore your own world!

Because they will navigate a knowledge economy shaped by globalization, Arts & Science students must have unprecedented fluency across cultural, business, social and political spheres. We encourage you to integrate international perspectives into your academic career at UofT. Learn a foreign language, study abroad, participate in an international field school, or conduct research outside of Canada, all of these options and more are available to you. For more information, please see: uoft.me/artsci-international. Looking for something closer to home? Check out opportunities through the Centre for Community Partnerships (www.studentlife.utoronto.ca/ccp).

Faculty of Arts & Science-Funded International Programs

Director: Pamela Klassen, Vice-Dean, Undergraduate and International Administrative Contacts:
 Mary-Priscilla Stevens, Director, International Programs and Partnerships
fas.internationalprograms@utoronto.ca
 Deborah Shaw, Teaching and Learning, deb.shaw@utoronto.ca (416-978-0359)

In an effort to provide opportunities to as many students as possible, for Faculty of Arts & Science funded programs priority will be given to those students who have not previously received funding for these programs. All participants must be current Arts & Science (St. George) degree students in good standing, and their eligibility must be confirmed by the Dean's Office prior to acceptance to the international program. Participation in a Faculty-funded program does not affect participation in Summer Abroad or student exchange opportunities.

International Course Module

The Faculty of Arts & Science's International Course Modules (ICM) program provides an opportunity for faculty members to incorporate an intensive international experiential module into the framework of existing undergraduate courses. The ICM is designed to enhance students' classroom learning in a wide range of areas through the application of course content to relevant settings and communities around the globe. ICMs are selected in late May and take place over Reading Week the following November or February. Students' participation in the ICM is incorporated into their final course grade. In many cases, ICM participants share their experiences with the wider Arts & Science community through publications, presentations or web-based resources.

Locations: Courses and locations for Reading Week 2017 will be posted in June on the International Programs and Partnerships website and in the Calendar for each course that includes an ICM.

Courses: Past ICMs have examined the role of political changes in the Republic of Georgia, geologic evolution and mining in Spain, historical biography in Uganda and urbanization in China.

Cost: The Faculty of Arts & Science provides funding for students and faculty airfare, accommodation and local transportation.

Eligibility: A limited number of ICMs are available and the program is only available to undergraduate Arts & Science (St. George) degree students enrolled in the course(s) in which the module is proposed.

Application: To apply for this year's ICMs, please refer to the course listing for that ICM. If you are interested in working with a faculty member to create an ICM for a course, please consult the International Programs and Partnership website for further information.

For further information please contact: MP Stevens, Director, International Programs and Partnerships at fas.internationalprograms@utoronto.ca or Deborah Shaw at deb.shaw@utoronto.ca (416-978-0359)

Research Excursions Program

The Research Excursions Program provides an opportunity for Arts & Science degree students (St. George) beginning their third year (i.e., after completing at least 9 but not more than 14 credits) to participate in a practical or experiential research project under the supervision of an Arts & Science faculty member. The research component can take the form of research/learning in archives, laboratories, libraries, or in a field camp, etc.—but not in a classroom at another university (that is covered by the Faculty's summer abroad and exchange programs). The projects run within the May-August period, when both Faculty and students would be able to make the time commitments necessary. Regular tuition fees apply. The Faculty of Arts & Science will cover travel expenses.

Locations: Research Excursions for each summer are listed on the Current Students website: <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399/summer-2017-projects/index>. Please refer to this list for locations, descriptions and application details.

Courses: Please see the list of current Research Excursions at the Current Students website.

Cost: The Faculty of Arts & Science provides funding to cover students' airfare, accommodation and related costs. Research Excursions carry academic credit and regular tuition costs apply.

Eligibility: Students must be St. George Campus, Arts & Science, degree students who have completed at least 9 full course equivalents, but no more than 16 at the time of the Research Excursion; and meet any course prerequisites stated in the project description.

Application: Students apply directly to the Research Excursion faculty supervisor. Applications are available on the Research Excursion Program website (<http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/399/summer-2017-projects/index>).

For further information please contact: MP Stevens, Director, International Programs and Partnerships at fas.internationalprograms@utoronto.ca or Deborah Shaw at deb.shaw@utoronto.ca (416-978-0359)

Dean's International Initiatives Fund

The Dean's International Initiatives Fund (DIIF) supports the development of new and creative international activities in areas of need not already addressed by existing programming (Research Excursions Program, International Course Modules, Undergraduate Research Fund, Summer Abroad, Canadian Friends of Hebrew University, etc.). The goal of the DIIF is to leverage Faculty resources to provide a broad range of new and innovative international opportunities for undergraduate students.

Locations: Locations for DIIF projects have been around the world, but most often take place in locations that are not available through other UofT or Faculty of Arts & Science international programs.

Courses: DIIF projects may be for academic credit or co-curricular, but must be academically focused.

Cost: Funding is available to students and faculty members through a competitive application process. The Faculty of Arts & Science provides funding to cover students' airfare, accommodation and related costs.

Eligibility: A limited number of DIIF projects are available each year and the program is only available to undergraduate Arts & Science (St. George) degree students. Students must be currently enrolled or demonstrate their intention to return to UofT for further study at the time of the DIIF project.

Application: Students may apply for funding through their academic department, program or College. Application details are available at the International Programs and Partnerships website.

For further information please contact: MP Stevens, Director, International Programs and Partnerships at fas.internationalprograms@utoronto.ca or Deborah Shaw at deb.shaw@utoronto.ca (416-978-0359)

Faculty of Arts and Science/Canadian Friends of Hebrew University Endowment Fund

The Canadian Friends of Hebrew University/Faculty of Arts and Science Endowment Fund was established by the Faculty in partnership with the Canadian Friends of Hebrew University (CFHU) and U of T to promote innovative student-based programs, courses or initiatives that support student activities involving Hebrew University. A portion of this funding is also available in the form of awards for students undertaking research or other individual projects at Hebrew University.

Locations: Hebrew University, Jerusalem, Israel

Courses: CFHU Endowment Fund projects may be for academic credit or co-curricular, but must be academically focused.

Cost: Funding is available to students and faculty members through a competitive application process. The Faculty of Arts and Science CFHU Endowment Fund normally covers students' airfare, accommodation and related costs.

Eligibility: A limited amount of funding is available each year and the program is available to undergraduate or graduate Arts & Science (St. George) degree students or faculty members with a continuous undergraduate appointment to the Faculty of Arts & Science. Students must be currently enrolled or demonstrate their intention to return to UofT for further study at the time of the DIIF project. Please note that the Centre for International Experience provides funding from a separate fund for students interested in student exchange at Hebrew University.

Application: Students may apply for funding through their academic department, program or College. Application details are available at the International Programs and Partnerships website. Award information is available at the Scholarships with a March 16 Deadline page.

For further information please contact: MP Stevens, Director, International Programs and Partnerships at fas.internationalprograms@utoronto.ca.

Undergraduate Research Fund

The Undergraduate Research Fund (URF) is funded jointly by the Arts & Science Students' Union (ASSU) and the Faculty of Arts & Science. It provides funding for students to develop a research project of their own, for which there is no other available funding. The fund is open to all Arts & Science undergraduate students in good academic standing and no minimum GPA is required. Research projects must be initiated by students, related to their degree, and supervised by a faculty member either through a regular course, an independent study, a research essay, or other academic project.

Locations: Open, URF projects can be in Canada or locations internationally.

Courses: Research projects may be incorporated into a regular course, an independent study, a research essay, or other academic project.

Cost: The URF provides basic funding to support student research.

Eligibility: must be current undergraduate degree student(s) in the Faculty of Arts & Science and must be registered as such during the period in which the research will be conducted; must be in good academic standing;

Application: For application forms and further information, please see the URF website: www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/scholarships/undergraduate-research-fund

For further information please contact: Office of the Faculty Registrar

Summer Abroad

The Summer Abroad programs are designed to enrich students' academic lives by providing an exciting and educational international experience. Students complete full-year University of Toronto undergraduate degree credit courses from the Faculty of Arts & Science that are relevant to each location. Relatively small classes (about 25 students on average) are taught by University of Toronto professors or faculty from the host university. All classes, with the exception of language courses, are taught in English. The program is run through Woodsworth College.

Locations: the 2017 programs are offered in:

- Central Europe (based in the Czech Republic)
- China (Beijing and Tianjin)
- China (Hong Kong)
- China (Shanghai and Beijing)
- Ecuador (Amazon, Galápagos, Andes)

- England (Oxford)
- France (Tours)
- Georgia (Gadachrili Gora)
- Germany (Berlin)
- Greece (Thessaloniki)
- Grenada
- Ireland (Maynooth)
- Italy (Siena)
- Japan (Tokyo)
- South Africa (Cape Town)
- South Korea (Seoul)
- Spain (Seville)
- Science Abroad (China, Hungary, Switzerland, Taiwan)

Check the Summer Abroad web site in the fall to see the 2018 program list!

Courses: Students take specially designed University of Toronto undergraduate degree credit courses, relevant to the location, for a period of 3 to 6 weeks. The courses have field trips that complement and highlight the academic materials. Courses are taught predominantly by University of Toronto professors and, with the exception of language courses, are offered in English. Typically, full-year second and third year courses are offered in disciplines such as history, political science, management, literature, film, architecture, fine art, religion, and languages. The Science Abroad program allows students in various science disciplines to earn a full-year research credit while gaining laboratory experience overseas. Most courses do not have prerequisites.

All Summer Abroad courses and grades show on students' transcripts as regular U of T credits and are calculated into their CGPA.

Cost: Costs for Summer Abroad courses vary depending on the location and activities involved in the course. A detailed breakdown of the costs is available for each program. Financial aid is available for most programs. The application deadline for awards offered through Woodsworth College is February 13. A number of awards and bursaries are administered through the Summer Abroad Office. summerabroad.utoronto.ca/costs/

Eligibility: All University of Toronto students in good standing are eligible to apply. Students from other universities are also welcome to apply. All students must meet the program admissions requirements in order to participate. In addition, three programs require a minimum CGPA at the time of application. summerabroad.utoronto.ca/eligibility/

- UofT students who have completed one or more courses must have a CGPA of at least 1.50 at the time of application;
- First-year students with no final grades yet may also apply;
- Students on Academic Probation or Suspension at the time of application are not eligible to participate.

Application: Applications are available in early January. The application deadline for all programs is February 13. Late applications will be accepted if space and time permit.

International Student Exchange

International Student Exchange allows you to experience new cultures and languages in an academic setting while earning credits towards your U of T degree. UofT offers student exchanges at over 149 partner institutions in 41 countries. UofT's international student exchange program is run through the Centre for International Experience \(CIE\). Whatever your academic program and interests, the CIE has a student exchange opportunity that will fit your needs. Programs vary from a few weeks long to as much as a full year.

- International student exchange is U of T's traditional program for students looking to go abroad. Exchanges may be for one term or a full year or summer, and most are open to both undergraduate and graduate students. Students participating in an exchange will have their credits finalized for transfer upon their return.

- Research exchange opportunities offer laboratory research experience at a partner institution. Give your academic career an edge – work in a foreign lab, learn new research techniques, and network with professors and graduate students from our carefully selected partner universities.
- Joint Minor programs allow you to complete part of a specialized minor (Nanoscience, Biology, Asian Geography or Asian Literature and Cultures) at National University of Singapore.

Locations: UofT offers student exchanges at over 149 partner institutions in 41 countries. Use the CIE International Opportunities search tool (uoft.me/gointernational) to discover all of our partner institutions around the world!

Cost: When you go on exchange, you pay your U of T tuition plus incidental fees, along with the cost of living abroad. While on exchange, you are still eligible to receive government assistance such as OSAP. There are also many specific scholarships and bursaries run by various U of T offices. CIE administers a needs-based bursary program. For information on costs and funding, see www.studentlife.utoronto.ca/cie/funding-costs.

Eligibility: In general, U of T students who have completed at least one year of full-time studies, with a minimum CGPA of 2.25 are eligible to apply. A few exchange programs do have higher GPA cutoffs, and others have special language requirements. www.studentlife.utoronto.ca/cie/outbound-exchange-eligibility

Transfer Credit: Once nominated for exchange, you are required to attend a mandatory pre-departure Transfer Credit Information Session. You are eligible to participate in up to three terms of exchange. You can arrange your exchange semesters in multiple ways — a full year and additional semester or three consecutive summers or three separate semesters in up to three locations. The maximum amount of transfer credits you may earn through exchange is 7.5 (provided you don't have more than 2.5 transfer credits already on admission or on Letter of Permission). Studying at another institution does bring a degree of academic risk. Although the Faculty of Arts & Science cannot guarantee that the courses you choose will receive full credit, we will do our best to ensure you receive a fair assessment. www.studentlife.utoronto.ca/cie/outbound-academic-credit

Application: Applications for most programs are due early December to late February, but you should always check the CIE website regarding the specific exchanges that interest you. www.studentlife.utoronto.ca/cie/outbound-apply

Degree Requirements

In the requirements below the word “course” means one full course equivalent (FCE) — a “full course” or two “half-courses”; in the Programs and Courses section, “full courses” are listed as Y1 courses, and “half-courses” are listed as H1 courses.

The Faculty of Arts & Science offers the following degrees, all of which are Honours degrees:

- Honours Bachelor of Arts
- Honours Bachelor of Science
- Bachelor of Commerce (jointly with the Rotman School of Management)

The Faculty also offers:

- Language Citation

Honours Bachelor of Arts/Honours Bachelor of Science

General Degree Requirements

Please note: in the requirements below the word “course” means one full-course equivalent (FCE).

To qualify for an Honours Bachelor of Arts (Hon.B.A.) or Honours Bachelor of Science (Hon. B.Sc.), you must:

(a) Obtain standing (i.e., complete with a grade of 50% or more or CR) in at least 20 courses (FCEs) that meet the following criteria:

1. No more than six courses (FCEs) may be 100-series.
2. At least six courses (FCEs) must be 300+series courses (no more than one 300+series transfer credit may be counted towards these six, with the exception of transfer credits attained through a U of T exchange program).
3. No more than fifteen courses (FCEs) may have the same three-letter designator (“AST”, “ENG”, etc.). Courses beyond this limit will not be included in the 20 courses required for the degree, but will be counted in all other respects.

(b) Complete one of the following program requirements

- One specialist program (which includes at least one course (FCE) at the 400-level) OR
- Two major programs, which must include at least 12 different courses (FCEs) OR
- One major and two minor programs, which must include at least 12 different courses (FCEs) OR
- Students registered in the Faculty before the 2000-2001 session may also complete three minor programs, which must include 12 different courses (FCEs); this option is discontinued for students registering for the first time in 2000-2001 and thereafter.

Note: whether you receive an Hon. B.A. or an Hon. B.Sc. depends on the program(s) you complete; see Program Requirements, below.

(c) Regarding Breadth and Distribution Requirements:

- For students who began degree studies in the Faculty of Arts & Science in September 2010 or after: complete the new Breadth Requirement OR
- For students who began degree studies in the Faculty of Arts & Science prior to September 2010: complete the Distribution Requirement.

(d) Obtain a Cumulative GPA of 1.85 or more by the time of graduation. Students who meet all the requirements for the Hon.B.A./Hon.B.Sc. except for the GPA requirement may elect to graduate with a B.A./B.Sc. degree provided they are In Good Standing (i.e., CGPA is 1.50 or more).

Discontinued Degrees and Upgrading

Effective for all students registered for the first time in a degree program in the Faculty of Arts & Science for the summer 2001 session and thereafter, the St. George Campus of the Faculty has discontinued the 15 course (three-year) B.A. and B.Sc. degrees. Students registered in a degree program in the Faculty before Summer 2001 may still choose a 15-course (three-year) degree; these students should consult their College Registrar's Office.

Students with a B.A. or B.Sc. who return to upgrade that degree to an Hon. B.A. or Hon. B.Sc. must exchange the B.A. or B.Sc. for an Honours degree. A B.A. leads only to an Hon. B.A.; a B.A. CANNOT be upgraded to an Hon. B.Sc., and a B.Sc. CANNOT be upgraded to an Hon. B.A. Students who upgrade to an Honours degree are not eligible to attend the convocation ceremony for the upgrade.

Different degree regulations apply to students who first registered in the Faculty before Winter Session 1992; these students should consult their College Registrar.

Graduation

There are two graduation periods: June and November. Students must request graduation using ACORN or in their College Registrar's Office as they are not automatically assessed for graduation. Graduation requests must be submitted by the deadline specified in the Sessional Dates section of the Calendar. Prospective graduands should check Degree Explorer (<https://degreeexplorer.utoronto.ca>) at the end of March (for June graduation)/late September (for November graduation) to see if their programs have been confirmed by the relevant department(s) or program office(s). They should also check Degree Explorer at the end of May/late October for confirmation of their eligibility for graduation by the Office of the Faculty Registrar.

For students graduating in June, only courses completed by the end of the preceding winter term (ending in April) will be assessed for graduation. For students graduating in November, only courses completed by the end of the preceding summer session (ending in August) will be assessed for graduation.

Prospective graduands should receive an email from the Office of Convocation providing details of the convocation ceremony in late March/mid-October. An email will be sent from the Office of the Faculty Registrar in late May/late October to students who have a request for graduation confirming their eligibility.

Recognition of Exceptional Academic Achievement: “High Distinction” and “Distinction”

Students who graduate with a Cumulative GPA* of 3.50 or above are described as graduates “With High Distinction”. This achievement is noted on the diploma and transcript.

Students who graduate with a Cumulative GPA* of 3.20 to 3.49 are described as graduates “With Distinction”. This achievement is noted on the diploma and transcript.

* Note: the Cumulative GPA must be based on at least 5.0 credits taken for Faculty of Arts & Science degree credit.

“Second Degree” Requirements

Students who have graduated with a degree from the Faculty of Arts & Science must contact their college by June 30 to begin a second degree. Before applying, students are urged to determine whether a second degree is actually required for their purposes; for example, a “make-up” year as a non-degree student may satisfy admission requirements for graduate school. Students are governed by the rules of the Faculty in place at the time they commence their second degree. Students who already hold a degree from the Faculty of Arts & Science, the University of Toronto Scarborough or the University of Toronto Mississauga may complete a second degree only of an alternate type (i.e. if a student has an Honours Bachelor of Arts degree then he/she may not complete a second Honours Bachelor of Arts degree). The Faculty normally exempts students from the first year of the degree requirements (five (5.0) transferred/retained credits: four 100-level and one 200-level), regardless of the number of previous degrees held. Second degree candidates may not repeat courses taken in a previous degree; they may, however, count such courses towards satisfying pre-requisite and program requirements, on approval of the department/programs office concerned. A new admission POST and a new grade point average will commence with the second degree courses.

Program Requirements

Completion of a program of study is only one part of the general degree requirements. Variations made in program details for individual students do not in any way affect degree requirements.

Please note: in the requirements below the word “course” means one full-course equivalent (FCE).

Meaning of “Program”

Programs are groupings of courses in one or more disciplines; these groupings are listed with each college or department entry in the “Programs and Courses” section of this Calendar.

Levels of programs are:

- Specialist Program: a sequence of between 10 and 14 courses (FCEs) in one or more disciplines (note that some interdisciplinary Specialist programs may require up to 16 courses). Specialist programs must include at least four 300+series courses (FCEs), one of which must be a 400-series course (FCE).
- Major Program: a sequence of between 6 and 8 courses (FCEs) in one or more disciplines. Major programs must include at least two 300+series courses (FCEs), including at least one 400-series half course.
- Minor Program: a sequence of 4 courses (FCEs) in one or more disciplines. Minor programs must include at least one 300+series course (FCE).

PLEASE NOTE

Some courses included as program options may have prerequisites as requirements not listed in the program but which must be taken. Programs which list optional courses do not necessarily list their prerequisites. Students are responsible for fulfilling prerequisites; students enrolled in courses for which they do not have the published prerequisites may have their registration in those courses cancelled at any time without warning.

Program Requirements

1. You must enrol in at least one and no more than three programs (of which only two can be majors or specialists), in the session in which you pass your fourth course (FCE). See the Arts & Science Program Enrolment web site for details. Students admitted with transfer credit for four courses (FCEs) or more must do this immediately upon admission.
2. You must meet any enrolment requirements for a program as stated in the Calendar. If you do not meet these requirements, you may be removed from the programs.
3. The programs(s) you complete determine whether you receive a science or an arts degree upon graduation. In the “Programs and Courses” section, each program indicates the type of degree to which it leads. For example, in the English section, the English Specialist listing is followed by “Arts program”; in the Mathematics section, the Math Major is followed by “Science program”, etc. A student completing one Specialist in an arts area would receive the Honours Bachelor of Arts; a student completing one Specialist in a science area would receive the Honours Bachelor of Science*. For program combinations that include more than one area (Arts and Science), the following applies:
  - A student completing one Major in a science area and one Major in an arts area have a choice of either the Honours Bachelor of Science or the Honours Bachelor of Arts.
  - In combinations of one Major and two Minors, the type of degree depends on the areas of the three programs. For example, if the Major is in a science area and the two Minors are in arts areas (or vice versa), the student has a choice of either the H.B.Sc. or the H.B.A. If the Major and one Minor are in science areas and the other Minor is in an arts area, the student would receive the H.B.Sc. Similarly, if the Major and one Minor are in arts areas and the other Minor is in a science area, the student would receive the H.B.A.

*A student completing one Specialist in a science area and an additional Major in an arts area (or vice versa) have a choice of either the Honours Bachelor of Science or the Honours Bachelor of Arts.

Students enrolled in either two Majors or one Major + two Minors must ensure they have a minimum of 12.0 different courses (FCEs) between the programs. For example:

- Lucy is enrolled in the Physiology Major (8.0 FCEs) and the Biology Major (8.0 FCEs). In order to meet the 12.0 different course requirement, she may have up to 4.0 overlapping credits between her majors ( $8.0 + 8.0 = 16.0$ ;  $16.0 - 12.0 = 4.0$ ). These two programs contain 3.0 core FCEs in common: (BIO120H1+BIO130H1), (CHM138H1+CHM139H1), and (BIO220H1+BIO230H1). Therefore, she may take up to 1.0 more overlapping course (FCE) between the majors. In short,  $8.0$  for PSL +  $8.0$  for BIO =  $16.0$  courses;  $16.0$  courses -  $12.0$  different courses =  $4.0$  overlaps allowed).
- Christina is enrolled in the Economics Major (7.0 FCEs) and the Statistics Major (6.5 FCEs). In order to meet the 12.0 different course requirement, she may have up to 1.5 overlapping credits between her majors ( $7.0 + 6.5 = 13.5$ ;  $13.5 - 12.0 = 1.5$ ). She takes MAT135Y1 and STA257H1+STA261H1 (2.0 FCEs total) towards both programs. Since she has exceeded the 1.5 credit overlap limit by 0.5, she must take an additional 0.5 credit towards one of the majors so that she will have 12.0 different courses between them.

Note:

In biological and science programs there may be occasions when scientific observations are made by students on themselves or on fellow students. These include common diagnostic or immunization procedures. Unless a valid reason exists, students are expected to participate in such exercises. If any investigative work involving student participation does not form part of the program, participation is voluntary.

Self-Designed Programs

Students may design their own Programs, which must be substantially different from any Program in this Calendar. Such a Program, if formally adopted by the student's College on the basis of its academic rigour and coherence, and if approved by the Committee on Academic Standards, will be accepted as fulfilling the degree requirement for certification in a Program (transcripts indicate only “Completed Self-designed Programs approved by ‘X’ College”). Since the approval process is necessarily a long one, students following this alternative must discuss this process with their College Registrar immediately after completion of the fourth course in the Faculty.

The Breadth Requirement

Students beginning degree studies in the Faculty of Arts & Science in September 2010 or after are required to complete the following Breadth Requirement as part of their Degree Requirements. (The Distribution Requirement described following this section does not apply to such students.)

Courses in the Faculty of Arts and Science are classified into five Breadth categories by subject content. (Note that some courses are not designated and do not count toward this requirement.) The purpose of the Breadth Requirement is to ensure all students graduating with an Honours degree from the Faculty of Arts and Science have chosen courses across a broad range of subject areas in the Faculty as part of their undergraduate education.

1. Creative and Cultural Representations
2. Thought, Belief, and Behaviour
3. Society and Its Institutions
4. Living Things and Their Environment
5. The Physical and Mathematical Universes

Students must take at least 4 full-course equivalents (FCEs) that have been designated as satisfying the Breadth Requirement. These 4 credits must be either (a) at least 1 FCE in each of any 4 of the 5 categories above, or (b) at least 1 FCE in each of any 3 of the 5 categories, and at least 0.5 FCE in each of the other 2 categories.

A course's Breadth designation can be found following the course description in the Calendar for the year in which the course is taken. For example:

HIS103Y1 Statecraft and Strategy: An Introduction to the History of International Relations[48L/20T]

An analysis of the development of the international system, from 1648 to 1945, which highlights the role of war as an instrument of national policy, as a determinant of the system of states and as a threat to international society.

Exclusion: any 100-level HIS course

Distribution Requirement Status: None

Breadth Requirement: Society and its Institutions (3)

HIS103Y1 counts as one credit (1 FCE) in category 3 (Society and Its Institutions.)

HIS103Y1 counts as one credit (1 FCE) in category 3 (Society and Its Institutions.)

ENG215H1 The Canadian Short Story [36L]

An introduction to the Canadian short story, this course emphasizes its rich variety of settings, subjects, and styles.

Prerequisite: 1.0 ENG FCE or any 4.0 FCE

Distribution Requirement Status: Humanities

Breadth Requirement: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

ENG215H1 counts as one half credit (0.5 FCE) in Category 1 (Creative and Cultural Representations).

ANT100Y1 Introduction to Anthropology [48L/12T]

Society and culture from various anthropological perspectives: socio-cultural, biological, archaeological, and linguistic.

Distribution Requirement Status: Social Science

Breadth Requirement: Society and its Institutions (3) + Living Things and Their Environment (4)

ANT100Y1 counts as one half credit (0.5 FCE) in Category 3 (Society and its Institutions) and one half credit (0.5 FCE) in Category 4 (Living Things and Their Environment.)

Courses marked "BR=None" do not count toward any breadth category.

Courses count toward the Breadth Requirement as they have been classified in the Calendar of the year in which they were taken.

Students may count towards the Breadth Requirement any course which has a Breadth designation, and in which they have achieved standing, whether or not the course is used to satisfy a program requirement, and whether or not the course was taken as CR/NCR (a grade of CR must be achieved).

The Distribution Requirement

This Distribution Requirement applies only to students who began degree studies in the Faculty of Arts & Science prior to September 2010. (The Breadth Requirement described above does not apply to such students.)

On the St. George Campus Arts & Science courses fall into three areas:

- Humanities
- Social Science
- Sciences

To qualify for any degree you must complete at least one full course equivalent in each of these three areas, for a total of 3.0 full course equivalents.

Courses that you take as part of your Specialist, Major or Minor programs may also be used to count towards the Distribution Requirement.

A course's Distribution Requirement designation can be found following the course description in the Calendar for the year in which the course is taken. For example:

ANT100Y1 Introduction to Anthropology [48L/12T]

Society and culture from various anthropological perspectives: socio-cultural, biological, archaeological, and linguistic.

Distribution Requirement Status: Social Science

Breadth Requirement: Society and its Institutions (3) + Living Things and Their Environment (4)

ANT100Y1 counts as one Social Science credit (1.0 FCE.)

ENG215H1 The Canadian Short Story [36L]

An introduction to the Canadian short story, this course emphasizes its rich variety of settings, subjects, and styles.

Prerequisite: 1.0 ENG FCE or any 4.0 FCE

Distribution Requirement Status: Humanities

Breadth Requirement: Creative and Cultural Representations (1)

ENG215H1 counts as one half Humanities credit (0.5 FCE.)

Bachelor of Commerce (BCom) Degree Requirements

(see also the complete Rotman Commerce degree, program and course listing)

This is a four-year Honours program.

To qualify for a Bachelor of Commerce degree, a student must:

- (a) Complete twenty full-course equivalents, including no more than six 100-series courses (FCEs);
- (b) Complete one of the Specialist programs – Accounting, Finance and Economics, or Management;
- (c) Complete the Arts & Science Breadth Requirement (see above)*;
- (d) Obtain standing (i.e., complete with a grade of 50% or more or CR) in at least six 300- or 400-series courses (FCEs), including at least one 400-series course (FCE). No more than one 300+ series transfer credit may be counted towards these six. (Students participating in an approved exchange program may count ALL 300+ transfer credits from the exchange towards the required six.)
- (e) Achieve a cumulative GPA of 1.85 or more by the time of graduation.

*Note: September 2016 and onward students will follow the Arts & Science Breadth Requirement and are no longer required to have 1.0 FCE from category 1 (BR1).

For students who began degree studies prior to September 2010: complete the Distribution Requirement for BCom students (see below).

Graduation

There are two graduation periods: June and November. Students must request graduation using the Student Web Service or in their College Registrar's Office as they are not automatically assessed for graduation. Graduation requests must be submitted by the deadline specified in the Sessional Dates section of the Calendar. Prospective graduands should check Degree Explorer (<https://degreeexplorer.utoronto.ca>) at the end of March (for June graduation)/late September (for November graduation) to see if their programs have been confirmed by the relevant department(s) or program office(s). They should also check Degree Explorer at the end of May/late October for confirmation of their eligibility for graduation by the Office of the Faculty Registrar.

For students graduating in June, only courses completed by the end of the preceding winter term (ending in April) will be assessed for graduation. For students graduating in November, only courses completed by the end of the preceding summer session (ending in August) will be assessed for graduation.

Prospective graduands should receive an email from the Office of Convocation providing details of the convocation ceremony in late March/mid-October. An email will be sent from the Office of the Faculty Registrar in late May/late October to students who have a request for graduation confirming their eligibility.

Recognition of Exceptional Academic Achievement: “High Distinction” and “Distinction”

Students who graduate with a Cumulative GPA* of 3.50 or above are described as graduates “With High Distinction”. This achievement is noted on the diploma and transcript.

Students who graduate with a Cumulative GPA* of 3.20 to 3.49 are described as graduates “With Distinction”. This achievement is noted on the diploma and transcript.

* Note: the Cumulative GPA must be based on at least 5.0 credits taken for Faculty of Arts & Science degree credit.

Faculty Distribution Requirement for BCom Students

Students who began degree studies PRIOR to September 2010 must complete the Faculty Distribution Requirement for BCom students.

As part of the degree requirements for the BCom, students must complete 1 full-course equivalent (FCE) in EACH OF the HUMANITIES, the SOCIAL SCIENCES and the SCIENCES AREAS as defined below:

1. one FCE must be from the Humanities.
2. one FCE must be from the Social Sciences (MGT/RSM courses may be used to meet this requirement with the exception of MGT120H1/MGT201H1, COM110H1, and RSM100Y1 which have NO Distribution Requirement status).
3. one FCE must be from the Sciences, with the following exceptions: ALL 100-series courses in CSC, MAT, STA; STA250H1, STA255H1, STA257H1, STA352Y1.
4. NOTE: transfer students from University of Toronto Mississauga or Scarborough must meet the St. George BCom Distribution Requirement.

CTEP: Concurrent Teacher Education Program

Admission to the Concurrent Teacher Education Program (CTEP) has been administratively suspended as of 1 April 2015 and is no longer admitting students. Students presently enrolled in either the Education and Society (CTEP) Minor (Victoria College) or the Christianity and Culture: Major program in Religious Education (St. Michael's College) will be able to complete their degrees according to requirements described in Calendar of the year when they first enrolled in CTEP. These students should refer to the relevant archived Calendar on the home page (calendar.artsci.utoronto.ca).

Faculty of Arts & Science Language Citation Program

The University of Toronto is an ideal place for students to pursue the advanced study of languages. Our students live in a country that promotes multiculturalism, and our university is located in one of the world's most diverse cities. We offer significant language opportunities in both ancient and modern languages. We also offer a variety of international academic programs and the number of such programs will expand. As our students seek further international study, work opportunities, and post-graduate study, they may be assisted by a notation on their academic record of language proficiency.

The Language Citation in the Faculty of Arts & Science is official recognition on a student's transcript that the student has progressed to an advanced level in the study of a language, and has been assessed as achieving "good" results in that study. In particular, to achieve the Language Citation, a student must complete two full courses or their equivalent beyond the first-year level of language instruction, and must achieve at least a B- in each of the courses beyond the introductory level. The two full-course equivalents may be language instruction or may be those taught in the language to be assessed.

The Language Citation will consist of a notation on the transcript that reads: “Completed Requirements of Language Citation in [name of language].” This will appear in the Arts & Science sessional segment of the student's academic record on the transcript describing the courses and marks for the session in which the Citation is assessed as complete.

Note that Language Citation is not a program, and will not satisfy the degree requirement that specifies the minimum programs of study to qualify for the degree. The Citation may be of interest to those who are completing programs involving language study, but it may also be of interest to those whose program interests lie elsewhere, but wish to have achievement in a language noted on their academic record.

Students who have already graduated may be eligible if they return for further language study that contributes to the assessment of the Citation. The Citation will not be assessed for students who have completed their studies and have not re-enrolled.

To be assessed for the Language Citation, students should contact the department or program that will be assessing the language for the Citation. They should present a copy of their academic record, and indicate which courses they would like considered for the assessment. If students already have proficiency in a language and wish to move directly to courses beyond the introductory level, they should consult the relevant department about appropriate placement. Also, students wishing to include courses taken in the country where the language is spoken should consult the relevant department about appropriate study abroad options.

The Citation can be earned in any language, modern or ancient, which provides sufficient advanced training at the University of Toronto, provided the unit offering the instruction participates in the Citation. Courses taken at the University of Toronto Mississauga or University of Toronto Scarborough may also be eligible for assessment for Arts & Science students.

The list below identifies the departments which participate in the Language Citation program. For details, including the languages in which students may achieve a Citation, see the departmental entries in this Calendar.

Guide to Program & Course Descriptions

Definition of “Course” in this Calendar

In the Calendar, the word “course” is used in two senses:

1. In reference to a single course (such as “standing in a course” etc.) “course” refers equally to a full course or a half course.
2. In reference to a given number of courses (such as the requirement of obtaining standing in at least 20 courses for an HBA or HBSc) “courses” refer to FULL courses OR the equivalent number in FULL AND HALF courses combined. To “pass a course” or “obtain standing in a course” normally means to obtain a mark of 50 or more in that course.

Codes used in the Program of Study Listings

- “Specialist Program (X full courses or their equivalent)”; “X” is the number of courses required for that program out of the total of 20 courses needed for an Hon. B.A. or Hon. B.Sc.
- “Major Program (X full courses or their equivalent)”; “X” is the number required for that program out of the total of 20 courses needed for an Hon. B.A. or Hon. B.Sc.
- “First Year”, “Second Year”, etc.: Sequences of courses are given as guides, but need not be followed in the exact order listed, provided all pre- and co-requisites are observed.
- Higher Years = Second, Third and Fourth Years
- An oblique stroke (“/”) means “or”. A comma and a semi-colon both mean “and”.
- In describing the level of a course, the word “series” is used interchangeably with the word “level”. e.g. 100-series is the same as 100-level
- 200-series or 200-level = courses numbered in the 200’s ONLY;
- 200+series or 200+ level = courses in the 200’s or 300’s or 400’s
- 300+series or 300+ level = courses numbered in the 300’s or 400’s
- Approved = approved by the college or department sponsoring the program
- Group = a group of related courses; Groups are at the end of the relevant program listings
- Courses = full courses or the equivalent in full and/or half courses.
- The code Y1 or H1 in a course code in this Calendar indicates the credit value:
  - Y1 = a full course, for which one credit is given, e.g., ANT 100Y1;
  - H1 = a half course, for which one-half credit is given, e.g., HIS 321H1.

Choosing Courses

NOTE: While Departmental counsellors and College Registrars are always available to give advice, THE ULTIMATE RESPONSIBILITY RESTS WITH THE STUDENT for completeness and correctness of course selection, for compliance with exclusions, prerequisite and co-requisite requirements, for completion of Program details, for proper completion of the Distribution Requirement, and for observance of regulations, deadlines, etc. Students are responsible for seeking guidance from a responsible officer if they are in any doubt; misunderstanding, misapprehension or advice received from another student will not be accepted as cause for dispensation from any regulation, deadline, Program or Degree requirement.

Please Note:

1. The Faculty of Arts & Science Council reserves the right to change the content of, or to withdraw, any course. In such cases every effort is made to provide equivalent alternative instruction, but this cannot be guaranteed.
2. The Faculty reserves the right to limit the number of students in any course or any section of a course if the number wishing to take the course should exceed the resources available. Notwithstanding this, every effort is made to accommodate students in 100-series courses according to admission category.

Key to Course Descriptions

Course descriptions, in alphabetical order by Department/College, are listed in the Programs and Courses section. For an explanation of terms and abbreviations used in these descriptions, including prerequisites, co-requisites, exclusions, etc., see below. Students may choose from among these courses, subject to the following rules:

1. Students must satisfy the degree and program requirements and other regulations set out in the Calendar and its supplements.
2. Students must meet all prerequisite, co-requisite and exclusion requirements.
3. Students may take no more than six 100-series courses for degree credit.

Number of Courses Taken (“Course Load”)

Students may proceed towards the degree at a rate of their own choosing, except as provided below:

1. The recommended course load for full-time students in each of the Fall and Winter terms is no more than five courses. The maximum course load in the Fall/Winter Session is six courses (full-course equivalents).
2. The maximum course load during the Summer Session is two courses.
3. Students in the Faculty of Arts & Science are limited to a term load of six courses in each of the Fall and Winter terms. College Registrars may approve an exception to this limit where circumstances warrant. Students who exceed the term load limit will be removed from excess courses.
4. Students "On Academic Probation" may take no more than five courses in each of the Fall and Winter terms and no more than two courses in each of the Summer terms, except as provided under "students restricted to a reduced course load" (see 5. below).
5. Students restricted to a reduced course load on admission may take no more than 2.5 courses over the Fall/Winter Sessions. They may take no more than 3 course activities in a Fall or Winter term unless approved by their College Registrar. They may take a maximum of 1.0 course in the Summer Session. Students restricted to part-time studies who wish to transfer to full-time studies should consult with their College Registrar.
6. Students should attempt to balance their course load between the Fall and Winter Sessions.
7. To calculate course loads, students should consult this Calendar together with the Registration Instructions & Timetable. The code "Y1" or "H1" in a course code in the Calendar indicate the credit value:

Y1 = a full course, for which one credit is given, e.g., ANT 100Y1

H1 = a half-course, for which one-half credit is given, e.g., HIS 332H1

8. In the Timetable a section code is associated with a course code to indicate when the course is offered:

F = first half of the Fall-Winter Sessions (Sept-Dec), or first half of the Summer Session (May-June), e.g., HIS322H1 F

S = second half of the Fall-Winter Sessions (Jan-Apr), or second half of the Summer Session (July-Aug), e.g., HIS322H1 S

Y = Fall and Winter terms, or First and Second terms of the Summer Session, e.g., ANT100Y1 Y

9. Students should note that courses designated as "...Y1F" or "...Y1S" in the Timetable are particularly demanding.
10. In the Fall/Winter session, full-time students (except those in 4. and 13.) may select a sixth course after the priority period ends during the course enrolment cycle (see the Registration Instructions and Timetable for details).
11. Students are advised to use discretion if exceeding the recommended maximum of five courses in the Fall/Winter session. Students will not receive special consideration of any kind on account of enrolling in more than the recommended maximum. Examination schedules may be affected by this course load.
12. In each of the Fall and Winter Sessions, students who are in good standing may request to add additional courses, beyond six, through their College Registrar. In the Summer Session, students may request to add additional courses, beyond two, through their College Registrar. The College Registrar, following Faculty guidelines, has the discretion to approve or deny such requests. Students will not receive special consideration of any kind on account of a course overload. Examination schedules may be affected by a course overload. Note: students enrolled in Commerce programs cannot add additional courses beyond six in the Fall/Winter Sessions without approval from the Rotman Commerce Program Office.
13. Students are not allowed a course overload in any session until they have completed four full courses in the Faculty. This applies to first year students and transfer students from other institutions.

Year of Study

The University of Toronto uses the following to define the year equivalency and therefore the academic status of a student:

4th year St. George degree student: has completed 14.0 full course equivalents or more;

3rd year St. George degree student: has completed 9.0 to 13.5 full course equivalents;

2nd year St. George degree student: has completed 4 to 8.5 full course equivalents;

1st year St. George degree student: has completed less than 4 full course equivalents.

Full/Part-Time Status

Part-time status

- A student enrolled in 2.5 full course equivalents or fewer for the Fall-Winter sessions is considered to be part-time.
- A student enrolled in 1.0 full-course equivalents or fewer for the Summer session is considered to be part-time.

Full-time status

- A student enrolled in 3.0 full course equivalents or more for the Fall-Winter sessions is considered to be full-time.
- A student enrolled in 1.5 full-course equivalents or more for the Summer session is considered to be full-time.

Cancelling Courses, Repeating Courses, Courses Outside the Faculty and University

For further information on these matters see the Rules and Regulations section.

Codes Used in the Course Descriptions

Course Designators

Course designators are the three-letter codes which appear at the beginning of each course code (e.g., CHM is the designator for chemistry courses; PHL for philosophy courses).

All courses are listed in the sponsoring department's section in the Calendar. See the home page (under Programs & Courses) for sponsoring departments.

Course Number

The course number generally indicates the level of difficulty, e.g., a 100-series course normally indicates an introductory course, a 400-series course is an intensive course at the senior level. In some departments several courses may have the same general title; in these cases, the numbers are listed together, separated by "/" which means "OR"; for instance, "ECO 350Y1/351H1/352H1" = ECO 350Y1 OR ECO 351H1 OR ECO 352H1, each one being a seminar on a selected subject.

"Y1" and "H1" Course Suffixes

The codes "Y1" or "H1" in a course code in the Calendar indicate the credit value:

- Y1 = a full course, for which one credit is given, e.g., ANT 100Y1
- H1 = a half-course, for which one-half credit is given, e.g., HIS 322 H1.

Types and Duration of Instruction

- L= Lectures
- S= Seminars
- P= Practical work in laboratories or studios
- T= Tutorials

In the Fall-Winter Sessions the normal period of instruction is 24 weeks; the Fall Session lasts 12 weeks, and the Winter Session lasts 12 weeks. The number preceding the instruction codes opposite the course number and title indicates the total number of hours of instruction given in the course. The number of hours listed is approximate only; the actual contact hours of a course, or of different sections of a course, may vary from the number indicated in the Calendar, due to the size of the class or section, and the use being made of the tutorial or practical components of the class. This variation is at the discretion of the "course sponsor" (the college or department sponsoring the course); any questions concerning the allotment of hours in a course should be addressed to the course sponsor.

Prerequisites, Co-requisites, etc.

Students are responsible for fulfilling prerequisites and co-requisites; students enrolled in courses for which they do not have the published prerequisites may have their registration in those courses cancelled at any time without warning. Students must also observe exclusions. Failure to meet these requirements may result in academic difficulties. If students withdraw from a course they must also withdraw from any course for which it is a co-requisite unless the Department giving the latter course agrees to waive the co-requisite.

Explanation of Symbols

The comma (,) the semi-colon(;) the ampersand (&) and the plus sign (+) all mean "AND". The slash (/) means "OR".

Exclusions

Students may not enrol in a course if that course lists as an exclusion a course they are currently taking or a course they have already passed. If allowed by special permission to enrol in an excluded course, the second course taken will be listed as an "Extra" course. Students will be required to withdraw from the course if discovered during the session of enrolment and will be refused degree credit in the excluded course if discovered at any time in a subsequent session.

Prerequisite

A course (or other qualification) required as preparation for entry to another course. If students consider that they have equivalent preparation, they may ask the Department concerned to waive the stated prerequisite.

Co-requisite

A requirement to be undertaken concurrently with another course. The co-requisite will be waived if a student has previously obtained standing in it, or if the Department consents.

Recommended Preparation

Background material or courses that may enhance a student's understanding of a course.

This image shows a course description in diagram form, with explanations of all the various symbols.

Section Code

Section codes do not appear in the Calendar. In the Registration Instructions & Timetable, however, a section code is listed with a course code to indicate when the course is offered:

- F = first half of the Fall-Winter Sessions (Sept-Dec), or first half of the Summer Session (May-June), e.g., HIS 322H1 F
- S = second half of the Fall-Winter Sessions (Jan-Apr), or second half of the Summer Session (July-Aug), e.g., HIS 322H1 S
- Y = Fall and Winter sessions, or First and Second subsessions of the Summer Session, e.g., ANT 100Y1 Y

Rules & Regulations

While Departmental counsellors and the Registrars of the Colleges are always available to give advice and guidance, it must be clearly understood that THE ULTIMATE RESPONSIBILITY RESTS WITH THE STUDENT for completeness and correctness of course selection, for compliance with prerequisite, co-requisite requirements, observance of exceeded courses, etc., for completion of Program details, for proper observance of degree requirements, the Distribution/Breadth Requirement and for observance of regulations, deadlines, etc. Students are responsible for seeking guidance from a responsible officer if they are in any doubt; misunderstanding, or advice received from another student will not be accepted as cause for dispensation from any regulation, deadline, program or degree requirement.

Students should also note the Important Notices section of this Calendar.

Registration

Details of the procedures by which students of the Faculty of Arts & Science register -- enrol in courses for which they are eligible, and pay or make arrangements to pay fees -- are found in the Registration Instructions online: www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/timetable.

Taking Courses Outside the Faculty

Courses at University of Toronto Scarborough and University of Toronto Mississauga

Students registered on the St. George campus of the Faculty of Arts & Science may enrol in most courses offered by University of Toronto Mississauga and University of Toronto Scarborough, provided that they meet the enrolment controls and prerequisites established by those divisions. These courses count towards the 20 credits required for a St. George degree and are included in the CGPA. These courses may also count towards St. George program requirements; students should check with their program office before enrolling. Students enrolling in UTM and UTSC courses should also note that, although academic and course refund deadlines may be different for UTM/UTSC students, Arts & Science must adhere to all Faculty of Arts & Science deadlines when taking UTM/UTSC courses (e.g. enrolment deadlines, drop deadlines, CR/NCR deadlines, refund deadlines, etc.)

Courses of Other Divisions

Students should select their courses from those offered in the Faculty of Arts & Science (except courses that are required for an Arts & Science program). If, however, they identify a course(s) offered in another division, faculty or school of the University that may be appropriate for inclusion in their program(s), they may request permission to enrol or remain enrolled in the course for degree credit. A student will use the form available on the Faculty website and obtain permission both from the division offering the course, and confirmation that the course may be used to fulfil the requirements of one of their programs of study, obtained from the relevant department or academic unit.

Students should initiate the procedure well in advance of the beginning of classes, so that they may choose alternate courses if permission is not granted. Once the form is completed, the department or program that will count the course towards a program of study will arrange to enrol them in the course (unless enrolment has already taken place.) When taking a course in another division, a student is subject to course-specific dates and deadlines of the other division.

Non-degree students in this Faculty may enrol in courses given by this Faculty or the University of Toronto Mississauga or the University of Toronto Scarborough only. They may not request permission from the Faculty to enrol in courses from other divisions.

Graduate Courses

In exceptional circumstances, undergraduate degree students in the Faculty of Arts & Science may be granted permission to count a graduate course toward their undergraduate degree. Permission to enrol in a graduate course sponsored by graduate departments in divisions other than the Faculty of Arts & Science requires a petition, as above. Permission to enrol in a graduate course sponsored by a Faculty of Arts & Science department requires the written permission of the sponsoring department. Not all departments allow this, even in exceptional circumstances; others may require a minimum GPA and/or the instructor's permission.

Students making such requests should use the form available on the Faculty website. Students are expected to have already exhausted all undergraduate courses available in the Faculty in the relevant subject area before requesting to enrol in a graduate course.

Note that permission to count a graduate course toward a student's program requirements is a separate matter and at the discretion of the relevant program. For degree requirement purposes, a graduate course will count as a 400-level course.

Courses of Other Universities (Letters of Permission and Transfer Credit)

Degree students with a cumulative grade point average of at least 1.50 may take a maximum of 5.0 full-course equivalents elsewhere for transfer credit. Students admitted with transfer credit may be limited in the number of courses that they may transfer after admission and should consult the chart available on the web at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/tc/postadmission/eligibility. Prior to taking courses at another Canadian or U.S. university, students are advised to request a Letter of Permission to confirm acceptability of those courses for transfer credit. For other universities, students may submit a request for transfer credit after completing courses elsewhere. Permission obtained from an instructor or from a department for program purposes, however, does not obligate the Faculty to grant transfer credit. There is a $40.00 non-refundable charge for each Letter of Permission and associated Addendum request and a $25.00 non-refundable fee for each Transfer Credit request. Assessments of transfer credit may take several weeks to process depending on the time of year and the nature of the request. Applicants are responsible for submitting requests well in advance of any deadlines they must meet and for obtaining the appropriate counselling concerning the Letter of Permission and/or Transfer Credit process.

Note: Only one transfer credit may be used to satisfy the requirement of 300+ series courses for the degree. Please refer to the Letters of Permission and Transfer Credit (Post-Admission) Guidelines on the Registrar's Office web site at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/tc/postadmission.

International Opportunities

See the section on Student Services & Resources for international opportunities for Arts & Science.

Course Loads

For more information on course loads please refer to the Guide to Programs & Courses section.

Fall/Winter session

The maximum course load in the Fall/Winter session is six courses (6.0 FCEs). The recommended course load for full-time students in each of the Fall and Winter terms is no more than five courses. Students are limited to a term load of six courses in each of the Fall and Winter terms; those who exceed this term load limit will be removed from excess courses.

Summer session

The maximum course load during the Summer session is two courses (2.0 FCEs).

Cancelling Courses or Registration

Cancelling Courses

Students who do not intend to complete a course or courses must cancel the course on ACORN (www.acorn.utoronto.ca) before the final date to cancel courses from the academic record (see Sessional Dates). Students still enrolled in a course after the final date to cancel the course will receive a grade for that course (unless Late Withdrawal is requested: see below for details). Not attending classes or ceasing to complete further course work or not writing the examination do not constitute grounds for cancellation without academic penalty from a course; the course remains on the record with the grade earned, including "0" for incomplete work.

Students are not permitted to cancel or withdraw from a course in which an allegation of academic misconduct is pending from the time of the alleged offence until the final disposition of the accusation.

Cancelling Registration

Students who wish to cancel all their current courses in a Fall/Winter or Summer session, and do not intend to enrol in any other courses for the rest of the session must cancel their registration on ACORN (www.acorn.utoronto.ca) or notify their College Registrar in writing. The cancellation of registration must be completed by the appropriate deadline in order for the student not to incur an academic penalty. When cancelling their registration, students must:

1. Pay any outstanding fees;
2. return any books to the Library and pay any outstanding fines;
3. vacate any laboratory or athletic lockers and return any equipment in their possession.

Please note: Students who have not achieved final standing (e.g. a final grade or CR/NCR) in at least one course in the Faculty previously must re-apply for admission through the Ontario Universities Application Centre if they wish to return in the future.

Fees

Fees are subject to change at any time by approval of the Governing Council. Tuition fees normally consist of academic fees (including instruction and library) and incidental/ancillary fees (including Hart House, Health Services, Athletics and student organizations). Additional ancillary fees may also be assessed for enrolment in some specific courses. Consult the Student Accounts web site or the Bursar of Trinity College (Trinity students).

Fees and Payment

Payments to cover fees may only be made at financial institutions, not in person — consult the Registration Instructions & Timetable or the Office of Student Accounts website (www.fees.utoronto.ca) for further details.

Payment Deadlines

Deadlines are available from the Student Accounts Office or from the Trinity College Bursar's Office (Trinity students).

To avoid delays, students are advised to pay fees early.

All fees and charges posted to your account are deemed payable. If not paid in full, any outstanding account balance is subject to a monthly service charge of 1.5% per month compounded (19.56% per annum). Outstanding charges on your account from prior sessions are subject to a service charge as of the 15th of every month until paid in full.

Students with outstanding accounts may not receive official transcripts and may not re-register at the University until these accounts are paid.

Fees for International Students

In accordance with the regulations of the Government of Ontario, certain categories of students who are neither Canadian citizens nor permanent residents of Canada are charged higher academic fees. Refer to the Student Accounts web site at www.fees.utoronto.ca for details.

Further information on fees may be obtained by students of Innis, New, St. Michael's, University, Victoria and Woodsworth Colleges from the Student Accounts Office, University of Toronto, 215 Huron St., Toronto, Ontario, M5S 1A2; 416-978-2142. Students of Trinity College should consult their College Bursar.

Financial Assistance

A limited number of in-course bursaries, scholarships and awards is available to students who need financial assistance or who qualify for them on the basis of academic merit. Information on these, and the Ontario Student Assistance Program, is available on the following web sites:

Faculty of Arts & Science web site (www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/scholarships)

Enrolment Services web site (www.adm.utoronto.ca)

College Registrars' office web sites (www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/advising/colleges)

Sanctions on Account of Outstanding Obligations

The following are recognized University obligations:

- tuition fees
- academic and other incidental fees
- residence fees and other residence charges
- library fines
- Bookstore accounts
- loans made by colleges, faculties or the University
- Health Service accounts
- unreturned or damaged instruments, materials and equipment
- orders for the restitution, rectification or the payment of damages, fines, bonds for good behaviour, and requirement of public service work imposed under the authority of the Code of Student Conduct.

The following academic sanctions are imposed on Arts & Science students who have outstanding recognized University obligations:

1. Official transcripts of record will not be issued.

2. The University will not release the diploma nor provide oral confirmations or written certification of degree status to external enquirers. Indebted graduands will be allowed to walk on stage and have their names appear on the convocation program but will not receive their diploma until their account is paid.
3. Registration will be refused to a continuing or returning student.
4. Official letters (e.g., degree eligibility, confirmation of graduation, QECO) will not be issued.
5. Education verifications may not be issued.

Payments made by continuing or returning students will first be applied to outstanding University debts and then to current fees.

Course Marks

Term Work and Term Test Regulations

The following regulations summarize the Faculty's implementation of the University Assessment and Grading Practices Policy, Parts A and B, available on the Governing Council web site at www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/policies.htm (however grade scales relevant to the Faculty of Arts & Science can be seen below).

Marking Schemes

As early as possible in each course, and no later than the last date to enrol in the course, the instructor shall make available to the class, and shall file with the division/faculty or department, the course marking scheme, i.e., methods by which student performance shall be evaluated. This should include whether the methods of evaluation will be essays, tests, class participation, seminar presentations, examinations, or other requirements; the relative weight of these methods in relation to the overall grade; and the timing of each major evaluation.

No essay, test, examination etc. in the marking scheme may be assigned a weight of more than 80% of the course grade. This limit does not apply when an instructor makes an accommodation at a student's request to take into account assessments missed for legitimate, documented reasons.

After the marking scheme has been made known by the last date to enrol in the course, the instructor may not change it or the relative weight of assessments without the consent of a simple majority of students attending the class, provided the vote is announced no later than in the previous class. Any changes must be reported to the division or the department. The only exception to this is in the case of the declaration of a disruption. [Please see the University's Policy on Academic Continuity.]

In the event that this policy has not been followed, a student may petition to have the course removed from the record, provided such a petition is filed no later than the last day of classes.

Term Work

Instructors shall return by the deadline one or more marked assignments worth a combined total of at least 10% of the total course mark for H courses and 20% for Y courses.

The deadline for returning such marked work shall be the last regularly-scheduled class meeting prior to the deadline to cancel without academic penalty, with one exception: for courses that run the entire Fall/Winter Session (Y1Y or H1Y courses), the deadline shall be the last regularly-scheduled class meeting of the first week of classes in January.

All term work must be submitted on or before the last day of classes in the course concerned, unless an earlier date is specified by the instructor. Students who for reasons beyond their control are unable to submit an assignment by its deadline must obtain approval from their instructor for an extension of the deadline. This extension may be for no longer than five business days after the end of the Examination period. If additional time beyond this period is required, students must petition through their College Registrar before the end of the examination period for a further extension of the deadline. (See section below on Petitions)

Students are strongly advised to keep rough and draft work and copies of their essays and assignments, as these may be required by the instructor.

All written work that has been evaluated should be returned to the student with such detailed comment as the instructor deems appropriate, and time made available for discussion of it. Any enquiries or appeals about a graded piece of work must be made to the instructor as soon as possible and no later than two weeks after the work was returned. Instructors must keep unclaimed term work for at least six months beyond the end of the course.

Term Tests

No term test or combination of term tests held in the last two weeks of classes at the end of any term may have a total weight greater than 25% of the final mark. This includes term tests in Y courses held in December, and also includes "take-home tests" and assignments where the topics or questions are both assigned and due with the last two weeks of classes.

All term tests must be held on or before the last day of classes. No term test may be held during Reading Week in February, during the Study Break in April, or during Faculty Examination Periods, except for those in F or Y-courses scheduled by the Faculty in the December Examination Period.

Missed Term Tests

Students who miss a term test will be assigned a mark of zero for that test unless they satisfy the following conditions:

1. Students who miss a term test for reasons beyond their control may, no later than one week after the missed test, submit to the instructor or department/program a request for special consideration explaining the reason for missing the test, and attaching appropriate documentation, such as the Verification of Illness or Injury form (www.illnessverification.utoronto.ca).
2. If a request with documentation cannot be submitted within one week, the department may consider a request to extend the time limit.
3. A student whose explanation is accepted by the department will be entitled to one of the following considerations:
  - a) Where practicable, the student may be offered the opportunity to do a make-up test.
  - b) Where a make-up test is not practicable or the student's circumstances do not permit a make-up test, the instructor may allocate the percentage weight of the test to any combination of the remaining term work and/or final exam in the course.
  - c) If the student misses the remaining term work for acceptable reasons, the full percentage weight of the missed work may be allocated to the final exam. Exception: the weight of a final exam in a 100-series course may not be increased beyond 80% as an initial accommodation for a legitimate absence. However, if the student misses the make-up opportunity or subsequent test that was to be re-weighted, then the weight of the final exam may be increased beyond 80%.
  - d) In courses where the mid-term test is the only marked work in the course other than the final examination, an initial make-up test opportunity normally must be given.
4. No student is automatically entitled to a second make-up test opportunity. The department will determine what accommodation is appropriate for a student who misses a make-up test for legitimate reasons.
5. A student who misses a term test cannot subsequently petition for late withdrawal from the course without academic penalty on the grounds that he or she has had no term work returned before the drop date.

Requests for Re-Marking of Term Work

A student who believes an individual item of work has been incorrectly or unfairly marked may request that it be remarked. Such requests should be made initially to the instructor in the course as soon as possible after the work was returned, and no later than two weeks after it was returned.

If an instructor refuses the request to remark a piece of work, or if the student believes the remarking was incorrect or unfair, the student may appeal to the Undergraduate Coordinator (e.g. Associate Chair who is acting on behalf of the Chair) of the department or program sponsoring the course.

Appeals beyond the program or department should be made to the Office of the Dean. Such appeals about the marking of term work must be made in writing. They will be reviewed to ensure that appropriate procedures have been followed in earlier appeals, that the student has been treated fairly, and that the standards applied have been consistent with those applied to other students doing the assignment. The Office of the Dean is the final level of appeal for marks in the Faculty of Arts & Science; no further appeal is possible.

An appeal of a mark beyond the instructor for term work may only be made for an item worth at least 20% of the course mark.

All appeals beyond the instructor must be made in writing in a timely manner, and no later than two weeks after the work was returned, explaining why the student believes the mark was inappropriate and summarizing all previous communications in the matter.

Students making a request for a remarking must accept that the resulting mark will become the new mark, whether it goes up or down or remains the same.

Faculty Final Examinations

A Faculty final examination counting for between one-third and two-thirds of the final mark must be held in each 100-series course, unless exemption has been granted by the Faculty of Arts & Science. Courses in the 200-series will normally have a final examination. In 200-, 300- and 400-series courses, the Departments will decide whether or not an examination is appropriate. The ratio of term work to examination mark will be the same for all sections of multi-section courses that have final examinations. The relative value of each part of a written examination must be indicated on the question paper.

Final examinations are held at the end of each session or sub-session. Students taking courses during the day may be required to write evening examinations, and students taking evening courses may be required to write examinations during the day. Examinations may be held on Saturdays. Students who make personal commitments during the examination period do so at their own risk. No special consideration is given and no special arrangements are made in the event of conflicts resulting from personal commitments.

Students who are unable to write their examinations due to illness, etc., should contact their College Registrar (see "Petitions Regarding Examinations", below).

Students who have two Faculty final examinations in the same time slot, or three consecutive Faculty final examinations (e.g., morning, afternoon, evening; or afternoon, evening, next morning), should submit a Final Examinations Conflict form using their University of Toronto email account to examconflicts.artsci@utoronto.ca

Students who cannot write a final examination at the scheduled time due to a religious obligation should submit a Final Examinations Conflict form using their University of Toronto email account to examconflicts.artsci@utoronto.ca as soon as the conflict is known, and no later than the deadline shown on the examination schedule.

Information regarding dates, times and locations of examinations will not be given by telephone or email; for the most up to date examination timetable consult the Faculty's current students web site at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current.

Rules for the Conduct of Examinations

1. No person will be allowed in an examination room during an examination except the candidates concerned and those supervising the examination.
2. Candidates must appear at the examination room at least twenty minutes before the commencement of the examination.
3. Candidates shall bring their photo identification (signed Photo ID) and place it in a conspicuous place on their desks. Photo identification may include any one of the following, as long as it contains a photo and a signature: current University of Toronto Photo ID (TCard) OR up-to-date Passport (any country) OR current Driver's License (any country) OR current Canadian health card (any province or territory).
4. Candidates shall place their watch or timepiece on their desks.
5. All coats and jackets should be placed on the back of each candidate's chair. All notes and books, pencil cases, turned off cell phones, laptops and other unauthorized aids as well as purses should be stored inside candidate's knapsack or large bag, which should then be closed securely and placed under candidate's chair. Candidates are NOT allowed to have a pencil case on their desk and any pencil cases found on desks will be searched. All watches and timepieces on desks will be checked. Candidates are not allowed to touch their knapsack or bag or the contents until the exam is over. Candidates are not allowed to reach into the pockets or any part of their coat or jacket until the exam is over.
6. The Chief Presiding Officer has authority to assign seats to candidates.
7. Candidates shall not communicate with one another in any manner whatsoever during the examination. Candidates may not leave the examination room unescorted for any reason, and this includes using the washroom.
8. No materials or electronic devices shall be used or viewed during an examination, except those authorized by the Chief Presiding Officer or Examiner. Unauthorized materials include, but are not limited to: books, class notes, or aid sheets. Unauthorized electronic devices include, but are not limited to: cellular telephones, laptop computers, calculators, MP3 players (such as an iPod), Personal Digital Assistants ("PDA" such as a Palm Pilot or Blackberry), pagers, electronic dictionaries, tablets, Smart Watches and Smart Glasses.
9. Candidates who use or view any unauthorized materials or electronic devices while their examination is in progress - or who assist or obtain assistance from other candidates or from any unauthorized source - are liable to penalties under the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters, including the loss of academic credit and suspension.
10. In general, candidates will not be permitted to enter an examination room later than fifteen minutes after the commencement of the examination, nor to leave except under supervision until at least half an hour after the examination has commenced.
11. Candidates shall remain seated at their desks during the final ten minutes of each examination.
12. At the conclusion of an examination, all writing shall cease. The Chief Presiding Officer may seize the papers of candidates who fail to observe this requirement, and a penalty may be imposed.
13. Examination books and other material issued for the examination shall not be removed from the examination room except by authority of the Chief Presiding Officer.

THE UNIVERSITY IS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR PERSONAL PROPERTY LEFT IN EXAMINATION ROOMS

Credit/No Credit

Degree students in the Faculty of Arts & Science may select up to 2.0 full-course equivalents of their degree credits to be assessed on a Credit/No Credit basis. This option is available for Arts & Science students taking courses offered by the St. George Campus Faculty of Arts & Science, the John H. Daniels Faculty of Architecture, Landscape and Design, the University of Toronto Mississauga, or the University of Toronto Scarborough. Some courses may not be eligible for CR/NCR -- check with the course Calendar or the relevant division.

Students must choose this mode of assessment no later than the last date to cancel the relevant course. Once the deadline has passed, students may not reverse this decision. Students may add or remove the CR/NCR option on ACORN (www.acorn.utoronto.ca). See the Faculty's website for full details of the CR/NCR option: www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/forms-services/cnrcr

To achieve a status of CR (Credit), a student must achieve a final mark of at least 50%. Marks below that will be assessed as NCR (No Credit). Courses with a final status of CR will count as degree credits but will have no effect on the student's GPA. They will count as Distribution Requirements, Breadth Requirements, and degree credits, but cannot be used to satisfy program requirements or the 12.0 different FCE requirement between programs for a student's degree unless explicitly permitted by the program.

Courses with a final status of NCR will not count as degree credits but will not count as failures, and will also not be included in the GPA calculation.

Students may exercise this option to a total of 2.0 full-course equivalents throughout their degree studies. The choice is not restricted as to year or level of course.

Students taking a course on a CR/NCR basis will not be identified individually to the instructor teaching that course; they will be assessed in the same way as all other students in the course, i.e. will have the same assignments and tests and will be evaluated with the same expectations.

This option is not available to Arts & Science non-degree students or to students from other faculties/divisions of the University of Toronto, except for undergraduate degree students in the John H. Daniels Faculty of Architecture, Landscape and Design.

Note to graduating students: The CR/NCR option is only open to degree students. Once students have graduated, they become non-degree students and they may not complete courses on a CR/NCR basis, even if they enrolled in the course before their graduation. This means if a student is graduating in June and they select a summer course as CR/NCR or if a student is graduating in November and they enroll in a fall or winter course as CR/NCR, the CR/NCR option will be removed and a percentage grade will appear on the student's record.

Students opting to do courses on a CR/NCR basis should be aware that their underlying percentage/letter grade will not be released or reported in any way. If a specific grade may be required in a course for professional/graduate school applications or for other reasons in the future, students should NOT choose the CR/NCR option.

Students who transfer to the Faculty of Arts & Science from the John H. Daniels Faculty of Architecture, Landscape and Design, University of Toronto at Mississauga (UTM) or University of Toronto at Scarborough (UTSC) will have all Daniels Faculty/UTM/UTSC CR/NCR options (if any) included in their Arts & Science academic record. These CR/NCR options are counted towards the 2.0 FCE maximum.

The CR/NCR option cannot be used for a course in which the student has committed an academic offence. If a student has specified the CR/NCR option in a course in which he or she commits an academic offence, the CR/NCR option will be revoked and the percentage grade will stand as the course grade.

The following courses are not eligible to be taken as CR/NCR: courses where an individual student works on independent study or individual research supervised by a professor; First Year Seminars (199s)/Research Opportunity Program (299s)/Research Excursions (399s); Foundational Year Program courses (College Ones, Munk One); Rotman Commerce (RSM) courses; field courses; courses evaluated on a Pass/Fail basis.

Late Withdrawal – LWD

The Faculty of Arts & Science has a mechanism to assist students, in conjunction with their college registrars, to remedy situations, particularly in their early years at university, where personal or other circumstances mean they are irretrievably behind in a course.

Degree students in the Faculty of Arts & Science may request to withdraw without petition from a total of no more than 3.0 FCEs, provided such a request is made by the last day of classes in the relevant term. Non-degree students may also request LWD, provided they do not exceed the 3.0 FCE maximum throughout their combined degree and non-degree studies.

Students will make such requests to their college registrar, who has the authority to approve such requests if the circumstances warrant approval of an exception to the normal Drop deadlines.

Withdrawals approved under this procedure will be noted on the academic record by the course status LWD (Late Withdrawal). This course status will have no effect on the GPA or other elements of the academic record.

Students who have fallen behind with assignments or are not at all prepared to write exams in one or more of courses will be expected to make use of this remedy, and should contact their college registrar's office immediately.

Students seeking to avail themselves of this remedy will be expected to work with their college registrarial advisor to analyze what led to their predicament, to discuss what steps they can take to prevent it from happening again, and to learn from their experiences.

Students who transfer to the Faculty of Arts & Science from University of Toronto at Mississauga (UTM) or University of Toronto at Scarborough (UTSC) will have all UTM/UTSC LWD requests (if any) included in their Arts & Science academic record. These LWD requests are counted towards the 3.0 FCE maximum.

Future petitions for Withdrawal, Deferred Exams, or Extensions for Term Work will be considered in light of the fact that the student has previously been granted such an opportunity.

Note that the option for Late Withdrawal is not available if an allegation of academic misconduct is under investigation. If LWD was previously granted in the course, it will be revoked and the percentage grade will stand as the course grade.

Please note: Students who have not achieved final standing (e.g. a final grade or CR/NCR) in at least one course in the Faculty previously must re-apply for admission through the Ontario Universities Application Centre if they wish to return in the future. Late Withdrawal (LWD) does not constitute final standing in a course.

“Extra” Courses: 100-level, Repeating and Excluded Courses

“Extra” courses are ones that do not count for degree credit. Such courses appear on a student's permanent academic record with the final course mark, and are noted as “EXT”, but do not count as accumulated degree credits and are not included in calculating a student's Grade Point Average. However, Extra courses may count in other respects, such as to satisfy program requirements or breadth/distribution requirements.

Each course with a passing mark or CR counts for credit towards a degree unless:

- the course is a 100-level course and the maximum of six 100-level courses (6.0 FCEs) allowable for degree credit has already been completed (see 1. below), or
  - the course repeats work previously taken, either the same course taken over again (see 2. below) or the course lists as an exclusion another that has already been completed (see 3. below)
1. 100-level Limit and Chronological Principle
Students may complete a maximum of 6.0 100-level FCEs towards their degree. Additional 100-level courses taken beyond 6.0 will be designated “extra” and will not count for degree credit. Courses are credited towards a degree chronologically. For example, if a student has already passed 6.0 100-level courses and then enrolls in and passes further 100-level courses, the more recent courses are designated “extra”. In other words, all subsequent 100-level courses beyond 6.0 FCEs are made extra. An exception to this rule occurs when a student who has completed 5.5 100-level courses enrolls in and passes a full course at the 100-level in a subsequent session. In this case, providing it does not result in a retroactive change in academic standing, the most recently passed half-course may be designated as “extra”.
  2. Repeating Passed Courses
Students (both degree and non-degree) may not repeat any course in which they have already obtained credit (i.e., a mark of 50% or higher or CR) with two exceptions:
    - i) When students need to achieve a minimum mark in a course for entry to a limited-enrolment program or for meeting a prerequisite to take another course in their program, they may repeat such a course once. The repeated course will be designated “extra”: it will appear on the academic record but it will not be included in GPA calculations or in the degree credit count.
    - ii) Students may repeat up to 1.0 FCE in which they have already obtained credit for reasons other than to meet a minimum mark for entry to a limited-enrolment program or for course prerequisite purposes. The repeated course will be designated “extra”: it will appear on the academic record but it will not be included in GPA calculations or in the degree credit count. Students may not use this one-time-only allowance to subsequently repeat a passed course again after having repeated the same course for reasons noted in i) above, i.e., they may repeat a specific passed course only once.Students requesting to repeat a course must do so at their college registrar's office, where they will receive appropriate advising and will be enrolled, provided there is space available, only after other degree students have had an opportunity to enroll.
  3. Exclusions
Students may not enroll in a course that lists as an exclusion a course they are currently taking or a course they have already passed. If they enroll in such a course, they may be removed at any time during the enrolment period, or during the session at the discretion of the department, or the course will be designated “extra”: it will appear on the academic record but it will not be included in GPA calculations or in the degree credit count.

Grading Regulations

Grades Review Procedure

The Faculty of Arts & Science implements the Grading Regulations, reviews course grades submitted by Departments and posts the official grades. Official grades are communicated to the students via the Student Web Service.

Each Department has an appointed faculty member (e.g. a Chair, Program Director, Vice Principal) who is responsible for reviewing grades submitted by instructors. This appointed faculty member may ask for clarification of any anomalous results or distributions, or disparity between sections of the same courses. Both the appointed faculty member and the Dean have the right, in consultation with the instructor of the course, to adjust marks where there is an obvious and unexplained discrepancy between the marks submitted and the perceived standards of the Faculty. Final marks are official, and may be communicated to the students only after the review procedure has taken place. Grades, as an expression of the instructor's best judgment of each student's overall performance, will not be determined by any system of quotas.

GPA Equivalency Chart

Percentage	Letter Grade	Grade Point Value *	Grade Definition
90-100	A+	4.0	Excellent	Strong evidence of original thinking; good organization; capacity to analyze and synthesize; superior grasp of subject matter with sound critical evaluations; evidence of extensive knowledge base.
85-89	A	4.0
80-84	A-	3.7
77-79	B+	3.3	Good	Evidence of grasp of subject matter, some evidence of critical capacity and analytic ability; reasonable understanding of relevant issues; evidence of familiarity with literature.
73-76	B	3.0
70-72	B-	2.7
67-69	C+	2.3	Adequate	Student who is profiting from his/her university experience; understanding of the subject matter; ability to develop solutions to simple problems in the material.
63-66	C	2.0
60-62	C-	1.7
57-59	D+	1.3	Marginal	Some evidence of familiarity with subject matter and some evidence that critical and analytic skills have been developed.
53-56	D	1.0
50-52	D-	0.7
0-49	F	0.0	Inadequate	Little evidence of even superficial understanding of subject matter; weakness in critical and analytic skills; with limited or irrelevant use of literature.

* The grade point values above apply to marks earned in individual courses; grade point averages (SGPAs/AGPAs/CGPAs) are weighted sums of the grade points earned (see below), and thus do not necessarily correspond exactly to the scale above.

Note:

In order to "obtain standing" in a course, a student must receive at least a passing grade (50%) in that course. A Grade of "F" is a failure. There are no supplemental examination privileges in the Faculty.

Other notations, which have no grade point values, and which may be authorized only by petition, are:

AEG - Aegrotat Standing on the basis of term work and medical evidence

CR/NCR - Credit/No Credit; see above

EXT or XTR or X - Extra course, not for degree credit; course has no effect on status or grade point average.

GWR - Grade withheld pending Review

IPR - (Course) In Progress

LWD - Late withdrawal without academic penalty

NGA - No grade available

P/FL - Pass/Failure. In cases where the FL grade is used in calculating grade point averages, the symbol "FL %" is used and a grade point value of 0.0 is assigned

SDF- Standing Deferred granted by petition

WDR - Late Withdrawal without academic penalty after the relevant deadline. Removal of a grade for incomplete work when withdrawal before the end of the course has been caused by circumstances beyond the student's control, arising after the last date for course cancellation. Changes to the record will be authorized by petition only in exceptional circumstances.

Grade Point Average

The Grade Point Average (GPA) is the weighted sum (a full course is weighted as 1, a half-course as 0.5) of the grade points earned, divided by the number of courses in which grade points were earned.

Courses that are not included in the GPA are: courses noted with the "AEG" standing, transfer credits, courses taken elsewhere on a Letter of Permission or as part of an exchange program, courses designated as "extra", and courses taken as CR/NCR.

Courses evaluated on a Pass/Fail basis: if a grade of Pass (P) is achieved, the course is not included in the GPA; if a grade of Fail (FL) is achieved, a grade point value of 0.0 is assigned and the course is included in the GPA.

Courses taken as Non-degree students and Non-degree visiting students are included in the GPA.

Four types of grade point averages are used:

1. The Sessional GPA is based on courses taken in a single term or session (Fall, Winter or Summer);
2. The Annual GPA is based on courses taken in the Fall/Winter Session;
3. The Cumulative GPA takes into account all courses taken in the Faculty, except those marked "extra" or taken as CR/NCR;
4. The Concurrent Teacher Education Program (CTEP) GPA takes into account all B.Ed. courses. This GPA is only used for CTEP students.

A Sessional, Annual, and Cumulative GPA is also calculated for all Non-degree and Non-degree visiting students. For Non-degree students who have completed a degree in the Faculty, the Cumulative GPA includes all courses taken both as a degree student and as a non-degree student.

Academic Standing

There are four kinds of academic standing: In Good Standing; On Probation; On Suspension; Refused Further Registration. Academic standing is assessed for the first time at the end of the session in which a student achieves final standing in at least 0.5 credit (excluding Credit/No Credit, Pass/Fail, and courses marked extra) in the Faculty.

Academic standing is assessed twice a year:

1. At the end of the Fall/Winter Session; the GPAs used for this status assessment are the annual and the cumulative GPAs.
2. At the end of the Summer Session; the GPAs used for this status assessment are the sessional and the cumulative GPAs.

In Good Standing:

Students are described as In Good Standing if they are neither On Probation, Suspended nor Refused Further Registration; these terms are explained below. For students with particularly noteworthy academic results, there are three specific forms of recognition, which are described in the "Student Services & Resources" section.

Probation; Suspension; Refused Further Registration

1. A student shall be on academic probation who
  - a) has a cumulative GPA of less than 1.50 or
  - b) returns from suspension.
2. A student who, at the end of the Fall/Winter or Summer Session during which he or she is on probation
  - a) has a cumulative GPA of 1.50 or more shall be in good standing
  - b) has a cumulative GPA of less than 1.50 but an annual GPA of 1.70 or more (Fall/Winter Session)/sessional GPA of 1.70 or more (Summer Session) shall continue on probation.
  - c) has a cumulative GPA of less than 1.50 and an annual GPA of less than 1.70 (Fall/Winter Session)/sessional GPA of less than 1.70 (Summer Session) shall be suspended for one calendar year unless he or she has been so suspended previously, in which case he or she shall be suspended for three years.
3. A student who, having been suspended for three years, is again liable for suspension shall be refused further registration in the Faculty.

This image shows how Academic Standing is determined.

NOTE: Students "On Academic Probation" may take no more than five courses in each of the Fall and Winter terms, and no more than two courses in each of the Summer terms.

Appeals and Petitions

Students are responsible for observing sessional dates, course prerequisites, and exclusions, satisfying the degree requirements and following the rules and regulations in the Calendar and the Registration Instructions. Failure to follow regulations, requirements and deadlines may result in academic and/or financial consequences or penalties, and failure to inform oneself about these will not be accepted as sufficient excuse to avoid these consequences. Students should always consult their College Registrar immediately for guidance if anything happens that interferes with continuing or completing their courses, or that appears to be contrary to rules, regulations and deadlines.

Departmental Appeals

Academic appeals concern issues arising within a course that relate to the pedagogical relationship of the instructor and the student, such as the organization of a course, grading practices, or conduct of instructors. These fall within the authority of the department or college sponsoring the course and are not the subject of petitions. Students are encouraged to discuss any issues regarding the academic aspects of a course first with the instructor. It is recommended that such discussions should be documented in writing where appropriate. The successive stages of appeal after the course instructor must be documented in writing. These successive stages are: the Undergraduate Coordinator or Associate Chair; the Chair of the Department or the College Program Director; then the Office of the Dean, Faculty of Arts & Science. An appeal must have been reviewed at the departmental level before being referred to the Dean's Office; appeals to the Dean's Office must be in writing.

Petitions to the Faculty

Petitions concern issues relating to degree requirements, academic regulations, examinations, and administrative rules. These may be petitioned to the Faculty, provided this is done prior to the specified deadlines. The Faculty recognizes that an exception may be required in the face of unpredictable, exceptional circumstances. In submitting a petition to have regulations waived or varied, students must present compelling reasons and relevant documentation, and must demonstrate that they have acted responsibly and with good judgment in attempting to observe Faculty regulations. Students are requested to present their entire case from the outset so their circumstances may be reviewed adequately for an equitable decision. The Committee on Standing routinely denies petitions that in its view do not present a valid reason for an exception to the regulations. Students are encouraged to seek advice on all such matters from the office of their College Registrar.

Petitions must 1) state the student's request; 2) provide the reasons why an exception should be made in a clear and concise manner; and 3) be accompanied by relevant supporting documentation. A petition is considered in confidence by the Committee on Standing, which is charged with interpreting and administering the regulations of the Faculty. The Committee has the authority to grant exceptions and to attach conditions to its decisions.

It is the responsibility of the student to provide a valid UofT email address to which a petition decision may be sent. Only UofT email will be used to reply to petitions. Non-receipt of a decision due to incorrect email address is not grounds for reconsideration.

Deadlines to File Petitions

The deadlines for petitions are strictly enforced. If there are compelling reasons why a petition is being filed after the deadline, a covering letter explaining the reasons and requesting late consideration must accompany the petition. The issue of lateness must be satisfactorily resolved before the substance of the petition may be considered. Late petitions without sufficient reason for lateness will not be considered, no matter how compelling.

Petitions for Term Work

- Deadline: Five working days after the last day of the examination period (for December, begin count when the University re-opens)

Petitions for Examinations

- Deadline: Five working days after the last day of the examination period (for December, five working days after classes resume in January)
- UTM/UTSC courses: Deadline: Within 72 hours of a missed examination, students must file a petition with their St. George Campus college registrar, with the required supporting documentation

Petitions for Withdrawal (see also Late Withdrawal above)

- Fall-Winter Session courses: Deadline: the following 15 November
- Summer Session courses: Deadline: the following 28/29 February

All documentation supporting petitions must be submitted as soon as possible, and no later than three weeks after the date the student initiates the petition.

Late petitions and petitions with late documentation will not be considered (as above).

Documentation in Support of Petitions

The Faculty seeks documentation that provides pertinent evidence for decisions determining whether or not an exception should be made to regulations that are designed to ensure equitable treatment for all students. Acceptable forms of documentation are of two types:

1) Medical:

- The best medical documentation acceptable at the University of Toronto is the University's Verification of Illness or Injury Form. This form is designed to solicit the information needed for a petition, and nothing more. When submitted with a petition, students submit the original document only; no faxed or scanned copies will be accepted. This form may only be completed by Physicians/Surgeons, Nurse Practitioners, Dentists or Clinical Psychologists: www.illnessverification.utoronto.ca/
- If a student must substitute another document, the best document will contain precisely the same information required on a Verification of Illness or Injury form: date(s) of visits, date range when the student was affected by the medical circumstances, and the degree of impact on the student. This documentation must be original and be clearly marked with a signature, the practitioner's address, and the practitioner's registration number.

2) Non-Medical:

- College Registrar's Letter (appropriate in certain circumstances)
- Accessibility Services Letter (required for accessibility-related petitions)
- In some situations, other non-medical supporting documentation may be relevant. The Faculty has provided guidelines and a form that may be useful to those providing such documentation.
www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/petitions/pdfs/supplemental\_petition\_documentation.pdf

Medical Documentation:

If illness is being presented as the reason for the request for an exception or an accommodation, the claim of illness itself is not necessarily sufficient grounds to guarantee approval of the request. All cases are examined in their entirety before a decision is made: an illness or injury's duration and resulting incapacitation are taken into account along with other relevant factors in the context of the course at issue. Note that the physician's report must establish that the patient was examined and diagnosed at the time of illness, not after the fact. The Faculty will not accept a statement that merely confirms a later report of illness made by the student to a physician.

Petitions Regarding Courses in Other Divisions—see above.

Petitions Regarding Term Work (see also Term Work)

Matters concerning term work normally fall within the authority of the instructor. Students unable to comply with given deadlines must contact their instructor prior to the deadline if an extension to the deadline is being requested. Students should expect no consideration if an issue is raised after the assignment deadline.

Normally, all term work must be submitted by the last day of classes, unless an earlier date has been specified by the instructor. Instructors may grant extensions beyond their own deadlines or beyond the last day of classes up until five working days after the end of the examination period, provided that a student presents legitimate reasons, e.g. illness, with appropriate documentation as determined by the instructor.

Extensions beyond five business days after the end of the examination period can be approved only through a petition. Such petitions for an extension of time for term work must also be initiated within five business days after the end of the relevant examination period. Late requests will not be considered. Students must file the petition after consultation with the instructor regarding a suitable extension date. The Committee on Standing consults the department concerned for information about the status of the course work, and the steps, if any, that must be taken to complete the course. Students seeking an extension of time for term work are expected to have been in contact with their instructor before the initial deadline and must continue working on the outstanding assignments while they await a decision.

Petitions Regarding Examinations (see also Examinations)

Students are expected to write their examinations as scheduled. Only in cases of documented debilitating illness or legitimate conflict should a student request a deferral of a final examination. Students who are too ill and/or incapacitated at the time of the examinations should petition to defer the examination they are unable to attend due to their medical condition. Petitions based on travel, employment, or personal plans will not be considered as students are expected to make themselves available during the published Examination Period to write final examinations.

In response to a petition for a deferred examination, a student may be granted the opportunity to write a special examination at a subsequent examination period or the regular examination in the next offering of the course. Satisfactory documentation must be provided to corroborate illness (see above). Students with chronic illnesses must provide medical documentation for the specific date on which the illness was acute, or a letter from Accessibility Services for those registered for such a disability (indicating they were seen at the time of flare up, etc.).

Students who have missed an examination and are requesting a deferral must submit a petition no later than one week after the end of the examination period through their college registrar. There is a fee of $70.00 per deferred examination (maximum $140.00 for multiple deferral requests in the same petition).

In the petition decision students are notified of the examination period in which the deferred examination will take place, and if the examination will be a regular or special examination. They must register to take the deferred examination and pay the fee by the deadline given, in order that arrangements can be made. The Faculty will notify those who do not register by the deadline that they have lost their privilege of a deferred examination and will revert the grade to one that includes a "0" for the final examination. No further consideration will be given.

The Faculty posts personal deferred examination schedules online for students who have paid the deferred examination fee as soon as possible after the regular examinations have been scheduled. We use the table below as a guideline. N.B. exams may occur outside of this timeline.

Final Examination	Deferred Examination
April	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>June examination period, if course is offered May to June</li> <li>Usually August examination period for all others; could be December or April the following year</li> </ul>
June	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>August examination period, if course offered July to August</li> <li>December examination period, if course offered in Fall Session</li> <li>Usually August examination periods for all others; could be April the following year.</li> </ul>
August	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Usually December examination period; could be February/April the following year.</li> </ul>
December	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>April examination period, if course offered in Winter Session</li> <li>Usually Reading Week for all others; could be December the following year.</li> </ul>

Students who must write a deferred examination in a course that serves as a prerequisite for subsequent courses may enrol in those courses provided they obtain the approval of the department concerned and provided the term mark in the prerequisite (deferred) course is at least 60%. If students are enrolling in courses for which the deferred examination is a prerequisite, they are advised to consult the department sponsoring the upcoming course: as they do not have the stated prerequisite, they may be removed during a pre-requisite check and reinstatement may not be possible if the course is full.

Special Accommodations Fee

Students who request permission to write an examination outside the normal examination arrangements, e.g. at an Outside Centre, must submit a petition making their request at least three weeks prior to the beginning of the examination period. Late requests cannot be accommodated. A non-refundable fee of $30.00 for each examination is charged at the time of application. Students who have been granted permission to write a deferred examination will pay this fee in addition to the deferred examination fee of $70.00 per examination. These fees do not apply for accommodations resulting from conflicts with religious obligations or from arrangements made through Accessibility Services.

If permission has been granted for the examination to be written at an "Outside Centre," students are also responsible for all costs for invigilation, postage, etc. charged by the Outside Centres involved. Students are advised to determine the total cost before petitioning. Such permission is granted only in the most extreme circumstances.

Notes:

1. Students who are granted Deferred Standing (i.e., the notation of "SDF", for an extension of time for term work or for a deferred examination) and who have earned a Cumulative Grade Point Average of less than 1.50, will not be permitted to enrol in any further courses until the outstanding course work has been completed and final cumulative and sessional GPAs and status for the session have been assessed.
2. A second deferral of an examination is generally not permitted. In the unusual instance where a second deferral is granted, the student may not enrol in further courses until the deferred examination has been written and the course has been completed. In such instances, pending the second deferred examination a grade of "0" for the examination will be included in the calculation of the course grade and the "SDF" notation will be replaced by the resulting grade. Students are charged a further fee for each subsequent deferred examination.
3. Students who are not feeling well at the time of an examination must decide whether they are too ill to write. If unsure, they should seek medical advice. Students who become ill during an examination and cannot complete the examination must notify the Presiding Officer at the examination about their situation before they leave the exam hall and should seek immediate medical attention. Students who simply leave the examination hall will be assumed to have completed the examination.
4. If students decide to write an examination which does not go well, they may not petition for a rewrite or late withdrawal. Arguments after the fact claiming an inability to function at full potential or to exhibit full knowledge of the subject matter will not be accepted as grounds for consideration of a petition concerning poor performance on an examination.

5. Students who choose to write an examination against medical advice should do so knowing that they will not be given consideration after the examination has been written. Students must not only take responsibility for making appropriate judgments about their fitness to attend examinations, but also must accept the outcome of their choices.

Appeals Against Petition Decisions

Appeals against petition decisions progress as follows:

1. First, petition to the Committee on Standing by appropriate deadline submitted through College Registrar (see Deadlines to File Petitions);
2. Appeal to the Committee on Standing within ninety days of the first decision; second petition submitted through the College Registrar;
3. Appeal to the Faculty Academic Appeals Board within ninety days of the second decision; written request for a hearing submitted through the College Registrar;
4. Appeal to the Academic Appeals Committee of Governing Council within ninety days of the decision of the Faculty Academic Appeals Board; written request for a hearing submitted directly to the Governing Council Office in Simcoe Hall, through the Appeals, Discipline and Faculty Grievances Office.

Reassessment of Marks

REQUESTING A RECHECK OR REREAD

If a student believes an error has been made in the calculation of marks or in the marking of a Faculty final examination, there are two procedures which can be followed to request a review of marks.

Recheck of Course Mark

If a student believes that there has been an arithmetical error in calculating the course mark, he/she may request a "recheck." This can be done with or without requesting a photocopy or viewing of the final examination. The student must fill out a "Request for Recheck of Course Mark" form and submit it to the Office of the Faculty Registrar within six months of the final examination (see list of deadlines below). Whenever possible, the student should indicate precisely where he/she thinks the error has occurred. The Department concerned will check that the examination marks have been added correctly; the examination will not be reread. The Department will also check that all term work marks have been correctly calculated. There is no fee for this procedure. If the mark is changed as a result of this review, the $15.00 exam photocopy fee (if paid) will be refunded.

Reread of Faculty Final Examination

If a student believes that a final examination has been incorrectly marked in its substance, or that a portion of an examination has not been marked, he/she may request a "reread." The student must first purchase a photocopy or request a supervised viewing of the exam. The student must then fill out a "Request for Reread of Final Examination" form and submit it to the Office of the Faculty Registrar within six months of the final examination (see list of deadlines below). The student must demonstrate that his/her answers are substantially correct by citing specific instances of disagreement, supported by such documentary evidence as course handouts, textbooks, lecture notes, etc. The student must do more than simply assert that "I disagree with the marking," or that "I believe I deserve more marks." The Department concerned will reread the examination in light of the arguments presented. There is a $36.00 fee for this procedure, which is in addition to the fee of $15.00 charged for a photocopy of the final examination. If the mark is changed as a result of this review, both the photocopy fee (if paid) and the reread fee will be refunded. It should be noted that when a course is failed, the examination must be reread before the mark is reported.

NOTE: A recheck or reread may result in a raised mark, a lowered mark, or no change. By requesting a reread or recheck a student agrees to abide by the outcome.

For some examinations, particularly those with multiple-choice questions and/or designed to be read mechanically, there may be an answer key that is essential to the understanding of the marking of the examination. In such cases, an answer key should be included with your photocopy. If it is not, you may contact the relevant department to see if one is available.

Forms are available at the Office of the Faculty Registrar, or on the web at www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/exams/rr

Deadlines for requesting a recheck or a reread:

- February examinations - the following August 31
- April examinations - the following October 31
- June examinations - the following January 15
- August examinations - the following February 28/29
- December examinations - the following June 30

Student Records

The University's Policy on Access to Student Academic Records can be found on the Governing Council web site at <http://www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/policies>.

Mailing Address

Address information (mailing and permanent) must be viewed and updated on ACORN at www.acorn.utoronto.ca or in your College Registrar's Office. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that the mailing address is kept up-to-date on ACORN.

E-Mail Address

As a student at the University of Toronto, you have automatic access to the Information Commons, which is your passport to e-mail, the library and the Internet. Once you have your TCard, you must activate your University of Toronto e-mail account. Setting up a UMail+ account is mandatory; see "University Policy on Official Correspondence with Students" at: <http://www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/policies.htm>.

TCard

The TCard is the official University of Toronto student ID card, bearing student information including name, student number, and image. It serves various functions, including library card, meal plan card & access card (if applicable). It is used for identification purposes within the University, such as Faculty examinations, student activities, and Athletic Association privileges. In order to get your first TCard you will be required to present documentation to validate your identity and citizenship status. The loss of the card must be reported promptly to the College Registrar or TCard office, the Library, and Meal Plan provider (if applicable). There is a fee for the replacement of lost cards. For more information on TCard issuance and services, visit <http://sites.utoronto.ca/tcard/>

Statement of Results

The Faculty of Arts & Science does not mail Statements of Results to students. Students are able to check their course results, grade point averages, and academic status by accessing their academic record online through ACORN. Final course results will be available for viewing on ACORN as soon as possible after they are received and posted by the Office of the Faculty Registrar. Note that academic status is only assessed in May (for the Fall/Winter session) and in August (for the Summer session).

Students not in good standing (i.e. on probation, or suspended, or refused further registration) will receive notification by email to their UMail+ account.

Transcripts

The transcript of a student's record reports their complete registration history at the university including courses in progress and the standing in all courses attempted along with course average, information about the student's academic status including records of suspension and refusal of further registration, current academic sanctions, and completion of degree requirements and of program(s).

Marks are posted and a sessional GPA is calculated at the end of each session. An annual GPA is calculated only at the end of the Winter session and includes only the results earned in the Fall and Winter sessions. Academic standing is assessed at the end of the Fall/Winter session and at the end of the Summer session.

The University of Toronto issues consolidated transcripts, including a student's total academic record at the University. However, graduate students (who were previously enrolled at the University of Toronto as an undergraduate) may request that only the graduate portion of their record be issued. Students may request their transcript online at www.acorn.utoronto.ca. Requests may also be made in person or by mail to:

University of Toronto Transcript Centre
Room 1006, Sidney Smith Hall
100 St. George Street
Toronto, ON M5S 3G3
Email: transcripts@utoronto.ca

Further information can be obtained at www.transcripts.utoronto.ca.

A fee of $12.00 (subject to change), which includes PST is charged for each transcript. Cheques and money orders should be made payable to the University of Toronto.

The University of Toronto cannot be responsible for transcripts lost or delayed in the mail. Transcripts are not issued for students who have outstanding financial obligations with the University.

Course descriptions

Copies of course descriptions are issued at the student's request. The cost is $5.00/session (with an unlimited number of courses within each session). Requests listing all courses/sessions needed may be made in person or by mail to:

University of Toronto Transcript Centre
Room 1006, Sidney Smith Hall
100 St. George Street
Toronto, ON M5S 3G3
Email: transcripts@utoronto.ca

Request forms can be obtained online at www.transcripts.utoronto.ca.

Each request should also include the student's surname and given names (or previous surname, if applicable), student ID, address of where to mail the course descriptions, daytime/cell phone number and email address.

University of Toronto Regulations and Policies

As members of the University of Toronto community, students assume certain responsibilities and are guaranteed certain rights and freedoms.

The University has several policies that are approved by the Governing Council and which apply to all students. Each student must become familiar with the policies. The University will assume that he or she has done so. The rules and regulations of the Faculty are listed in this calendar. In applying to the Faculty, the student assumes certain responsibilities to the University and the Faculty and, if admitted and registered, shall be subject to all rules, regulations and policies cited in the calendar, as amended from time to time.

All University policies can be found at: http://www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/Governing\_Council/policies.htm

Those which are of particular importance to students are:

- Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters
- Code of Student Conduct
- Policy on University Assessment and Grading Practices (updated in 2012)
- Policy on Official Correspondence with Students
- Policy on Access to Student Academic Records
- Policy on Academic Transcripts (updated in 2012)
- Policy on Academic Continuity (updated in 2012)

More information about students' rights and responsibilities can be found at <http://life.utoronto.ca/get-help/rights-responsibilities.htm>.

Governing Structure of the Faculty

The Arts & Science Council

The Arts & Science Council is the governing body in the Faculty of Arts & Science. The Council is composed of elected members from the Faculty's undergraduate and graduate students, teaching staff, administrative and technical staff, and normally meets eight times per year. It approves policy for the Faculty in the areas of admissions, curriculum development, evaluation and academic standing, among others, and determines the Faculty's rules and regulations. Budgetary and administrative matters are not within the purview of Council; those responsibilities lie with the Dean of the Faculty.

The Council has a number of Standing Committees charged with specific responsibilities to formulate policy and to apply it in specific cases. Those committees are: Undergraduate Curriculum Committees, Committee on Standing (petitions), Academic Appeals Board, and the Committee on Admissions. Approval of graduate curriculum in the Faculty is delegated to a Three Campus Curriculum Committee and reported to Council for information only.

Details on the Council and its sub-committees, along with the Constitution and By-Laws, rules for elections, meeting dates and agendas can be found on the Faculty's Governance web site at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/main/governance>.

Elections to Council and its Committees

Elections to fill the positions on the Arts & Science Council and its committees are held in the Spring for the following year's Council and committees. The exception is the election of First-Year representatives, held early in the Fall Term. Notification of the nomination and election dates, as well as nomination forms, will be available on the Faculty's Governance web site and from the Office of the Faculty Registrar. Students will be notified by email sent to their U of T email account.

The Colleges

Innis College

- Principal: C. Keil, PhD
- Vice-Principal: R. Riendeau, MA
- Assistant Principal and Registrar: D. Boere, MA
- Associate Registrar—Academic: C. Li Tang, Hon BA
- Associate Registrar—Administrative: D. Pirraglia, Hon BA
- Associate Registrar—Recruitment and Transition: D. Gray, M Ed
- Dean of Students and Residence: T. Worgan, M Ed
- Chief Administrative Officer: C. Clairmont, BSc, BBA

Innis College offers its 1,950 students high academic standards, a dedicated faculty and staff, and a vibrant undergraduate community within the University of Toronto. Innis is home to the Cinema Studies Institute and contributes two interdisciplinary programs to the Faculty of Arts & Science, listed under "Innis College" in the Calendar: Urban Studies and Writing and Rhetoric. The College academic services provided by the library and the writing centre are designed to ease the transition to university and support Innis students throughout their university careers.

Founded in 1964 and named in honour of the late Harold Innis, political economist and pioneer in communication studies, Innis College is housed in a unique three-story building that blends old and new styles by incorporating a substantial Victorian home into a functional modern structure. At the core is the Town Hall, a forum-style auditorium. Classrooms and offices for the 25 professors associated with the College, its programs, and the Cinema Studies Institute occupy the second and third floors. A library, a café with an outdoor patio, a rooftop garden, and study, lounge and student union space complete the facilities. Across the street, the Innis Residence is a modern apartment-style complex featuring 327 single rooms in four- or five-bedroom suites. The residence houses a diverse community of Innis students and students from professional faculties.

Innis is the only undergraduate college at U of T that ensures equal representation of faculty and staff and students in its decision-making process. With its parity governance structure, innovative academic programming, independent community living, civic outreach, and informed activism, Innis College has created a community in which students can flourish academically and socially.

New College

- Principal: Y. Roberge, PhD
- Vice-Principal: D. Knott, MA, MTS
- Assistant Principal and Registrar: K. Huffman, BA, MEd
- Associate Registrar (Administrative): D.M. Chang, BA
- Associate Registrar (Student Services): P.W. Russell, BEd, MA
- Director, Residence and Student Life: L. McCormack-Smith, HBA, MEd
- Chief Administrative Officer: R. Vander Kraats, MASc, MBA, PEng
- Director, Writing Centre: D. Knott, MA, MTS
- Associate Director, Advancement: A. Liddell, BSc
- Alumni Development Officer: B.A. Registe, BA, MEd
- College Librarian: J. Newman, BA, MIST
- Director (Academic), International Programs: Bruce Russell, MEd, BA (Hons), BMus
- Director (Administration), International Programs: Hong Si, BA

Established in 1962 and one of the youngest colleges, New College is committed to providing the highest quality of academic support, interdisciplinary programs, facilities for learning, and residential experience, in ways that intentionally promote and foster social responsibility, diversity, equity and global awareness for commuter and resident students, faculty, staff, colleagues, alumni and community partners of New College in and beyond the University of Toronto. More than 5000 students in the Faculty of Arts and Science make New College their UT home and create a lively, diverse and international community.

Arts and Science students pursue degree programs and take courses across the full range of the Faculty curriculum. The College takes part in their instruction through interdisciplinary programs in African Studies, Buddhism, Psychology & Mental Health, Caribbean Studies and Equity Studies. It also offers a foundational year program for entering students, New One: Learning without Borders. Courses in Community Engaged Learning provide opportunities to integrate academic and practice-based learning. The Human Biology Program and the Women and Gender Studies Institute are housed at New College. The D.G. Ivey Library, Writing Centre, and Mathematics and Statistics Aid Centres offer students from first to final year individualized instruction in research, writing, presentation, and quantitative reasoning skills. The College Registrar's Office, the Office of Residence and Student Life, and the Alumni Office provide a range of academic support and opportunities for personal development, including academic, financial, and personal counselling, career mentorship, mental health and well-being programming and a Leadership Certificate.

The College's three modern, conveniently-located buildings provide academic, library, computing, dining and social facilities for all members, and also house the College residences. This creates an atmosphere of community, promoting contacts among students and staff and encouraging non-residents to become involved in college life. The residences welcome approximately 880 students from over 30 countries. A cohort of students from professional faculties further diversifies this residential community. Further information about residence may be obtained from the Office of Residence and Student Life, New College. For further information about the College, please contact the Registrar, New College, 300 Huron Street, Toronto, Ontario, M5S 3J6.

St. Michael's College

- Chancellor: His Eminence Thomas Cardinal Collins, Archbishop of Toronto, SSL, STD, DD
- President & Vice-Chancellor: D. Mulroney, BA
- Principal and Vice President: R. Boyagoda, PhD
- Registrar and Assistant Principal (Student Services): D. Chevrier, BA
- Associate Registrar (Administrative): M. Memari, BA
- Associate Registrar (Transition and Scholarships): S. Freeman-Attwood, BA
- Assistant Registrar (Academic Advising): M. Taylor, BA
- Assistant Registrar (Academic Advising): M. Cheng, BSc, MEd
- Assistant Registrar (Financial Aid and Academic Advising): G. Collymore, BA
- Dean of Students: D. Rendle, BA, MIR
- Bursar: E. Slapnicar, BA, MBA
- Chief Librarian: S. Hook, BA, MA, MLS

St. Michael's College recognizes that the life of faith engages the life of the mind and that the search for the true, good and beautiful and the call of social justice affirm share the same source and summit. Inspired by the Catholic intellectual tradition, the College welcomes students, staff and faculty from every faith and background. It actively seeks to build a community of scholarship and service in which cultural and other differences are appreciated and celebrated.

Building on its distinguished tradition of academic excellence, the College is committed to developing the academic and personal growth of its students. Facilities include the John M. Kelly Library, the Students Centre, the Research and Academic Skills Centre and the Chaplaincy. Its students are also involved in a wide range of clubs and sports.

The academic programs sponsored by St. Michael's College are Book and Media Studies, Celtic Studies, Christianity and Culture, and Medieval Studies. New for 2017-18, St. Michael's College offers first-year students the chance to join the Gilson Seminar (SMC One), an exclusive seminar that will explore the intersection of faith with today's most important questions. The Seminar consists of two half-courses, each featuring lectures, small-group discussions, community events, and guest speakers.

Trinity College

- Chancellor: The Hon. W. C. Graham, BA, LLB, Doctorat de l'Universite de Paris, C.M.
- Provost and Vice-Chancellor: M. Moran, BA, B.Ed., LL.B., LL.M., S.J.D.
- Vice-Provost and Dean of Arts: M.J.H. Ratcliffe, B.Sc., PhD
- Assistant Provost: J. Steels, BSc., PhD, M.Ed.
- Registrar & Director of Student Services: N. De Melo, BA, M.Ed.
- Associate Registrar: J. Chang, BA, MA
- Dean of Students: K. Moore, BA., B.Ed., M.Ed.
- Bursar and Chief Administrative Officer: J. MacIntyre, BA, M.Ed.
- Librarian: J. Papadopoulos, JD, MIST

Trinity College opened its doors as a university on Queen St. West in 1852, and federated with the University of Toronto in 1904. Trinity built a near-replica of its original building when it opened on this campus in 1925. The College enrolls approximately 1,800 students in Arts, Science and Commerce.

Trinity offers an exceptional academic experience and sponsors three cutting-edge interdisciplinary programs: Ethics, Society and Law; International Relations; and Immunology. It also offers the Margaret MacMillan Trinity One Program in five streams (Public Policy; Ethics, Society & Law; International Relations; Anne Steacy Biomedical Health; and Anne Steacy Health Science and Society).

Trinity is the smallest of the seven colleges at the University of Toronto and its close-knit community offers students a supportive, personalized and engaging academic and social environment. There are many opportunities for Trinity students to interact with each other and with staff and College Fellows and Associates, who are among the University of Toronto's most distinguished and are highly involved in student life. The College fosters community, responsibility and leadership, and celebrates a culture of openness and respect for differences. Trinity attracts gifted and engaged students who benefit from its many challenging opportunities, including student government, sports, drama, debates, choir, outreach programs, clubs, research and conference opportunities associated with academic programs. The College is home to campus landmarks including Strachan Hall, St. Hilda's College, the John W. Graham Library and the Quad. The Graham Library houses 200,000 volumes and provides research help, convenient technological resources and comfortable study spaces. The College campus also includes a dining hall, common rooms, sports facilities and the Trinity College Chapel. The Gerald Larkin Academic Building includes the George Ignatieff Theatre, the Centre for Ethics, lecture rooms, offices of many of the teaching staff, and the Buttery, which provides eating, lounge and study space for all students... Trinity has two traditional-style residence buildings that house approximately 430 first-year and upper-year students. . Both buildings are co-ed, with students living in either all-gender or gender-specific areas.

Trinity's students are greatly supported by academic and personal advising provided by the Registrar's Office and the Office of the Dean of Students, as well as from staff from the Graham Library and Writing and Math Aid Centres, the Learning Strategist, International Student Advisor and Career Educator. The College recently enhanced its student support services with the inclusion of on-site mental health counselling and other health and wellness programs. Trinity also offers an impressive bursary and scholarship program and is the only college that appoints Academic Dons (graduate students or professional faculty students living in residence) to provide academic and community support for all Trinity students, both resident and commuter. For further information about the College contact the Registrar's Office.

Victoria College, founded in 1836 as Upper Canada Academy, was granted a university charter in 1841 and federated with the University of Toronto in 1892. It offers the intellectual and social community of a small liberal arts college within a large research university. From its renowned "Vic One" first-year curriculum to upper-year programs in Creative Expression and Society, Literature and Critical Theory, Material Culture, Renaissance Studies, Science and Society, Semiotics and Communication Studies, and Education and Society, Victoria offers a personalized and diverse university experience inside and outside the classroom.

The College is located on a 15-acre site at the north-east corner of Queen's Park opposite the Royal Ontario Museum. It offers many facilities to its students, including the E.J. Pratt Library with its 220,000 volumes and the new Goldring Student Centre. The Victoria College building, opened in 1892, contains classrooms, faculty and administrative offices, the Chapel and Alumni Hall. Northrop Frye Hall, completed in 1966, provides office space for teaching and administrative staff and contains classrooms as well as a large auditorium. The Isabel Bader Theatre, opened in 2001, offers a 500-seat state-of-the-art lecture theatre with excellent facilities for the performing arts. In addition to the academic advising and support provided by the Registrar's Office, the College has a Writing Centre and tutorial services in a range of subjects.

Residence accommodation for approximately 800 students is available on campus. Annesley Hall, Margaret Addison Hall and Burwash Hall provide accommodation in single and double rooms chiefly for undergraduate students. The Lower Houses of Burwash Hall and Rowell Jackman Hall, an apartment-style residence, house upper-year undergraduate and graduate students. All residence students take their meals in Burwash Dining Hall. Non-residence students may purchase meal tickets for Burwash or take light meals at Ned's Café in the Goldring Student Centre. Further information about residences may be obtained by writing to the Dean of Students, Victoria College, Toronto, Ontario, M5S 1K7.

Woodsworth College is named in honour of James Shaver Woodsworth (1874-1942), minister, pacifist, social activist and Member of Parliament, who was strongly committed to broadening educational opportunities for all. The College traces its roots to 1905, when a part-time program leading to the Bachelor of Arts degree was established at the University of Toronto. In 1920 the Department of University Extension was organized to offer credit and non-credit courses. Woodsworth College was formally constituted in 1974 to offer credit courses primarily for part-time students in a number of faculties. In 1999 the College opened its doors to students proceeding directly from high school to full-time studies. Woodsworth College is now home to nearly 6000 students who enrol in the full range of Arts and Science courses and programs leading to Bachelor of Arts, Science or Commerce degrees.

A special feature of Woodsworth College is the outstanding academic support it provides to students. These services include academic counseling, financial aid, study skills seminars, mentoring programs, the Academic Writing and Math Aid Centres, and Learning Strategists. The College offers an exceptional range of programs for current students as well as for those seeking post-graduate opportunities.

Woodsworth College is conveniently situated just south of Bloor Street West on St. George Street and boasts a beautiful courtyard, smart classrooms, a large computer lab, the Kruger Hall Commons event and student interaction space, student association and club space, and individual and group study areas. The Woodsworth Residence is connected to the College via the Alex Waugh Courtyard. It accommodates 371 students in air-conditioned suites with private single bedrooms and offers students an exceptional residential experience located close to classrooms, libraries, athletic facilities and the subway.

In 2013 the Woodsworth College undergraduate programs in Criminology and Employment Relations were integrated with the graduate programs at the Centre for Criminology and Sociolegal Studies and the Centre for Industrial Relations and Human Resources respectively. The continuing close relationship between the Centres and Woodsworth College fosters ongoing academic excellence for program students thanks to the rich academic support services and facilities available at the College.

In June 2014, 123 St. George Street became part of the Woodsworth College community. The addition of the 'Woodsworth College Annex' supports the growing needs of the Woodsworth One and Academic Bridging Programs.
